Groups Denied Belleville TV Licences; Deseronto Satellite OK

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

OTTAWA — Ottawa-Cornwall Broadcasting Limited's application to operate a television rebroadcasting station in Deseronto, relaying programs from CTV's Ottawa station, CJOH, will be approved as soon as the CBC vacates channel six in Toronto, a Canadian Radio-Television Commission spokesman has announced.

At the CRTC hearings this morning, the commission denied applications by two companies to operate a station in Belleville.

The applications were made by County Broadcasting and CFTO television in Toronto.

Mayor Russell Scott, chairman of County Broadcasting, "one of the losing applicants, had little reaction to the news this morning.

But "as a result of this decision," he added, "we will not have a live, local station in Belleville and district."

CTV's CFTO television station spokesman was L. M. Nichols, of Toronto.

The commission's decision to deny the two station applications was based on the belief that the Belleville area could not support an additional station with local studios. The spokesman said this decision was based on past experience in granting station licences.

On the other hand, the commission believes a rebroadcasting outlet from Ottawa would provide a second Canadian television service, which would serve this area better than the Toronto station.

The CRTC spokesman said the decision should not be construed as a precedent for such applications. Each application, for one specific area, was dealt with on individual merits, in accordance with the commission's Oct. 5 announcement would seek to provide the widest range of broadcasts.

McKeough Plans Tax Credits in '72

Fiscal Policy Called Weak

"Trick or treat?"

OTTAWA (CP) — A system of tax credits for Ontario that would help poor and rich alike was unveiled today by Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough in a major policy paper to the meeting of Canadian finance ministers.

Mr. McKeough, in a 46-page position paper delivered at the opening of the ministers' conference, has indicated that the reforms would be undertaken for the 1972 taxation year if agreement can be reached with Ottawa.

He says national fiscal and

Property and Sales Tax Relief Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario will begin its own system of tax credits in the 1972 taxation year to return a portion of property and sales taxes to the person who pays them, Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough announced today.

The Ontario government has been pushing the tax credit idea since 1969. Now it wants the federal government — the tax collector — to incorporate the credits into its collection agreement with the province for 1972.

The change would affect the tax forms Ontario residents fill out in the spring of 1973.

For a family with two children under 16 that pays $350 in property tax from a gross income of $7,000, the credits would reduce income taxes to $707 from $816.

The credits were outlined in a position paper to be presented at a two-day meeting of federal and provincial finance ministers that started today.

The credits have four objectives, Mr. McKeough's paper says:

1. To refund sales and property taxes to those too poor to pay income tax.

2. To match the burden of income, property and sales taxes more closely to families' ability to pay.

3. To replace all present tax relief grants, such as the basic shelter exemption, with a general system.

4. To keep to a minimum any extra record-keeping.

Mr. McKeough's paper indicates that only lower-income families would benefit from the credit on Ontario's five-per-cent retail sales tax.

Each taxpayer and each of his dependents would be entitled to a $10 credit minus one per cent of his taxable income. For a couple with two children under 16 and a gross income of $3,500 the credit would be $40. As the income rises, the credit decreases until a similar family with a gross income of $8,000 would get no sales tax credit. Single persons with incomes of more than $3,000 would not receive a sales tax credit.

Everyone who pays property taxes or rent would get a minimum credit of $10, the treasurer's paper said.

If you pay property taxes, calculate your credit this way:

Start with a basic credit of $100. Add 10 per cent of property taxes you pay in 1972. Subtract one per cent of your taxable income. And don't bother calculating for your cottage or second home—the credit is good on one home only.

Start with a basic credit of $100. Add up your total rent for 1972 and take four cent of that as your property taxes. Add 10 per cent of your property taxes to the $100 and subtract one per cent of your taxable income.

To qualify for the credits, individuals and families would be required to file an annual income tax return whether or not they are liable for personal income tax.

The credits would mean the end of the basic shelter exemption grant that Ontario started in 1968 as a temporary measure. Homeowners and those who rent have been receiving a maximum rebate of just under $60.

In a 46-page statement to the other finance ministers, Mr. McKeough says the credit system will cost the Ontario treasury between $150 million and $200 million, about the same as the tax relief system now costs.

The significant difference, he says, is that the tax credit system benefits most the lower-income groups who need relief most.

In future, Ontario might extend credits to other fields such as health premiums and low-income housing, he suggests.

Highlights Of Proposals

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of Ontario's policy reform proposals to the conference of Canadian finance ministers:

An Ontario system of tax credits, effective for the 1972 taxation year, which would provide refunds to property owners, and on sales tax paid by low-income earners.

* * *

No change in Ontario's corporation tax legislation.

* * *

* * *

Incorporation of a gift tax within Ontario's successful duties legislation, to be reduced over five years as a provincial capital gains tax comes into effect.

* * *

A recommendation that Ottawa withdraw the international provisions of Bill C-259 dealing with tax havens on investments abroad.

* * *

In the absence of federal agreement on restructuring cost - sharing programs, a threat that Ontario will drop out of these projects.

Scotland Yard Fears IRA Attack in Britain.

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard ordered a full emergency alert today and posted police guards on public buildings throughout Britain following two mystery bomb explosions in London.

One bomb at 1:45 a.m. blasted the headquarters of the Royal Tank Regiment a quarter of a mile from Parliament. Earlier, the other ripped a gaping hole in the 31st floor of the Post Office Tower, the highest building in Britain.

First reports indicated the tower was blasted by the outlawed Irish Republican Army. But the IRA in Dublin, usually quick to claim the credit for anti-British bomb attacks, denied planting the tower bomb.

Today, a mystery telephone call claimed both explosions were set off by The Angry Brigade, a secret anarchist movement dedicated to wrecking British society by violence.

An anonymous telephone call to the British Press Association claimed the Post Office Tower bombing was to protest Britain's entry into the European Common Market and the blast at the army barracks was to demonstrate against the British government's handling of the crisis in Northern Ireland.

The Angry Brigade has been blamed for half a dozen previous explosions in London, including blasts at the home of a government minister and the head of the Scotland Yard police force.

No one was injured in the weekend blasts.

Guards were posted on public buildings and communications centres in London. Scotland Yard flashed warnings to cities around the country, giving lists of possible bomb targets. Police throughout Scotland and England took up security stations.

Scotland Yard's quick alert indicated police were acting on fears that the IRA had begun moving its Northern Irish offensive to Britain. An army office in central London was smeared with slogans: "Hands off Ireland . . . British Protestant killers out . . . free Irish prisoners."

In ordering the country-wide security clampdown, the government also tightened security at the Parliament buildings.

Wave Kills 2,500

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian government radio said today at least 2,500 persons were killed when a 16-foot-high tidal wave swept through their villages along the Bay of Bengal Friday.

The radio said unofficial reports put the toll at more than 5,000 and added it might go even higher when communications are restored with the devastated region in the Cuttack and Balasore districts of eastern Orissa state, 150 miles southwest of Calcutta.

The Times of India, in a dispatch from Cuttack, said more than one million persons were left homeless by the tidal wave and accompanying cyclone winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

A similar tidal wave last November killed at least 300,000 persons in the Gange River basin in East Pakistan, 300 miles northeast of this weekend's disaster area.

Preparations Nearly Complete For Amchitka Nuclear Blast

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Preparations are nearly complete for the largest underground nuclear test ever fired by the United States—a detonation the Atomic Energy Commission contends will trigger fewer shock waves than the international debate preceding it.

Code name for the five-megaton blast is "Cannikin" and ground zero is Amchitka Island, a narrow 42-mile-long pile of mostly rocks far out in the Aleutian chain.

Despite widespread opposition in the U.S. and abroad, the AEC says little if any permanent environmental damage will occur and adds:

"The effects of Cannikin on man are expected to be about nil."

The explosion will occur in a 5,875-foot-deep chamber, sealed to contain heat and radioactivity, if the government clears the last two of a series of court challenges this week.

President Nixon gave his go-ahead last week and the AEC says the bomb is in place and will be ready for firing by Friday, although no definite date has been set.

Commission Chairman James R. Schlesinger, who will monitor the experiment from an Anchihka control centre, said the blast is planned to assist in development of the Spartan antiballistic missile system.

Although equal to the power of nearly five million tons of chemical explosive and some 250 times stronger than the Hiroshima bomb, government scientists insist there is virtually no chance of damaging earthquakes or radiation venting or similar effects.

But those assurances haven't convinced Alaska state officials, the Aleuts, conservationists or foreign governments opposing Cannikin.

Picton Kinsmen Seeking Skaters

PICTON (Staff) — Picton Kinsmen this month are paying all Hans Brinkers to participate in their first annual skatathon planned to raise funds for community service.

Archie Kingma, chairman of the Kinsmen skatathon said yesterday that the money earned will be split on a percentage basis with 35 per cent retained by the service club.

The Picton and District Hockey Association will receive 50 per cent of the total funds raised and the Prince Edward Figure Skating Club and the Prince Edward Community Centre Board each will receive 5 per cent.

The money presented to the community centre board will be used for free public skating.

Advertising and cost of skatathon prizes will be offset by using 5 per cent of the proceeds from the event.

All boys from the Picton and District Hockey Association and the Prince Edward Figure Skating Club will join in the skatathon accompanied by other interested individuals of all ages wishing to skate for community service funds.

Boys in each of the hockey divisions and other groups represented who skate the most laps and/or collect the most money will receive tickets for themselves and their fathers to a National Hockey League game in either Toronto or Montreal.

The team in each hockey division, figure skating club or other group which skates the biggest total of laps and/or raises the most money will be awarded bar crests.

Bantams, Midgets, Juveniles and others will skate 45 minutes.

Pledges will be made public, not per lap, with 90 laps equalling one unit.

Skaters will contact the public for support this month. Anyone interested in skating can contact the Recreation and Parks Office, King Street, between 8:30 and 4:30 Monday through Friday.

$335,000 Infirmary Slated for OSD

The new Ontario School for the Deaf Infirmary will offer convalescent students the finest in facilities including spacious bedrooms and a playarea day room for convalescing youngsters.

The single story building, estimated to cost $335,000, was designed by Department of Public Works architects. Deadline for construction tenders is Nov. 4. A construction date will be set later.

OSD Superintendent Joseph Demeza said Friday the infirmary will replace Gibson Hospital, erected in 1894. It will be linked by a heated corridor to the school's existing junior school and dormitory so that the youngest pupils will have direct and sheltered access during bad weather.

"The infirmary has been a top priority need for several years," said Dr. Demeza, "particularly because of the age and two-floor construction of the Gibson Hospital which is not up to present safety and efficiency standards."

The infirmary includes nine bedrooms with adjacent day room, a nursing station, offices for the school doctor and dentist, and examination rooms. Total floor area is 9,840 square feet.

The bedrooms will accommodate 26 pupils and have washrooms attached.

Plans call for comprehensive landscaping of the area surrounding the infirmary.

The OSD infirmary staff includes three full-time nurses, a part - time nurse and four residence councillors who provide 24 - hour care for the school's 437 students.

Seriously ill children will continue to be referred to Belleville General Hospital.

Proposed Nature Trail Gets Government Boost

Persons in the Belleville area can earn up to $100 a week in wages on locally promoted winter works projects receiving federal government grants.

Wages are based on prevailing local pay scales, and in the Belleville area the average is now $100 and more, say local government and labor spokesmen.

Already one such project has been presented to the federal government — a 200-mile nature trail reaching from Algonquin Park to Lake Ontario through Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

Manpower Minister Otto Lang announced last week the federal government will pay up to $100 a week in wages on such locally promoted projects. The federal government will make grants up to $100 million available to local improvement groups and through the provincial governments to municipal councils for community projects.

A maximum of $500,000 will be spent on any one project. It will cover total labor wages up to a maximum of $100 per man per week.

In Belleville, city industrial commissioner Fred Bemis said local labor "definitely" would make $100 weekly under the criteria laid down for such projects.

Reg Loader, international representative Amalgamated Silver, Jewelery and Allied Workers, — and a veteran local labor negotiator — said recent statistics gave the average weekly Belleville-area wage as $116.

Mr. Loader also is a member of the employment committee of Canada Manpower in Belleville — a group of local community spokesmen who up some years ago to attempt to offset winter unemployment problems.

It's this committee which already has proposed the Quinte-district nature trail project.

James Staveley of Canada Manpower says the $500,000 permitted for any one project would be sufficient to get the scheme "off the ground".

The money would be spent in settling up the organizational phases of the nature-trail proposal — such as research, land surveys and indexing of facilities — involving indoor and outdoor work, skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled labor.

Mr. Lang told the Commons such projects might run from winter recreation facilities to child day-care programs and expansion of community "store-front" services; such as legal and other professional aid.

He said the projects should employ a minimum of five persons for six months between Nov. 1, 1971 and May 31, 1972. The work involved should be employment which would not normally be given this winter, and the projects must be of a non-profit nature.

Finance Minister E. J. Benson announced the $100-million "local initiatives" program on Oct. 14, along with other spending and job-making plans to give the economy a boost and fight unemployment must be a non-profit nature.

Half the money is to go directly to local public service and private agencies. Half is to go to municipal government projects which must be channelled through the provincial governments.

Fiscal Policy Assailed

economic policy has "virtually collapsed" because co-ordination of programs between the federal and provincial governments has broken down.

This, plus high unemployment, lack of progress in coping with regional disparities and the absence of federal strategy on international developments, had led to an Ontario lack of confidence in national fiscal and economic management.

"The government of Ontario believes that Canada is faced with a near breakdown in the structure of economic and fiscal policy."

Mr. McKeough's proposals, which he said he was working forth for study and consideration by the conference included an appeal for a federal-provincial tax commission to replace the income tax division of the department of national revenue.

At a two conference Sunday night, he also urged the federal government to make a clear statement of its policy toward foreign investment and to make public the long-awaited report on foreign ownership by Resource Minister Herb Gray. The report is still under federal cabinet review.

The policy paper said Ontario would welcome a gift tax with the takeover of death duties which would be reduced over five years as the federal capital gains tax comes into effect.

The treasurer also said Ontario would not incorporate federal tax changes into provincial legislation "in the immediate future."

This means Ontario's share of corporation taxes—12 per cent in fiscal 1972—will remain unchanged.

Mr. McKeough's paper gave details for the first time of the province's proposal, first expressed in 1969, that tax reform should include relief from sales and property taxes.

Mr. McKeough's attack on federal fiscal policies took up a major part of the policy paper.

Lack of federal-provincial planning was seriously impeding the ability of these governments to deal with Canada's economic and social problems.

He urged his fellow ministers to "lay the foundations" at the conference for a basic reconstruction of national objectives and economic policy systems in Canada.

Ministers should not treat issues on a piecemeal basis but "as component parts of the total framework of intergovernmental policy co-ordination."

"Unless we move in this direction and develop an effective intergovernmental framework, governments in Canada will continue to dissipate their energies and fall short of dealing with urgent social and economic problems."

Mr. McKeough said Ottawa must demonstrate a willingness to tackle regional problems with greater confidence and concern for the objectives of the province.

He termed Ottawa's short-term fiscal policy, an obvious reference to federal anti-inflation measures last year, as volatile and belated.

He said Ottawa does not appear to trust provinces to act responsibly, referring as an example to federal restrictions and close auditing of joint winter works programs.

Electronic Controls Ltd. Goes Into Receivership

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Financial difficulties brought about by the United States 10 per cent surtax and the repegging of the Canadian dollar have forced Electronic Controls Ltd. of Belleville into receivership.

In a prepared statement, company president Al Revill said "Electronic Controls Ltd. was placed in receivership late October 19. Action was taken by the company's bank (Royal Bank of Canada), to enable it to reduce its loans to the company in an orderly manner.

"The company is very optimistic about its ability to resolve its present financial problems. Negotiations for the introduction of additional financing are in an advanced stage and the company is confident that they will reach a satisfactory conclusion.

"Arrangements have been made for interim financing of the present operations and production is continuing normally."

Mr. Revill said that over half of Electronic Controls' production is exported to the United States. The company hopes to increase its level of shore sales to areas such as South America in order to reduce its dependency on the U.S.

He attributed much of the company's weakened financial structure to a costly six-man engineering program which required non - profit involvement from the design to the production stage. With the program rapidly drawing to a close, the company expects to begin "reaping the harvest" as projects are put into production thereby yielding additional sales.

Assuming interim control of the 73-employee firm is Clark, son Co. Ltd. of Toronto, licensed trustees appointed by the bank. A spokesman for the company said this sort of affair is quite common and is not to be confused with bankruptcy.

A forgivable loan awarded to the Belleville firm two years ago for construction of a new building will not be affected according to Mr. Revill.

Electronic Controls manufactures a broad range of electrical equipment and air conditioning parts. Many of the company's products are used for educational purposes in technical and vocational schools.

They are used to teach basic electricity, refrigeration, heating and air conditioning. Motor generator sets are the company's largest - selling product.

WHAT IS A HERNIA ?
When an organ protrudes through an opening in the surrounding walls it is called a hernia. Most hernias are in the abdominal, groin area. This hernia weakness can be there at birth but it may be much later in life that it is discovered.
At one time having a hernia repaired surgically was a long drawn out process. Often the patient was out of commission for many, many weeks. Some preferred to wear a confining belt rather than have the operation. But today recovery is much more rapid and it is more advisable and common to have it taken care of. If you suspect a hernia, see your physician.

One Hurt In Crash

TRENTON (Staff) — Well-known Prince Edward county resident Howard Weese, 60, RR 1, Carrying Place, suffered a broken arm and shock Friday night when his car collided with another vehicle at the intersection of Highway 33 and development road 60, southwest of here.

The driver of the second vehicle, Ernest Wilson, 19, RR 3 Carrying Place, escaped with a shaking up. Both were treated at Trenton Memorial Hospital and then released.

401 Accident Injures Five

An early Sunday afternoon accident on Highway 401 east of 27, sent five out-of-town men to Belleville General Hospital.

Michael Taylor, 20, of Ottawa, was driving his 1970 Pontiac on the shoulder of the highway. As a second car approached, the Taylor vehicle suddenly swerved into his path in an attempt to U-turn onto the emergency turnabout.

Mr. MacMillan remains in the intensive care unit of BGH suffering from a broken leg and pelvis. Mr. Taylor, his passenger Gerald Firestone, 18, Steven Greenburg, and Gregory O'Connell, all of Ottawa, were treated and released.

The Taylor car was a complete writeoff. Damage to Mr. MacMillan's 1964 Dodge station wagon has been estimated at $500.

A second Highway 401 accident, at 1.15 a.m. today, resulted in only minor bumps and bruises sustained by Brian Matheson, 20, of Royal Military College, Kingston.

His 1966 Volkswagen suffered $1,000 damage when it overturned 10 miles east of Belleville, it came to a halt in the median.

Identities Confused

In the 18th century Italian comedy The Servant Of Two Masters, Beatrice, played by Tedde Moore, is seen disguised as her own brother, protecting Clarice (Susan Hogan) from her fiance, Silvio (Brian McKay). The comic sword play staged by Patrick Crean of Stratford creates one of the most amusing scenes in this play of mistaken identity. The play will be staged Nov. 2 and 3 at Centennial Secondary School, presented by The Quinte Arts Council and sponsored by Auto Haus Bell-ton.

Neptune Theatre Company Here

The Neptune Theatre Company production of The Servant of Two Masters by Carlo Goldoni will open tomorrow night at Centennial Secondary School auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Described as a rollicking comedy, the play is an 18th century farce full of intrigues, disguises and friendly humor. The story is basically of two frustrated pairs of lovers, who for complicated reasons, cannot work out their own affairs.

Silvio loves Clarice, and she loves Beatrice, who has been betrothed by her father to Beatrice's brother who is thought to be dead. But at one point in the play, Beatrice, disguised as her brother, enters. Her brother is indeed dead and her beloved is accused of killing him.

The delightful servant - to - two-masters manipulates everything into a happy ending and gets a fitting reward himself.

At the National Arts Centre, Ottawa, where the Neptune Company staged the play before coming to Belleville. The Servant of Two Masters led a display of the nation's best companies, including the Manitoba Theatre Centre and Vancouver's Playhouse Theatre.

The Servant of Two Masters is guaranteed to be the same kind of laughter from province to province as it did ottawa.

Artistic director Robert Sherrin, who has already made the acquaintance of some theatre lovers in Belleville when he conducted theatre workshops here a few years ago, has engaged a strong cast with Douglas Chamberlain as the servant, Tony Van Bridge and James Valentine as his backup men and Tedde Moore as Beatrice.

A veteran actor and a favorite with audiences, Van Bridge may materialize anywhere on the national horizon and gets his laughs even when speaking Latin on the stage.

Douglas Chamberlain, also known nationally for his stage and television performances returns to the Neptune Company directly from another season at the Charlottetown Festival.

A major asset of the production is the setting and costumes by Robert Doyle. They fill out the stage with rich texture and warm color and each character is handsomely arrayed in the Italian style.

A repeat performance will be held at Centennial School on Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. All seats will be reserved and tickets for $3.50 and $2.50 ($2 for students and senior citizens) are available at Dorothy Clarke Stationery, Plaza Shoppette, Quinte Mall book and Alexander's Gallery of Gifts, Trenton.

Youth Shoots Dog

CANNIFTON (Staff) — When Mrs. Clifford Wannamaker heard her dog barking and howling Thursday night, she went into the farmyard to investigate.

Before she managed to leave her porch, she was greeted with the blast of a 12 gauge shotgun, which put an end to her dog's barking.

Running to the phone, she informed Ontario Provincial Police officers that someone had just killed her watchdog.

When arrested and charged with the wilful killing of an animal, without lawful excuse, Glen Jarrell, 19, of R.R.6, Belleville, claimed he was justified.

For the last couple of years, he explained, his father Lorne's cattle had been run by dogs. Two of the steers, valued at approximately $350 each, had to be destroyed.

On Saturday, they discovered their herd standing splay-legged in a pasture. Tongues lolling, and sweat pouring from their hides, the cattle had obviously been run, he told officers.

Banquet Honors Past Wardens

PICTON (Staff) — Members of Prince Edward county council last weekend attended a banquet honoring past wardens of the county.

This special event held at the Picton Golf and Country Club Saturday night, was described by Prince Edward Warden Allan Anderson as an opportunity to recognize the men who passed the bylaws effective in the county today.

He added that he hopes to see the past warden's banquet become an annual event.

Valedictorian Calls For Political Action

TRENTON (Staff) — Faced with an audience including Canada's Solicitor General Jean-Pierre Goyer and Prince Edward-Hastings MP George Hees, this year's valedictorian at Trenton High School urged on politicians to spend "a little less talk and a lot more action" in finding solutions for the national unemployment problem.

Doug Chapman, now enrolled in a science program at Queen's University, outlined the situation in which even the very skilled are without jobs asking "can we expect anything better for our children?"

Mr. Chapman urged the graduating class to become politically active. "We cannot use the older generation for a scapegoat anymore," he said.

He told the graduates they can achieve action through pressuring government with letters of grievance.

Referring to the extension of the franchise to 18-21 year-olds the valedictorian said "if you do not vote, you do not care about Canada."

He praised efforts of principal John Garrett for his administration of the school, prompting Garrett to tell him "I am going to have you back to address the school twice a week."

There were 212 graduation diplomas, 74 honor graduation diplomas and 29 awards and scholarships presented during the evening.

Ontario Schoarships went to Eric Brunwell, Doug Chapman, Steve Coon, Janet Hunt, Sharon Jacob, Sandy MacWilliam, David Martin, Pat Mullins, Ruth Spearman, Lorraine Brown and David Dow.

Doug Chapman received the John MacKerra's Queen's University Entrance Scholarship, while Glen Milligan was awarded a Canadian Government Fitness and Amateur Sports Award. Kathy Brookfield won the Hastings County Board of Education Award.

School letters went to Paula Cervinka, Dan Dow, Kathy Brookfield, Rhonda Jones, Bonnie Duffee, Dan Wynagarden, Henry Sonneveld, Tom Dowall, Roslyn Knightley and Sandy McDonald.

Albert St. Land-split Is Approved by OMB

The Ontario Municipal Board has upheld a 1970 decision of the Belleville Committee of Adjustment approving application for two land splits for an Albert St. property to allow construction of a six-plex apartment and a single family dwelling.

The OMB ruling received Friday was on a September appeal at City hall by area residents against last year's decision of the local committee of adjustment.

The request for the conveyances was by the estate of Jean Guthrie Tonkin and Maurice A. Bellen Construction Ltd., the applications cutting a parcel of land on the West side of Albert St. with a frontage of 168 feet into three parcels.

Mr. Bullins plans construction of a sixplex for the 60-foot northerly lot and a single family residence on the south lot, which has a frontage of 60 feet.

Residents in the neighboring single family residences objected strenuously to the applications with Frederick C. Ethier heading up the opposition.

In his decision ruling against the appeal, OMB member A. L. McCrae said that while he sympathized with the desires of the neighbors to retain existing residential amenities, he felt the application was reasonable under the circumstance.

He noted that lands in the area are located in a "B" district, which permits a wide range of land uses, including apartment construction.

Referring to the city's proposed new land - use bylaw which would restrict apartment construction in much of the present "B" district of the city, Mr. McCrae noted that the city was apparently not using a clearly stated land uses for the purpose of orderly development.

"But that is for the future," he said, "and it is not reasonable to grant these appeals and refuse applications on that speculative possibility."

The city's proposed new land-use bylaw is now before the Quinte Planning Board for consideration and public hearings could be ordered by the OMB before it is finally approved.

Residents of the West Hill district are opposing the proposed construction of apartments on Albert College manor property which is now used as a city playground.

The Belleville committee of adjustment last spring approved a requested land split but imposed several conditions which in turn being appealed by the Albert College manor trustees.

The matter is now before the OMB and a public hearing is expected to be called later this fall.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

"Thank You"

His Worship Mayor Scott and Members of City Council wish to take this opportunity to thank all of the volunteers who participated in the Moira River Clean-Up and, in particular, the six hundred and thirty young people from our community.

The project was an overwhelming success with the removal of some twenty-five tons of garbage from the River.

To all of those concerned, we extend our sincere thanks for a job well done.

Housing Trends

We were talking the other day about home improvements. Now let us take a look at some other trends in housing: the growing popularity of townhouses and condominiums, construction of semi-detached houses which appear separate — being entirely separate above ground and joined only by a small common wall in an alcove in the basement — and that other less tangible, aspect of modern life: the effect of modern housing, of suburbia and, in particular of high-rise living, on citizens of the seventies.

The Toronto Star has featured Bayshore Heights, a rental townhouse project which is being converted to a condominium. Here is a pleasant community of 120 homes built around play areas, garden paths, landscaping and greenery on the shores of Frenchman's Bay about 20 miles east of downtown Toronto. Some $250,000 has been spent on the landscaping and the project is close to a plaza so that buyers do not really need a car. The GO bus passes the community and takes residents to the nearest station for 25 cents.

The Star explains that under the condominium concept a buyer of a townhouse acquires clear title to his own particular house and owns jointly with the other 119 members various common elements (landscaping, sidewalks and the like). For these, and for maintenance, each pays a $33 condominium fee, in addition to the routine financing of the home. Townhouse prices range from $16,900 to $20,400, and a down payment on the former is $1,776.

From condominiums to "semi-detached," having the connecting wall is a technical "out" which enables the latter to appear as completely separate dwellings while still being classed as semi-detached. A "semi" in Toronto can be built on a 30 foot lot whereas a single "detached," house requires a 50 foot lot. The Star describes this as an important cost-saving device, the difference between a 30 and 50 foot lot being often as much as $4,000. Having said that, we find that these "semis" are more expensive than the condominiums and really that is not so surprising when they are in effect single dwellings and not apartment-type homes. Prices start at $30,990 with a down payment of $5,740, a lot of money by any home-owner standards.

Electrically-heated, the "semis" in a Warden Avenue sub-division, part of a rapidly developing area of Scarborough, have fully sodded lots and paved driveways. They are close to schools and to both the Don Valley Parkway and Highway 401.

Life in either establishment — condominiums or semi-detached, so-called, should be pleasant enough, but what of the problems of high-rise apartment dwellers? Dr. Daniel Capon, a psychiatrist and professor of environmental studies at York University, fears high-rise living may make children anti-social (no room for running around or indulging normal youthful fun including making noises, desperate males of normal masculine urges (like gardening and just plain puttering around the house) and change adults into passive television watchers.

People don't talk in corridors or in elevators, Dr. Capon points out in an article by Peter Mosher in The Globe and Mail, the reason being it is more or less taboo in our society. He suspects also that people don't talk much in the yards of high-rises. Nor is there much communication in the saunas or the swimming pools and the result is a "very high alienation."

A 22-year-old girl, a management trainee at a large department store, confirms this. She claims she used the saunas and often she was the only one in the swimming pool of her apartment block before she moved to a house. Traffic noise was disturbing and social life generally restricted.

"Most of the people there that we could meet were all the same. Especially the single guys. They all seemed loud, beer-drinking stereotypes. They invited us to parties which were always the same. It was better not to go alone."

* * *

So what else is new? We can see it all. Some may enjoy the high-rises, like a former Mayor of Toronto and his wife, who were also interviewed but then they have a normal home and family life to look back on. For them high-rise may be the answer, but for young people and children the disadvantages can be considerable.

Moscow's 'Bear Hug'

Canadian-Soviet Moves on International Chess Board

By JOHN BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia has clapped a big bear hug on Canada, moving deftly to exploit a kind of rebelliousness in this country against old allegiances and status-quo thinking in foreign affairs.

A new and vital dimension in the foreign policies of both countries was brought dramatically into focus by the visit of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

The trip, following with almost indecent haste Prime Minister Trudeau's visit to the Soviet Union in May, underlined the Kremlin's apparent determination to capitalize on a rare opportunity to stake out a position of influence in North America.

The opportunity was offered by Mr. Trudeau, as the sequel to his low-key policy toward Canada's role in NATO.

In retrospect, it seems clear that Mr. Trudeau's decision 2½ years ago to cut Canadian forces in Europe and re-orient defence policy towards home was taken by Canada would have cleaner hands for an approach to the Soviet Union.

The prime minister said while in the Soviet Union that Canada's withdrawal from the nuclear role in Europe would make it appear no longer provocative in Soviet eyes. And he noted, perhaps unnecessarily, that Soviet leaders were pleased with the move.

The prime minister's Soviet initiative was not without antecedents in Canadian policy. Ties with the Soviet Union have been maintained, although none at least 1963, when Moscow signed a $500,000,000 big wheat purchase from Canada.

Milestones along the way have included a commercial air agreement, inauguration of a Montreal-Moscow jet steamship service in 1968 and the Soviet Union's outstanding participation in Expo 67.

Reciprocal visits by ministers and other officials preceded Mr. Trudeau's May tour of the Soviet Union.

The difference between the present policy and that of previous governments is partly psychological. Ties have been opened in the field of Soviet-Canadian relations in the last nine months than in the previous eight years combined.

And there is also a more fundamental difference. Previous administrations cultivated better relations with the Kremlin without in any way weakening Canada's ties to NATO, which they regarded as the indispensable condition of any durable East-West settlement.

The prime minister revealed his thinking about NATO in a 1969 speech in Calgary, nine days after announcing the policy that was to lead to a 50-per-cent cut in Canadian troop strength in Europe.

NATO, he said, had developed after 20 years "too much into a military alliance and not enough into a political alliance to keep enough . . . into an alliance which is founded in arms control and de-escalation."

And NATO had come to determine all Canada's foreign policy.

"We had no defence policy, so to speak, except that of NATO. And our defence policy had determined our total foreign policy.

"And we had no foreign policy of any importance except that which flowed from NATO. And this is a false perspective for any country."

Canadian and Soviet authorities have taken pains to emphasize that the new relationship between the two countries is not directed at any third country or group of countries—meaning the U.S. and NATO.

"They have been following our NATO policy with intense interest and are certainly prepared and willing to exploit it when they can," said one knowledgeable official.

The Kremlin's first priority lies in sorting out its relations with the U.S., he conceded. But a political breakthrough in Canada could well give the Russians added leverage in its dealings with Washington.

"Who knows, Mr. Nixon might not have decided to go to Moscow or even have had it on the been for: initiatives taken by Canada toward those countries."

The last remark lies in with one of the obstacles in Canada's new, more independent policy.

The argument is that Canada had the world at large will reap the reward if steps taken by Ottawa serve to reduce the because of international peace and harmony—despite any temporary difficulties they may cause with its Atlantic Pact allies.

Other dividends for Canada may include an increase in exports to the Soviet Union.

Officials say France boosted its sales in the Soviet market tenfold after making its own break with NATO seven years ago and carving out a special relationship with Moscow.

There also is the increased prestige from being seen to have good relations with another of the world's major countries.

For Russia, close relations with Canada provide access to something it lacks in most other circumstances attain to anywhere else in the world: North American technology.

Already, there have been rumors that Soviet officials have approached General Motors of Canada about the possibility of GM participation in a construction boom engineered to build a huge truck assembly plant on the Kama River 800 miles east of Moscow.

In an interview in Toronto Monday, Roland Wibers, GM of Canada president, denied that any approach had yet been made.

However R. L. Terrell, group vice-president of the parent General Motors Corp. in Detroit, is understood to have been invited to visit Moscow on unexplained business.

The Kremlin may also feel that development of good relations with Canada helps improve its bargaining position in proposed East-West talks on European security.

Finally, Russia's worldwide campaign to counter Chinese influence can't be excluded as a contributing factor in its eagerness to embrace Canada or any other country offering friendship.

Despite the new chumminess, however, Canadian-Soviet ties have not grown so close that the two countries can agree on a common approach to problems of the Arctic.

Though Tuesday's communique spoke of co-operation in this area, Mr. Kosygin has remained adamant in opposing Canada's plan for a multilateral treaty to control pollution and establish navigation rules for the North.

This year, Canada has entered into a number of exchanges agreement, a protocol on political consultations, and a cultural exchange agreement with the Soviet Union.

But it has resisted Soviet overtures for an all-embracing economic treaty that, the Russians say, would take advantage of the international division of labor."

Mr. Trudeau didn't like the first draft, invited by the Russians when he visited Moscow, because, he said later, it smacked too much of the type of treaty the Kremlin might work out with its satellites.

The Soviet side returned to the subject in Ottawa last week. But the Canadian conception committed Canada only to "give further study to the proposal."

It would appear the price of admission to Canada is that anyone who gets too friendly with it may forfeit the danger of ending up inside.

More Power for the Reds...Or

Will China's U.N. Entry Signal Twilight of Cold War?

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The General Assembly vote to admit mainland China into the United Nations and to oust Taiwan has been predictably evaluated as a major turning point in recent world history.

The immediate consequences in some key parts of the globe are likely to be great, ranging from a further undermining of the present government of Japan to a radical worsening in the prospects of the Nationalist Chinese administration on Taiwan.

The Nationalists received the assembly decision with bitter predictions that the UN would become a mere front for Moscow once Peking accepts the offered membership.

Taiwan's longtime ally, the United States, expressed deep disappointment about the rejection of Washington's plan to have both governments which claim sovereignty over China represented in the world organization.

The big defeat for Washington — of which American officials are likely to have had some premonitions—has not, to all appearances, interrupted preparations for U.S. President Nixon's coming visit to Peking.

But it will do nothing to ease the present strain between the U.S. and Canada, which was one of the countries voting for Taiwan's expulsion from the UN.

On the other hand, Washington was probably braced for the setback and may have already made plans for dealing with the problem of Taiwan now that Chiang Kai-shek's island fortress has suffered its worst—and perhaps fatal—loss of face.

Yet the UN decision comes at a heavy long-term price inevitable—to American diplomatic prestige and raises profound questions about the future course of events in the Security Council after Mao Tse-tung's Communist government takes its seat among the permanent members, armed with the veto right.

The Soviet Union, China's great rival for pre-eminence in the Communist world, backed the triumphant resolution on Peking's membership.

Both Communist powers can be expected to use the UN in future as a key sounding board for their "anti-imperialist" verbal campaigns—just as all major members of the organization seek to found home their ideological messages during council and assembly sessions.

But up to now, the Russians and their client states have made the Communist side of the UN arguments all to themselves, except for the unorthodoxies voiced by Albania and Yugoslavia.

After the vote on Peking's entry, the coming years present the possibility of keen conflict between the Communist superpowers, played out on the world stage provided by the UN. This in turn would probably crimp somewhat the ordinarily free-wheeling, anti-capitalist styles of both delegations.

However, the least that can be expected is that China will find a greatly enlarged outlet for its friendlier gestures it has lately been showing towards the West.

Perhaps most important are the long term results of the decision.

One forecast is that the events in New York may signal the twilight of the cold war and harbor in a more hopeful period when world politics are dominated by four big power blocs—the American, Soviet, Chinese and West European—rather than by Washington and Moscow alone.

Today In History

Nov. 1, 1971 . . .

British investigators announced 36 years ago today — in 1945 — had been proven "as conclusively as possible without bodies" that Adolf Hitler was dead. It was found the Nazi dictator had died April 30, 1945, in the chancellery bunker in Berlin as the city was overrun by Allied forces. The inquiry reported it was not positive whether Hitler died by his own hand or was executed by his own command.

The body had been burned in a gasoline pyre.

Bleecker Avenue's Future At Stake

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to commend Mrs. Robin Jeffrey for her stand on the question of widening Bleecker Avenue. This street is one of the most attractive ones, and central to our east side residential area. There must be a less destructive and yet more reasonable answer.

It seems to me a sad corollary of what is called progress today, that no person has any guarantee of being able to live in an area they choose without the fear of change. The word "zoning" has come to be meaningless, because "rezoning" has become the operative word, and we are all at the mercy of the money grabbers. Many of us have lived for a number of years in streets that we have enjoyed and seen become more attractive, but we have absolutely no assurance that we may continue to do so.

In many parts of our city we see the effect of the new ways. Some of us have tried to resist the "new" and have met with little success, and some will still try. But I am sure the strongest most basic feeling of Belleville lives in a strong feeling of disillusionment and resignation. Some recent examples are the Bell Telephone Bell Boulevard with all the attendant cost, when the east end industrial park is not coming to develop, as well as the apartments adjacent to the Quinte Mall, in what has been an industrial zone.

One could say that in the next election we may remedy these things, but I fear that the problem needs more than an election to be remedied. Other cities have faced the problem of people who care, and the number of people who care is growing, but apathy is articulate, and with the ability courage, and time are [illegible] many are not really interested in their homes or the character of our city.

Perhaps those who care for business will be ready to start, and who realize that progress must come, but that it should not destroy the old for the new, should get together and express their feelings. By means available to us all it comes a time to speak up and defend our rights, and to not be "reasonable".

(Mrs.) JOSEPHINE REDDICK

Seventy-five years ago, Oct. 27, the first train from Montreal passed through Belleville enroute to Toronto and the Weekly Intelligencer, the only newspaper published here at the time, referred to the event in its issue of Oct. 31: "Belleville has at last been placed upon the great highway of the province by the opening of the Grand Trunk Railroad. The first passenger train from Toronto made their first appearance in our good town on Monday last and the hearty plaudits and gratification of a large number of our citizens. The event is one of the utmost importance to us as a town in particular, and the whole province in general. Merchants and tradesmen no longer will have to lay in a heavy six month's stock of goods to keep supplies until the season arrives for the opening of navigation."

50 YEARS AGO

November 1, 1921

A number of Belleville deer hunters who were ready to start for the north country, discovered to their great disappointment that the necessary forms have not yet been received by the issuer of licences.

A large crowd was present at the pork and bean supper in St. Thomas' Parish House on Hallowe'en.

Rita Jean MacCollum of Kilcrohan, formerly of Belleville, is visiting friends here.

ANAF News

Next Friday and Saturday, Nov. 5 and 6, the Belleville Poppy Committee will have its willing volunteers, including that fine group of youngsters, the Air Cadets, out on the streets of Belleville with their boxes of poppies. Give generously to this very worthy project that assists disabled and needy veterans and dependents of veterans who have answered the last Roll Call.

Wear the poppy with honor the memory of these gallant men and in thankfulness that you now live in a free and safe country because of their supreme sacrifices. Don't pass the poppies by, but buy one.

Tickets for the Remembrance Day Banquet are now available at the ANAF Hall and the Legion Hall. See Cde. Archie Jordan in the club, and, remember, bring your ladies along. It would be appreciated if the tickets were procured a little early to give the Auxiliary an approximate number of those attending. About 40 Boer War and World War I veterans will be the guests of the 13th Hastings Belleville Committee. Tickets are $2 a person.

Members may have seen the striking ANAF wristbreakers being worn by the Dominion President and the Unit 1st and 2nd vice - presidents. Any comrade who is interested in purchasing one of these smart and warm windbreakers is asked to phone or contact Dominion president Jack Lundberg.

The inauguration of the Happy Hour from 7 to 8 p.m., followed by a big Fun Night with live entertainment starting at 9 p.m. is next Friday. Both events to be held in the downstairs lounge. Come on in for a big evening. The entertainment chairman would be pleased to hear your comments on this new venture that is being started, hoping to add to the pleasure and enjoyment of all which is the aim of his committee and himself.

Comrades on the sick list are as follows: C. Mariott, Princess Margaret Hospital, Toronto; E. Brockburst, 316; R. Forin, 312; H. Latham, 625; W. Dafoe, 701 and W. Shepherd, extensive care, all in the Belleville General Hospital. Resting at home are A. Tuck, K. Hollands, R. Mills and H. Corbey. The chairman of the sick committee reports that Cde. Norbey is waiting to be x-rayed and that the rest have been visited or taken care of.

Moira Graduates Told Of New School Projects

Principal E. J. Shipton brought returning graduates up to date on all the latest sports activities as well as new courses the school has implemented.

He mentioned the Indian studies program to be conducted by Moira's Indian liaison officer Lester Claus beginning in September 1972. A non-credit course on the Mohawk language will commence in January.

The school also has several other innovative projects under way, he said. One is a work-study program designed to enable students to earn a living while attending school.

In addition, student volunteers have been working in elementary schools and schools for the retarded. Moira also has been offering secondary school credit courses to Loyalist College students through a co-operative schedule.

Valedictorian for the graduating class was first-year Queen's student Christopher Thompson. Referring to the parents and teachers in the audience, he said, "You have helped us to realize that the world doesn't owe us a living but rather that we owe the world a life."

Moira had 10 Ontario scholars, students achieving 80 per cent on grade 13 papers having a value of seven credits. The gifted group consisted of Miss Thompson, Elizabeth Bellstedt, Donna Henry, Paul Lantz, Robert Locke, Robert MacPherson, John McCleave, Deborah Rodger, Jennifer Thomson and Marian Winhart.

Miss Thompson was also the recipient of Queen's University $500 anniversary award. In addition, she captured the $25 Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Orr award for the highest average over the past three years and shared The Intelligencer scholarship of $100 with Marian Winhart for outstanding English composition and literature achievement.

Winner of the $150 Hal Wishart Memorial scholarship to the grade 13 student who has been active in sports and is proceeding to university was Barbara Platt.

Glen Hanley won the $100 Belleville Kinsmen Bursary, awarded to the student graduating from either grade 12 or 13 who is most deserving, based on ability and needs, and who is continuing education at a recognized college or university.

The Winnifred Hay Memorial award of a trophy and cash went to Susan Wenmaker for her high standing in grade 12 Latin.

Mary Lynn Stapley was presented with the Anita Hamilton Memorial Scholarship of $30 as the student with outstanding proficiency in the commercial course.

The $20 Belleville Real Estate Award for the highest achievement in commercial subjects went to Audrey Henderson.

Winning the Argyll Chapter IODE scholarship of $50 as the student with a high-average going on to college or university who is the son or daughter of a veteran, was Jackie O'Neill.

Armin Krippendorff won the $50 Robert Alexander Vending Machines award as the top student in any four-year arts and science course.

The Corby Distillery Co. award of $50 to a deserving student planning a career in science or technology was shared by grade 13 graduates Tim Sheeley and Lynn Walton.

Anna Markiewicky, who has entered the Edith Cavell School of Nursing, was awarded the Hilda Collier Memorial Bursary, worth $50, by Mrs. Peggy Wood representing the Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville.

The Hastings County Board of Education Prize totalling $100 was divided between Ann Mikula and Jacqueline Fraser for their outstanding contribution to the community service program.

Larry Best was the recipient of the $25 Maurice H. Rollins Memorial award in the student showing outstanding proficiency in architectural drafting.

The Belleville Federation of Musicians, Local 357, presented their prize of $25 to Robert Matthews, the student deemed to have contributed the most to school music over the past year.

The trophy for outstanding male achievement was awarded to grade 13 student Jim Wiggins while Ken LaPalm, a grade 12 graduate, won the special athletic letter.

Moira Toasts Ontario Scholars

Nine of Moira Secondary School's 10 Ontario scholars were on hand to receive their awards at the school's annual commencement exercises Saturday evening. School activities were reviewed for the returning students by principal E. J. Shipton who outlined new programs in Indian affairs and work-study projects.

Some Halloween Tricks Serious

With their first clear-weather Halowe'en in recent years, ghosts and goblins in various forms took to the streets Saturday night to collect their share of goodies.

The traditional "tricks" meted out for lack of treats, went a little farther than reasonable in several instances.

Various and sundry supplies of vegetables, including eggs and tomatoes, took to the windows, walls and streets of the village, as well as a quantity of beer bottles.

Thieves broke into the refreshment booth at Belleville fairgrounds over the weekend, but nothing has been reported missing.

A window was broken at Queen Victoria school on Pine Street, as was a pane of glass at Thrasher Feeds on Harriett Street.

One man's car had a paint job when culprits liberally applied a spray bomb to his vehicle.

And a third car owner, who had parked his vehicle on Canadian Tire's lot on Coleman Street, discovered its surface coated in sticky varnish.

A 16 - year - old boy and 17 - year - old girl were admitted to Belleville General Hospital after suffering "what city police believe to be "bad trips" as a result of taking LSD.

Police heard glass breaking in a Front Street apartment at 11:24 p.m. Saturday. Upon entering the building, they discovered the young man with a bleeding arm. He had smash ed in through a window.

The girl was picked up on Dundas Street East, near the hospital, crying.

Although city police did not receive any reports of razor blade infested apples, two citizens informed The Intelligencer they discovered these sharp objects.

Tombstone Disturbed

Fun and games is all very well, but there is a limit. At 4:10 Saturday, Elmwood Cemetery caretaker Grant Barlow, informed Ontario Provincial Police that 26 tombstones in the Corbyville-area resting plot, had been disturbed. Photographed early Monday morning, smashed, damaged, and uprooted memorial stones lay scattered across the quiet burial ground.

Guess who's doing the dishes ?

For years, doing the dishes has been one of life's necessary evils.

But now, because of automatic electric dishwashers, more and more people are finding out it's an unnecessary evil.

Consider some of the things an automatic electric dishwasher can save wives from. Things like: the dreary routine of washing and drying pots and dishes day after day; the worry of dishpan hands, the after-party aftermath; and the hours spent doing dishes that could be spent in a hundred happier ways.

Consider this, too. A lot of dirty dishes come with the joys of Christmas. So what could make a more timely gift than an automatic electric dishwasher?

See your appliance dealer soon about the new automatic electric dishwashers. They're not called The Wifesavers for nothing, you know.

Pike Fishing Communist Plot ?

Ontario Provincial Police were kept busy for several hours Saturday night, attempting to calm down a telephone caller who believed Communist agents had infiltrated Quinte area waters.

In a thick English accent, the man explained a caller had invited him to benefit from pike fishing.

At the end of six telephone conversations, police had been unable to convince the caller that pike fishing was not an underwater communist plot.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES CLARENCE KAISER

Kaiser – Batson

Rev. Leslie Dean performed the wedding ceremony in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville on Sat. Oct. 16, when Wanda Mary Margaret Batson, daughter of Mrs. John Lyon and the late Mr. D. C. Batson was united in marriage to James Clarence Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kaiser of Belleville. Clifford Templer presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist Glenn Reynolds.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, John Lyon, the bride was attired in an Elizabethan styled floor length gown of imported crystal organza with the bodice featuring empire waistline, wedding band collar and full bishop sleeves, all trimmed with an edging of guipure lace imbedded with seed pearls. Her headdress was a cluster of sheer flowers trimmed with pearls with attached four-tier shoulder length veil with white carnations and orange cancan roses.

Miss Dawn Batson, sister of the bride was attired in a floor length gown of citron green organza with fitted bodice and long sleeves gathered into tight cuffs. The dress was further enhanced with moss green and tangerine trim. She wore a wide brimmed hat tinted to match her gown and carried a nosegay of white daisies and can-can roses. Katheryn Foster, Bianca DiGenova and Janice Perry, cousin of the bride were gowned identically to the matron of honor, as were the two flower girls Catherine Kaiser, sister of the bridegroom and June Byrd, cousin of the bride — but in tangerine shade. Both carried nosegays of tinted green carnations.

Larry Reid attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Carl Byrd, cousin of the bride, Ronald Kaiser, brother of the bridegroom and David McGee.

A reception was held in the church hall, where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a dusty rose dress and coat ensemble of double knit polyester with black accessories and a white gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress and jacket ensemble of yellow and white satin brocade with matching accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser will reside at 177 Romaine Street, Peterborough, Apt. 301.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. J. C. Kaiser (nee Wanda Batson) was honored at miscellaneous showers given by her aunt Mrs. Robert Byrd with co-hostess Mrs. Ross Boyce and one by Mrs. Bill Batson of Kingston. A bathroom shower was held at the home of Mrs. N. Moore with co-hostess Mrs. A. McCullam; a pantry shower given by Mrs. David Leavey with co-hostess Mrs. Anita Kirkwood and a personal shower held at the home of Mrs. A. Carkner when the staff of the Royal Bank attended.

WEDDING

BOISVERT — JOHNSTON

Knox Presbyterian Church, Magnetawan was the setting for the recent wedding when Dayle Elaine Johnston became the bride of David Jean Boisvert. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Johnston, RR 1, Magnetawan, while the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Boisvert of Shannonville.

Rev. A. Fraser officiated at the double-ring ceremony, and traditional wedding music was rendered by Bill Thompson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of satin featuring an empire waist trimmed with white velvet ribbon and guipure lace. A chapel train of Chantilly lace highlighted the back of the gown. She carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

Maid of honor was Iris Johnston and the bridesmaids were Susan and Inis Johnston, all sisters of the bride. They wore identical gowns of baby blue crimplene trimmed with white lace with blue ribbon in their hair. Each carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Groomsman was Dave Rendell of Hamilton and the ushers were John Johnston of Hamilton and Don Zurbrigg of South River.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Magnetawan Inn. Receiving, the bride's mother wore a light blue crepe dress with navy accessories. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a pink crimplene dress with navy accessories. Each wore a corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a white lace pant suit.

Mr. and Mrs. Boisvert will reside in Hamilton.

Ann Landers

Elderly Woman's Philosophy to Be Published in Many School Papers

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the 17-year-old who fantasized about his death in an automobile accident was one of the most blood-chilling but effective pieces of writing I have ever read. Thank you for printing it, Ann. Here is another bit of fantasy. If you think it has value, publish it because it is 86 percent true. The only sentence that is an invention is the first one.

Dear 17 and Too Young To Die: I am the old lady you chose to pass on the highway at the wrong moment. I would give anything if I could trade places with you. I am 67 and have known for some time that I will die within a year from an incurable illness. I am able to function at present but it is just a matter of time before I will be bed ridden—and then the agony of wasting away.

What a cruel trick of fate that a person who would welcome death is denied it while a young lad such as you, so full of the exuberance of life with the whole world at his feet, should be snuffed out like a candle in the wind.

A word to the young and healthy, to those who have dreams and hopes: Savor each moment, enjoy what you have. Cherish every day. But be careful. Live not for the moment, but for the years ahead that can be yours.—Alaska

Dear Alaska: Thank you for a beautiful bit of philosophy. It will please you to know the letter you wrote will continue to be read by teen-agers all over the country. More than 100 high school editors asked for permission to reprint that letter in their school papers.

Dear Ann Landers: You are out of your corn-pickin' mind. Your advice to the woman who is over 40 who is a competent and experienced secretary but no 35-24-34 stank out loud. You suggested she let her friends know she is looking for a job.

Don't you realize that losers have no friends? The moment they lose—whether it's a job, a spouse, a child, or money—they find out what it's like to be alone. It's the same the world over. There's a great flurry of attention—for four days. Then comes the well-worn phrase: "If I can do anything just let me know." After that, it's a total face-out and they are never heard from again.

If you're going to be an effective adviser you'd better pull off the rose-colored glasses and tell it like it is, Anne Baby. The 40-plus gal who wrote was trying you the straight story. Women over 40 ARE discriminated against in the job market and that's the god's truth.—Another Texas Retread

Dear Texas: The cynical tone of your letter indicates you've had some bitter experiences and I'm sorry. Yes, I know life isn't a bed of roses but it isn't a garbage dump either. People can be lousy but they can be beautiful, too. Here's a letter which might help you—and others:

Dear Ann Landers: Did you know that in 1968 Congress passed the "Age Discrimination Employment Act?" The purpose: To promote employment on the basis of ability, not age. The existence of this federal statute and similar state laws is little known, even among attorneys. You could perform a useful service by informing your readers that they do have legal recourse if they are discriminated against because of age. It's illegal.—R.C. New Rochelle

Dear R. C.: Ann Landers learned something today—and so did 54 million others. It was good of you to write. Thank you.

'Kids' Love Molasses Cookies

By ALICE DENHOFF

For the after-school refreshment break—indeed for any beverage-and-cookie break—there's nothing like freshly-baked molasses cookies. The kids love 'em with a tall glass of milk. The aroma of molasses is as fine as its flavor—and as soon as the children rush into the house they can sniff the good things to come. And such good things!

Start off with warm molasses cartwheels, classic molasses cookies enlivened with ginger and cinnamon.

Old-fashioned molasses is a fine source of iron and also contains vital calcium. Molasses peanut butter cookies offer the same nutrients reinforced by the protein of peanut butter.

MOLASSES CARTWHEELS

1 cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup old-fashioned molasses
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon ginger
¾ teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in egg and molasses.

Roll out one-third of the dough one-eighth-inch thick on lightly floured board or pastry cloth, keeping remaining dough chilled. Cut with three-inch cutter. Repeat procedure until dough is used up.

Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in 375-degree-F. oven for 10 minutes.

Yield: three dozen cookies.

MOLASSES PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

¾ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup old-fashioned molasses
¼ cup peanut butter
1 egg
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add next three ingredients. Blend well.

Drop by tablespoonfuls on to ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 375-degree-F. oven for 10 to 12 minutes.

Makes about two dozen delicious cookies.

MOLASSES CHOCOLATE COOKIES

1 egg, beaten
½ cup sugar
½ cup old-fashioned molasses
¼ cup melted shortening
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking powder
2-3 cup chopped nuts
1 package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels

Beat together first five ingredients.

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder; blend into molasses mixture. Stir in nuts and chocolate morsels. Spread in a greased and light floured eight-inch-square pan. Bake in 350-degree-F. oven 40 to 45 minutes. Cut into bars one by two inches.

Yield: two dozen bars. Delicious!

Successful Living

Letter Writing Is Postponed

By DORIS CLARK

"I'm just no good at letter writing." With this alibi many a friendship dies a-borning.

It is as if there were certain gifted ones among us born with pen in hand who cannot resist corresponding in copious amounts. It isn't that way at all. Writing letters for most of us, is a discipline, but one which becomes a pleasure as we deepen the groove of a gracious and friend-keeping habit.

Without it, things like this happen: A mother forgets to write a gracious thank-you note to the son who has provided her with a summer holiday; and he and his wife wonder what they did to offend her. Good friends wonder whether or not the pal in a distant city has been able to make definite arrangements for a visit discussed over long distance telephone — and perforce go to the airport to meet him on spec.

Old pals drop in, unexpected, in the course of a motor trip across country—and the persons they want to see, and who will feel greatly disappointed not to see them, are out of town.

Don't be one of those person who hides behind an inadequate excuse. Keep notepaper, a pen and stamps handy; and when a letter or a note needs writing, write it! Make it brief rather than not at all and keep your friendships mended.

* * *

Dear Doris: I had a few double dates with Bob but never was alone with him until one night we were at a party. He had told my cousin's boy friend that I was someone he could get serious with, meaning to go out and have a good time and enjoy each other's company.

Anyway, at this party we were all drinking and feeling real good. Bob and I were under the influence and Bob's hands started to wander-ings. I didn't want anything like that to happe. I started crying and what Bob thought of me after that I couldn't say. I haven't heard from him since.

I won't be able to forget him until I know what's what. I've gone out with other guys but he still lingers in my head and now it's a month, — Fight or Give Up?

Dear Fight or G.U.: It's a good sign — and perfectly normal — for you to want to respect the young man you particularly like. You want Bob to mind his P's and Q's when you were finally alone together. Perhaps he is not just sure what your rebuff meant.

It's possible he thought you expected something like that, or he may have considered you getting all his privilege on credit.

No use pursuing him. Just show yourself to be friendly when you do see him and if he wants to talk, let him know that hygenics are forgotten. He carries the ball.

* * *

Dear Doris: Do you know whether or not there is a pamphlet on how to tie a tie — Bert.

Dear Bert: Possible but not probable. If there is one I don't know about. It would be easier to show you than to tell you, but here goes for an attempt:

1. Put the tie around your neck, under the shirt collar, right side up; put the wide end of the tie over the narrow end twice, pulling it up to the throat.

2. With the left hand, hold the narrow end of the tie while slipping the index finger under the first loop of the knot. With the right hand, push the wide end of the tie up again and down through the loop. Tighten to form a firm knot.

3. Adjust until knot fits neck of shirt perfectly.

If you can't make this work, drop in to a men's wear shop and get a clerk to show you how it is done. It is a family problem which stumps nearly everybody the first few times.

* * *

Doris welcomes your comments and ideas. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

GOOD POTENTIAL

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto's program to house elderly people in private households has proved to contain "good potential" for providing care for the aged, Metro Housing Commissioner Arthur Varcoe said. The year old program has placed 40 people aged 62 and over in private households. Host families are paid $180 a month for accommodation and food for each guest.

Grandma's Old-Fashioned Molasses

Autumn Decor Highlights CWL Tea

Frankford community hall was attractively decorated with autumn leaves and flowers for the annual tea and bazaar sponsored by the Catholic Women's League of St. Frances of Assisi Church, on Wednesday, October 20.

The main tea table was centred by tall blue and gold candles in crystal and silver holders. The individual tables were adorned with centre-pieces of flowers in autumn shades.

Greeting everyone at the door was Mrs. E. McKeown, president of the CWL. Mrs. R. Turley and Kathleen Macauley were in charge of ticket sales while Mrs. Mary Baker and Mrs. Burak presided at the tea table. Serving the guests were Maureen Hicks, Kathy Bailey, Donna Smith, Diane Houle and Judy Gris-thenwaite. Those who worked in the kitchen were Marguerite Macauley, Mrs. Leon Collins, Mrs. M. Waxlow, Mrs. S. Vorobec and Theresa Houle.

The tree table which attracted many was conveyed by Mrs. M. Regan. Mrs. Ellen Long, Mrs. Doreen Boyarchuk, Mrs. Ann Pierak and Mrs. M. Rouse.

Convening the bake table were Mrs. Helen Hanosai and Mrs. Art Browne, while in charge of the penny arte was Mrs. Dorothy Cadwell and Mrs. Trudy Fontyn. Winners here were Maureen Hicks, Ann Zylstra, Mrs. Beverley Reid, Mrs. Susan Schick, Mrs. Ruby Moran, Edward Jackson, Karen Cadwell, Mrs. Marguerite Caldwell and Mrs. Acton. Conveners at the fancy table were Mrs. H. J. Carter, Mrs. Margaret Baker and Mrs. Doreen Carter.

Other conveners were Kim McKeown and Rhonda Hicks in charge of the fish pond, socks by Susan Fontyn and touch and take, with Jean Lambert convening.

Mrs. Kelly and Janetta Heffernan were in charge of jackets sold, in advance for prizes drawn.

TORONTO (CP) — A big red "30" on the front page above the fold Saturday spelled the end of The Telegram, Canada's fourth-largest newspaper.

The evening paper's 1,200 employees put the final edition to bed Saturday morning—a 96-page paper brimming with news, sports, advertising and introspective, emotional stories on the Tely's death written by staff writers and news executives.

Ironically, Saturday's press run—more than 300,000 copies—was one of the biggest in the newspaper's history. It normally had a daily circulation of 220,000.

Closure of The Telegram was announced Sept. 18 by publisher John Bassett, who said in a front-page letter to readers that the paper had lost $2 million in 1969 and 1970. And it faced another $1-million loss this year.

"I'm sorry I couldn't do better," wrote the six-foot, four-inch publisher, who bought the paper in 1952 for, a reported $1.61 million.

". . . the greatest loss is to the community and the country. Individuals will adjust to new conditions and already approximately 800 Telegram people have found new jobs. But this community and Canada will have lost a strong voice forever.

"Editorials are not normally signed. This one is going to be and signed using, for the last time, the designation of which I am more proud than anything else in my life.

"John Bassett, Publisher of The Toronto Telegram."

The "30" mark, traditionally used by newspaper men to end a story, was in this occasion used to end the life of The Telegram itself.

The Tely had been a terminal case since 11 p.m. on the night of Sept. 17 when John Bassett wrote the newspaper's obituary notice for next-day editions.

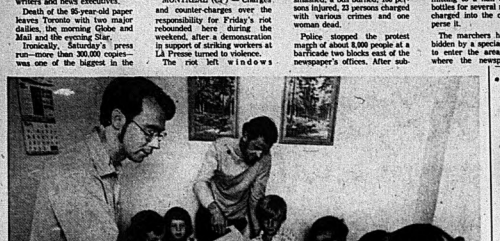
Perhaps Ted Reeve respected 63-year veteran of the Telegram as a sports columnist, should have the last word.

"Jees," he was heard to reflect recently at the Toronto Press Club. "When I joined The Telegram in Nineteen-Bloody-Two-Eight they told me it would be a steady job."

Charges Exchanged Over Montreal Riot

MONTREAL (CP) — Charges and counter-charges over the responsibility for Friday's riot rebounded here during the weekend, after a demonstration in support of striking workers in La Presse turned to violence.

The riot left windows smashed, a bus burned, 160 persons injured, 23 persons charged with various crimes and one woman dead.



Police stopped the protest march of about 8,000 people at a barricade two blocks east of the newspaper's offices. After submitting to a hail of rocks and bottles for several minutes, they charged into the crowd to disperse it.

The marchers had been forbidden by a special civic bylaw to enter the area of the city where the newspaper offices were located.

Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor and chief organizer of the march, was quick to blame police for triggering the violence.

He said he was satisfied that the march had been conducted "in peace and dignity" until the demonstrators' conscience to face with police wielding three-foot riot sticks.

Food for the Brood

Two Montreal fathers, both divorced, think theyve solved most of their single-parent family problems. They've joined forces and resources in a single home, taking turns doing the shopping, housekeeping and laundry. The six children range in age from six to eleven and get along well together. Saskatchewan Liberals Plan To Select Provincial Leader

REGINA (CP) — Provincial Liberals meet in Saskatoon next month to select a leader they hope can breathe new life into the organization that was bloodled by the New Democratic Party in the June 23 election.

The Liberals, under former premier W. Ross Thatcher who died a month after the election, were left with 15 seats in the 60-seat legislature and then reduced to 14 by Mr. Thatcher's death. NDP candidates captured the other 45 ridings.

To this point, it appears the leadership will go to one of the three men who have entered the race so far—interim leader D. G. Steuart, former welfare minister Cy MacDonald and the former MLA for Elrose, George Leith.

With just over a month remaining before the convention, on Dec. 10 and 11, it seems unlikely there will be other candidates entering the race.

Mr. Steuart, 55, appears to have the inside track because of his long association as Mr. Thatcher's right-hand man, but it is difficult to gauge the support for the other two.

Mr. MacDonald, a 43-year-old teacher who projects a young image with his modish clothes and personable approach, is openly soliciting the youth vote.

Mr. Leith, 48, also says youth must receive more consideration but his main theme is a call for a break with old line policies and lip-service politicians.

All three have been active in their campaigns and the results of their efforts will be known Dec. 11 when the anticipated 1,500 constituency representatives cast their ballots.

Liberal members of the legislature and other prominent party officials have been slow to announce their support of any particular candidate.

Mr. Steuart was the first to receive such public support. It came from J. C. McIsaac, Ken McLeod and Gary Lane, all members of the legislature.

Mr. Steuart is easily the most outspoken and most colorful of the three. He sees the biggest task facing the next leader as recapturing the people's confidence.

Mr. MacDonald, who says the party needs a new image and a new direction, believes the party must be revitalized by making itself attractive in leadership and in policy to the new wave of young voters.

Mr. Leith, a farmer in the Elrose district, says the provincial Liberals must co-operate with federal Liberals in attempting to get decisions that are right for the farmer and for the developing industrial sector.

Proposed Tax Deductions Will Come Under Scrutiny

OTTAWA (CP) — MPs will pick apart pieces of the government's big tax bill this week that propose new personal deductions for Canadians when they fill out income tax returns.

Up for discussion today are subclauses in the 707-page bill that propose tax deductions for such expenses as child-care costs for employed parents and the bills for moving to a home closer to work.

The Commons, sitting as a committee, has worked on the bill 22 sitting days since Parliament resumed after the summer recess, 10 of them in section-by-section committee study.

In that time, it has approved just five of the 257 clauses in the first, 596-page clause.

Finance Minister E. J. Benson, the bill's sponsor, wants it passed by Commons and Senate, in time to become law by Jan. 1.

He reiterated Friday that he has no intention of delaying the legislation longer, as requested by Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed and business groups.

Mr. Benson last week presented the Commons with a second batch of about 30 amendments, some of them proposals to change parts of a previous package of 95 amendments presented Oct. 13. There are more to come.

The child-care proposals to be discussed this week would permit expense deductions of up to $500 a year for a child, a maximum $2,000 a year for a family, for care of children when both parents are working, in one-parent families or when the mother is disabled.

Moving expenses would be deductible for persons changing homes, when the move takes them at least 25 miles closer to their job.

Jobs Go Unfilled On Niagara Farms

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — There are 20,000 agricultural jobs available in the Niagara Peninsula during the fruit-growing season but not enough workers to fill them.

The result is that some farmers have to let fruit rot in orchards and canners have to turn down fruit from some farmers because of a lack of cannery workers.

Roy Lehman, an official with Canada Manpower here, estimates that 200 of the 1,500 farms within his jurisdiction were short 30 to 40 workers a day throughout the summer. They were 100 short each day during the peak cherry-picking season in August, he added.

Bright Canning Co. Ltd. of Niagara Falls, Ont., had to throw out more than 30 tons of peaches it had purchased because the company could hire only half the 500 workers required during the peak processing time.

There was a heavy peach crop this year and John Bright, company president, said an additional 300 tons of fruit could have been processed had the labor been available.

Mr. Bright, who is also president of the Ontario Food Processors Association, says present welfare and unemployment legislation is reducing the dependency of a worker on labor to maintain his income.

Phil Andrews, chairman of the labor committee of the Niagara Peninsula Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, says there has been a trend to use ethnic labor in the last 15 years.

But as one farmer said, these groups have become "Canadianized" and are finding full-time jobs and not relying on summer work in the fruitbelt for an income.

Mr. Andrews said low wages and hard work are also reducing the labor supply.

Many suggestions to solve the labor shortage in the Niagara region have been made. They include greater mechanization and higher wages.

Mechanization is the favorite and in recent years, mechanical grape harvesters have been making their appearance in vineyards. There were 25 in operation this year in the area.

And in the next few years, they'll have machines capable of harvesting peaches too, predicts Bob Wilson, an extension specialist at the Ontario department of agriculture station at nearby Vineland.

Roy Lehman said he would "dearly love to see a minimum wage for farm labor." He said such legislation would make farm jobs more attractive.

"But I can see the farmer's point of view, too, because much of the labor is not worth $1.50," he added.

Under the provincial Labor Standards Act the minimum wage on most jobs is $1.65 an hour. Manpower says the average wage for farm work in the area is $1.50.

Government Goal 'Peace Over War'

HAMILTON (CP) — Health Minister John Munro said Sunday the government's goal in closer relationships with the Soviet Union, China and other Communist countries is "peace over war, and co-operation over chaos."

"This objective cannot be sacrificed for any transitory political popularity," Mr. Munro told an audience of Canadians of Ukrainian descent.

Ukrainians were among the ethnic groups in Canada to react strongly during the recent official visit by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Mr. Munro spoke at the 50th anniversary celebration of the rebirth of Ukrainian Autocephalous Orthodox Church.

Canada stands between two super powers who could virtually wipe out life on earth, Mr. Munro said.

"It therefore profits us to keep tension to a minimum.

Canada would remain "a firm member" of the Western Alliance and "our neighbors across the top of the pole" knew this.

"We will not split from our previous allegiance no matter how many visits are made."

Nevertheless, friendly overtures by Canada to the other side did help reduce tension.

Text of Mr. Munro's speech was released in advance of delivery.

Raiders Let George Do It Again.... This Time in Record Fashion

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oakland Raiders again are letting George do it—and 44-year-old George Blanda, the oldest player in pro football, is not letting them down, but keeping them up.

Blanda, whose amazing career started in 1949 and now is in its fourth decade, became the game's all-time leading scorer Sunday as he rallied the Raiders to a 20-20 tie with Kansas City Chiefs and kept Oakland in a first-place tie with the Chiefs in the Western Division of the American Football Conference.

Blanda, who replaced starter Daryle Lamonica in the last time[s] Oakland had the ball, fired a 24-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff, then kicked an eight-yard field goal with 2½ minutes left.

The tying three-pointer and a previous field goal and two conversions gave Blanda a career total of 1,000 points, one more than former Cleveland kicker Lou Groza. The amazing yard kick, the game was stopped and Blanda was presented with the football.

"These things just happen to you when you play 22 years," he said.

On Blanda's first play, he hit Ray Chester with a 37-yard strike.

Two plays later, Blanda connected with Biletnikoff, who had outmaneuvered young cornerback David Handley. Handley had replaced injured starter Jim Marshall[s] immediately before the play.

"I'm sure George knew who we had in there," said Chiefs' coach Hank Stram.

"George Blanda is a rare individual," said Oakland coach John Madden. "The amazing thing is that he's throwing and kicking better than he did four years ago."

The tie kept the Raiders and Chiefs deadlocked with 5-1-1 records.

Elsewhere in the National Football League Sunday, it was: San Francisco 45ers 27, New England Patriots 10; Miami Dolphins 24, Los Angeles Rams 14; Washington Redskins 24, New Orleans Saints 14; Minnesota Vikings 17, New York Giants 10; Atlanta Falcons 31, Cleveland Browns 14; Chicago Bears 23, Dallas Cowboys 19; Baltimore Colts 34, Pittsburgh Steelers 21; San Diego Chargers 48, New York Jets 21; St. Louis Cardinals 38, Buffalo Bills 23; Philadelphia Eagles 17, Denver Broncos 16, and Houston Oilers 16, Cincinnati Bengals 6.

San Francisco, 5-2, took over first place in the National Football Conference's Western Division, one-half game ahead of Los Angeles, beating New England with the help of John Brodie's 71-yard touchdown toss to Gene Washington.

Miami knocked the Rams, 4-2-1, out of the top spot in the NFC's West, downing Los Angeles on the strength of two scoring strikes by Bob Griese. The victory kept the Dolphins in first place in the AFC's East with a 3-1-1 mark, just ahead of Baltimore's 5-2.

Washington built its record to 6-1 and its advantage over the second-up Dallas to two games, holding off New Orleans on Pat Fischer's 3-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass midway in the final period.

Minnesota, on top in the NFC's Central Division, handed the Giants their fourth consecutive setback on Norm Snead's 35-yard touchdown pass to Bob Grim with 1:04 remaining. The Vikings are 6-1 to 5-2 for second-place Chicago.

Cleveland, 4-3, the AFC's Central Division leader, dropped its second in a row, as former team-mate Jim Shorter of Atlanta helped beat them with scoring shots of 39 yards to Ken Burrow and 23 yards to Jim Mitchell.

Chicago was outgained by Dallas 401 yards to 194 but upset the Cowboys as Bobby Douglass threw one TD pass and scored once, and Mac Percival booted three field goals.

Baltimore took to the air, with Earl Morrall passing for 286 yards and touchdowns of 19 and 49 yards to Willie Richardson and 60 yards to Ray Perkins against Pittsburgh.

San Diego's John Hadl hitted the Jets' patched-up defence for four touchdowns and scored once himself as the Chargers overwhelmed New York.

Two touchdown passes by Jim Hart helped St. Louis hand winless Buffalo its seventh loss.

Linebacker Bill Hobbs blocked a Denver punt, recovered it and ran six yards for the decisive touchdown in Philadelphia's victory over the Broncos.

Houston edged Cincinnati on Ken Houston's field-breaking 48-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass in the third period.

Upset Over Argonauts Costs Ticats Zuger

By IAN MacLAREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The surprising Hamilton Tiger-Cats and rejuvenated Ottawa Rough Riders meet next Sunday in Hamilton in sudden-death Eastern Football Conference first-final play.

The Ticats stunned Toronto Argonauts 23-15 Sunday to clinch second place in the final standings and the Riders tripped Montreal Alouettes 9-7 in action Saturday.

Ottawa and Montreal finished the season tied with 7-7 points apiece, two behind Hamilton, but the Riders took the third and final playoff spot by virtue of their better record against the 1970 Grey Cup champions.

The Ticat victory was a costly one. Quarterback Joe Zuger was pushed to the paved running track that surrounds CNE Stadium and suffered a separation of the right shoulder.

He was to undergo surgery on the injured shoulder today and was not expected to play again this season.

Hamilton coach Al Dorow was already in the process of looking for his replacement Sunday night.

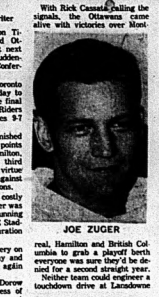
Chief aspirant to the Ticat quarterbacking woes is Wally Gabler, whom the Ticats dropped earlier in the season.

Gabler, who watched the Hamilton-Toronto game from the stands, said in an interview from his Burlington, Ont., home Sunday night he was waiting to hear from the Ticats.

He walked out in the middle of a five-day trial with the Als earlier in the week because they wouldn't delete the option clause from his players' contract.

Gabler said he doesn't expect to have any problems signing with Hamilton and "if we can agree in terms I'm ready to play."

John Manel, who replaced Zuger at quarterback, had played offensively only about five minutes in an early season game. After a jittery start, however, he seemed to settle away behind some grips blocking by Hamilton's offensive line.



The Ticats were leading 7-0 on two missed field goal attempts by Tommy Joe Coffey when Zuger was injured. With Manel getting the plays from Dorow, and crucial roughing calls against the Argos, Hamilton drove first touchdown blood in the third quarter when Max Anderson crashed over from the one-yard line.

The rugged Hamilton defence opened a 16-1 lead in the third quarter when defensive halfback Al Bremner returned an interception 50 yards for one score. Garney Henley returned his third interception of the game 13 yards for another early in the fourth quarter to make it 23-1.

Argo quarterback Joe Theismann, victim of all four Hamilton interceptions, already got the EFC-winning Toronto club going with touchdown passes to Leon McQuay, for 81 yards, and Dick Thornton.

"It looked like an impossible thing, but we did it," Dorow said in his jubilant, Hamilton dressing room. "I said before the game that I wanted a win today so that we could meet Ottawa on our home field in the semi-final, and that's what we got.

His subsequent crack that he preferred to meet Ottawa rather than Montreal—"We beat them two out of three this season and they look like the weaker team"—may only serve to lift Ottawa coach Jack Gotta and his club to greater heights next Sunday. The Riders, counted out of the playoff picture most of the year, rebounded late in the season when Gotta dropped veteran quarterback Gary Wood and acquired running back Bob (Hoss) Boumard.

JOE ZUGER

With Rick Cassata calling the signals, the Ottawans came alive with victories over Montreal, Hamilton and British Columbia to grab a playoff berth everyone was sure they'd be denied for a second straight year.

Neither team could engineer a touchdown drive at Lansdowne Park, but Gerry Organ's toe that carried him to the EFC scoring title with 82 points, did the trick. He accounted for all the Ottawa points, kicking three of three field goal attempts.

Justine Canale, favoring an injury to his kicking leg, hit on only one of six field goal tries. Four he missed wide and one to complete the Montreal scoring.

The winning points were put up early in the fourth quarter after a series of freakish turnovers in which the Riders lost possession twice, on a fumble and interception, but regained the ball on both occasions with interceptions.

"I've been with Grey Cup champions, but that has to be the greatest win ever for me," said Gotta, an outstanding player before turning to coaching. "We came from so far back to get it.

Then Cassata moved in as our first-string quarterback and started giving us the leadership we needed and Organ started giving us the stability we needed.

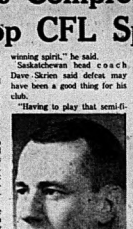
Eskimos Complete Role As Top CFL Spoilers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders tossed first place around like a hot potato during the weekend and wound up the Western Football Conference season being trumped by a couple of also-rans.

Calgary had an opportunity to wrap things up but were foiled 31-7 by British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Saturday night. However, they managed to back into first place when the Roughriders fell 28-12 before the Eskimos in Edmonton Sunday.

The Stampeders and the Roughriders finished the season with 19 points each, but Calgary took first place because it had a superior point spread in games against Saskatchewan.



The Roughriders, will meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the sudden-death WFC semi-final in Regina next Saturday.

"The team has a good nucleus for a winning club next year if the players can maintain their winning spirit," he said.

Saskatchewan head coach Dave Skrien said defeat may have been a good thing for his club.

"Having to play that semi-final, Calgary and Saskatchewan Roughriders tossed first place around like a hot potato during the weekend and wound up the Western Football Conference season being trumped by a couple of also-rans.

Saskatchewan head coach Dave Skrien said defeat may have been a good thing for his club.

"Having to play that semi-final game might be a good thing for us mentally as prepared for Calgary's loss Saturday . . . "and when it came to the crunch I guess the boys just didn't want this game badly enough."

"It was a bad game all round for the team but the defeat wasn't fatal and I'm certain they'll bounce back against Winnipeg."

The win before 19,549 fans gave Edmonton a perfect record as spoilers. After dropping eight straight games earlier in the season, the Eskimos airlifted in a flock of new players and upset Montreal Alouettes, Winnipeg, B.C. Calgary and Saskatchewan and played a key role in eliminating the Alouettes and Lions from playoff action.

It was the new players who shone for Edmonton Sunday. Volley Murphy scored the first touchdown on a 97-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback Bruce Lemmerman. Gene Foster and George McGowan scored the other touchdowns for the Eskimos. Dave Cutler kicked a 38-yard field goal, three converts and four singles.

Mustangs Take Wind Out of Gaels

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The University of Western Ontario Mustangs found power when they needed it Saturday as they upset the favored Queen's University Golden Gaels 42-3 to gain a berth in the Ontario University Athletic Association football final.

Their opponents in the championship game next Saturday in London will be the University of Ottawa Gee-Gees, who battled to an uphill 18-8 victory over McMaster Marauders in the other half of the semi-finals.

The OUAA champs will meet the Bluenose Conference winner in the Atlantic Bowl at Halifax, Nov. 13 and the winner there will earn a berth in the Canadian College Bowl Nov. 20 at Varsity Stadium in Toronto.

The Mustangs put on a superb offensive and defensive display as they took the wind out of the Gaels in Kingston. They spotted the capital division champions a 3-0 lead early in the first quarter, then dominated play the rest of the way.

Bishop's University Gaiters and Université de Sherbrooke Vert[e] or will meet next week-end in Sherbrooke for the championship of the Quebec University Athletic Association football conference.

Bishop's, a powerful squad coached by Bruce Coulter, prepped for their championship University Redmen 45-7 in one of four games on the QUAA schedule Saturday.

Four inches of snow mixed with mud couldn't stop University of Manitoba Bisons from trampling the champion University of Alberta Golden Bears squad in the Western Canada Intercollegiate Football League Saturday.

Bisons trounced the Bears 22-8 in Winnipeg to remain in a second-place tie with University of Calgary Dinosaurs.

The loss didn't hurt the Bears, who sewed up the Western title last weekend by dropping the Bisons, last year's national champions, 35-25 in Edmonton.

At Halifax, St. Mary's University Huskies clinched the Atlantic intercollegiate football championship Saturday when they whipped Dalhousie Tigers 48-14.

Bruins Bounce Back on North Stars

By IAN MacLAREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One thing most National Hockey League clubs learn at one time or another: Don't let Boston Bruins' lack of scoring punch in one game lull you into over-confidence.

Minnesota North Stars took a seven-game unbeaten string into Boston Sunday, geared to follow up where California Seals left off last Thursday when they blanked the Beantowners 3-0.

But it was a different game Sunday as the high-powered Bruins replied with a scorching 5-3 victory to remain in contention for the East Division lead with 13 points, three behind leading New York Rangers and one back of Montreal Canadiens.

In other Sunday night action, the Seals took their three-game win streak home to tie Buffalo Sabres 2-2. New York played to a 3-3 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, Philadelphia Flyers struck for five third-period goals—three by Simon Nolet—en route to a 5-3 win over Montreal. Detroit Red Wings surprised Pittsburgh Penguins 3-1 and Vancouver Canucks upset Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 in an afternoon game on the West Coast.

Ties were the order of the day Saturday as Minnesota and Toronto were 1-1, New York and Pittsburgh fired at 1-1, Buffalo bolstered by Rick Martin's three goals, tied Penguins 4-4 deadlock with Vancouver and Philadelphia was 4-4 against the Blues in St. Louis.

Montreal was decisive in blanking Detroit 3-0 with Ca cago drubbed Los Angeles Kings 5-1 in other Saturday night action.

In tonight's only contest, the Leafs are at home to Detroit in a game postponed from Oct. 13 following the death of Toronto president Harold Ballard.

Derek Sanderson and Ken Hodge scored two each as the Bruins ended two-game losing string. Defenceman Bobby Orr set the stage for Boston's victory with a spectacular goal less than two minutes into the game.

Esposito Remains Top Gun

Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins and Vic Hadfield of New York Rangers led their respective teams in the scoring race in National Hockey League play Sunday night, each scoring once and assisting on another goal.

Boston beat Minnesota North Stars 5-2 and New York played to a 3-3 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Orr and Hadfield remained tied for third in the NHL scoring race with 41 points, one behind Rod Gilbert of New York and three behind Boston's Phil Esposito.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Esposito, B	7	12	19
Gilbert, NY	6	11	17
Hadfield, NY	8	8	16
Orr, B	4	12	16
Martin, C	6	11	15
Sheehan, Cal	8	6	14
F. Mahovlich, M	12	2	14
Ullman, Det	9	5	14
Cournoyer, M	8	5	13
Meehan, Buf	5	8	13

Lead captain Dave Keon scored with his team playing shorthanded and Jim Harrison tallied while the Rangers were playing a man short as Toronto overcame a 3-1 New York lead in the third period.

The Rangers blistered Toronto goaltender Bernie Parent with 18 shots in the first period but were unable to add to their totals. The Leaf defences tightened up after that to salvage the tie.

The tie extended New York's unbeaten streak to stand to eight games. The Rangers established two season records at the same time.

Their 19 shots in the opening 20 minutes was a single-period high for the year while the two shots they managed on Parent, in the second period was a club low for this season.

The Flyers' home-ice outburst offset another big night for Montreal's Frank Mahovlich whose two goals gave him a league-leading 12 in 10 games.

Detroit coach Doug Barkley told his players before the game it would be his last one behind the bench and to "go out there and win it for me."

The Wings, who had managed only two earlier wins in 10 games, rose to the occasion with goaltender Al Smith, a former Penguin,' outdueling Roy Edwards, a former Red Wing.

Vancouver, fourth in the East, cashed in four third-period goals to hand the West Division leading Black Hawks their third setback of the season.

The Canucks, who dominated the game in the opening 40 minutes, finally started capitalizing on their scoring plays in the final period and Ted Taylor's two goals midway through sealed the win.

The loss kept Chicago from increasing their margin over the Minnesota Minnesotans who, with 14 points, are two behind the Black Hawks. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are another three points back.

Barkley's Exit Most Dramatic

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three struggling National Hockey League teams came out of weekend action with new coaches, none the worse for the changes but still struggling.

Fred Glover, fired earlier in the season by California Golden Seals, was named the new Los Angeles Kings coach Saturday by general manager Larry Regan, who had previously held the dual role.

St. Louis Blues, the same day, brought in former player Bill McCreary to coach and moved Sid Abel into the general manager's position. That title had previously been held by vice-president Lynn Patrick.

The Blues responded by playing to a 4-4 tie Saturday with Philadelphia Flyers.

Doug Barkley made a more dramatic exit at Detroit. He told his Red Wing club before their Sunday night game with Pittsburgh Penguins it would be his last game behind the bench and would they "go out and win it for me."

Glover, who established all-time career marks for goals, assists and points in the American Hockey League with Cleveland Barons, was named California coach in May, 1968.

He led the Seals to second in the West Division his first year, to fourth in the 1969-70 season, then fell to the basement a year later.

The club was going nowhere early this year until he was replaced by Vic Stasiuk about two weeks ago and is currently in a four-game unbeaten streak, including Sunday night's 2-2 tie with Buffalo Sabres.

McCreary, 35, retired as a player this year to coach St. Louis' farm team, Denver Spurs of the Western Hockey League. He was player-coach with Dallas of the Central League before joining the Blues as a player in the 1967 expansion.

DOUG BARKLEY

The Spurs were 5-1 under McCreary this year.

The man he replaced, Abel, had held the job only for nine games in which St. Louis was able to win only three times, a far cry from recent seasons when they have either led the West Division or remained close to the top.

Abel, former general manager and coach at Detroit, was named to fill the post vacated at the end of last season by Scotty Bowman who moved into a coaching vacancy with the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens.

Barkley, who became coach at Detroit late in the 1970-71 season following a front-office insurrection in which Abel was fired by the Detroit organization, said in an interview Sunday night he "felt the team was not working the way it can for me."

Barkley said there were no hard feelings with the players, but he felt they weren't responding to his methods of coaching.

He felt there was enough talent to get the Wings into the playoffs. However, the writing was apparently on the wall and he didn't "want to wait two weeks and end up getting fired.

. . . I wanted a new coach in now, before they got too far behind."

Wilson, who coached Springfield Kings to the AHL title last year, had been coaching the Wings' new AHL franchise at Tidewater, Va. He joined Detroit in time for tonight's game at Toronto against the Maple Leafs.

"I can't see it go under," said Berkley of the team and his decision to quit. "This club is . . . only four points out of a playoff spot now.

Rollins Change Tune

Rollins Construction peewees were in tune both minor and major keys this weekend, but either way Kingston wasn't enjoying the minor all - star hockey melody.

Rollins took a 22-0 runaway victory from the Kingston minors Saturday and then travelled to Kingston Sunday to record a 4-1 win over the city's major peewee entry.

Bobby Crawford and Gary Fredericks paced Rollins Saturday exhibition rout by slamming in four goals apiece. Gary Goegan and Randy Hutchinson tallied three goals apiece, with Howie Coons and Andy Loganette counting two each. Terry Thompson and Bruce Hamilton split the shutout. Sunday's scorers were Jeff Gow, Lapenette, Rick Sprague and Crawford.

In juvenile action, Western Tire rolled to a 6-2 verdict over Lakeshore in a Sunday bout.

Bobby Foster led the Belleville attack with two goals, while single markers went to Brian Rumble, Dennis Cone, John Bowen and Ray Muldoon. Foster and defenceman Sonny Farrell were standouts for the winners.

Blake Kerr Imperials staged a last - period rally to earn a 4-7 split with the visiting Peterborough midgets. Right winger Andy Ricketts was top gun for Belleville counting three times, including the tying goal with less than two minutes remaining in the game. Peterborough had carried a 4-3 lead into the third period.

Belleville's Kinsmen bantam all - stars came to life in the third frame, emerging with a 4-3 victory over Gananoque. Three unanswered goals gave the Kinsmen the win.

John Murphy paced the winning bantams, counting the tying and winning goals in the final five minutes of play. play. Rick Barbeau and Rick Crowden were the other local scorers.

A water-covered Picton ice surface didn't manage to slow down the Towers Food City Novices as they splashed to an 8-0 win Sunday.

Newcomer Rick Cartwright showed the way for Towers, potting three goals, with Tim Soule netting a pair and single tallies going to Mark Crawford, Kevin Meagher, and Robbie Bowen. Donald Cook and Garth Scully split the shutout, facing only five shots, while their teammates directed 41 drives at the Picton net.

Lancers Split

The hockey Lancers earned a 4-4 split with Durham College in a Saturday exhibition match, but Loyalist's basketball squad was unable to split the Oshawa school's defence often enough in an 86-75 loss.

Dave Blakely paced the hockey Lancers with two goals and an assist, while the top basketball effort was turned in by Robert Hicks, who pumped in 27 points for the Belleville visitors.

Fast Learner

Tony Sine may have learned his soccer lessons a little TOO well to suit John Vos as he checks the ball away from the Belleville Minor Soccer Association coach. Jeff Hockley lends defensive assistance to Sine as the pair helped bolster the Canuck coaches in a good - natured exhibition game Saturday. Despite the tyronone's defensive efforts the Canucks were beaten 5-1 by a combined coaches team from the Olympics and Flyers soccer clubs in a game which highlighted the trophy presentation day.

Soccer Coaches Gasp Last

The Belleville Minor Soccer Association made its last gasps for this season, Saturday, with most of them coming from the league coaches.

The minor soccer mentors traded whistles for soccer shoes to stage an exhibition bout that was long on savvy but a trifle short on conditioning.

Coaches from the Olympic and Flyers soccer clubs combined to hang a 5-1 loss on the Canuck coaches. Each team was bolstered by a number of minor soccer players.

The Canuck club gained some measure of revenge for their defeat in the trophy presentations which followed the exhibition match. The LaModa Canuck atoms were one of only two teams to win both the regular season and playoff trophies, with Bob's Auto peewees taking the other double award.

'Shoe' Fits Five Times in Row

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Bill Shoemaker, the world's winningest thoroughbred horse jockey, could add another record before 1971 comes to an end and still have one awaiting him in 1972.

Shoemaker won five straight races on the closing date of the Oak Tree meeting at Santa Anita on Saturday including the feature with Cougar II, and that triumph equalled the all-time stakes winning record of 43 for a single year.

The 40 year-old Shoemaker won five stakes at the Oak Tree season for a total of 34, just nine shy of Eddie Arcaro's record of 534 for a career. That mark could fall to the Texan in 72.

Quintes' Stay Short, Sweet

GALT (Special) — The Belleville Quintes' stay at the top of the OHA Senior "A" division was sweet, but short as they were edged 3-2 by the Galt Hornets Saturday.

The win by Galt, coupled with their 5-3 Sunday victory over the Woodstock Royals moved them four points ahead of the second place Quintes, who had grabbed a share of the league lead with a 5-3 win over the Hornets Friday.

Despite the loss, Belleville stamped themselves as a force to be reckoned with, splitting play with the defending Allan Cup champions in their own rink. "We played a good game, but we just could not cash in our scoring chances", summarized Coach Gene Poirier of his team's 3-2 loss. "Davey Jones let a couple of point shots go in the third period that could have deflected in or out, but things just weren't bouncing our way," he added.

Neither team could gain a territorial advantage with Belleville's Steve Rexe and Sonny Pennington in the Galt nets each facing a total of 22 shots, with the Quintes holding a 10-6 advantage in the final period.

Once again it was the Gord-son O'Donnell-Ferguson forward combination that provided Belleville's offensive spark. Left winger Lorne O'Donnell managed to take the spotlight from high-scoring linemates George Godson and Al Ferguson by potting both goals for the losers. Godson and Ferguson each drew two assists.

The teams were deadlocked at the end of the first period with O'Donnell opening the scoring and Galt's Howie Dietrich evening matters. Ron Herriott pulled the home team ahead with the only goal of the middle frame while Steve Hunt counted the eventual winner at 13.59 of the third period. O'Donnell's second marker just three minutes later rounded out the scoring.

The second-place Quintes, who now hold two games in hand over Galt, will play their next game Friday night at the Memorial Arena in Belleville, taking on the Orillia Terriers.

Roach Tops Oddballs

Golf has its one-ball, and its two-ball, but the Belleville Golf and Country Club at Marysville closed off its 1971 tournament calendar Sunday with an oddball.

Brian Roach's nine - hole score of 41 earned him the Maund - Parsons Oddball Trophy, awarded to the golfer who can combine the greatest golfing excellence with the strangest attire.

Runners-up were Jim Newman, Eric Arnott, John Dall, and George Van de Water. Third-place "rink" involved "Corky" McCorquodale, Bob Smith, George Gerber, and Glen Watson, while fourth-place honors went to the foursome of Don Rose, Ralph Stewart, Frank Westhorpe, and Ross White.

The Quinte Curling Club ladies made the strenuous day worth the effort with a banner roast beef repast.

Petrochemical Plant

A Canadian Crown corporation has a big stake in a petrochemical plant in Mexico. Polymer Corp. has a big per-cent interest in Hules Mexicanos, a synthetic rubber manufacturer whose fixed assets are worth $17 million. The remaining 60-per-cent is owned by Petroleos Mexicanoes, a Mexican government corporation. The Mexican government asked Polymer for technical advice on setting up the industry in 1960 and by 1963 decided that the Canadian Corporation should have a piece of action. Food Depot Window Smashed

Mother of Starving Babies Says Nobody Would Listen

MONTREAL (CP) — A desperate mother of three smashed the windows of an emergency food depot in the southwest district of Point St. Charles Sunday night when she was told there was no food for her children.

"I did it because my babies were starving and no one would listen," said the unidentified woman. "What else would I do?"

The depot was expecting supplies gathered at an emergency food drive held this weekend in this poverty-ridden area. The drive was organized to help welfare recipients last through October, an especially difficult month this year.

Recipients are mailed welfare cheques once a month, but the cheques are geared to cover a normal four-week month. This October welfare recipients have to hold out a fifth week before receiving November's allotment.

The owners of the food depot refused to press charges, and the woman who suffered a cut right foot from the flying glass, was released by police.

Halloween Vandalism Declines But East Coast Proves Lively

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Halloween vandalism seemed generally on the decline this year as police reported a few incidents in western Canada, a fairly quiet weekend in central Canada and a livelier time on the east coast.

An explosion early Sunday in Saint John, N.B., ripped a hole in the wall of a Royal Canadian Legion building about an hour after it had been vacated following a dance. The blast, caused by a planted explosive, broke windows in nearby buildings.

Police raids in Newcastle, N.B. turned up 82 sticks of dynamite, 150 gallons of gasoline and 150 rubber tires.

In St. John's, Nfld., police reported a number of raider blades in treats handed out to youngsters.

In Nova Scotia, police said there was the usual array of soaped and broken windows and overturned outhouses.

Wolfville, N.S., was the hot spot as Fire Chief Gerald Wood and his department were called out to 20 fires including five attempts to burn a highway bridge. At one stage firemen were pelted with rocks and apples.

In central and eastern Prince Edward Island there were more than 35 fires, 15 in the Charlottetown area. Two barns containing produce were destroyed.

In Ilderton, Ont., 10 miles northwest of London, "fire destroyed two vacant houses, and a school.

At London, Ont., fires were extinguished in burning leaves, tires, garbage, brush, a hydro pole, a mattress and abandoned cars.

In Mount Brydges, 10 miles west of London, a fire early Sunday morning destroyed a recently remodelled, one-room school, temporarily ending an adult education program for Chippewa Indians living on a nearby reserve. Fire Chief Bill Reason said the fire followed a break-in and was set intentionally. Chief Harry Mustokomon estimated damage at $25,000.

In Toronto Karen Boyian, 16, ward collecting used pumpkins with friends for an annual peank and woke up Sunday morning to find 30 of them blocking all doors to her house.

"Each Halloween the pumpkins are dumped on someone's doorstep but I wasn't expecting to be that someone this year," she said.

Toronto police and hospital officials reported the quietest night in years.

Manitoba RCMP reported a quiet weekend as snow and bad weather dampened spirits. There were no incidents of vandalism.

It was quiet in Alberta and Saskatchewan except for Saskatoon where five young people were charged with possession of a molotov cocktail.

Pranksters set a fire in an abandoned house in New Westminster, B.C. but the province was otherwise free of incidents.

PC Chieftain in Newfoundland Meets Today with Supporters

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland Conservative Leader Frank Moores is scheduled to meet here today with the 30 other PCs elected in last week's provincial general election to discuss the current political situation in this province of 500,000 people.

High on the agenda is the possible changeover of government from the Liberals, who at present have 20 seats in the 42-seat house to the Conservatives' 21.

Premier Joseph Smallwood's Liberals have asked for recounts in nine ridings and the 70-year-old premier of 23 years has expressed confidence his party will remain in power after the recounts are completed.

H. W. Strong, chief electoral officer, said Sunday that the recounts would be completed within 12 days.

Another topic of discussion at today's Conservative caucus will probably be the demands made by Tom Burgess, New Labrador Party leader, who holds the outstanding seat in the house and, in effect, the balance of power in any legislative vote.

Mr. Burgess described himself Sunday as being in "an accustioning position" and has demanded that "certain conditions" be met before he gives his support to either party.

The major conditions include an exemption for Labrador residents from gasoline taxes "because we have no roads" and provision of more doctors and other medical services.

Mr. Burgess said he had made no commitment to either party but a decision could be made today. Mr. Moores has scheduled a news conference to follow the PC caucus.

Meantime, Mr. Smallwood said if recounts showed his party had lost, he would sit as opposition leader for one term before resigning.

Recounts are virtually certain in at least seven seats — including St. Barbe South where a PC candidate holds a four-vote edge over his Liberal opponent.

Austrian Buys Pastoral Cross

VATICAN CITY (AP) — An Austrian industrialist has bought the pastoral cross of Pope Pius XII, paying a sum far exceeding its real value, as a contribution to Roman Catholic missions, a Vatican spokesman announced Saturday.

Pope Paul put the cross on sale 10 days ago. The pontiff also offered Pius' fisherman's ring for sale. Proceeds from the cross and ring were to be donated, along with $20,000 from Vatican coffers, for missions in developing lands.

The ring has not yet been sold, said Vatican spokesman Federico Alessandrini. He reported an Austrian industrialist bought the cross for $16,000 and said the buyer's identity would not be made known by the Vatican.

Britain Returns To Its Own Time

LONDON (AP) — Britain, which tells the time for all the world, set back its own clocks and bells Saturday night as the country abandoned an experiment to keep time with Europe.

Floodlights illuminating Big Ben—the massive clock towering over the River Thames—were switched off as official timekeeper John Vernon trudged up 279 steps and turned the giant hands back one hour.

Britain has been timekeeper for the world since 1884, using Greenwich mean time, invented in the 11th century.

"It will be midnight in Greenwich, it's 7 p.m. EST in Montreal and Toronto or 9 in the morning in Tokyo.

Three years ago, however, the British Parliament voted to fix the country on summer time all year round as an experiment to put Britain in line with the rest of Europe.

The hour meant British businessmen got to their desks at the same time as Frenchmen or Italians. It was supposed to be good for trade and commerce.

Parliament succumbed, voting for the experiment and go back to Greenwich mean time in the winter. Hence Saturday night's clock changes.

Labor Body to Discuss Shutdowns and Layoffs

TORONTO (CP) — A survey showing that 16,224 Ontario workers lost their jobs in the past year in plant shutdowns or layoffs will be a main talking point at the convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor this week.

The survey, released Sunday by the federation, says that in the year ended June, 138 plants in Ontario closed entirely or had layoffs or job terminations of more than 25 workers.

Of the plants involved, 76 were foreign - controlled, accounting for 10,277 of the lost jobs.

The survey, commissioned by the federation last May, states the number of shutdowns and layoffs was greater in the one-year period than in any decade since the financial crash of 1929.

Based on the survey, 18 proposals to deal with the problem will be presented to labor delegates at a three-day convention beginning today.

A main proposal is for legislation to require a company to prove a plant is uneconomical before it can be shut down.

Another calls for special rules for foreign-owned branch plants. Penalties, such as embargoes or boycotts, would be imposed on foreign firms which buy Canadian plants and then close them down to make room for imports from the parent plant.

Other proposals would seek to soften the impact of shutdowns and layoffs, putting the cost of retraining and relocation on both management and government. Unions would be allowed to negotiate the terms of layoffs and shutdowns.

A final proposal is for a general meeting of governments, management and labor to "work out procedures and ground rules to be followed in plant shutdowns, extensive terminations of employment and layoffs."

While the survey is critical of foreign owners who shut down plants in Ontario, it singles out for most of the blame a "psychotic preoccupation with inflation" and the fiscal and monetary policies of the federal government.

"Any solution to plant shutdown cannot be divorced from efforts to provide for a buoyant economy and full employment," it says.

At a news conference Sunday, Mr. Eleen was critical of legislation passed in Ontario this year that requires employers to give four months' notice of layoffs when more than 500 workers are involved.

He said the legislation was drafted in haste and should be revised to close numerous loopholes. He recommended that individual employees be given a min'mum of eight weeks' notice of layoff and that six months' notice be required when more than 10 workers are to be laid off.

Kosygin Flies Home

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was back in Canada Saturday, but just for a 90-minute stop for the plane carrying him to Moscow from Cuba to take on fuel.

The Ilyushin-62 landed at 5:30 p.m. on a stop that was originally scheduled to take a half hour. Premier Kosygin extended the visit to include a tour of Gander International Airport. He also purchased a number of articles at the airport gift shop.

The 35-member Soviet group, which included Mr. Kosygin's daughter and security agents, left the plane soon after it landed and were met by Transport Minister Don Jamieson.

Mr. Kosygin had gone to Cuba from Toronto Tuesday following a Canadian tour.

'War of Worlds' Broadcast Frightens Buffalo Citizens

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Scores of Buffalo residents thought interplanetary warfare had broken out in their own backyard Sunday night, as a local radio station broadcast its version of H. G. Wells' classic War of the Worlds.

Station WKBW had presented its takeoff on the simulated newscast the last three Halloweens, and it had repeatedly broadcast promotional messages about the planned broadcast throughout the day. Nonetheless, the station's switchboard—and those of area police agencies—lit up with calls.

Well over 100 persons phoned the Buffalo police starting when the show began shortly before 11 p.m. as a bogus "bulletin" announcing a Martian landing at nearby Grand Island.

A lone disc jockey at the station, Bruce Kaplan, said he was swamped with calls.

He said two or three callers came to the station to tell him they had been frightened despite the fact that the program was preceded by a five-minute explanation of its nature, and was interspersed with reminders that the broadcast was only fantasy.

The Associated Press in Buffalo received a telephone call shortly before midnight Sunday night from a Boston television station. The station reported it had monitored a New York City broadcast that said an "explosion" had occurred in Buffalo and the national guard had been called up.

A quick check with the police deflated the rumor, but meanwhile The Courier-Express newspaper said it had received similar messages from the Boston Globe and the Washington Post.

A car becomes a part of you. An extension of your personality. Something you can take great pride in.

We gave it a classic, clean, simple and lasting design, a deep and lustrous finish. Your pride will never fade.

We took great care with the interior. This is where you spend so much time. And you'll feel you belong. The plush comfort of deep contoured seats, folding centre armrests, built in head rests and rich fabrics and woven vinyls. The instrument panel that surrounds you, with every control and instrument placed where you can easily reach or read them. The tinted glass to take the glare out of the brightest day.

We built in every comfort, convenience, safety and performance feature we could think of as standard equipment. Power steering. Front power disc brakes. Unusual things like louvre rear air vents for rear seat passengers in sedan and station wagon; cigarette lighters in the back as well as the front; an AM-FM radio with a duplicate set of controls in the rear seat compartment; an electric trunk release controlled from the ignition switch; we even included a fully equipped tool kit.

The list of standard equipment goes on—too long to mention everything here. Why not look into them yourself. Drive a New Crown—Sedan, Hardtop or Wagon.

All you add is pride. And that comes naturally.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y Z D L B A A X N
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Israel Strengthens Suez Canal Defences

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intelligence analysts are telling U.S. officials that Israel is strengthening its defences along the Suez canal, showing no sign of intention to pull back.

The reports, circulated in the last 19 days, comes at a time when Israel and Egypt appear to be toughening their diplomatic positions.

U.S. diplomats have been trying to arrange an interim settlement that, among other things, would include a ceasefire with a withdrawal of Israeli forces from the canal, and Egyptian crossing of the canal to clear and open it.

Defence officials said the Israelis have thrown up a tall, earthen wall along the entire length of the East bank, a system of underground bunkers linked by tunnels.

Built into the wall are more than 150 protected ramps on to which tanks could be driven to bring their guns to bear on any Egyptian forces crossing the canal.

Israeli engineers also have provided about 50 passageways through which infantry and armor could counter-attack, U.S. sources said.

An extensive effort is under way to improve and enlarge strong points. Reports tell of large quantities of pre-cast concrete modules, earth, wire, sandbags and other materials stockpiled in those strongpoint bases. The areas are manned by infantry rifle companies supported by tanks.

During the weekend, a Lebanese newspaper claimed Egypt was preparing a plan for limiting crossings of the Suez canal, to be followed by a major invasion of the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula.

U.S. sources have reported in past months the Soviet shipment to Egypt of increased numbers of troop-carrying helicopters.

Furthermore, Russians are said by U.S. observers to have provided the Egyptians with amphibious and mobile bridge equipment that would be required in mounting a sizable cross-canal offensive.

The key to success of a major amphibious assault of this kind would be control of the air over the battlefield. And, though most U.S. military authorities believe the Israelis still have a strong edge over the Egyptians, Israeli officials claim Russian Sam-2 ship-to-air missiles and other anti-aircraft missiles and other advanced war gear and recent Russian pledges of even more aid to Egypt.

Ottawa Woman Abducted

OTTAWA (CP) — Area police are investigating the reported kidnapping Wednesday of Audrey Wright, 41, mother of four.

The woman says she was abducted Wednesday evening and driven to Carlsbad Springs, about five miles east of the city.

There her glasses were ground under the heel of her abductor, she was gagged and bound to the steering wheel of her car and cut with a razor.

Mrs. Wright reported she had a cross carved on her forehead, a peace symbol cut on her upper chest and several cuts made on her sides.

She believes it was the same young, shaggy haired man who attempted to rob her baby-sitter Thursday, Oct. 21.

Mrs. Wright said Sunday she was, in effect, released after a girl joined the Carlsbad Springs and a French-language argument ensued. She said the young man bit her on the head with a shoe and drove off, still arguing, when she feigned unconsciousness.

She then worked herself free, drove to the nearest paved road and parted with her car blinker lights turned on and her horn blowing. A car stopped and the driver went for Gloucester Township police.

He wounds were stitched at a hospital.

Some CF-5 Planes May Be Sold

OTTAWA (CP) — Any CF-5 jet fighters sold by Canada will be replaced with dual-seat models of the same plane, a defence department spokesman said today.

He said in an interview that no agreement had been reached with the South American country but negotiations are under way. The spokesman refused to confirm a report in the first issue of the Toronto Sun today that 16 of the short-range fighters had been already sold.

"It's premature to talk about figures at this time."

The Toronto tabloid said treasury board had authorized a $10-million expenditure to replenish the department's mothball fleet from which the Venezuelan planes would come.

The spokesman said treasury board was involved but he would not disclose further details.

"Treasury has authorized the basis, for negotiations but, we can't reveal that, of course."

The replacement CF-5s would be equipped with dual controls and be used as advanced trainers. The training role for the aircraft was announced last August in the defence department's white paper policy statement.

Since the training role of the Canadair-built CF-5 was not established at the time the planes were purchased, the department has an excess of single-seat aircraft and a shortage of dual-seat versions.

The planes, the purchase of which was criticized because of their limit capability and inability to fly over-water without refueling, now number 109. Six were lost through accident since they became operational six months ago. About 50 are in storage in North Bay and Trenton, Ont. The spokesman said this number will be reduced to 32 when the new training and operational assignments outlined in the white paper are fulfilled.

The 32 stored aircraft will be used to replace further losses.

Whale Sent To Toronto By Plane

The three-year-old whale weighing two tons arrived in a hard air Canada freighter in a specially designed sling container with a battery-operated pump that sprayed it with water.

Resort Village

Portmeirion, Wales, is a resort village that attracts more than 100,000 tourists from Britain and abroad each year. Confured out of the cliffs 45 years ago by veteran architect Clough Williams-Ellis, it is a mixture of Italianate domes, campanilles, balustrades, fountains and eye-deceiving perspectives. Portmeirion attracts a following of creative artists — playwrights, novelists, painters and actors — many of whom rent its picturesque villas for the summer season. (CP Photo)

Lewis Wins Solid Vote Of Unions' Confidence

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, won a solid show of confidence from key union supporters Sunday and promised to make the party the official opposition before the next general election expected in 1975.

The 39-year-old lawyer, Mr. Lewis said, in byelections that may be required to replace Conservative MPPs who want to try their luck in a federal election next year.

Mr. Lewis told delegates to the convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor he already has heard rumors that provincial Conservatives will run federally to maintain a link between Conservative Premier William Davis and federal party leader Robert Stanfield.

The New Democrats won 19 seats in the provincial election Oct. 21, one less than the Liberal party, which remained as the official opposition. The Conservatives took 78 seats.

Mr. Lewis' leadership was questioned after the election, particularly by Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member for the Toronto riding of High Park.

"We will come to power if we stay united behind young Stephen Lewis," said Clifford Pilbery, a union official who had the riding of Oshawa.

As for criticism of his leadership, Mr. Lewis said: "There will always be a Morty Shulman to take potshots when opportunity presents."

Youngsters' Halloween Harvest Includes Needles, Pins, Drugs

NEW YORK (AP) — Youngsters out for the annual Halloween trick-or-treating harvested a heavy haul of goodies during the weekend, including some not-so-toothsome sweets imbedded with needles, pins, drugs and razor blades.

Public officials reported few injuries due to the adulterated food and candy, apparently as a result of repeated warnings to parents to check the items their children brought home.

Pinpointing the perpetrators of the bad treats proved difficult. After a razor blade was found in an apple in Casselberry, Fla., police sent condemned members of the Junior Police League to scour the area.

But after a three-hour trick-or-treat search for another spiked apple, "they ended up with a huge bag of candy and that was it," said one supervisor.

Police in Richmond, Va., said a woman reported chocolate candy collected by her children contained drugs. Test showed the drugs were phenobarbital and marven—tranquilizers and pain killers.

Among those actually injured were three Chicago children. Two became ill after eating candy received Saturday and a third was injured in the roof of the mouth by a pin contained in an apple.

MOVIE: "Town on a Bench"

LONDON (CP) — Manchester United's runaway at the top of English soccer's First Division was halted Saturday with a 1-0 loss at home to Leeds United.

Peter Lorimer scored with a 25-yard shot after only three minutes and Manchester United tried in vain to batter Re way through an ironclad Leeds defence for the rest of the game.

Second-place Derby County narrowed Manchester United's lead by beating lowly Nottingham Forest 2-0. A 1-1 away draw at Huddersfield also enabled third-place Manchester City to move closer.

Manchester United leads with 22 points, followed by Derby with 21, Manchester City with 20 points and Leeds United and Arsenal all with 19.

Leeds, runner-up to Arsenal last season, got a boost from injuries and played without Allan Clarke and Mick Jones.

Manchester Runaway Slowed by Loss to Leeds

George Best and Bobby Charlton.

Sheffield United, early-season leader, mauled a four-game losing streak by tying Liverpool 1-1. Tony Currie put United ahead but Kevin Keegan equalized for Liverpool.

Norwich City stayed at the top of the Second Division by beating Cardiff City 3-1 while Millwall held on to second place by forcing a 3-2 draw after being down 3-0 against Orient.

In the Scottish First Division first-place Aberdeen mauled Partick Thistle 7-1 and Celtic edged Ayr United 1-0 to stay in second place. Clyde topped third-place Hibernian 3-1.

Aberdeen, bouncing back from a widely-used bumpers 5-0 loss to Italy's Juventus, opened up with three goals in the first 15 minutes before half time to earn Celtic its victory over Ayr. Fighting broke out in the crowd after the goal and police escorted five fans out of the grounds.

Trevino Gets Back on Winning Track

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Lee Trevino, with his sixth title of the year and an all-time money-winning record, set out for Mexico today in search of a fourth national open golf championship.

"That's what I really want to do, win a fourth national open championship for a grand slam," Trevino said Sunday after winning the Sahara Invitational and establishing a single season money-winning record of $327,343.

Trevino, four strokes off the pace starting the final round Sunday, fired a six-under par 66 and vaulted past third-round leader Bob Dickson with a 72-hole total of 280.

It was his first victory since his unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles, concluded with a Southport, England, July 11. He is entered in the Mexican Open, a $50,000 event, at the Club de Golf in Mexico City starting Thursday.

George Archer also had a 66 and took second at 281.

Dickson slipped to third with a 72 for 282, falling behind when Trevino reeled off a string of three consecutive birdies starting on the sixth hole. Don January was also in fourth at 283, followed by Ron Cerrudo at 285 and Gay Brewer and Fred Marti at 286.

Arnold Palmer had a final 72 for 290, well back. Palmer now has $196,206, the best of his career.

Trevino picked up $27,000 from the total purse to become the game's top single-season money winner. Jack Nicklaus, who did not compete, had set the record of $311,566 in 1967.

'Moe' Drives for Dough

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Moe Norman of Toronto, Canadian World Cup player, overcame a putting lapse with a display of fairway-splitting tee shots to win the $7,500 Crescent Garden open golf tournament Sunday.

Norman threw away a chance to take a commanding four-shot lead when he missed a four-foot birdie putt on the 12th and three-putted the 14th.

But the 41-year-old veteran never missed a fairway and continued to put his iron shots close to the flag to defeat first-day leader Greg Powers and Steve Merkle, former United States amateur champion.

Norman's victory brought him $1,920. Tom Tremblay of Toronto shot 68-72—140 and won $157.50.

Nicklaus Wins Down Under

HOBART, Australia (AP) — Jack Nicklaus fired a two-under-par 70 Sunday to capture the $22,400 Australian open golf tournament with a four-round total of 269.

Nicklaus won $4,320 for his eight-stroke margin over Bruce Crampton of Australia who shot a 69 Sunday for 277.

Hulme Drives to Hat Trick

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Denis Hulme of New Zealand won the Los Angeles Times Grand Prix Sunday for the third year in a row and McLaren team-mate, Pete Revson, finished second to win the Can-Am driving championship.

Hulme led all the way in the 201.3-mile 81-lap race over the nine-turn course and finished 46 seconds ahead of Revson. He averaged 123.727 m.p.h.

Revson, a New Yorker who now lives in Redondo Beach, Calif., needed only a sixth-place finish to become the first American to win the $25,000 title in the 10-race Can-Am series. Hulme finished second in the over-all standings, and Jackie Stewart of Scotland was third.

Stewart, world driving champion, started on the inside of the second row and moved past Revson into second place on the seventh lap. But he was never able to make much headway against Hulme, and on the 47th lap Stewart went out of the race with a blown engine.

A fellow New Zealander, Howden Ganley, finished third in a car driven by Brian Redman, but BRM. The car was last driven by Jo Siffert, the Swiss racer killed last week in a racing crash in England.

Roger McCaig of Toronto finished seventh in a McLaren and earned $2,500. Jacky Cochs, also Toronto, finished 15th in a Lola and won $700.

Laver Victim Of Epic Upset

WEMBLEY, England (Reuter) — Ilie Nastase, 25-year-old Rumanian charmer, scored an epic victory over Australian Rod Laver to take the men's singles title in the $50,000 Pepsi-Cola open tennis championships Saturday night.

In one of the best matches seen at Wembley's Empire Pool in recent years, Nastase proved himself to perfection throughout five sets to clinch a 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 triumph and take the $5,000 first prize.

Nastase, who has helped Rumania to the Devis Cup challenge round twice in the last three years, thwarted Laver's hopes of winning his third successive Embassy title.

Earlier, former Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King of the United States survived a match point to take the women's singles title with a 5-7, 5-7, 7-5 win over Francoise Durr of France.

Mrs. King, defending champion, won her $2,500 first prize after first seeming a certain second-round victim

'Corrosive Indifference' of Police and Courts Under Attack

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Civil Liberties Education Trust says the "corrosive indifference" of police and the courts represents "a peril to the survival of due-process safeguards" for accused persons.

The trust, research arm of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association, released Sunday night a major study of how fundamental legal safeguards operate in five cities—Montreal, Toronto, Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The survey, which documents the experiences of persons accused of crimes with police and the courts, found there were substantial infringements of rights guaranteed by the Criminal Code and the Bill of Rights.

Teams of researchers in each city—lawyers, students, sociologists and members of provincial civil liberties associations—followed more than 500 persons accused of crimes from time of arrest to final disposition of their cases.

All of the cases occurred in January, 1970.

"The peril emanates not primarily from determined hostility but from corrosive indifference," said the 93-page report. "The prospect for due process is not outright abolition by the enemies of our system, but gradual erosion by its custodians."

The report said due-process safeguards are theoretically the backbone of the Canadian legal system, "conceived by the common law, nourished by the Criminal Code and sanctified by the Bill of Rights.

"But what we have seen in fact? Widespread punishment without proper proof of guilt and widespread departure from the letter and the spirit of due-process safeguards.

Persons awaiting trial spent too much time in jail, the ball system was unfair, provincial courts were inefficient and police regularly trampled on rights.

Researchers found that more than 88 per cent of accused persons travel through Canadian courts without benefit of legal counsel. Only 56 per cent of those represented by lawyers pleaded guilty, compared with 81 per cent of those without lawyers.

And more than twice as many persons who had lawyers and pleaded not guilty to charges against them were eventually acquitted, compared with those who sought to defend themselves.

The survey also included questions about injuries inflicted by police, but only 23% of the accused persons who took part responded.

Of those that did, more than 25 per cent said they had "at least been hurt by police at some stage before fully reached the courts for trial.

The report cited beatings by jail guards and arresting officers.

"The list of such reported casualties includes a broken arm, cracked ribs, bruised back, broken upper plate, bruised ribs, a swollen lip, impaired speech and a 35-per-cent loss of hearing.

The researchers also found that more than 40 per cent of persons arrested by police spend more than 12 hours in jail before being released on bail or tried by a judge.

"More than 30 per cent of these people suffered pre-trial confinement for various periods between one week and three months. By contrast, less than eight per cent of those arrested endured less than four hours detention."

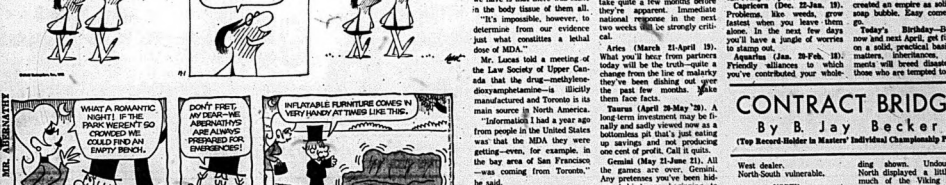
Among the other major findings:

—About 88 per cent of those arrested eventually secured release on bail pending trial, but many complained that delays were caused by the unavailability of justices of the peace to grant bail;

—More than 76 per cent of the accused spent their pre-trial detention in jails or prisons that provided no recreational facilities or activities;

Fifty-five per cent of the accused made statements to the police, and of these, 11 per cent said the statements were given involuntarily.

—More than 62 per cent said they were not advised of their right to remain silent.



The report characterizes the Canadian justice system as a "plethora of cursory trials, defenceless interrogations, needless detentions and inadequate facilities."

Police Deny to Many Accused Leave to Make Phone Calls

TORONTO (CP) — A study of Canadian criminal procedures indicates that almost a third of all persons accused of crimes are denied permission by police to make telephone calls from jail.

The Canadian Civil Liberties Education Trust, research wing of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association, found the cases of 500 persons jailed in five Canadian cities during January, 1971.

It found that 30 per cent of those arrested who wished to make a telephone call from jail were denied permission to do so by police and jail authorities.

"One purpose served by the privilege of making a telephone call is the facilitation of legal advice," the trust said in a report on its findings released Sunday.

The report said that people in custody need immediate access to lawyers to protect their best interests. "They don't know how to secure their release from custody, they don't know what to say to their jailers.

"Indeed, the loneliness, fear, anger and shame occasioned by arrest and detention might precipitate foolish, even hysterical behavior.

"It is at this point of climate that damning admissions and incriminating confessions are added to the evidence against accused persons.

"Whatever be the motivating factor, our system of justice appears to have accorded a lower priority to the rights of the accused."

Not All Patients Will Obey Flat Order to Quit Smoking

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dr. Thosteson: Isn't there some way to urge doctors to be definite in regard to smoking?

I quote common remarks by doctors: "How about quitting smoking?" "Smoking is not doing you any good." "Smoking is hard on your heart."

In my husband's case I grew tired of these soft remarks and called our doctor, asking him to please tell my husband he would have to stop smoking because of his heart.

My husband quit that day, 10 years ago, and has never smoked since. Doctors must be extremely firm.—Mrs. X.

I would guess the majority of doctors lean toward trying a reasonable approach first—telling the patient why he ought to quit smoking. And occasionally we run into a patient who is willing to listen to reason.

Then there's the guy who says: "Yes, doctor, I understand," and then just keeps on smoking anyway.

And the one who says: "Would it be all right if I just cut down?"

And the one who says: "All right, doctor, you're the boss. I don't do it because I'm going to smoke anyway."

And once in a while there's the fellow who surprisingly will obey if you order him to stop.

And once in a while there's the patient whose wife knows him well enough to know that the only thing that will actuate the patient is a flat command.

Not all husbands will respond to such a command. Not all wives know when it's time to tip off the doctor. Some husbands will get mad and you can't do anything with 'em.

Dr. Thosteson: In your article about gout you said there are distinct drawbacks if a patient takes the drug colchicine for a time, then stops and subsequently starts it again. A doctor has me on colchicine and I take it for a week, then off a week, then on again. This was his advice. Would this be the same as you mentioned as to stopping and starting?—T.B.

No, not at all. I was referring to the type of patient who takes one or another of the gout medications, has no more trouble, and is likely to think he is "cured," and quits the medication. It may then take several weeks or several months before his urate deposits build up enough to cause pain.

You are taking your medication on a long, intermittent basis. That's different from stopping entirely and then having to start all over again.

Dr. Thosteson: In regard to your article on polyps in the nose, could they be responsible for an offensive odor periodically? If so is surgery advisable even if there is no discomfort otherwise?—Miss M. G. S.

The polyp could be responsible for the odor if infected secretions are present, and they could be, if the polyp is blocking proper drainage.

Surgery? I pass that question to a nose-throat specialist who can advise you better. If he feels that the trouble will increase, he may advise surgery now rather than waiting for discomfort.

MDA Is Blamed For Seven Deaths

TORONTO (CP) — The drug MDA is believed to have caused the deaths of seven persons in Toronto in the last 15 months, Douglas Lucas, director of the Attorney - General's Centre for Forensic Science, said Saturday.

"They were all young people between 17 and 30," Mr. Lucas said. "The only single finding we have is that there was MDA in the body tissue of them all.

Mr. Lucas told a meeting of the Law Society of Upper Canada that the drug—methylenedioxyamphetamine—is illicitly manufactured and Toronto is its main source in North America.

"Information I had a year ago from people in the United States was that the MDA they were getting—crystal, for example, in the bay area of San Francisco —was coming from Toronto," he said.

He said the drug is an amphetamine derivative, "a central nervous system stimulant."

However, he added, no scientific evaluation of its lethal potential can be made because it "comes out of the cellars."

Of the deaths investigated by his department he said, alcohol is the main cause; barbiturates are second, being used mainly in suicide cases; carbon monoxide poisoning third and MDA fourth.

New Church Dedicated

STIRLING (Special) — Special services to mark the official opening and dedication of Grace Chapel, Edward St., Stirling, were held on Sunday.

Services were held at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., with speakers being A. Delandres of North Bay and Robert McLaren of Guelph.

The beautiful new edifice was constructed after the former chapel on Front St. was destroyed by fire. The new church was built largely through volunteer labor and the generous assistance of a number of local and district businesses.

Tuesday, November 2

General Guide—Nixon's reaction to this week's international events will be judged to be the wisest moves possible during a highly critical period but it will take quite a few months before they're apparent. Immediate national response in the next two weeks will be strongly critical.

Aries (March 21-April 19). What you'll hear from partners today will be the truth—quite a change from the lies of malarky they've been dishing out over the past few months. Make them face facts.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). A long-term investment may be finally and sadly viewed now as a fathomless pit that's just eating up savings and not producing one cent of profit. Call it quits.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). All the games are over, Gemini. Any pretenses you've been hiding behind are beginning to crumble, exposing you for what you really are.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). What's shaping up now appears to be a real spiritual crisis. You may have gotten away with a sneaky trick, but Fate has a way of exacting her punishments in other areas.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Your impending romantic disillusionment may be obvious to everybody but you. If you're looking for happy endings now, you'll only find them in the movies.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Any security that is derived by thinking you can rely on him is a dangerous illusion. Family relationships may be the first to desert you when things get rough.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). The time has come to look at things the way they are, not the way you'd like them to be. Mate, partners will force you to face the realities of your present situation.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). Partners will shortly expect an itemized accounting of joint finances. Where you've been given free rein with shared cash, there had better be no hanky-panky.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The fact that things have been going along too smoothly should have been your first warning that something's fishy. The coming reversal in partnerships can really hit you hard.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Problems, like weeds, grow fastest when you leave them alone. In the next few days you'll have a jungle of worries to stamp out.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Friendly alliances to which you've contributed your wholehearted support and loyalty are due for a severely shake-up. You trust people too much.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). By gaining public status or success merely through charm and luck, rather than real talent, you've created an empire as solid as a soap bubble. Easy come, easy go.

Today's Birthday—Between now and next April, get finances on a solid, practical basis. Tax matters, inheritance, investments will reveal disasters for those who are tempted to cheat.

Opening lead—ace of hearts.

Opening lead—ace of hearts.

Life is full of disappointments and bridge—which is a sort of microcosm of life—has its share of disappointments also.

Consider that deal from the match between Iceland and the United States in the World Bridge Olympiad in 1968.

When Iceland held the North-South cards, the bidding went one spade by Gudjohnsen, playing with Bennynson, got to seven diamonds on the bidding shown. Undoubtedly North displayed a little too much of the Viking spirit, even granting that if his partner had had something like the ace of hearts and king of clubs—instead of the A-K of spades—his side could have made a vulnerable grand slam.

But North suffered a grave disappointment when it turned out that his partner had wasted spade strength and went down three—300 points—after West had led the A-K-Q of hearts on which East discarded two spades. Of course, South was likewise disappointed by the outcome, for he never did get a crack at six spades.

The Icelanders fared little better at the second table, where the bidding went:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	4 ♠	Pass	5 NT
5 ♦	Pass	5 ♠	Dble

Here the American North-South pair mulled West at five spades and collected three trump tricks and a club to score another 300 points and produce a gain of 1,100 points on the deal.

Naturally, the Iceland pair at this table were disappointed also—which merely goes to show that bridge and life are full of disappointments.

285 Flee Shipshaw When Earth Moves

SHIPSHAW, Que. (CP) — An earth movement a mile from the scene of an earlier slide that killed 31 persons brought the evacuation Sunday of 285 residents of this town 115 miles north of Quebec City.

Forty-nine families in the east end of Shipshaw were evacuated on orders of government geologists.

Jean-Marc Robert, a geologist of the Quebec resources department, said the earth movement occurred about 10 days ago and covered an area 125 feet long and 50 feet wide.

It was about a mile from the slide at St. Jean Vianney May 4 which swept more than 40 homes into a huge crater and forced abandonment of the town.

Mr. Robert said the recent earth movement caused a depression four centimetres deep, Oct. 23 and was almost six centimetres deep in all.

Gilles Masse, minister of natural resources, warned Thursday that there was a danger of another huge slide in the vicinity of the first disaster.

In announcing preliminary results of a geological study by 20 specialists, Mr. Masse said there is a danger that another slide, 10 times worse, could occur only 600 feet from the site of the May 4 slide.

The minister, who toured the area Thursday, said results of the study indicate that the land slide was far from being local.

The geological faut which caused the May 4 slide constitutes a danger to the entire Saguenay River Valley, he said.

"We know now that certain geological conditions exist in the area north of the recent slide which are similar to soil conditions in St. Jean Vianney before last May 4," he said.

The government announced last month that it will spend more than $3.5 million to shore up land around the crater, created when 15 million cubic yards of soil thundered into the nearby Riviere aux Vases.

St. Jean Vianney's more than 1,000 residents were relocated in nearby communities.

Amchitka Test Protests Grow

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Growing Canadian concern about the huge underground nuclear test the United States is determined to set off soon is producing demonstrations across the country.

Univerally and college classes were to be cancelled in a number of cities today and Wednesday so students could join protests.

Canada has asked the U.S. to allow an aircraft carrying four scientists to approach closer than 50 miles of the site, a remote Alaskan island called Amchitka. A National Research Council plane was to leave Ottawa today headed for the Aleutian Islands to monitor gamma ray radiation and take air samples. The U.S. has warned planes not to approach within 50 miles or lower than 18,000 feet.

In Winnipeg U.S. Consul-General William B. Kelly was put under 24-hour police protection today after an aborted fire bombing at his home. Mr. Kelly said he was sure the attempted bombing was a protest against the giant blast.

The Anglican Primate of Canada, Most Rev. Edward Scott, said Monday the Anglican house of bishops has voted unanimously to oppose the test, scheduled for Friday at the earliest. A similar protest was made earlier by the United Church.

Archbishop Scott told a news conference in Winnipeg the U.S. government is more interested in a display of technical power than in effects the test could have on society and the ecology.

The Canadian Pacific protest mission aboard the motor vessel Edgewater Fortune is continuing its attempts to reach the Amchitka area despite adverse

Two Million Are Missing After Storm

NEW DELHI (CP) — The tidal wave and cyclonic storm that struck the Bengal coast last weekend devastated an area of 1,000 square miles where nearly five million persons lived.

The United News of India, in a dispatch from one of the hardest hit districts in eastern Orissa state, reported that 10,000 families were feared to have died in the coastal regions and that two million persons are missing.

The official death toll was 3,391, most of them East Pakistani refugees who had been moved to the offshore island of Jambu, about 200 miles southwest of Calcutta.

Canadian Firm Irks Britons

LONDON (CP) — Thousands of passengers were stranded at Heathrow Airport today as unions continued to stage an unofficial strike against the operations of the Canadian-owned General Aviation Services Co., a ground servicing company.

The state-owned British European Airways, which normally carries about 9,000 passengers a day, said it will have to shut its operations because the unions won't handle baggage and perform other ground services.

Other airlines, such as Air Canada, said their flights may be either delayed or cancelled. Often described as one of the busiest airports in the world, Heathrow reported only a trickle of traffic.

The unions, at a hastily-ordered morning meeting, decided they would not work today and would hold another meeting Wednesday to decide what further action should be taken.

They claim that the presence of GASS at Heathrow will lead to increasing unemployment with a number of workers thrown out through "labor-intensive" operations.

Dow Plans Pollution Prevention

SARNIA (CP) — Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd. announced plans Monday for the construction of a multi-million-dollar chlorine facility designed to eliminate mercury pollution of the St. Clair River.

A company spokesman said in a statement that the facility, which will be completed early in 1972, is the result of lengthy discussions between the company and the federal department of the environment.

The spokesman said current mercury losses from the Dow plant are less than a tablespoon a day—well within federal and provincial requirements.

Dow is being sued by the provincial government for $25 million for alleged mercury pollution of the St. Clair River last year.

Finance Heads Refuse Okay

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial finance ministers refused Monday to approve the federal government's new tax system, but stopped short of rejecting it.

Finance Minister E. J. Benson refused appeals from several provinces for whole or partial postponement of his tax changes.

He said the federal government is unwilling to delay the scheduled Jan. 1 implementation of the tax changes because the changes will benefit many taxpayers. The new system could not be implemented piecemeal.

The finance ministers end their two-day meeting today. Although sessions are closed, the federal government and several provinces issued lengthy statements describing their positions.

On the eve of the meeting, Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough released a 46-page paper condemning the federal government for not co-ordinating its policies with the provinces.

Mr. McKeough expressed strong reservations about proposed changes in federal corporation taxes and said Ontario would not adjust its corporation tax system for 1972 to conform to the federal system. The province needed more time to study the effects of the federal changes.

Monday, Quebec Finance Minister Raymond Garneau asked for a one-year delay in implementation of the proposed tax changes.

He said he is not necessarily opposed to the tax package, but his government should have more time to study it. It would be difficult, if not impossible, to prepare a full set of fiscal changes to take effect in 1972.

Much of the conference discussion centred on federal measures to combat unemployment, with several provinces criticizing aspects of the federal program.

In a short review of the state of the economy, Mr. Benson said the economy continues to improve, although unemployment remains the major problem.

Somebody Likes the Snow

While motorists were struggling, attempting to move cars through the 14 inches of snow that fell in Winnipeg Saturday, the youngsters were out in force to enjoy the white stuff. Two of the hundreds of youngsters who got soaked to the skin but loved every moment of it, are shown leaping off a fence into a wind-blown pile of snow. Colder weather is forecast for the Quinte area tomorrow. (CP Photo)

Abductors Wield Knives

Brampton Man Slain, But Brother Survives

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Two men with knives chased two young brothers through fields Sunday night, caught them, stabbed one to death and left the other for dead, police said Monday.

Hubert Smith, 19, was killed and his brother Edward, 24, is in good condition at hospital. Both live in Brampton, about 15 miles west of Toronto.

The two, along with another brother, Victor, 22, came to Ontario about a year ago from Saulnierville, N.S.

Sunday night Edward told police the two brothers were walking in their car in downtown Brampton when two unidentified men jumped in, pulled a knife, and commanded that they be driven to nearby Georgetown, a small village.

On the way, Edward drove into a ditch and the two brothers got out and ran. The two men began chasing them.

First Edward was caught, stabbed, and left for dead. Then the two went after Hubert, recently released from hospital where he had recovered from a collapsed lung. He was caught, stabbed and died.

Edward told police he did not know the attackers but both were about six feet tall.

Monday, police used tracking dogs to comb the area for clues, but none was found.

Parliament Becomes Fortress as Queen Braves Bomb Threats

LONDON (CP) — The Queen opened the 46th Parliament today, reading the speech from the throne amid the strictest security measures ever taken for a British monarch in the capital.

The Westminster Parliament was transformed into a virtual armed fortress because of bomb threats.

Festoons of barbed wire had been strung by police to prevent intruders approaching the huge gothic structure during the night. Wire netting above the entrance used by the Queen was taken down only shortly before she drove up in an ornate horse-drawn state carriage.

More than 500 security agents and police were assigned to watch over her.

The previous session ended Oct. 28 when Parliament gave massive approval to the principle of joining the Common Market.

Now the government has to press through a host of bills to bring British laws into line with those of the six member countries in the European community.

The opposition Labor party has vowed to fight the Common Market legislation throughout the session in a bid to bring down the Tory government. This action could create havoc with other legislation including reform of housing finance, the introduction of commercial radio to end the monopoly of the British Broadcasting Corp., and tougher laws against criminals.

Four thousand extra police were on special duty in the city, doubling the usual force. Three helicopters patrolled the processional route and police launches with frogmen protected the River Thames approaches to the rear of the Parliament buildings.

Scotland Yard organized the security blanket on orders from Home Secretary Reginald Maudling who met Monday with Prime Minister Edward Heath, sources said.

The pair discussed two bomb blasts which shook London in the space of 24 hours. The first severely damaged the 620-foot-high showpiece Post Office Tower early Sunday morning. In the small hours of Monday a smaller explosion ripped into an army barracks in the Westminster district.

An anonymous caller warned after the lower explosion that the next target would be the Queen Victoria Tower of the ancient Parliament palace—a few yards from where the monarch alights from her coach today.

Police admit they have as yet no idea who was responsible for the attacks. Persons claiming to speak for the outlawed Irish Republican Army, fighting to get Britain out of Northern Ireland and unite all Ireland under Dublin rule, and The Angry Brigade, a secret organization dedicated to the overthrow of British society, both have said it was their work.

But the IRA has officially denied it has embarked on a campaign to bring Northern Ireland's guerrilla warfare to England.

"We cannot be sure that there is not a third or even a fourth organization involved," a police source said.

Airmen and soldiers lined the route, bolstering the ranks of ceremonial guardsmen depleted by riot duty in Northern Ireland.

The houses of Parliament were searched four times Monday, police probing the centuries-old labyrinth of cellars where in November, 1605, Guy Fawkes and other conspirators planted gunpowder in an abortive attempt to blow up King James I.

A screen of steel wire netting was slung around the base of the Queen Victoria Tower to the east of the soaring Big Ben clock to catch glass and falling masonry—and to protect dignitaries from lobbed bombs.

Workers on building projects near Parliament were told to clear their sites before the arrival of the Queen.

While fresh bombings and shootings hit Northern Ireland, an audience of more than 1,000 cheered IRA leaders in Dublin, capital of the Irish Republic, when they proclaimed Monday night: "the fight against the British is now entering its last phase."

David O'Connell, recently installed by Dublin political wing as weapons reported destined for the IRA were discovered at Aberdeen airport, called on all Irish people to rally against Britain.

"The ability of the IRA to meet force with force, terror with terror, was never greater," he said.

"We shall continue to build up our strength in armaments, organization and popular support.

We shall cross any frontier, confront any ideology, negotiate with any people or government to acquire the means to win over our country's freedom."

His companion on the Europeas arms trip, Maria McGuire, 23, said: "This is revolution and the current escalation is action. We have the British lion by the throat. . . .

In Northern Ireland, where two police officers were machine-gunned Monday to bring the two-year death toll of violence to 146, an explosion in a store wounded shoppers at Armagh.

Another wrecked a shop in Belfast, another a meeting hall in Newry and three more blasted business premises in the centre of Londonderry. There were no casualties.

UCS Campaign Total To Date Is $76,000

At least card for card, the United Appeal seems to be doing better this year than last, say members of the committee handling the Belleville and District campaign.

"To this point we have gathered $76,000 in donations and still are aiming at $145,000," said Isidore Cooperman, Director of United Community Services.

While Mr. Cooperman was reluctant to say how much the appeal had gathered at this time last year, he did say, "there is still a lot of time for the cards and pledges to come in. Last year our campaign was not wrapped up until the closing days of January."

Last year's campaign resulted in $132,000 being dropped into the coffers of UCS to be distributed to the agencies under its wing.

Full of confidence on the strength of the campaign, Mr. Cooperman claims, "we will be over the top in no time and while we are not pushing the . . . Give 10 per cent More . . . we can be sure the committee are striving to increase the total funds gathered by this percentage.

"If just the people who gave last year give this 10 per cent more, regardless of what the newcomers give, we will be over the projected sum of $145,000," said Mr. Cooperman.

Rev. Laurie Sutherland, this year's chairman of the appeal, said "I had serious misconceptions of the business world but none were as bad as the unclear picture I had of the needs of the agencies under the UCS roof.

"Their demands are increasing every year, and it is up to the general public how productive their programs will be, determined by the amount of money donated to the appeal," he said.

Funds raised through the appeal are taken into the United Community Services where they are put to use, offsetting the deficits of 13 agencies operating in and around the city. Those include the minor sports association, and the YMCA.

Beginning Monday evening, a committee of the UCS will meet with delegates of each of the organizations to assess both their budget and program.

"If we don't get the support from the community in the closing days of the appeal, drastic slashes will have to occur in the budgets of these groups," said Mr. Cooperman.

Members of the committee feel that there are two possible reasons why the returns from the appeal were late in coming.

"Great amounts of time were spent in the preparation of the campaign, orienting the in-plant canvassers and making sure that each knew his role in the total UCS picture," said Mr. Cooperman.

"It has proved itself as a better system than the past one, not only because of fewer staff requirements, but because the campaign has been run effectively this way, and similar returns are coming in," said Mr. Cooperman.

At a meeting of the board of directors of UCS at the end of the second week of October, funds gathered in the appeal had been counted at $30,000, and two weeks later the figure had risen to its present $76,000.

With ample time left to reach the $145,000 mark, Mr. Cooperman offers a personal projection of the campaign, $135,000, or $10,000 less than the target.

"Through a number of causes including early retirements and people moving from the area, we will probably haver about the figure we reached last year," he said.

"Another large contributing factor in my projection is, corporations have levelled off their donations and are giving the same as they have in the past," he said.

Returns are still coming in, and it will not be until later in the month of November when a second report will be made on the outcome of the campaign.

Inspectors Meet

Inspectors from Ontario Hydro and private companies across Ontario were in Toronto Friday for the first day of the annual Canadian section meeting of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors. As talks began, international president Keith Bellamy of Toronto greeted members. Discussing the schedule for the meeting with Mr. Bellamy, (left), are Al Glover, Percy Pickering, Norman Jennings, and Reg Edwards, all with Ontario Hydro at Belleville.

Garbage Collection Stirs Controversy

TRENTON (Staff) — Two councillors, Paul Tripp and George Brown, are particularly disturbed about the record of Trenton Sanitation Ltd. in providing the town with garbage collection and the discontent is spreading.

Trenton Sanitation awaits signing of a five-year contract with Trenton for the collection service but council continues to stall in giving final reading to a bylaw authorizing the agreement. The contract received first and second readings Oct. 4.

"All councillors have been receiving complaints," said Mayor Duncan McDonald while councillor Ted Parker contended Monday "we are not any further ahead now than we were three weeks ago (in attempts to come to terms with the collectors)."

Added to complaints that garbage has not been picked up on some streets are fresh grievances that the old Trenton practice of collectors taking garbage from behind commercial premises is being threatened.

Businesses are now asked to cart their trash out to the curb to be picked up. Councillor Paul Tripp pointed out that the former garbage contractor, Ross Willman, did not demand that garbage be piled up along the street.

"I am not in favor of this," stated Councillor Brown as he pounded his fist on the council chamber pick-up policy of the new firm.

There has been some concern here over the collection schedule being followed by the company and a revised schedule has been prepared, a draft plan of which was presented to council here last night.

"This schedule does not settle all the problems," said another councillor as he called on the acting commissioner of works, Art Greenwood, to prepare a report on garbage collection for council's perusal.

Later in the council session, a bylaw that would have stipulated the types of garbage containers to be used in Trenton failed to win support although it was tabled before it came to a formal vote.

Councillor Brown said he felt existing arrangements for packaging garbage were satisfactory.

Underground Wiring Favored

All electrical service installations for new housing subdivisions in the city should be placed underground.

That is the opinion of E. L. Burnham, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission who yesterday told members of the city traffic and light committee that the trend for such installations was to underground.

He said that unless Belleville followed suit "it will be behind the times."

The statement came during discussion of subdivision plans for areas in the fast developing northwest section of the city.

In one new housing subdivision where overhead wiring is the vogue, the meeting was told there were so many wires they almost blotted out the sun.

Electrical installations were placed underground in the city's West Park Village some years ago but this feature was dropped for cost reasons when the phase 2 development of the area got underway.

Alderman E. A. Orr noted that developers had objected to underground wiring because of its additional cost, which they said would further increase the price of homes.

Mr. Burnham, however, said the additional cost for underground wiring amounted only to $200 per home, plus the cost of trenching, which he said would add very little to the price of a $30,000 home.

He said the subdivider should contribute to the cost of underground wiring for street lighting.

Heat Costs Rise at BGH

In an effort to cut expenses and air pollution, Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, will consider converting the hospital heating system to natural gas.

Finance committee chairman Carl Bateman said such a move would prove cheaper than the more expensive bunker fuel oil used at present.

In recent years, cost of this fuel has twice increased 30 per cent.

It was suggested that the PUC bring the matter to the attention of city council to arrange a meeting with developers.

Boy Hurt In Lot

An eight-year-old Belleville boy was run over Monday afternoon while playing in the parking lot of his North Park St. home.

Martin McIlmoyle was hanging on to the left door handle of a car owned by Brian Ronald Payne of Donald St., when Payne moved the car forward. The boy fell under the rear wheel and was crushed as the tire passed over him.

He is now in the intensive care unit of Belleville General Hospital.

Police are questioning other youngsters as to how the accident occurred.

B.C. Youths Arrested

Belleville police last night arrested two British Columbia youths who had brought a stolen car across the border from their home town of Delta, B.C.

Sixteen - year - old Wayne Thomas Hughesman was charged with possession of stolen property. The other boy a juvenile, was arrested under the juvenile delinquents act.

Police had been notified the car might be in the Belleville vicinity by a message from the New Westminster police force.

The car was spotted on Village Drive in West Park Village.

Chilean Travellers Near End of Trip

The two Chilean men who visited the city last spring after motoring from their South American home, returned last evening after completing their journey to Alaska.

Ariel Betancourt, 27, and Roberto Schmidt, 25, left Concepcion, Chile, on May of 1968 and since that time have worn out 94 tires in their 61,000 mile journey, travelling through Canada to find a home.

It has been a long time since their car has been the color it was painted, as stickers adorn every available opening.

The 1929 Dodge, with its original engine, performed well enough that the only problem on the way was the timing jobs in Montreal on their arrival in Canada.

"We stayed in the city for about eight months, working in a garage, to raise enough money to complete the repairs," said Roberto. "At the same time we made some friends there, and we decided that when the time came to put our car to rest, it would be in Montreal."

Travelling from Concepcion to Santiago and then to La Paz, Bolivia, then to El Salvador in Central America, touring through Mexico City, Los Angeles, the two then made the break for Canada and ultimately Fairbanks, Alaska.

"It might have been simpler if we would have taken the most direct route, but we felt that we would miss too much country if we headed straight north from California," said Ariel.

The duo jogged across the continent, at a cost of eight miles to the gallon and a quart of oil every 300 miles, and ended up in New York City.

When attempting to cross the border, the two met problems with both the car and immigration papers.

"These papers were the second reason we spent so much time in the city of Montreal," said Ariel.

Both firemen in their home town of Concepcion, this proved to be a great passport, as they toured the continent.

"Almost everywhere we have visited, we have been taken in by the local fire halls and to date we have been the guests of no less than 129 fire departments," said Ariel.

As well as being sheltered by fire departments, the boys have been entertained by at least 55 Kinsmen clubs since they left Belleville earlier in the spring.

The boys spent a quiet evening last night and made ready to leave this morning through the help of Local 49 of the Belleville Fire Fighters.

The group pitched in to buy the two a fresh supply of food to continue their journey to their new French - Canadian home.

More Fire Truck Than Car

In their travels, the two Chilean men who visited Belleville Monday, have collected an impressive assortment of fire hall equipment. Ariel Betancourt (lower right) and his partner, not shown, have been lodged in fire halls across Central America, the United States and Canada on their 63,000 mile trip. Shown here on the 1920 Dodge driven by the two, are local fire fighters Howard Wark (left) and Fred (Scapy) Smith of the Belleville Fire Department.

IN MEMORIAM

CRAIGHEAD — In loving memory of Charles Craighead who passed away on November 2, 1970.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The troubles and trials of life are past.
Gone from our home, suffered, in patience to bear,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

WEISE — In loving memory of my dear husband Ernest Weise who died November 2, 1970.
Worms who was taken from us so suddenly one November day.
A light is from our household gone
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled,
Though on earth you are no more
His memory we cherish still,
And keep his picture as before.
—Always remembered by daughter Jean, son-in-law Ken and grandchildren Michael and Allen.

WEISE — In loving memory of our dear husband and father Clarence Weise who passed away two years ago from us so suddenly on November 2, 1969.
God looked around His garden,
And found a place to fill,
He looked into our home and took
And now your tired feet are still,
And lifted you to rest,
Your work is done, you've done your best.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by wife Gertrude and family Don.

WEISE — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather Clarence Weise who died November 2, 1969.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But memories we have of one we loved,
Yours memory past away.

Teaching Overseas Described

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

They go to school in abandoned stores, old tents, on verandas and in mud huts. They often have no textbooks or workbooks and write with a stick on the ground. They memorize everything they are taught by teachers who themselves have memorized all the knowledge they try to impart. Their teachers' memories are sometimes faulty and, the knowledge they possess, though incomplete and sometimes erroneous.

But above all, learning to read and write is relatively unimportant. Their prime objective is to survive.

They are the school children of underdeveloped countries — the fortunate minority who can afford to go to school.

A Canadian school teacher who has given several summers to a project for improving education in underdeveloped countries told Belleville teachers of her experiences in India and Africa last night.

Her purpose was to persuade them to take part in the Canadian Teachers Federation's Project Overseas to aid teachers in Africa, Asia and the Caribbean countries.

Mrs. Ruth Campbell, a past governor of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario and principal of an Ottawa school spoke at the annual banquet of Unit 4 of FWTAO for Hastings county.

She described her experiences in Nyasaland, Uganda, and India, as "high on the list of rewarding experiences in my teaching career".

Project Overseas, in operation since 1962, has sent about 400 Canadian teachers to underdeveloped countries to teach their teachers. Aim of the project is to raise the academic and professional level of the overseas teachers and help them strengthen their professional associations.

All aid, said Mrs. Campbell is arranged through the overseas teachers' associations.

"This is a round-about way of doing it, and not the most efficient way," she said.

But it helps raise the status of the teachers' organizations in underdeveloped countries. Politicians are more aware of the aid available for their schools, or don't apply for it, and the teachers' legislative does not go unnoticed.

"The key word is flexibility," Mrs. Campbell told her fellow teachers. "The first frustration is governmental red tape. Nothing moves fast in the world of planning. You may be told you are going to teach grades 7 and 8 English and take books and materials for that — after

City Developments

There is understandable disquiet in Belleville over contemporary planning trends. Or should we say lack of planning? Zoning and rezoning, apartment construction, including high-rise, and consideration of a new north-south route along one of the city's quieter and residentially-desirable neighborhood streets — Bleecker Avenue — are among the major local issues worrying citizens just now.

There can be no quarrel with the concept of high-rise apartment construction as such — only their location. The block, for example, now towering over Albert College and neighboring avenues is not only out of character with the architecture and atmosphere of the area generally but is bound to alter it drastically, and not necessarily for the better. Similarly with the one now under construction on Bridge Street, long associated with Belleville's early traditions and the city's more stately homes.

Of course we want progress, we need progress and we welcome it, but let us have regard for the past as well as the present and the needs and desires of the population at large. While we have regard for future needs we must seek also to preserve the best of the existing character of the city. This cannot be done by creating a hodge-podge of old and new. Indeed it could fragment the social character of the community and ultimately cause deterioration of the whole.

High-rise in particular, if the city is to pursue this trend, properly belongs in specific areas and clusters as are to be found in Toronto, and without conflicting with the existing urban character of the city.

As for the north-south route the city should tread warily here too, for the same kind of reasons mentioned above. Let us remember the Spadina Expressway and the reasons why Premier Davis halted construction there. He said he was concerned with the needs of PEOPLE.

One development in which citizens can take pride is the private enterprise face-lifting of the corner of Front Street and Dundas near the bridge. Belleville's downtown remains an area of character and vitality. This new development is a fine example.

Telegram's Demise

Saturday was the final day of publication of The Toronto Telegram. Consequently it was hard to come by. Telegram devotees, not to mention the curious, all wanted a copy.

We heard of one Belleville man who managed to put together a copy from sections left in a restaurant. This would have been a not uncommon opportunity say in a train or bus station, but on the last day of publication of this popular evening paper it was a real find. Monday morning this paper was available, and seemingly utmost untouched, in the library. Untouched at least in the sense that no one had made off with it (and that can happen in the library).

Ironically, the last issue contained an advertisement for a new tabloid: The Toronto Sun. "Toronto needs a third newspaper," the ad read rodet. It would have a "bright, new, and forceful format," and significantly it would have "no political affiliation."

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of this new publication is the fact that many of the Telegram's former staff members, including such well-known personalities as Peter Worthington, Lubor Zink and Ted Reeve, will be writing for it. We wish the new publication success; it should help fill some of the void left by The Telegram's demise.

Newfoundland Vote

Newfoundlanders have had the weekend to become accustomed to the radically-changed political situation in their island province.

What this means will make a great difference remains to be seen, but the position now is that Premier Smallwood's virtually absolute hold over Newfoundland has been broken. From only three seats in the previous legislature, Frank Moores and his conservative party have catapulted to 21 seats, one more than the Liberals.

The key man in this near impasse is New Labrador Party leader Tom Burgess who was a solitary seat for his party. He holds the balance of power and says he will side with the party which does the most for Labrador.

But even this situation cannot be allowed to prevail for long. Unless recounts alter the situation appreciably there will have to be another election shortly. As things stand a majority of one vote, with Burgess making it either two or none, depending on his whim, means Newfoundland is without a sufficient mandate to govern.

And He Answers A Few Himself

From Wellington to Victoria They Write the P.M.

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau knows well what he is doing when he assigns a special staff to answer the mail.

All the mail.

Every last letter.

A few, a carefully selected elite, he personally answers.

Other letters of lesser importance are answered by a small staff of six or seven specialists trained for this rather exacting job.

And the run-of-the-mill re-sorted by a computer that is suitable to the occasion and circumstances — of form responses.

Write the Prime Minister a letter — address it to the Right Rock, Parliament Hill, Ottawa, no postage required — and you will get a reply.

Why does he go to all that trouble, making a real thing of acknowledging the mail to the last letter?

But because it is a mirror, reflecting the changing mood of the country.

Everyone on Parliament Hill whose name is widely known, such as Cabinet Ministers, and Senators all down the scale to those whose names are unknown, only in passing, by a few, such as members of the press, get mail.

Almost all of it from strangers — the voting movers and shakers of politics slavish in "X" on the ballot can and frequently does change governments — and most of it angry, or at least critical.

Samples of recent days —

From W. C. Bennett of Wellington, Ontario:

— the privileges that our elite in Ottawa enjoy! Gross overpayment for what they do.

"I have just made a rough calculation of the worth of that $8,000 tax - free allowance (atop the $18,000 salary) to an MP married with two children, upgrades him financially to $40,000.

"And I see that senior deputy ministers now rate $50,000.

"To me this is an upper bracket special privilege welfare scheme the tax burden of which is forcing many old age pensioners out of their homes.

"What really bothers me is that these greedy politicians and their grasping Civil Service who impose this intolerable burdent of taxation, build a solid wall of dollars" around themselves for financial insulation from their own economic folly."

From Jean Johnstone, Victoria:

"Five thousand years ago, Moses said 'pick up your shovel, mount your ass and I will lead you to the promised land.

"Four thousand, nine hundred and ninety years later Lester Pearson said 'lay down your shovel, sit on your ass, this is the promised land.'

"Any day now, Pierre Elliott Trudeau is going to sell your shovel (to the Americans) kick your ass and tell you the promised land is behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains."

From W. R. T. Campbell of Galt:

"Trudeau is my shepherd, I shall not want.

"He maketh me to lie down on barbed wire.

"He leadeth me beside the still factories.

"He restoreth my faith in the Tories and the NDP.

"He guideth me in the paths of unemployment.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of soup kitchens for his Liberal party's sake, I shall be hungry.

"Surely much evil for they are against me.

"Taxation has annointed my income with taxes and my federal expenses runneth over.

"Surely poverty and layoff living shall follow me all the days of Smith's, my administration."

"And I shall live in a rented house forever."

From Robert C. Fleming, London:

"The cost of living keeps climbing, no matter what Trudeau says.

"The reason for inflation is what he does. Over-spends. Makes up the deficiency with armsful of paper currency which become worthless pieces in the supermarket by the day.

"The special merit to the Government of this currency confidence game lies in the fact that its printers are seldom of political importance being penniless, keepers of federal bonds and annuities and others on fixed incomes and all those who live by thrift, by the sweat of daily drudgery and find themselves the wealth in the nation."

"I sent a money order for the balance due on my subscription to the Sudbury Daily Star, and I should like to tell you how much we appreciate your informative column."

(Man, would there were more like that.).

"I'm sorry, but Mr. Chretien is up to his neck in work on the Indian problem, at the moment!"

Citizens' Objections to Apartment Project

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

On May 17 a petition was submitted to City Council, by the adjoining property owners, requesting support and protection from high-rise apartment buildings in our immediate area on Bridge Street. Our basic objections were:

(1) to keep our area strictly residential.

(2) fear of devaluation of our property;

(3) traffic hazards at intersection of Bridge and Bleecker

(4) risk of local improvement assessment due to inadequate sanitary and storm sewers;

(5) freedom from financial pressure, who stand to gain from our loss;

(6) invasion of privacy and environmental change.

I received a reply to this petition on June 9 from Mayor Scott, advising of a referral to the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board for their recommendation to Council.

A further petition was submitted on June 2, signed by hundreds of residents representing approximately 90 per cent of the home owners in this given area. On June 21 a planning board meeting was held at City Hall and Dr. Scott observed: "Let's get public hearings held within the next two weeks to satisfy these concerned people".

Several weeks later the results of these public meetings were presented at a planning board gathering. The recommendation presented was "that Bylaw 6465 be amended by removing multiple-dwellings as a permitted land use from the R1 districts of the city". This motion was rebutted by our Mayor and his recommendation was to refer this matter to the new Quinte Planning Board, taking office Sept. 1. By the pressure of some aldermen this matter finally reached City Council.

Again in The Intelligencer, Friday, August 13: "Highrise Future Up to Council". Let's laugh fellow citizens, this matter had been in their so-called hands since the beginning, but for some unknown reason, the old stall continues.

Today, I received a letter as did some of my neighbors, dated Oct. 21, headed "Quinte Planning Board, City Hall", stating that our petition was now going to be handed over to some appointed Consultants!

Through the news media we now learn that there is a strong possibility of widening Bleecker Avenue to relieve traffic congestion in this section of the city. Surely, if this becomes a reality, it would only be good planning (with our projection to the year 2000) to enlarge the sanitary and storm sewers, even though we have heard so much over the past few months as to how adequate they are at present and certainly can amply handle another 70 or 80 families.

To those responsible for the preparation and presentation of the "Residential Chapter for Belleville" may I express gratitude — a job well done, but unfortunately not recognized. I am sure the cost to the tax-payer was high.

May I also take this opportunity to thank the members of Council who tried so hard to do justice to our society and regret that you were unsuccessful in your efforts to support the citizens, even under threat of personal liability. To those who opposed, we will express our gratitude when next you offer yourselves before the voting public.

My sympathy goes out to the residents of Bleecker Avenue, not only were you defeated in your fight to keep your dwelling, you are now confronted with a possible loss of property; further marring the beauty of your area.

From information received it appears that the demolition permit for the buildings located at 18 Bridge East was issued prior to the Registration and Transfer of Deed, dated Aug. 6, 1971, Registration No. 15401. Fellow citizens, if you don't like your neighbor, sit down to City Hall and simply obtain a permit to demolish his house!

Davis Government Challenged

The Sandbanks—What Is the Next Move?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In 1967 the late General A. G. C. McNaughton said . . . "Canada has been endowed by Divine Providence with abundant resources which cover the expense advantages upon this country. It is our responsibility to use these resources with discretion and to treasure them for the benefit of them for the generations of Canadian citizens who will come after us."

The CCF (Committee Against Contaminated Environment) is concerned with conservation — conservation of resources, conservation of environment and above all, conservation of Nature's many unique areas, particularly in this part of the province.

Members of PACE visited one of Nature's wonders, the Sandbanks, only recently and were appalled by what is taking place. They would have thought that the lowering dunes of white sand would ever be subjected to the ravages of man and machine — a communal campsite being exploited for the economic benefit of a few!

paying off the developer at 217 Bridge East, and save our tax dollars, as we have discounted our planning boards, which are apparently of no value and simply refer to this property as an "Historical Site". The provincial and federal Governments might even assist this cause with a grant. This situation has truly made history with the phoney bylaws and antiquated zoning laws. Those of us involved in this location now fully realize why people in other sections of Belleville stated "you are wasing your time, your request will fall on deaf ears". They had learned through experience. Today I agree as I live amid the chaos of dirt, noise and debris that accompanies construction and listen to machinery up to the midnight hour, far exceeding the eight o'clock bylaw, through special permission of City Hall. I contend that bylaws are written to be enforced, not altered.

Another factor that cannot be overlooked is how this project has assisted our city in its all out attempt to fight unemployment — this can be evidenced by the local placards patrolling the area.

Fellow citizens of "Belleville the Beautiful," our pollution is not only in the Moira, as we sit back and watch our tax dollars waste away.

Christians Jailed

Repression Continues in Both Soviet Union and Red China

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Now that the election is over there are speculations about the unexpected results. Don O'Hara of Queen's Park thinks that the school question had much to do with it. Many of the voters believe that the outcome was settled on a high re level, which local candidates had no real power to change.

Mr. Trudeau has alienated many of his followers through his leftist sympathy. His effort of unseating Nationalist China and to recognize Communist regime has cost him the votes of the ethnic groups, especially those who have seen life behind the Iron Curtain.

But this is only part of the picture. Christian Churches for years have supported the Liberals have turned to the Conservatives as Church papers keep on, telling us what goes on in Communist countries.

In China, for instance, the three most prominent Christian leaders, Wang Ming Tao, are tossed in jail in 1955. Watchman Nee sentenced in 1952 and Ching Ten-Yng are still wasting away in their cells, broken in mind and body.

In Russia just lately more Christian mothers were given four years in jail for instructing their "underaged children" in religion at home. The total number of such jailed mothers in the Soviet Union is now 1,234.

Personally, I admire Mr. Trudeau as a fine gentleman and he is unfortunate that those facts are either not known to him, or if known, he does not think of them as important enough when making his foreign policy.

Nov. 1, 1971 — Lord Tweedsmuir was sworn in as Governor-General of Canada 36 years ago today—in 1935—and held the post until his death in 1940. The "Literary Viceroy" had been well-known previously as author John Buchan, writer of such best-selling novels as The Thirty-Nine Steps and numerous other works.

'Hard Man' Of British Rugger

Ulster Commentary

In the Ulster edition of the Sunday Express, sports writer Cliff Morgan wrote: "If I were coach to a British Isles rugby player on this Rugby tour it would be to Willie John McBride. Praying on his knees. Loose tour overseas, he is the leader of the pack. His performances here (in New Zealand) have surprised anything else in his long and distinguished career. McBride, is a big man, a hard man, a very fine men come as tough on the field. Colin Meads (the N.Z. All Black captain) and Willie John Bride on a pedestal as probably the best two men he has met in a rugby battle.

He has taken four trips to taste the sweetness of victory against the All Blacks and it is marvellous," was Cliff's comment.

Mike Gibson drew glowing praise from the commentators for the brilliance of the try which he led the backs during the tour: "Ian Kirkpatrick, Gareth Evan Jubilee Edwards, after the third test: 'It is no disgrace to be beaten by Mike's Lions team. They are the finest side to visit New Zealand in that I remember. They possess first-class forwards and skilful backs and on top of that they have the odd master. Mike Gibson, in my opinion, the best complete Rugby player in the world today."

Newfoundland's Future Stays Uncertain At Least Until Official Tally of Votes

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's immediate political future appears likely to remain uncertain at least until votes cast in Thursday's provincial election are officially tallied.

Frank Moores, Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday the party would be "unrelenting" in attempting to take over the government on the strength of 21 of the legislature's 42 seats won in the election.

Premier Joseph Smallwood's Liberals, who had won all six previous elections since Confederation in 1949, took 20.

Tom Burgess, leader of the New Labrador Party, was returned in Labrador West and was negotiating with both sides.

The deadline for the official count of votes is Nov. 10, but the tally could be finished before that date. Candidates have 10 days after the official count to apply to the Newfoundland Supreme Court for a recount.

Mr. Smallwood, who flies to Ottawa today for talks concerning a major shipyard expansion at Marystown on Newfoundland's south coast, was confident the recounts would favor the Liberals.

The 70-year-old premier said earlier charges of irregularities also would be laid in connection with the voting in some districts.

H.W. Strong, chief electoral officer, said Monday such charges would be handled in a legal process that had no timelimit.

The last budget gave the government a spending authority until the end of the fiscal year, March 31, 1972.

In theory, Mr. Smallwood could remain head of the government without calling the legislature together until the spending authority was exhausted.

Mr. Moores said Mr. Smallwood's attempts to retain power "shows his absolute contempt for democracy as we know it."

He said any industrial or financial arrangements made by Mr. Smallwood after the election would be subject to review by a Conservative government.

Mr. Moores gave few details of how his party planned to wrest the government from the Liberals but recently left the standing of both parties unchanged.

He mentioned public petitions and action "in other areas" but emphasized he was not advocating physical action.

Mr. Moores said the Conservatives would agree to some requests made by Mr. Burgess in return for his support in the legislature.

But the party would not agree to a general gasoline tax exemption for Labrador residents except those using snowmobiles as a means of livelhood.

Mr. Burgess told a news conference earlier Monday he would not decide which party to support until the legislature meets.

He said he would support whichever party initiates the reforms we of the New Labrador Party seek."

Mr. Burgess said both Mr. Smallwood and Mr. Moores offered inducements, including cabinet posts, in exchange for his support.

Trick or Treaty

Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker quickly caught the mood of the minute and the attention of his young audience when he visited a Minnedosa public school Friday. The students at the school had also prepared a birthday cake for the 76-year-old member of parliament and they presented it to him during their Hallowe'en party.

Bell Will Test New Rate Schedule

OTTAWA (CP) — A new Bell Canada rate package for long distance telephone calls has won approval from the Canadian transport commission for a six month trial period.

The new rate schedule, which goes into effect Nov. 28, is the second change in Bell's long distance rates in six months. It was offered by Bell while the commission was investigating complaints about the company abandoning the old late-night economy plan June 6.

The new plan provides for a two-thirds discount off regular day rates from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m., seven nights a week. From 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays there will be a three-quarters discount off regular day rates.

The company estimates the new package will reduce subscribers' long-distance bills by $4.4 million annually. This is in addition to the estimated $1.4 million a year saved under the June 6 rate revisions.

The commission said in its ruling Monday that it is withholding extended approval of the new structure for six months.

The commission stood by its original decision last April to allow Bell to drop the night economy plan because of the crush of telephone calls it caused, particularly in the 10:30 p.m. period.

But it criticized Bell for the way it advertised the revised rate schedule which replaced the night economy plan. The revised plan led to an over-all reduction in billings.

The commission said Bell did not give clear advance warning to subscribers about abandonment of the night economy plan. This led to confusion and an actual increase initially in the number of calls during the former night economy period.

The commission said it expects Bell to explain the new plan properly to subscribers.

Addington Candidate Assails Union Voters

TORONTO (CP) — Frustration over a lack of public support for the goals of organized labor surfaced Monday among delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Of particular concern was the failure of the New Democratic Party to do better in the provincial election Oct. 21 despite impressive campaign assistance from unions.

Union members themselves were held partly to blame by one delegate, Vincent Maloney, defeated NDP candid te in the riding of Frontenac-Addington.

In his own campaign, he said, he received more support from farmers than union members.

In one case, an official of his own union had fallen from a tree while placing a sign for a rival candidate.

"For all I know he may have torn down one of my posters while he was falling," Mr. Maloney acted bitterly.

Tax Bill: Twelve Down, 321 Subclauses to Go

OTTAWA (CP) — Another handful of parts was approved Monday as the government's big tax-change vehicle edged a little farther along the Commons production line.

But, after 11 days of clause-by-clause consideration, the count stood at 12 subclauses down and 321 to go before the new model, designed for 1972 taxpayers, is rolled out.

Liberal back benchers remained quiet, apparently hoping to improve the chances of the bill passing by the government Christmas target.

This despite John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) saying Liberals must be getting queries from constituents the way he is and they should be asking questions.

He had to handle a spate of opposition protests that the government was being mean, niggardly or callous in its treatment of taxpayers.

John Skoberg (NDP—Moose Jaw) asked whether manpower grants to help workers move to new jobs when an old one disappeared would be counted as income He couldn't find a clause in the tax act on this.

Mr. Mahoney said he wasn't going to get into a debate on manpower mobility grants.

Marvin Howe (PC—Wellington Grey Dufferin Waterloo) asked a similar question about travel expenses for on the Job training.

Mr. Mahoney said there is a clear indication that payments of this type would be considered as income and taxable. But it wasn't in order to have the subject of manpower retraining discussed during the tax debate.

Mr. Howe said the point was that these things affect the incomes of Canadians and they have a right to know what is going en.

Women's Institutes

MADOC WI

For the October meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute, 17 members answered the roll call by relating what they did with their spare hand while talking on the telephone. Here are some of their answers: jotting down on a nearby pad important notes and dates to remember; sipping an unfinished cup of tea of coffee quietly; or completing an interrupted snack; doodling on the wallpaper; rearranging things on the desk where the telephone sits; scribbling on the telephone book; running a finger along the phone for dust; amusing the budgie bird while talking.

Encouraging reports were given on the thriving, newly-formed 4-H homemaking club and on the WI food booth at Madoc Fair, which had established hard work for many of the members.

The highlight of this meeting was the informal explanation and discussion of wills conducted by the local lawyer, Bruce White, who strongly urged everyone, the wife as well as the husband, the widow or the single person, to have a will drawn up, if she had not already done so. He cited examples of the difficulties which arise and the actual loss of money, and even the loss of one's inheritance if there has been no proper will. And since the cost of having a will correctly drawn up is so small, it surely behooves everyone to make use of his services, thus ensuring the desired settlement for one's heirs. Mr. White stressed the fact that any will, whether drawn up by the individual or her lawyer, must be signed by two persons who are not related to her. A will may be rejected if it was procured by undue influence, if it was a forgery, or if the person making it did not have testamentary capacity (e.g. may be of unsound mind).

During the spirited question-answer period which followed, Mr. White highly recommended a little brochure "if you neglect to make a will", which may be obtained from the Victoria and Grtey Trust Company. Mrs. A. Empey thanked the special guest for his informative talk.

In discussing the motto, "coming together is beginning; keeping together is progress; and working together is success," Mrs. E. Wannamaker urged the women to sound their trumpet note of concern for the lack of knowledge and understanding of world conditions, their note of change to develop leadership and their note of optimism for tomorrow.

In the short time remaining, Mrs. A. Bailey quickly summarized the consumer's report of the past two months, giving some valuable tips, as follows: Always look for the CSI (Canada Standard Size) label when buying children's clothes; use a three-minute egg timer when making a long distance call; list your valuable property periodically. If you're leaving your home for a few days, arrange for surveillance of your property by a neighbor, stop all deliveries (milk, bread, etc.) before you leave; store your valuables in another location; leave your property with a lived-in look (e.g. the grass cut or the snow shovelled away); etc. Always leave your name and address with the RCMP. And some warnings: inexpensive clothing is not always the best; beware of flammable blankets (a rayon blend burns quicker); be careful in buying tires, for there is no clear grading or description.

The meeting was brought to a close and a social half-hour was enjoyed over the tea cups.

QUINTE WI

The Quinte Women's Institute held its October meeting in the form of a potluck supper with an attendance of 50 including members and guests.

After the appetizing supper the president, Mrs. Arnold Mitchell welcomed everyone.

Mrs. Ralph Sills showed slides of a tour she and her husband took, travelling through South Africa and parts of Spain and Rome. Mrs. Sills commented on each of the pictures which made it most interesting and educational.

Mrs. K. Vivian expressed the appreciation of those present to Mrs. Sills and presented her with a small gift from the Institute.

The November meeting will be held in the WI Hall instead of at the home of Mrs. D. Aikins. The Institute held a progressive euchre on Friday night at the WI Hall with 13 tables in play. The prize winners were Mrs. C. Turner, Mrs. Ruby Waite, Mrs. Hallis, Mr. Harry Allen, Mr. J. Hilton and Mrs. F. Bedell. Mrs. F. Lawrenson was winner of lucky draw.

A short course "The knack of sewing with knits" is now in progress at the hall sponsored by the Mrs. Chi. Ford Reid and Mrs. Jack McLaren are leaders with ten taking the course.

MR. AND MRS. MERVIN P. L. STEADMAN

Steadman — Ells

Ann Elaine Ells; daughter of Mrs. Nellie Ells, Northville, Nova Scotia, and of Laurier Ells, Centreville, Nova Scotia, became the bride of Mervin Phillip Lewis Steadman son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Steadman of Berwick, Nova Scotia. The double ring ceremony was performed at the Protestant Chapel, CFB Trenton with Captain G. W. Yates as the officiating clergyman. Captain Roe, chapel organist provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her uncle Donald Ogilvie of Belleville, the bride was attired in a full length gown of ottoman debutered peau de soie styled along Victorian lines. Her full length veil was secured by a headpiece. She carried a single long-stemmed rose framed by a background of fern, also a white Bible.

The maid of honor Miss Marilyn Ells, the bride's sister, wore a full length dress of moss green velvet trimmed with gold. She wore a gold velvet bow in her hair and carried a single long stemmed white mum with long gold stain streamers.

The bridegroom was attended by Private Daniel Cafe as best man while guests were ushered by Sgt. Lloyd Slutsky.

At the reception dinner held at Sun Luck Gardens, guests were greeted by the bride's mother who wore a teal blue polyester dress accessorized by a fur stole and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother in a mint green dress and matching coat with a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses. After the reception guests returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ogilvie to see the couple off. For travelling to points west, the bride chose a royal blue knit dress and co-ordinating cape with black wet look accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

No Words Can Describe Suffering Endured by Many Refugees

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I have a letter from a man who is devoting his life to helping the unfortunate people from East Pakistan. He is now stationed on the India-East Pakistan border, so near the border that he can hear the booming of the cannon in the Pakistan territory. He says what the people are enduring, there are no words to describe.

One morning my husband left me $4 on the table and a note saying it would help out with the postage. I was touched. So far I have sent two parcels of clothing and am working on my third. Friends bring things to me.

I have the odd office cleaning job which provides me with cash for help such as this. I couldn't possibly do it on my grocery allowance.

Anyone who wants to send things should mark their parcels "Gifts For The Poor — No Commercial Value". The address is the Rev. J. Ferretti, Catholic Church, Thakurgaar P.O., 24 Parganas Dt., West Bengal, India. — Wendy

Dear Wendy: Conditions must be indescribable, with thousands of refugees pouring over the border daily. My Canadian readers will answer the call, I know. They always do.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am finding it increasingly hard to take part in any conversation because every time I open my mouth or draw attention to myself, I blush. It is becoming crippling socially and professionally since I avoid going to the supervisor or other staff members with any problems for fear of blushing (a bright beet red, not pleasantly pink!)

At first I thought it was a sexual hang-up since I blush more with men. However, discussing problems with women personnel workers makes me blush too and this seems to have little to do with sex.

I realize no one is free of all hang-ups but this is becoming ridiculous. — In The Red

Dear Red: Not a sex hang-up, no. But a glandular reaction just the same, and a more common one than you might think.

"You simply must not avoid contact with others; you must work at your personal relations until you develop poise. Where you feel inadequate to meeting your problems, the blushes will come, and where you have conquered a difficulty, they will be replaced with calm, cool assurance.

Fewer people notice the blushes than you imagine. I am sending you some paragraphs which explain blushing and will give you some suggestions for overcoming it.

Dear Doris: My daughter is interested in designing, modeling, etc. She is very good in sewing, won first prize in a sewing contest when she was 15. She is now completing her grade 12 and would like to go into something pertained to clothes and sewing. — A Faithful Reader

Dear Reader: Sewing is one of those things every family needs. A girl who can make her own clothes is well away when it comes to looking lovely all the time. And think what it can do for her children — even her husband!

There are courses in home economics which offer an option of dressmaking. There are degree courses featuring fashion designing; and diploma studies in clothes and interior design.

Write to the Guidance Centre, 1000 Yonge Stree, ronto 289, Ontario. Ask for occupational monographs for: (1) Clothes designer and (2) Interior designer. Enclose 25 cents for each monograph.

Doris has studied human behavior and can shed light on your dilemma. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Group in Calgary Asks for Special Abortion Clinic

CALGARY (CP) — The four city hospitals perform about 90 per cent of the therapeutic abortions done in the southern part of Alberta although they have only about 50 per cent of the beds, says Dr. Robert Lampard, medical administrator at Foothills Hospital.

Almost 1,000 abortions were performed in the four hospitals between June, 1970, and June, 1971. This is double the number of the previous year and the number now appears to be doubling every six months.

Administrators at both Foothills and Rockyview hospitals said patients awaiting other gynecological surgery, even for cancer, are often delayed to accommodate women whose pregnancies are approaching the end of the first three months, which is the end of the safest surgical period.

Although administrators said the situation had not reached emergency proportions, groups such as the Birth Control Association, which retains the functions of the Abortion Information Centre, are asking the city for a special abortion clinic.

A committee of the Calgary Area Hospitals Planning Council decided late this summer that existing facilities could handle the city's demand. But they asked for more information on the number of refusals by the city abortion committee and for figures on the community demand for abortion facilities.

A brief from the Birth Control Association recommended a clinic "outside, but close to, the hospital environment where abortions can be performed at the early stages of gestation safely, efficiently and economically."

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (Reuter) — Ninety per cent of parents who withdraw their children from school after primary education do so because of poverty, a Malaysian education officer said.

Two Pictures Purchased for Manor

The October meeting and birthday party of the Hastings Manor Auxiliary was held in the library of Hastings Manor on October 25 with the president, Mrs. D. Maclean in charge.

Mrs. J. Kilborn and Mrs. H. McLaren reported wonderful success selling draw tickets and tea and bazaar tickets. One dozen cups and saucers were purchased to help decorate the tea room and will be used in the coffee shop. Six more card tables are to be purchased for use in the craft room. Special mention was made of the fine display at the bazaar and the excellent attendance at the tea.

Two pictures were hung in the coffee shop.

The residents went on a bus trip on October 13 to view the autumn colors. A tea is planned for the residents in November. Birthday cards for November are to be sent to residents by the Auxiliary members and Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

At the birthday party the tea pourers were Mrs. May Elliot and Mrs. Helen Wickett. The oldest lady celebrating a birthday in October was Mrs. Amy Wardle, 90 and the oldest man, Charles Loudon, 85.

Ann Landers

Daughter's Boss Spends More Time at Her Home Than His

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter works in a large office and is secretary to one of the bosses. He is 10 years her senior and has a nice wife and four children.

Mr. Boss spends more time at our house after work and on his days off than he spends with his own family. Our daughter is single. She never goes out with a fellow and never invites a girl friend over. It's always Mr. Boss.

I don't like this arrangement and have said so. I especially do not like the way Mr. Boss buys my wife and daughter expensive presents—choice cuts of beef for dinner and gourmet baskets of food. I am sick of looking at this man's face and I have threatened to go to his wife about it. My daughter cries that I will ruin her life and my wife says if I go near his house she will personally kill me.

I think this man belongs at home with his wife and family. I also believe our daughter should start thinking about her future. Should I go to see the man's wife? Yes or no?—Chaos In The Midwest

Dear Chaos: No. It would not solve the problem. It would only create others. The wife knows her husband is not home much and she probably has a good idea where he is.

The only thing you can do is to tell your daughter that Mr. Boss is not welcome in the house and if she insists on seeing him, she'll have to move.

By entertaining this creep you and your wife are not only encouraging but encouraging the relationship which, in my opinion, smells like a lot barrel of herring.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been dating a young man for several months. He has a part-time job and goes to college. Rick has taken me to concerts, movies, plays and to dinner.

Would it be proper for me to treat him occasionally? If so, to what? Would he be offended if I should offer to pay for something? Please educate me, Ann. I need it.—Antioch Reader

Dear Ant: A girl should not "offer to pay" for anything but there are other ways she can reciprocate. If she lives at home, she can invite him to dinner. She could also buy some theatre tickets in advance and invite him as her guest. She might also buy the occasional gift, a book he might enjoy or an attractive necktie. Any evidence of thoughtfulness is appreciated and I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: As feature editor of a midwestern metropolitan daily I handle your column before it goes to press. In the column that just reached my desk you used the term "groom" six times. Our style is to refer to the man who is being married as the "bridegroom." I have been told by journalism professors, city editors and society editors that a groom is a person who takes care of horses. Therefore, in order to make you look good and to conform to our style I changed your language.—Anonymous Please

Dear Nosy: When I received your letter I immediately took it to my editor for a high-level conference. He told me to stop crying (I was ruining his carpet) and then reached for the American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language. This is what he found: "Groom (noun) as a substitute for bridegroom is appropriate to all but the most formal contexts. It is acceptable on all levels in writing and speech, according to 90 per cent of the useage panel."

Thank you for wanting to make me look good. I need all the help I can get.

Chickens Used As Missiles

FRANKFORD (Staff) — Playing chicken on a highway is a juvenile game which requires each participant to take risks with moving automobiles, to see which one will break under the strain.

Ontario Provincial Police officers discovered several youths had placed catch with a small flock of chickens at the four corners here. At 6.55 a.m. Sunday, they discovered several dead and living chickens strewing the roadway.

The youths involved have not been identified.

Les Joyeux Copaines, a 28-membe r troupe of musicians and dancers from Galt, enjoy a fast-moving French Can adian number during Saturday evening's party at the Legion Hall following a meeting of the Federation des Clubs Sociaux Franco,Ontariens. Twenty-five delegates from Southern Ontario French clubs got together to discuss issues ranging from a proposed winter carnival to promotion of local French Canadian talent.

Ontario French-Canadians Gather Here for Weekend

Twenty-five delegates from a variety of cities making up the rapidly expanding Federation des Clubs Sociaux Franco-Ontariens got together this past weekend in Belleville to discuss mutual problems and the future of their organization.

The federation, comprising approximately 3,000 French-speaking residents of southern Ontario, currently has 19 clubs in its membership, although seven more are being formed for future entry.

Federation president Marcel Brule of Galt said the meeting was called to discuss issues on three fronts.

Many sporting activities are supported by the organization and plans were being made to carry out such activities as a hockey tournament in Welland and a bowling festival in Galt early next year.

The biggest forseeable concern at the moment, however, is the annual winter carnival in London in January. The French society runs an exchange program with Quebec City and imports the Quebec capital's symbolic figurehead, Bonhomme, for the occasion.

Another area of concern says Mr. Brule is the promotion of local French - Canadian musical talent. The 28-member ensemble Les Joyeux Copaines de Galt, which entertained conference delegtats is an example of the type of group th federation wishes to encourage.

"They are subsidized by the federation and it shows them they can be themselves for a few nights each year," said Mr. Brule.

The final discussion topic was the restructuring of the federation with a view to future expansion. A committee was appointed to discuss methods of making the executive's job more manageable.

They propose to do this "by having local regions better organized and by working more closely with other French-Canadian social organizations," according to Mr. Brule.

The federation does not concern itself so much with the political aspects of French-Canadians living in Ontario as it does with providing them with an outlet for the preservation of their heritage.

One means is by co-operation with the Ontario department of education. "They are sympathetic and want our general policies to work together," Mr. Brule said. The federation is pushing for more French immersion and language instruction at all age levels.

"So far in our 11 years we have concentrated on smaller cities in southern Ontario," reported Mr. Brule, "but we expect eventually to cover the entire province."

Goyer Says Riots Indicated Failure

TRENTON (Staff) — Solicitor General Jean-Pierre Goyer told an audience at Trenton High School commencement exercises here Saturday Kingston penitentiary riots this summer showed that Canada's penitentiary system had been a failure.

He said decision must be made to have a full rehabilitation program for inmates, one that recognizes the inmate is still a citizen.

"As much as possible," Mr. Goyer explained, "we must have the same system within the prisons as we have outside the walls."

The solicitor general took the position "the prisoner is not there to receive punishment, being there is the punishment."

Canadian penal reform should bring about a situation in which inmates work for fair compensation but pay back the state for their room and board, he said. He said inmates should pay both income tax and unemployment insurance fees.

Mr. Goyer told the audience inmates may be paid to attend vocational courses and members of the penitentiary service may be paid to upgrade their educations.

He contended that communities near penitentiaries should become more involved in the rehabilitation process, with inmates going out into the area to work during the day.

In a later interview, the solicitor general said he expects to receive a report on penitentiary capital construction plans within a month.

He will probably call for new institutions.

TV Career Uncertain For Actor

NEW YORK (AP) — David Wayne is one of many actors in a special kind of limbo. Between now and the middle of the month he will learn whether he is employed or unemployed as NBC resolves its mid-season programming decisions.

His station is peculiar to television. Motion pictures are filmed, released and performers, work ended, can sit back and hope for a hit. Broadway shows open and either close quickly or survive.

But the actor committed by contract to a role in a television series—particularly a new series—has no options. He is unable to make new commitments until he knows the fate of the old one—and sometimes it takes months.

Wayne, a Bo Dine, Tony winner for his Broadway performances in Finian's Rainbow and Mr. Roberts, is currently a co-star of NBC's comedy, The Good Life, which has serious ratings troubles.

"On Broadway it is a matter of fighting with your best, for survival," he said. "In television it seems that people want the familiar. I just don't understand what makes a TV series a winner."

Fewer Hunters in Bush After Deer This Year

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

TWEED — Quinte deer hunters — who started their annual safaris yesterday — may find more game than they expected.

Inexplicably, however, there may be fewer hunters.

Heavy snows last winter led to fears of a sharp decline in local deer populations for this year's hunt — which lasts two weeks north of Highway 7.

However, says a Department of Lands and Forests official here, the severe weather which brought the heaviest snows in years may not have killed off as many mature deer as feared.

"There were very few deer found dead in the deer yards (areas inhabited by the game) in our spring check," he said.

Deer populations seemed to have "stood up pretty well," he added.

But there may be fewer younger deer in the bush.

Bad weather creates hazardous feeding conditions in some areas. This means fawns may not be able to carry fawns through to the birth period.

"They may not give birth to as many fawns — but that won't show up yet for a while."

Just how many armed men are on the move through the Quinte bushland in search of the biggest game in southern Ontario won't be known until statistics are compiled on hunting licence sales.

Statistics at the Tweed office dating back to 1956 showed 1967 as the peak year when 139,253 licences were sold in Ontario plus 9,000 non-resident licences to American hunters.

By 1969, the last year for which statistics are available, this had dropped to 97,639. Licences issued American hunters also had declined to 5,572.

In those years hunting licences doubled in price to $10. However, this could not be a reasonable explanation since the cost of hunting trips — including equipment and accommodation — comes high, the official felt.

"But," he added, "even though these licence sales are down some, it's still a lot of people to have in the bush."

Meanwhile, the East Central Ontario Association of Sportsmen's Clubs again will be operating pounds in the northern bush areas for dogs who have strayed on the scent. Owners can seek out their dogs at these locations, or later in the month when the animals still impounded are taken to the Ontario Humane Society shelter at Belleville.

These pounds are (with names, locations and telephone numbers listed):

Taxpayer Questions Councillor's Offer

PICTON (Staff) — An offer from town councillor Corey Walraven to provide the town with a 10-foot-wide right-of-way to reach its 24-acre Greenwood subdivision was questioned last night by a taxpayer who claimed he was giving away property he does not yet own.

Mrs. Mervin Haight protested that Mr. Walraven could not give the town additional parkland from portions of two lots in which he admits he holds only an interest.

He proposed to provide the right-of-way needed by the town to reach its parkland, plus a parcel of adjoining property approximately 69 feet by 133 feet.

Legal costs relative to the conveyance of the land were stated as the town's responsibility.

Mr. Walraven's first reply to the question of how he could dispose of what he does not yet possess prompted him to remark, "You've got me..."

He asked Mrs. Haight, however, why she was concerned with the technicalities of the transfer and was told by her that the proposed land offer was one of many things "under technicalities" which should be revealed.

Councillors supported Mr. Walraven's proposition contained in a report of the planning and development committee.

Picton's Santa Needs Help

PICTON (Staff) — Christmas parades are Santa's bag but without assistance from the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce his sleigh can't make Picton next month.

"Larger cities and towns weren't made the parades centres on their backsides," enthusiastic chamber director Lindley Calnan told the annual Santa Claus parade fell under discussion.

A handful of directors turned out for yesterday's luncheon meeting and few volunteers were available to help with parade plans.

The chamber's apparent apathy sparked disappointment among the 16 directors who did attend the session.

Directors agreed the parade might be turned over to a service club next year but if Santa comes to town on December 11, it will be through the efforts of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce.

The merchants who did garner at yesterday's meeting not noted the parade does not prove a money maker for them but is actually a thank you to the public for past purchasing.

"I isn't worthwhile," said merchant Ronald Scott, dismissing parade profits. He added however, that it is for all youngsters and "someone should make the effort."

As directors puzzled over an obvious manpower shortage, past-chamber president Gordon Lloyd quipped, "Why not turn the thing back to Santa Claus, it's his do?"

Mar. Scott declared Picton merchants fall into three categories, the hobbyist or semi-retired businessman, the usually impersonal store manager transferred here by his company and the young businessman who hasn't time to assist because he is involved in succeeding.

Mr. Duggan suggested that the poor turnout could be attributed to directors' reluctance to be named to serve on one of the parade committees.

The chamber has hired a past president, Jack Purtelle, to act as chairman for the Santa Claus parade. Organizational meetings are expected to be held soon in connection with the visit of the man in the red flannel suit.

Plaza Merchants Up in Arms

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Use of the Belleville Plaza as a teenage hangout after dark will come to an abrupt end once city police begin enforcing anti-trespass laws and the Child Welfare Act.

Plaza merchants are seeking co-operation from parents, school masters and youngsters alike to cut down on incidents of rowdyism and wilful damage which they say have plagued the plaza since shut-down of a teenage night spot there in 1968.

"A lot of people window shop. But if you were here with your wife, you couldn't get out of the car," Belleville Plaza Merchants Association president Douglas Shaw, told The Intelligencer.

"They've literally taken over the mall."

Most of that is all gone now.

The trees that have survived raids on their branches are pitiful examples. The benches have been scored and carved up by numerous pocket knives. Caretakers have repeatedly covered up four-letter words and graffite which continue to appear on their surfaces.

The merchants have had enough.

"Ill-it continues, we'll definitely have to hire security staff," Mr. Shaw said, although many of the merchants expressed reluctance to use this expense.

However, on a trial basis, the merchants did just that. Over the Hallowe'en weekend, Belleville security force Quinte Investigation and Security Services were employed to patrol the plaza.

As an interim measure, the merchants, agents of Metropolitan Trust Company with financial interests in the plaza, and city police, have agreed to an intensified program to clean up the shopping area.

New "No Trespassing" signs will be posted — and enforced.

Gangs of youths who loiter on the mall both during the day and at night will be asked to disperse. Letters will be sent to their schools in addition to the posted signs, advising of the new regulations.

But if those methods fail, the trespassing laws will be enforced, as well as the Child Welfare Act.

The latter gives police the right to pick up any boy or girl under the age of 16 found not after 10 p.m. and return them to their parents.

The merchants have mixed reactions to the plan.

Robert Outtrim of Quinte Sewing Centre, says "it's of no value. You can put up 50 signs, but if there is no enforcement, they're not worth anything.

"I have seen them run up and down in shopping baskets, bumping into shoppers. Two pile into the baskets and another will push them along.

"It's a general nuisance."

Mr. Outtrim, whose father manages the sewing centre, says his shop has lost one window. They also had a door cracked.

Chuckling to himself, the plaza merchant noted, "those kids are faster than we are. You can't catch them when they're running."

"There's not too much trouble down at this end. Once, we had a couple of B-Bs shot through our window. They broke some of the stop signs. I used to have to kick them out."

Another merchant who doesn't take any nonsense from troublesome youths is Mrs. Renald Allmendinger, owner of The Pet Shop.

"If there's any trouble, I just throw them out if I see them loitering around in the shop.

"I've had enough of this," she said.

"We're here to attract customers and not to give them a fear of being molested by a gang of kids.

"Possibly they are doing their thing, but it seems to be their hobby . . . the type that hangs around. They just don't know any better.

"But they're not all like that," he was quick to add.

The manager of the plaza's Shoppette variety store refused to make any comment. He had not been present at an October meeting and said he had not been informed of the outcome.

Coles Jewellers manager Murray Coles said merchants have been reluctant to improve decorations because of the destruction. Last years Christmas ornaments were almost completely destroyed recently after vandals broke into a storage room.

David Malcolm, manager of Woolworth's says action of merchants will be "just great if they follow through".

"Police don't have enough men to patrol the city. I guess we're no different from any other place.

"There is a lack of facilities for kids, that doesn't cost a lot," he said.

Mr. Malcolm suggested a boys' club, such as ones in Ottawa, Toronto, and Moncton, New Brunswick, would provide an inexpensive place for Belleville young people to gather.

Many of these institutions are looked after by the police and some even have a youth officer. He could look after it," the young merchant suggested.

He said the merchants are not bothered by young people playing football in the parking lots.

"It's when they begin breaking windows and running ladies down on their bikes that we get hot."

Ratepayer Protests 'Conflict of Interest'

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTO[illegible] Picton ratepayer last night charged a member of town council with conflict of interest concerning the erection of sectional homes on Simcoe Street.

Mrs. Mervin Haight claimed councillor Corey Walraven has conflicting interests because he is also a member of the development committee promoting the new houses.

Mr. Walraven is associated with the Quindale Real Estate Co. Ltd., Picton. The complaining taxpayer addressed council with four questions involving the latest development plans for Simcoe Street.

Mrs. Haight, a member of a delegation protesting the sectional homes at council's September meeting, said she understood protests then voiced against the houses were later stricken from the minutes.

She demanded to know what portion of the discussion had been deleted and why.

Mayor Margaret Ackerman replied that the minutes were not altered and added that a copy of them was forwarded to Mrs. Haight earlier.

The mayor bristled slightly when Mrs. Haight asked whether the town, or the developer would pay the cost of extending Downes Avenue, its water and sewers 126 feet to serve the new homes. "It is not contingent upon council," she observed, "to answer these questions." The mayor added, however, that the cost would be borne by the subdivider.

"It is not contingent upon council," she observed, "to answer these questions." The mayor added, however, that the cost would be borne by the subdivider.

Mr. Walraven pressed on to point out that as the road exists now, there are no provisions for drainage except into basements.

She stressed storm sewers will be required and said this will increase her taxes which have been raised for the past 13 years. The raise, in her opinion, will be effected to benefit only a small group of persons.

Mrs. Haight insisted a conflict of interest exists on council with Mr. Walraven and said no other member of council will admit it.

In response to her questions presented to council, Mayor Ackerman replied that no conflict of interest exists until adjudicated by a public court. She remarked that a court would not be allowed to anticipate such an interest in a particular issue.

This comment was supported by councillor William Rose, chairman of the planning and development committee, who reminded Mrs. Haight that Mr. Walraven has not voted on anything concerning her protests to date.

Mrs. Haight also demanded to know the name of the person to whom lots 10 and 11 in the subdivision have been registered for the past 12 years and asked if the taxes had been paid during that time.

She asked who now holds the deeds to the lots in question and probed what has happened to "a gentleman's agreement" made 13 years ago to keep low cost homes out of the subdivision where she and her husband reside.

Mrs. Haight said this agreement, reached with the original developer of the subdivision reportedly was accepted by the real estate company now introducing sectional houses on Simcoe Street.

Mayor Ackerman interrupted Mrs. Haight's remarks stating that she felt the gentleman's agreement would have to be in writing to be valid.

"I'm not a judge and I'm not a lawyer. I can't answer your question but I can refer it to the proper committee," said the mayor.

She later suggested Mrs. Haight attend the next meeting of the planning and development committee and council approved her motion.

Mrs. Haight declared, "Our home is our life savings and if trying to save it means I'm a snob, I'm happy to be a snob."

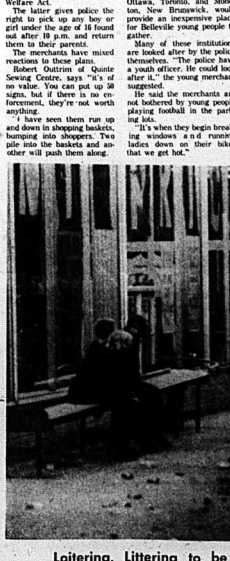
She mentioned a quote in the local press expressing that objections to well - kept, low-cost houses in certain residential areas constitutes snobbery.

The ratepayer warned that there is no protection in Picton for property investments which may be devalued if someone "throws up a tar-paper shack" on a nearby vacant lot.

"There is no recourse," she concluded.

Halloween Fire Destroys Barn

A barn fire late Saturday night in Bloomfield destroyed 100 bales of hay and another 1,000 bales of straw as the frame barn owned by Charles Fraleigh burned to the ground.



Ten local firemen were called on to wet down a nearby built-up housing area when gusty winds began to blow embers in its direction and threatened to spread the fire. Witnesses said the flames were visible for miles.

Bloomfield fire chief Ralph Robson said the fire was well under way when his men arrived at 10:45 p.m. The three units stayed four hours and pumped 2,300 gallons of water on the wooden structure and adjacent houses.

No animals were reported in the barn and residents of the Fraleigh farm house, 300 feet away, were evacuated. Mr. Robson estimated damage at $15,000.

The hay and straw had been in the barn for close to a year. It was being stored by Mr. Fraleigh for J. Donald Baxter, and was uninsured, although the barn itself was partially insured.

Cause of the blaze is unknown.

Loitering, Littering to be Discouraged

Als Can't Pin Blame on Leo

by

Maurice Switzer
Sports Editor

When Canadian Press affiliated sports editors receive their year - end poll sheet, there's little doubt what most will use to fill in after "Canadian sports surprise of 1971."

The yo-yo that has been the Montreal Alouette football team (from last place - to Grey Cup - to last place) has to rank with the oddest of athletic happenings.

Sam Berger's bum trip may have been laid to rest in last weekend's Eastern Conference wrapup, but the Alouette exit did not rest lightly in the Larks' locker room.

"I expected it," snorted Montreal scout J. I. Aherold after Hamilton Ticats "upset" the front - running Argonauts 23-15 to send the Alouette sweaters to the cleaners. "I guess every team's out to win but I know Leo's (Toronto coach Cahill's) philosophy. I just don't think they played the Argo game. I'm not accusing them of anything, but . . . .

TERRY EVANSHEN, who can toss verbal vitriol as handily as he can haul in passes, was more explicit.

"Cahill didn't want us in the playoffs! What makes me say that? Well you tell me what a Bill Symons is doing playing safety and Leo Lewis why Theismann's throwing to areas where there isn't even a receiver!

"I can't believe it, being out of it. Hell, there hasn't got any offence at all! What a crime."

Speaking of offence, the Als didn't really burst at the seams with that commodity Saturday in a 9-7 loss that would have put them, not the Riders in next Sunday's sudden - death semi - final game. Rookie place - kicker Gerry Organ, a 21 - year - old place - kicker steered to Ottawa by, of all people, Hamilton's Garnie Henley, singlehandedly — or footedly — capped a mad Rough Rider season by connecting on each of three field goal tries to account for all his team's points.

HIS COUNTERPART, Montreal's Justin Canale, was missing five of six attempts at three - pointers all the while in one of those close-to-the-vest games when kicking can make the difference.

But the Als, as a team, had missed five of six themselves that being their dismal record over the dying weeks of the schedule, so how could they be justified in expecting another team, namely the Argonauts, to do their work for them?

"I'll admit that I had certain deep seated feelings about who I wanted to see in the playoffs, but I don't think they affected the way we prepared for this game," Leo told reporters after his darndest to keep a straight face.

ASKED how concerned he was about quarterback Theismann's sudden attack of ad ulemitism, Cahill coly replied: "Oh, I think our whole team will look a little different in the playoffs."

But maybe a 10-3 record going into their final afternoon of the schedule earned Cahill and company a day off.

In any event, the Argonauts can sit back for two weeks and await the winner of Sunday's Ottawa-Ticat playoff in Hamilton. The Argos should have mixed feelings about whoever emerges to take them on in the two-game total-point eastern final.

Ottawa showed greater offence (291-289) over their 14-game schedule than did the Hogtowners, while Hamilton's defensive Scrooges permitted 346 points while Toronto gave up two more.

OTHER THINGS to bear in mind before blowing the Christmas present kitty: a) Ottawa blasted Hamilton 40-10 in their last meeting, Oct. 21; b) The Rough Riders have won their last three games, which is known in sporting circles as momentum; c) on paper, Toronto Argonauts dominated the eastern conference in every category from passing to penalty - yards - gained at halftime and d) The EFC final will be played on grass, not paper.

ATTEMPTED American invasion of Canadian football became more than a rumor this week when the deputy mayor of New York City showed up in CFL commissioner Jake Gaudaur's office looking for a Canadian league club for Yankee Stadium.

While Gaudaur admitted the dealership is not for sale, CFL team from the standpoint of ownership is "wide open" as deputy has previously mentioned Halifax or London (ontario, of course) as the likely next expansion candidates.

But the question of expanding operations south of the border is not Mr. Gaudaur's. It belongs to the governors of the Canadian Football League who will next convene in Vancouver Nov. 26, two days before that city is host to the Grey Cup.

Hopefully the league bosses will not be so imbibed with Grey Cup spirits as to accept the New York application, which was made official with the posting of a $25,000 bond.

The Canadian Football League needs Unitarian entries like international hockey needs Bunny Ahearne.

CONSOLATION must be Tommy Maffey's in the fact he is only 862 points behind the all-time pro football scoring record established Sunday by George Blanda, the grand old man of the Oakland Raiders.

Blanda booted a field goal — the 365th of his career — to bring his 22-year total to 1,699 points, one better than the previous record total of Lou "The Toe" Groza, former Cleveland Brown upright splitter.

Hamilton Ticats' Coffey finished the current CFL schedule with 76 points for a Canadian record 92 points.

However, it shouldn't take Coffey very long next fall to establish a Youth American record of his own.

In all professional football history, only the Baltimore Colts' retired Raymond Berry hauled in more, 631 to be precise.

Nine to go for Tommy Joe.

Trenton Tiger Mark Petrie doesn't let a Bayside tackler stop his momentum as he picks up valuable yardage in yesterday's Bay of Quinte junior COSSA championship game. Petric contributed one touchdown to a balanced Trenton attack as the Tigers pasted Bayside 34-0 to win the junior title. The champions now go on to meet either Cobourg or Peterborough in Friday's COSSA finals.

Bayside Bows Out

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

After outing the seemingly-invincible Metro Trojans from the semi-final round of the Bay of Quinte COSSA football playoffs, Bayside juniors had to believe in miracles.

Unfortunately for the league's Cinderella team, however, Trenton placed their faith in things like blocking and tackling. The Junior Tigers made a strong point for matter over mind as they swept to a 34-0 win over Bayside in the league championship game at CFB Trenton yesterday.

Bayside was unable to mount any serious threat against a tough Trenton defence, while the unbeaten Tigers were able to shake their speedy backs loose for long gains.

A Bayside fumble, coupled by two costly penalties paved the way for Trenton's first score with Steve Beecroft sweeping left end from seven yards out for a converted touchdown which jumped his team into a 7-0 lead.

The key score of the game came in the second quarter with the Tigers holding 13-0 lead as a result of a one-yard TD plunge by David Lewis. Trenton backfielder Nick Alexander broke through the Bayside line, reversed his field and scooted 62 yards for the score which all but put the game out of reach. The champions carried a 20-0 lead off the field at half time and were never seriously threatened after that.

Trenton added a pair of majors in the second half with Marc Klemencic diving over from eight yards out and Mark Petrie counting a one-yard major.

Trenton's balanced backfielders Beecroft, Petrie, Klemencic and Alexander were the key offensive factors. Defensively, middle guard Gord Sanderson and inside linebacker Eric Burnett packed the outstanding unit.

Two way back Larry Doutre was best for the losers, who made it all the way to the league finals in their first season of play.

Six Trying To Spike Title

Six local secondary schools will be attempting to make a COSSA "AA" volleyball championship in Bay of Quinte conference this Saturday.

Centre Hastings will play host to the top 18 teams in the 265th of this season — to bring his 22-year total to 1,699 points, one better than the previous record total of Lou "The Toe" Groza, former Cleveland Brown upright splitter.

Quinte Runners Kick Up Heels

PORT HOPE (Special) — Quinte Secondary School runners were kicking up their heels in Port Hope yesterday as they quite literally ran away with the Central Ontario Secondary School Association's cross country championships.

A victory in the midget section by Lakefield Secondary School presaged a COSSA sweep, as Quinte emerged with both the junior and senior team titles.

The junior competition proved to be the closest with Quinte being penalized 49 points and Centennial taking the runner-up position with 58. In the individual battle, Barton Bourassa of Trenton managed to edge Centennial's Ron Brown for first place honors.

Quintes' winning team consisted of Roger Ray (6th, Ian Hayman (9th), John Sheppard (14th) and Joe Carroll (20th) with sparse Terry Madden, Joe Harvey and Ron Scott. Members of Centennial's second place finishers included Brown (2nd), John Divernik (12th), Wayne Shupe (21st), Ross Geen (23rd), John-Elliot, Stewart Hitchon and Roger Hearns.

In the senior event, Quinte walked away with the team title gathering only 33 points to 69 for the Crestwood runners-up. The individual race was a different story, however, as the lead changed hands several times before Crestwood's Mark Simkins was able to defeat Quinte's Gerard, Farrell and Jim Thompson of Centennial.

The top three teams in each age group will qualify for the all-Ontario championships in Woodbridge this Saturday. A total of 300 runners competed in the COSSA events.

Fairways Will Try To Turn Junior Tables

The Belleville Fairways are hoping the tables loop turning in their Eastern Ontario Junior B league series with the Kingston Frontenacs.

Belleville scored a pair of easy exhibition wins against the Fronts early this year only to be handed an 8-5 setback in the only regular season meeting between the two teams. They hope to reverse the trend once more when they travel to Kingston tonight.

The Fairways are currently mired in fifth spot in the six-team loop and have yet to win a game against "B" competition with their only victory in four outings coming at the expense of the "C" class Quinte Canucks.

The Belleville team has been playing much better than their record indicates however. Two of their losses were cliff-hangers against the yet unbeaten Peterborough Lions. A bus will leave the Belleville Memorial Arena tonight at 6 p.m. with space available for interested spectators. Tonight's game against Kingston will get under way at 8 p.m.

WHA to Feature More Overtime

NEW YORK (CP) — The World Hockey Association, the puck world's newest professional league, introduced its first 10 franchise-holders Monday at a news luncheon here and announced that a half-dozen or more hopefuls are standing in line for the final two franchises in the league which has scheduled its opening game for Oct. 14, 1972, in Miami, Fla.

The enthusiasm of delegates from the three Western Canada franchises—Edmonton, Calgary and Winnipeg—set the tone for the luncheon. The other confirmed franchises are in Miami, New York, Chicago, St. Paul, Minn., San Francisco, Los Angeles and Dayton, Ohio.

Under consideration for the remaining franchises are Hamilton, Atlanta, Kentucky, Indiana, the Carolinas, New England and New Jersey.

"Exciting innovations," outlined by W. D. (Bill) Hunter, include player contracts without a reserve clause, a superior pension plan, and 10 minutes of sudden-death overtime in an attempt to keep tie games to a minimum.

Hunter, chairman of the players' committee and the individual chiefly responsible for taking Edmonton into the WHA, said the new league "will seek the cream of junior hockey talent, look for outstanding players at all levels of professional hockey, and recruit in Europe."

"We will have the best contracts in hockey, bar none. We will have a players' association from the start. And the pensions' committee has announced that the pension plan will be better than any other in hockey."

Donald J. Regan, a California lawyer who is league lawyer, said the WHA will operate without an option or reserve clause in players' contracts.

Such reserve clauses, binding a player to one team, are under fire in both the United States and Canada. However, WHA players may be signed to multi-year contracts.

Worsley Pick Of NHL Crop

MONTREAL (CP) — Two veterans of National Hockey League play share the early season spotlight today, but for entirely different reasons.

Statistics released by the league Monday show that Lorne (Gump) Worsley, the 42-year-old goaltender with Minnesota North Stars, has been keeping pucks out of his net with the sage finesse that left winger Frank Mahovlich of Montreal Canadiens has been using to score goals.

Worsley has the best individual goals-against average of the 28 goaltenders who have appeared in three or more games. He has been scored on only six times in five games for a sparkling 1.20 average.

The only goalie with a better average is rookie Gilles Meloche of California Golden Seals who in two games has two goals against. Meloche had an auspicious debut last Thursday when he shut out the Bruins in Boston, 3-0.

Worsley and team-mate Cesare Maniago, who has a 2.16 individual average, are the leading goalies with a combined average of 1.72 in 11 games. Next is the Chicago combination of Tony Esposito and Gary Smith with a 1.91 goals against average for the Black Hawks.

Maniago, Esposito and Montreal's Ken Dryden share the shutout lead with two each.

None had an opportunity to improve Monday night in the lone NHL contest which had Detroit Red Wings visit the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

The Monday night Detroit-Toronto game was a makeup affair. The original had been scheduled for Oct. 13, but was cancelled because of the death of Stafford Smythe, former Leaf president.

Mahovlich, with 433 goals in regular season action—fifth highest total of all time—is off to the second fastest start of any player in modern NHL history. Only Bobby Hull of Chicago had a better start.

That was in 1962-66 when Hull had 14 goals after 10 games and finished the season with a record 54.

Mahovlich, with 12 goals in 10 games, has a good chance to become the first player ever to hold goal scoring records with three different teams. He shares the mark of 49 for Detroit with the now-retired Gordie Howe and has a record 48 for the Leafs. The Canadiens' mark of 50 is shared by Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bernie Geoffrion.

Meanwhile, rookie forward Richard Martin of Buffalo Sabres is also off with a rush. Martin has nine goals in 12 games and 14 points, a total which ties him for sixth place in the individual scoring race with Mahovlich, Bob Sheehan of California and Murray Oliver of Minnesota, five points behind scoring leader Phil Esposito of Boston.

Esposito is hard pressed by team-mate Bobby Orr and Rod Gilbert, New York Rangers' right winger, each of whom New York's Vic Hadfield, Orr is the assist leader so far with 13.

Leafs Not Too Weary for Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs, after playing their third game in three nights and winning, leave today for an extended road trip that will take the National Hockey League club to Minnesota and the United States West Coast.

The Leafs, paced by Ron Ellis's three goals, bombed Detroit Red Wings 6-1 Monday night in a game rescheduled following the death last month of Stafford Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Toronto win spoiled the coaching debut of Johnny Wilson, who took over the Detroit job after Doug Barkley resigned Sunday night because he "felt the team was not working the way it can for me."

Wilson, whose Wings also played their third game in three nights, was not disheartened by the loss, the team's ninth in 12 games.

With the win, Toronto took over fourth place in the NHL's East Division. A crowd of 16,485 in the Gardens saw the Leafs outshoot the Wings 35-28 and the line of Ellis, Norm Ullman and Paul Henderson collect 11 scoring points.

Henderson scored two goals for the Leafs and assisted on another. Ullman had four assists while Ellis assisted on one besides scoring his three goals. Dave Keon scored the Leafs' other goal.

Tim Ecclestone scored Detroit's goal in the first minute of the third period when he took a pass from Mickey Redmond and in turn used Redmond as a screen to fire the puck from 25 feet out past Jacques Plante.

Dobson No-hits Hosts

TOYAMA, Japan (AP) — Pat Dobson pitched a no-hit, no-run game today as Baltimore Orioles edged Tokyo Yomiuri Giants 2-0 on Boog Powell's two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Had he pitched a perfect game, Dobson would have become the first U.S. major league pitcher to achieve such a feat during a pre-season or post-season exhibition tour of Japan.

Thirteen American big league teams, including Casey Stengel's New York Yankees, Walter Alston's Brooklyn Dodgers and four separate All-Star squads, have played against Japan's major leaguers since 1931.

The Orioles scored their only runs in the fourth when Merv Rettenmund singled off Yomiuri's Tsuneo Horiuchi and Powell followed with a homer, his second in Japan.

The triumph extended Baltimore's unbeaten streak in Japan to six in seven games. The Giants battled the Orioles to a 3-3 tie last week.

Herron New Kickoff Return King

Canadian Football Records Fell by Career Waysides

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Football League 1971 schedule just completed contained few individual season records but the league's final statistics show several career marks revised.

Season records came in the kickoff return department and punting.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers' Mack Herron became the first player to return kickoffs for more than 1,000 yards during one season with 1,019 returns for 1,019 yards. The previous record for most returns was 32 by Peter Thodos of Calgary Stampeders in 1952 and most yards returned was 830 by Dave Rainey with the Bombers in 1963.

Quarterback Joe Zuger of Hamilton Tiger-Cats knocked out of action in the last game Sunday with a shoulder injury, eclipsed his single-season record punting average while also improving on his leading career average.

His league-leading career average, meanwhile, moved up to 45.5 from 45.1 at the end of last season. Zuger punted 141 times this year for a total of 6,946 yards and career totals of 1,075 punts for 48,930 yards.

George Reed of Saskatchewan Rough Riders finished the season with a career total of 10,953 rushing on 2,152 carries, thus claiming the career record previously held by Johnny Bright who retired from Edmonton Eskimos with 10,909 yards in 1,969 carries.

Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster claimed the career-passing records of 3,343 passes thrown, 1,895 completed for 181 touchdowns and 26,769 yards.

Sam Etcheverry, now coach of Montreal Alouettes, held the previous career-passing record with the Als on 1,630 passes completed out of 2,829 attempts for 174 touchdowns and 25,582 yards.

On the season, Lancaster completed 192 of 275 passes for 2,758 yards and 16 touchdowns; second in the Western Football Conference behind Don Jonas of Winnipeg.

Jonas finished with 253 completions in 485 tries for 4,036 yards and 27 touchdowns.

Toronto's Joe Theismann was the leading Eastern Conference passer with 148 completions in 278 attempts for 2,440 yards and 17 touchdowns.

In WFC rushing, Reed ran for 1,146 yards in 218 carries, second behind Jim Evenson of British Columbia Lions who went 1,237 yards in 280 tries.

Leon McQuay of Toronto Argonauts didn't reach the 1,000-yard mark in the CFC, finishing with 977 yards in 138 carries. Ottawa fullbacks Dennis Duncan and Bob Houmard followed with 760 and 736 yards, respectively.

The WFX's top pass receiver was Winnipeg's Jim Thorpe who caught 78 passes for 1,436 yards and nine touchdowns. Teammate Bob LaRose was second with 58 receptions for 1,080 yards and eight touchdowns.

Terry Evanshen led the Eastern receivers, catching 50 passes for 852 yards and five touchdowns.

Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton managed only 28 pass receptions for 423 yards but fattened his league career totals to 623 passes for 9,888 yards.

Coffey is also the league's leading career scorer and his 1971 production of 76 points puts his 12-season total at 672 touchdowns, 204 converts, 108 field goals and 53 singles for 922 points.

McQuay, Jonas Survive Vote

MONTREAL (CP) — Leon McQuay, Toronto Argonauts sensational rookie running back, and quarterback Don Jonas of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, have been selected as finalists for this year's most outstanding player award in the Canadian Football League, it was announced today.

At the same time, it was announced that wide receiver Terry Evanshen of Montreal Alouettes, and Dick Dupuis of Edmonton Eskimos—a defensive halfback or punt-return specialist—will vie for top Canadian honors.

The third category—lineman of the year—will be a choice between a pair of fine linebackers, Mark Konnos of Montreal and veteran Wayne Harris of Calgary Stampeders.

McQuay, Evanshen and Konnos are the Eastern Football Conference representatives, while Jones, Dupuis and Harris are the selectors' choices from the Western Football Conference.

Harris was one of four players to lose out to Jonas in the most outstanding player category in the WFC.

Konnos, Marshall Shirk of Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton's Garney Henley were the nominees for most outstanding player in the Eastern Football Conference.

Among players who lost out to Evanshen and Dupuis for top Canadian honors were Argonauts' Mike Eben, Bill Danychuk of Hamilton and Wayne Giardino of Ottawa.

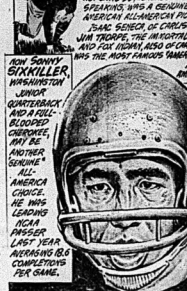
The winner in each of the three categories will be announced Nov. 25 at the annual

Gabler Back in Fold

HAMILTON (CP) — Quarterback Wally Gabler, cut earlier this season by Hamilton Tiger-Cats, rejoined the Eastern Football Conference club Monday.

Gabler will replace Joe Zuger, who underwent an operation Monday to have a shoulder separation repaired. Zuger was injured Sunday at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium in a game against Toronto Argonauts.

Canadian John Manel, used sparingly as a quarterback by the Ticats, replaced Zuger and led them in a 23-15 victory over the first-place Argos and a berth in the EFC playoffs.



Gabler, who had refused to sign with Montreal Alouettes last week because they would not delete the option clause from his player's contract, signed Monday with Hamilton after talking with Ralph Sazio, Ticat general manager.

Krouse Wins Car Suit

TORONTO (CP) — Frank (Bcb) Krouse of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League was awarded $1,100 Monday by the Supreme Court of Ontario in his charge that Chrysler Canada Ltd. and Grant Advertising (Canada) Ltd. used his photograph without his consent in a 1969 advertising campaign.

The statement of claim presented the guts of the case, Mr. Justice Haines said. "It said the plaintiff (Krouse) was identified with the products of the defendant and has had his chances of advertising for other auto manufacturers seriously affected."

Shaken Lions Manage Split

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Detroit Lions this year their first National Football League win since they were shaken by the death of receiver Chuck Hughes, managed a 14-14 tie Monday night with Green Bay Packers.

Hughes suffered a fatal heart attack during a game in Detroit Oct. 24.

Hopes of a win to keep the Lions within range of Minnesota Vikings in the National Conference central division died Monday with crucial mistakes amid wind and rain.

Mr. Kicker's 49-yard touchdown pass from Greg Landry to Charlie Sanders with 12 seconds left in the first half for Detroit to salvage the tie with the Packers. The second of Mercer's careless.

The Lions fell to third place with a 4-3-1 record, trailing Minnesota at 6-1. Green Bay, which had lost three straight, is 2-4-1.

While black armbands and an ambulance on the sidelines containing a cardiac treatment mobile unit were constant reminders of Hughes' death, Lions' coach Joe Schmidt played down its effect on the outcome.

"We weren't in a state of shock or anything like that," said a bitterly disappointed Schmidt. "All it was was the five fumbles and a bad snap from centre on the field goal."

Fumbles ruined two scoring opportunities for Detroit.

A Steve Owens' bobble was recovered by Green Bay safety Tom Brondish at the Packer 21 in the second quarter. Linebacker Fred Carr tore the ball from the grasp of Altie Taylor at the Packer 17 in the third period.

The Lions took a 7-0 lead after only 2:01 had elapsed in the nationally televised game when Prefa Prefac quarterback Scott Hunter raised his arm to pass and was hit by Larry Hand.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Master Two Step System Shows Heart Defects After Exercise

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, MD

Dr. Thosteson: What is the purpose in giving the "Master Two Step" for a heart condition? — Mrs. M.G.D.

This is a test, a special way of conducting an electrocardiogram. The test is taken after the patient has walked up and down two steps for a prescribed number of times.

Often when the patient complains of angina or other types of chest pain, a cardiogram taken while the patient is resting will show a normal reading.

An abnormality may show up after exercise and the simple little set of two steps is a convenient way to provide exercise at a doctor's office. After all, it would be a bit awkward to have to tell a patient to pop run around the block and come back for his test.

After the stipulated amount of exercise, if there is any inadequacy of circulation to the heart muscle, it can appear in the cardiogram whereas it might not do so otherwise.

Dr. Thosteson: What causes arthritis to come on suddenly in shoulders, back, etc.? I always read your column but nothing much has ever been said about arthritis.—R.H.

If your trouble really is arthritis and not a sprain, injury or other condition, the most plausible explanation of its coming on suddenly is that it is rheumatoid arthritis.

Dr. Thosteson: I am tied down with my mother and can't get out for advice so I will write to you.

I had a small place on my neck. The doctor said it looked like a cyst and he removed it. When I went back to have the stitches removed he said it was benign tumor but later he called me to his office and told me it was a skin cancer.

It upset me so I left the office without asking any questions and now I want to know.

How long a life does one have after the first sign of skin cancer? How long before there will be other places? Should there be some treatment I should be getting?—Mrs. W.B.

People with skin cancer live as long as anyone else—provided the cancer is completely removed. Since the cancer is on the surface, it can be seen and thus removed early.

You can't always tell just by looking at it so when tissue is removed, the safe thing is to send it to a laboratory for microscopic examination. That's what your doctor did.

You certainly should return to your doctor to see if there is any sign of further growth. If examination shows that he was successful in removing all of the cancerous tissue, then forget about it.

Dr. Thosteson: I have had two myocardial infarctions, prolonged angina pectoris and the last time in the hospital thyrotoxic heart disease was added to the list. Can you explain this to me?—H.M.A.

It means there is excessive activity by the thyroid gland. This can cause rapid heart beat and some degree of heart failure and angina that is refractory to treatment until the thyroid problem is brought under control.

Furniture Stays Until After Landslide

SHIPSHAW, Que. (CP) — Families evacuated from their homes in the east end of this community will not be able to move their furniture out until after an expected landslide takes place.

However, the 49 families evacuated Sunday because of an earth movement, were allowed to return to their homes Monday morning to pick up any personal effects forgotten in the hasty evacuation.

Government geologists ordered the evacuation because of an earth movement about a mile from the scene of the May 4 landslide which claimed 31 lives in nearby St. Jean Vianney.

The earth movement occurred Oct. 23 on a farm about three-quarters of a mile from the scene of the disastrous landslide last May. It resulted in a depression about six centimetres deep over an area 125 feet long and 50 feet wide.

Geologists believe a new cave in could occur within a matter of hours or days. If the soil becomes wet, the extent of the area in could cover a much wider area.

A total of 258 persons were evacuated from the 49 homes Sunday. The families had been warned earlier they would have to move by Dec. 15, as part of a general relocation plan.

Gilles Masse, natural resources minister, said Thursday after touring the region that the predicted slide could be 10 times worse than the May 4 disaster.

St. Jean Vianney has since been abandoned and its more than 1,000 residents relocated in nearby communities.

What the Stars Say Today

Wednesday, November 3

General Guide—While House opposition is attempting to convince the United States that present policies are the fastest route to an international disaster, Democrats are very likely contender for the primaries is hopping on the bandwagon.

Aries (March 21-April 19). Even noble, idealistic causes can provide a means of turning a personal profit. Before assuming a leadership role in such undertakings, be sure you're immune to temptation.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). Job, career conditions are further complicated now by a clash with higher-ups. The boss may have good reason to suspect you're after his job.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Partners have it in their hands that you're not to be trusted. There's a troublemaker, probably a woman, who's bending their ears. Track down gossip to its source.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Loved ones keenly feel that they're being smothered by too much love and protective concern. They'll balk at any interference. Untie the apron strings.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). A partner's mistake in the past may stand on the record as forgiven but you just can't resist the chance to revive the issue when ever you have an opportunity. Stop it.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Pride and stubbornness can lead to ruin if you adamantly refuse to listen to some good advice from a co-worker. You can dish it out but you can't take it.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Selfishness and a me-first attitude are slowly but surely driving loved ones away. Heart interests have been very generous and it's time you reciprocated.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). Circumstances can force you to compromise on minor orders in your professional dealings but more than likely at home and family, heaven help anyone who tries to interfere.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). A competitive situation on the job between yourself and a friend can erase any loyalties and bring out a surprising streak of ruthlessness.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Spending is touched off by a need to match the extravagance of someone in your social circle. This kind of friendly competition can get pretty expensive.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Those who work solely for money and power can find it hard to understand your career motivations. Everyone has his price, except you.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). The lessons you've learned so far in life aren't the only ones that exist. Don't belittle someone else's experience just because it's different from your own.

Today's Birthday—Partnerships this year may start out on an equal basis, but by March, there'll be a definite struggle to see who's really boss. Don't be pushed around.

Wiretapping Rampant In Fighting Strikes

TORONTO (CP) — Electronic eavesdropping has become an important tactic for private agencies specializing in strike-breaking, the Ontario Federation of Labor was told Monday.

Wiretaps are used to alert the affected companies to the next move planned by unions in a strike, Dennis Phillips, an official of Local 880, International Chemical Workers, told 725 conventiou delegates.

The delegates responded with unanimous support for a resolution demanding that the provincial government revoke the licences of private security-guard agencies found to be using electronic surveillance techniques.

They also called on the federal government to strengthen proposed legislation to control use of such techniques.

No action was taken, however on the proposal of one delegate, Sudbury steelworker Paul Falkowsky, that labor set up its own protection agency to take counter-measures against the private strike-breaking firms.

The suggestion was made after Mr. Phillips described how his own union found wiretapping equipment during a strike by 172 employees in Toronto of the Redpath Sugar company.

The union began to suspect office telephones were tapped, he said, after it found strike-breakers had been warned in advance of plans to picket a Redpath warehouse.

Opening lead—five of clubs.

Opening lead — five of clubs.

Let's assume you're West and on lead against five spades. North's five club response to four notrump tells you he is aceless, and South's retreat to five spades — assuming he uses Blackwood properly — tells you he is missing two aces.

This means that your partner has an ace — which you hope is in clubs — and this in turn indicates that your best lead by far is the singleton club.

So you lead a club, which declarer wins in dummy with the queen. At this point — assuming your theory about East's having all ace is correct — you have no way of knowing whether partner's ace is in diamonds or hearts (he can't have the ace of clubs or he'd have taken it when he had the chance).

When dealer plays a low spade from dummy and puts on the king, you must resist the temptation to win it, because you wouldn't know which suit to return in order to try to get a club ruff. Fortunately, you can afford to play low on the king because you have another low trump available for ruffing purposes.

When declarer then plays the six of spades you go up with the ace, hoping East will clarify matters. As it happens, he shows out of trumps and — knowing that you are looking for guidance — discards the nine of hearts.

This highly illuminating discard, in conjunction with your previous refusal of the king of spades, takes all the guess out of the hand. You lead a heart to the ace and East has no trouble finding the right return that puts South out of business.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that in each case relief was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured tissue cells to minimize growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered as ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Get set your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Security Very Tight As Tito Visits Ottawa

Lack Accord On Tax Reform

OTTAWA (CP) — Serious diversions on fiscal policy remain after two days of closed-door intensive discussions among federal and provincial finance ministers.

A few points had been tentatively settled at the conference close Tuesday afternoon but basic disagreements persist on the Jan. 1, 1972, starting date for the federal government's new tax proposals, in alterations to the machinery for redistributing wealth among the provinces and on the future of health programs in which the federal and provincial governments share costs.

The issues are on the agenda of the federal-provincial conference of the premiers and Prime Minister Trudeau here Nov. 15-17, for which this meeting was a

Tito Arrives

Fifty Guards Per Spectator

OTTAWA (CP) — Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, an elder of world communism, today begins the business portion of his first visit to Canada — "a great and dynamic country."

However, there was hardly anybody on hand to hear the warm words except diplomats, officials, policemen and servicemen.

Only four people from the hundreds of families quartered at the base turned out to watch the arrival program, which included a 21-gun salute and other honors reserved for visiting heads of state.

They appeared outnumbered at least 50 to 1 by military and RCMP security personnel, including servicemen patrolling the roofs of buildings on the base.

The security steps reflected the experience of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's recent Canadian visit, peppered by demonstrations and a personal assault on Parliament Hill. No detailed Tito itinerary was released until Tuesday afternoon.

Reporters and photographers were kept behind a rope barricade about 100 feet from official welcoming ceremonies Tuesday night.

Most of the photographers trooped out halfway through the ceremony, complaining they were too far away to get good pictures. They claimed that two Canadian armed services photographers were allowed much greater freedom of movement.

While President Tito was being welcomed at the airport, a group of several dozen Yugoslav-Canadians demonstrated on Parliament Hill against his visit.

They waved placards with such inscriptions as: "Tito's Yugoslavia, Tomb of the Croatian People" and "Yugoslavia is a Big Concentration Camp for the Croatian People."

Government House, where Marshal Tito will stay during his three days in Ottawa, was heavily guarded by security men when the official party arrived in an armored limousine. However, there were no demonstrations.

President Tito, looking decidedly bourgeois in a smartly-tailored suit and topcoat, flew here from Des Moines, Iowa, in a Soviet-built Ilyushin 18 airliner. He had been visiting the United States since last Wednesday.

Toronto Police Grab Guns

TORONTO (CP) — Police seized 10 rifles and other weapons in a raid on nine Metropolitan Toronto homes Tuesday shortly before President Tito of Yugoslavia arrived in Ottawa to begin his Canadian visit.

Insp. Roy Seplett said in an interview that some of the occupants of the homes were known opponents of the Tito regime. No one was charged in the raids in which police also seized an air pistol and bayonets.

Riot Police Denounced

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 10,000 persons, representing a cross-section of the Quebec labor movement, heard the president of the moderate Quebec Federation of Labor denounce the Montreal police force Tuesday while expressing praise for the solidarity of the labor movement.

Louis Laberge told his audience, gathered at the Montreal Forum, that for many years the QFL has been regarded as one of Quebec's more conservative labor federations.

He said, however, that the events of Friday, which culminated in violent demonstration against La Presse, largest French-language newspaper in North America, marked a turning point for the QFL.

"Friday was the end of an extremely important stage in the life of the union," he said. "After living through this inhuman savagery we . . . finally realize the police are not workers like the rest of us."

Frenchman Claimed Right to Interfere

VANCOUVER (CP) — A just-published book by a confidant of Premier W. A. C. Bennett says the premier feared direct evidence of French-Canadian interest in the separation of Quebec from Canada while he was in Paris in October, 1969. Author Ronald B. Worley says the premier was white with rage after a sharp argument he had with Achilles Peretti, the president of the French Chamber of Deputies, who claimed France had the right to interfere if it was in the interests of both Quebec and France

Smallwood Persuaded To Yield

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Don Jamieson and other Liberals have persuaded Joseph Smallwood to give up the premiership of Newfoundland if he still does not have a majority of seats after an official recount of last week's provincial election, informed sources said Tuesday night.

In an agreed position given in separate interviews with reporters, Mr. Smallwood and Mr. Jamieson, Newfoundland's representative in the federal cabinet, said here the premier would step down if the recount showed him still trailing.

Two Sides Race Clock Over Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and environmental groups raced the clock today—the AEC trying to prepare for a five-megaton nuclear test at remote Amchitka Island and the conservationists trying to block it.

The environmental groups after losing a district court bid for a preliminary injunction against the underground blast off the coast of Alaska, applied Tuesday to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Although opponents of the test won the disclosure of eight secret government documents, they appealed the withholding of 10 others which they believe contain crucial information on the blast's environmental hazards. They said the disclosed documents gave new ammunition against the test.

Meanwhile, the AEC lost another day in its final preparations for the blast, code-named Cannikin, which is designed to test a Spartan missile warhead and would release energy equivalent to the explosion of five million tons of TNT.

Operations to plug a 6,000-foot hole containing the missile warhead continued to slip behind schedule as rough weather in the Aleutian Islands area plagued ships and planes that will observe the blast's effects.

Nuclear Blast Protests Swell

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Border closings in Ontario, marches, demonstrations at consulates and a work stoppage in British Columbia today mark continuing opposition by Canadians to the proposed United States' Amchitka nuclear test.

In Winnipeg Tuesday, police reinforcements were called in to protect the U.S. consulate when 2,500 demonstrators threatened to storm the building. In Montreal, a group of 100 handed in a petition at the consulate during a three-hour protest and in Ottawa, members of an anti-pollution group circled the U.S. embassy quietly for half an hour before presenting an appeal for cancellation of the test.

The blast, to be detonated underground on Amchitka Island off the Alaskan coast, is expected Saturday or later.

Included in the plans for today:

—Students from the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont., expected authorities at the Bluewater Bridge over the St. Clair River to close the crossing in order to forestall attempts to block it. Student organizers said they expected 700 demonstrators at the bridge, which connects Sarnia, Ont., and Port Huron, Mich.;

—Students from Brock University in St. Catharines, Ont., McMaster University in Hamilton and the University of Guelph planned a funeral-like procession to the Rainbow Bridge in Niagara Falls, Ont. The McMaster administration has chipped in $200 toward the cost of buses and classes have been cancelled for the day at Guelph.

—In Toronto, a 3 p.m. demonstration at the city hall and a 4:30 p.m. march to the U.S. consulate-general raised the possibility of a rush-hour traffic snarl. Metro Police Chief Harold Adamson said extra police will be assigned;

"We expect the demonstrators to be peaceful and to confine themselves to the sidewalk," he said.

—At the University of Saskatchewan's Regina campus, students were to march on the provincial legislature building and in Edmonton, students planned another protest.

—A Calgary coalition that includes the city's interfaith action council, the YWCA, the local Voice of Women and an interschool council plans an "Amchitka wake" this evening.

—In British Columbia, the provincial Federation of Labor has called for a half hour "shutdown for survival" from 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. local time.

Moira Students Help Reading Teachers

Twenty-eight Moira Secondary School students embarked on an adventure last Friday — one that will mean a complete reversal of their places in the education process.

For two hours a week from now on the pupils switch from the role of student to that of teacher.

And to prepare them for the experience they spent a day in professional development training of the kind offered teachers — with an East York reading consultant to guide them.

Each student will go to Bayview for two hours a week to help the teachers there with the reading program. Students participating will miss two early morning periods at Moira and will be required to make up for the lost time in the classroom on their own.

The idea began with a meeting of the advisory committee for the Moira Associated School Group. Some parents in the communities expressed doubts about the reading program in public schools.

The solution to better teaching of reading is simple, principal G. H. Mole told them — split the pupils into groups according to their level of reading skill and appoint senior teachers to coach them.

This's solution — in essence the raising of the pupil-teacher ratio — was impossible.

Why not use secondary school students as reading coaches for two hours each day? he suggested, and within two weeks the program was off the ground.

The students will not take over as formal teachers of reading classes. They will supplement the teachers' instruction by assisting with word drill; hearing oral reading, assisting with reading-aided skills such as looking up words in the dictionary.

To start them off on the right foot with an understanding of how children learn and the difficulties they can get into, Mr. Shipton arranged a one-day course last Friday with reading consultant Mrs. Leila Whitecombe from East York.

Mrs. Whitecombe was chosen because she has been involved in teaching students to teach others at her school and knows the benefit of it.

During a dinner meeting at Belleville Y with parents of the Moira students, she emphasized that the secondary school students will probably gain more from the program than will their young pupils at Bayview.

"The senior students improve academically because school becomes more meaningful for them after they have stepped into the teacher's shoes," she said. "Teaching young pupils forces them to examine their study habits. They realize the significance of the pupil's self-image in learning successes and learning difficulties."

In her day - long sessions with the students, Mrs. Whitecombe told them the basics of what is involved in the failure of a child to learn to read, gave them techniques to use in overcoming the difficulties and played tape recordings that indicated typical situations the students would deal with among their pupils.

One hand to help was a corps of elementary and secondary teachers from Bayview and Moira and the mothers who provided the potluck dinner.

The 28 students are all volunteers, who came forward to help when the appeal was made at Moira. They include students from the two-year, four-year and five-year courses at the secondary school, and from grades 9 to 13.

Ardeen Hamilton of the program are Bayview teachers, Mrs. Whitecombe and those who have already had the student volunteers in their classrooms for observation sessions.

"These students have important skills they can bring to us," said one. "How to dramatize a story, for example."

But for Mrs. Whitecombe, who has seen the student teacher program work, the rewards go far beyond any academic gains for either senior or junior participants.

"Young people discover inner resources they never knew they had when they meet the needs of others," she said.

Corset Rumor Unsupported

William Duggan, secretary of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce told members payments on the land parcel are up to date and explained it is, in fact, owned by the holding company of which former Picton mayor H. J. McFarland is a director.

He revealed this information when Ronald Scott, a concerned chamber director, suggested a letter should be forwarded to government sources in an attempt to learn who controls the property.

Mr. Duggan's report scotched rumors of a corset factory at Picton Heights, repeated to directors by chamber vice-president Archie Kingman.

"It was a plastics factory," corrected one director.

Mr. Kingman suggested plastic seemed to identify readily with corsets in any event.

Student-teachers Taught

Mrs. Leila Whitecombe, reading consultant from East York, spent last Friday in Belleville in a familiar role — teaching how to teach. But her pupils were a switch. Students themselves, they are embarked on a program of assisting elementary school teachers with the reading program at Bayview School. With Mrs. Whitecombe is Al Bender, head of volunteer services for Moira Secondary School students.

77 Townhouses Under Way

A May or June completion date next year is scheduled for a 77-unit low income rental housing project which is now going under way on Tracey Street in the city's northwest sector, west of Sidney Street.

Owner of the project is Fronte and Belleville developer

Charles Murphy and Winal Properties Ltd.

Maurice H. Rollins Construction Ltd. Belleville, is the general contractor for the development, which will consist of seven 11-unit "back to back" townhouses.

The two-storey structures with two and three bedrooms each, will be faced endwise to the Tracey Street extension which is now under construction for about 1,000 feet west of Sidney Street.

Winal Properties Ltd. has arranged for a Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation loan of nearly $500,000 for the project which has a permit value of $600,000.

Rollins Construction also has the contract for the street extension. Total contract including the housing project, amounts to just over $1,000,000.

The housing project will be on the north side of the Tracey Street extension, immediately to the west of residential lots facing on Sidney Street. Parking will be provided at the rear of the seven structures with front lawns and sideyards to be sodded and landscaped.

The building permit for the housing project was taken out only this week at city hall, but the development to be known as the Tracey Park Subdivision has been in the planning stage for several years.

The project now under way is the first stage of an expected continuing development by the owner in the same area.

More housing is planned for the south side of the Tracey Street extension in 1972 or later.

The two- and three-unit townhouse apartments now under construction for low income families are expected to have rentals starting in the $140 to $150 a month bracket.

Loyalist's RIA Course Described

Local accounting students had the opportunity recently to become familiar with the new registered industrial accountant's curriculum now being offered at Loyalist College and via correspondence.

The October meeting of the Society of Industrial Accountants — Bay of Quinte Chapter heard an address by W. C. Easton, director of planning for the SIA, on student orientation.

Hastings Interests Home and School

Hastings county's brand of community involvement in its schools is attracting attention across the province.

Two provincial officials have recently visited the Hastings County Council of Home and School Associations to look the situation over. They were the president of Ontario Home and School Federation, Mrs. A. O. Miller and the Region C president, Mrs. Flo Donald.

The Canadian Home and School and Parent Teacher Federation has charged that the number of home and school groups has been steadily decreasing over the past few years, "but only because they haven't been given the opportunity to play a significant role in school affairs".

Aspect of community involvement in Hastings county that interested the visiting officials were community use of the schools for after - hours recreation for all age groups, the advisory committees for each Associated School Group and the consultants' services offices functioning in conjunction with many county schools.

Also of interest to the visitors is the county board's policy of holding board meetings in centres outside its Belleville headquarters.

The board has met in Deseronto, Bancroft, Trenton, Marmora, and Tweed and will soon meet in Stirling and Frankford.

Local Unionists To Attend Seminar

Sessions begin Saturday morning at Centennial Secondary School with an address by Larry Wagg, Ontario educational director of the CLC.

Delegates will then break up into five groups to study and discuss particular topics concerned with labor. They include: workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance; shop stewards' training; local union administration; labor's role in the community; and labor law.

Lecturer on the latter, Karl Jaffrey will address a banquet Saturday evening in the Le-Aon Hall. Mr. Jaffary, an active member of the New Democratic Party, was deeply involved in the controversial Don Vale Urban Renewal Scheme. A plan to prevent Toronto city council from removing the neighborhood and to provide local citizens with the opportunity to plan their own future.

The institute will conclude Sunday afternoon.

Obituaries and Funerals

MRS. ROBERT BROWNING

A resident of the city for the past 30 years, Mrs. Agnes Browning, 6 Hillside Street, died in Belleville General Hospital Wednesday morning. She was in her 86th year.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hollas, she was born in Perth, Scotland and was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the Harmony Group. She also belonged to the CN Recreation Association and the women's auxiliary of the ANAF.

Predeceased by her husband in 1951, she is survived by a son Robert Browning of Toronto, and two daughters, Mrs. A. E. (Mary) Hinchliffe and Mrs. John (Annie) Avery, both of Belleville. There are three grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Friday from the Thompson Funeral Chapel with service at 2 p.m. conducted by Rev. A. L. Sutherland. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET INGRAM

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Ingram was held Tuesday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home with service in the chapel conducted by Rev. A. L. Sutherland. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were James Durrant, Daniel Mahoney, Jack Diamond, Steve Bowerman, James Caslake and Roy Reid.

Park Hunting Now Permitted

The department of lands and forests has announced that hunting will be permitted in the park every Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday to Dec. 15.

Shooting hours are from one half hour before sunrise to one hour before sunset, and only from blinds supplied by the department. Each blind may be occupied by one or two hunters who must purchase a special daily $4 park waterfowl permit.

Each blind requires only one permit whether occupied by one or two hunters. These permits will be available on a first-come, first-served basis at park offices starting at 5 a.m. on shooting days. Hunters obtaining these permits will be required to surrender their provincial small game hunting licence which will be returned when leaving the park.

In addition to the provincial small game hunting licence, a $3 Canadian Migratory Game Bird Hunting Permit — available from any post office — is required to hunt ducks, geese and other waterfowl. All hunters must be in possession of both licences before being issued a special park waterfowl permit.

Unless otherwise stated, the same bag limits and regulations made under the Migratory Birds Convention Act and Regulations applies at Presqu'ile as in other parts of the department's Ontario central zone.

No Tax Accord

warmup. That conference is on the economy and will also feature programs to combat unemployment.

Ontario and Quebec as usual took leading roles Monday and Tuesday. Ontario launching a comprehensive attack on federal economic planning and Quebec calling for various improvements in federal policies.

Raymond Garneau of Quebec called for a year's delay in launching the new federal tax changes, which are still before Parliament. But in a conciliatory note, he said Quebec will do its best to enact complementary tax changes if the federal government insists on beginning Jan. 1.

He said he thinks there is a fair chance the federal government will postpone its tax changes, despite the insistance of Finance Minister E. J. Benson that the changes start Jan. 1.

Jean-Maurice Simard of New Brunswick agreed, saying he thinks most of the federal tax changes will be delayed until January, 1973.

Mr. Benson told reporters such a delay would mean depriving low-income Canadians of the benefits under the bill and of prolonging buisness uncertainty.

He rejected a request by Percy McKeough of Ontario to remove provisions increasing the tax paid by Canadian-based corporations on money earned abroad.

And in an interview Mr. Benson said the evidence of greater co-ordination and co-operation between provinces had been discussed at other similar meetings. He was replying to complaints on these matters from Mr. McKeough.

Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney, attending in his province's finance minister, disagreed, saying more co-ordination is necessary. But the current lack of it could not be blamed on any one government.

Provincial ministers generally welcomed a Tuesday announcement by Mr. Benson that he will meet some of their criticisms concerning the effect of new federal taxes on provincial revenues.

Mr. Benson offered:

A guarantee that for the first five years of the new federal tax scheme the provinces would lose no revenue. He previously offered a three-year guarantee.

Slightly higher shares of federally-collected tax. Mr. Benson had recommended originally that the provinces receive a basic 26 per cent of federal taxes. He increased this to 30.3 per cent Tuesday.

Most provinces also levy additional income tax beyond the basic 30.3 per cent. All except Quebec have the federal government collect their personal income tax.

The future of Canada's tax systems remain uncertain. Mr. Benson would like the provinces to adopt systems along the lines of the proposed federal one, taking effect at the same time.

He told reporters this would allow Ottawa to collect provincial income taxes. All they had to do was signify by Nov. 15 that they would bring in such legislation later. Ontario has already matched a federal cut of three per cent in personal income tax.

But Mr. McKeough said Ontario will not amend its corporate tax system next year to match the federal plan and may even begin collecting its own income tax, although reluctantly.

In other developments Tuesday, five provinces decided to meet federal officials to work out ways of having the federal government collect estate and gift taxes for them. The five are Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

The federal government is ending its estate and gift taxes Jan. 1, replacing them with a capital gains tax. Mr. Benson offered to have the federal government collect—for a fee—those taxes on behalf of provinces that wanted to continue them, provided at least four provinces could agree on common regulations.

Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and Alberta now levy their own estate taxes.

The meeting reached no agreement on a federal proposal to set up funds to cover health and welfare programs, now jointly financed by the federal and provincial governments.

Under the federal plan, funds allocated by the federal government would be increased each year by a set percentage and each province could allocate its money in its own way.

Quebec welcomed the proposal, saying it showed greater respect for provincial rights. But Ontario said each province should finance its own program with its own taxes.

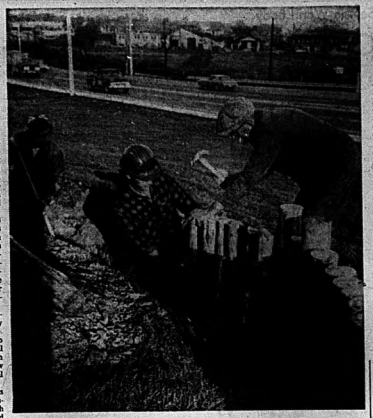
Under the Ontario proposal, the federal government would yield an equivalent part of its tax revenue to a province that assumes the entire cost of such a program.

Mr. Blakeney opposed the Ontario proposal in these terms:

"This always comes from provinces who are wealthy. They always then say that they would of course balance up the fiscal equivalents with equalization payments, but sometimes when it comes time to agree on the basis of equalization payments, there's less enthusiasm and we therefore don't see fiscal equivalents as the answer."

Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Quebec urged that the formula for making equalization payments—designed to make richer provinces help poorer ones—be broadened to include the revenue of municipalities. Quebec also suggested that school board revenue be included.

The federal government now makes the payments primarily on the basis of which provinces have the lowest net revenue from taxes on income and resources.



Saskatchewan also called for changes in the stabilization scheme, under which Ottawa guarantees that a province's revenue in any one year will be no less than 95 per cent of the previous year. The guarantee should be for 100 per cent, Premier Blakeney said.

Several provinces criticized what they felt was the lateness of government programs to combat winter unemployment, announced Oct. 14 by Mr. Benson.

Mr. Garneau welcomed the measures. He said Quebec and Ottawa agree on constitutional aspects of federal grants to municipalities and local organizations.

The federal programs include $50 million for municipal projects and $50 million for projects organized by private groups that create winter jobs.

Other subjects raised at the conference, Mr. McKeough said, were federal forecasts of unemployment and the contents of the secret report on foreign ownership prepared by Revenue Minister Herb Gray. But Mr. Benson declined to make such forecasts or make the report public.

For Civic Beautification

City parks board employees prepare hillside flower bed on West Dundas Street near the Bay Bridge Road which is to become a spring beauty spot. Members of the Belleville Horticultural Society will plant $500 worth of spring flowering bulbs as part of their civic beautification program.

Highrise Zoning Asked By Herchimer Residents

Property owners on the west side of Herchimer Ave. between Bridge and Dundas Streets want their district zoned for highrise apartments but if they want speedy action they will have to make a formal application and pay a $50 fee.

At least that is the feeling of the Subordinate Planning Advisory Committee and this will be their recommendation to city council.

That west side Herchimer Ave. owners wanted a zoning change was indicated at the recent public hearing on the requested zoning change for the Queen's Motor Hotel property to allow the convalescent hospital.

At the time they were told they would have to make formal application.

Since then nine property owners have signed a petition requesting the zoning change and yesterday this was before the planning advisory committee.

Members noted that rezoning of Herchimer Ave. will likely be a matter of discussion at any hearing on the residential section of the city's official plan which is now before the Quinte Planning Board.

However, Chairman E. A. Orr noted this might still be some months away.

So, if speedy action is desired, the committee is recommending that application be made in the regular manner with payment of the $50 fee normally charged developers.

Appeal Total

Total of donations and pledges to this year's United Appeal, as of Wednesday, Nov. 3, was $81,340.

Target for the appeal is $145,000.

Techniques of Treating Retarded Described

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Prince Edward County school trustees were hosts for panel discussion on treatment of the mentally handicapped during a board meeting Monday night.

The three - member panel included Dr. Mary Bentzen, staff psychiatrist at Prince Edward Heights; Ted Schreyer, a psychologist who treats residents of Prince Edward Heights and public health nurse Lola Zagrodney.

Mrs. Zagrodney and Mr. Schreyer are affiliated with the retardation service section at Kingston Psychiatric Hospital.

Panelists explained the causes of learning problems and other mental handicaps and stressed there are hundreds, including behavioral problems, fear of school, sight or hearing problems, some form of mental retardation or emotional disturbances.

Use of drugs or alcohol, epilepsy and brain damage also can create learning difficulties.

Diagnosis of the patient is a team effort involving physical and mental examinations and development of a complete file of pertinent information from parents and teachers.

As a public health nurse, Mrs. Zagrodney is called upon to visit the patient's home and speak with his parents to establish the nature of his environment.

Mr. Schreyer, as a psychologist, is equipped to assess intelligence level and social adaptation.

Dr. Bentzen told trustees that the continued development of Prince Edward Heights has prevented a closer relationship between the school and Happy Hours School, operated by the Prince Edward County board of education.

A joint workshop facility is being considered however, and the staff of Prince Edward Heights hopes to foster the relationship satisfactorily to allow an exchange of students.

Night Raid

Waste of Time

A midnight prowler who forcibly entered a College Street barbershop had little trouble for nothing last night.

A near neighbor of Sentiry's Barbership reported that she heard glass breaking shortly before midnight and it was later discovered that the front window had been smashed.

Nothing was reported taken from the shop.

Crime Rate Up

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie's annual report makes melancholy reading — that the 1970 crime rate was up by no less than 43.4 per cent — and many of us have reacted with disbelief.

After all, hasn't Belleville been one of the more law-abiding communities around? Indeed, who among us has even been witness to a crime?

Yet there it is, up 43 per cent — and above the national average. This last fact is surely the salt in the wound.

But is it all that surprising? If this sickness in our society has not been apparent to the majority of citizens, in the sense of it being played out before our very eyes, it has, none the less, been recorded. Scarcely a day has gone by of late (yes, 1971 statistics are continuing at about the same level) that this newspaper has not recorded some misdemeanor.

Break-ins have been common and there have been several cases of vandalism in schools. But let's hear it from the police chief's report: the most serious increases, it points out, in addition to break-ins and theft of valuables, have been in relation to sexual offences, frauds and thefts of motor vehicles, not to mention street assaults, shoplifting and alcohol offences.

This is the trend throughout the land, throughout North America — but does this excuse the local upsurge climbing above the national average? Of course not.

Chief Crosbie notes also that there has been a noticeable increase in family problems and assaults and he attributes much of these to the "breakdown in the family unit."

What is the answer to such disturbing events? Extra police is only part of the answer. Chief Crosbie would like to see greatly increased public awareness of what is going on, as well as public co operation in curtailing crime. This cannot always be supplied in the physical sense (although police lately have had occasional civilian help in dealing with offenders), but the public can help by supplying information about suspicious activities, as well as by setting a good example. That this is not always forthcoming either, in our community, may be gauged from the fact that of 74 charges laid in connection with the 354 break-ins (nearly one for every day of the year), 50 male adults, 23 male juveniles, and three females were charged.

The message is clear enough. We are farther than we had thought from the ideal of a law-abiding community. Whether the trend can be reversed depends on all of us, but it depends mainly on those who may feel inclined to indulge in the kind of activities the police report mentions. Do they have the moral fibre to turn from the error of their ways?

Discriminatory

When it comes to discrimination in this country it is not necessarily to do with race or creed — although of course it does exist in both cases, if not as blatantly as in some parts of the world.

What other forms are there then? One with which few are familiar has to do with voting rights and the denial of these by the federal government to certain persons.

Consider this situation for instance: you are a resident of this country, a British subject from another Commonwealth country, but as an ellipsis you are here only at the Government's pleasure. You do not have the landed immigrant status but rather reside in Canada by authorization of a Minister's Permit, under the Immigration Act, and this permit must be renewed annually.

Because you have what is tantamount only to visitor's status you cannot vote or even become a citizen; and this even though you have been a resident for some years and have become the parent of a child who is automatically a Canadian citizen.

When voting time comes around, as it did in Ontario recently, you had no vote and this can be embarrassing when word gets around that so-and-so does not have a vote.

The law in this regard of course is outdated. Rumor has it that it is in the process of being rewritten, but then that was the case when we drew attention to this subject a couple of years ago. Meanwhile this deplorable piece of legislation remains on the statute books; the sooner it is removed, or its more discriminatory aspects at least, the better. With the aid of medication, epileptics today lead virtually normal lives.

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — An inevitable result of the United Nations decision to expel Taiwan is that the United States will take a hard look at its UN contributions, a review the US. has been threatening to make for years.

The chagrin and anger being expressed now in Washington from the White House and state department, Senate and House of Representatives, to business and labor organizations — goes deeply enough that it seems certain to color decisions and debates many months from now.

The danger, as some observers see it, is that the American backlash could produce two equally unwelcome results.

On the one hand, Congress and the administration may be tempted to make purely vindictive slashes in U.S. contributions which would cripple some of the most promising and fruitful fields of United Nations activity.

But on the other hand, the fight against such slashes by moderate forces in the U.S. could postpone what many view as the real need for a reasoned study of the UN's chronically unstable financial situation and its unhealthy dependence on American contributions.

The U.S. pays 31 per cent of the UN's annual budget. In addition, however, it pays 40 per cent or more of the cost of running many of the UN's specialized agencies.

So far, Congress has appropriated all of the $32.4 million in general UN budget contributions for 1972 and another $55 million for allied agencies. That money appears safe from the revenge of UN critics here.

But Congress must still approve another $141 million in contributions to international organizations—most of them tied to the UN—and those funds appear vulnerable.

The largest sum, about $100 million, is for UN technical assistance programs to developing nations, a field where cuts could affect countries already hurt by a general decline in contributions from the richest nations and by the 10-per-cent U.S. surcharge on many imports.

There is an ominous precedent for American action. When labor leader George Meany objected to the appointment of a Russian to a high-level post in the United Nations-affiliated International Labor Organization, Congress cut off American contributions to the ILO despite clearly-declared obligations under international law.

The scofflaw U.S. attitude in the ILO case is an exception, however. The United States is acknowledged as among the most faithful contributors to the UN, in contrast with numerous other nations—usually the poor, but also some of the rich—which have held back money they owe to both the UN and to its agencies.

As State Secretary William Rogers pointed out, the current amount of money owed the UN by member nations is some $178 million UN Secretary-General U Thant recently described the organization as being "in a state of near and hopeless insolvency."

As long as the UN has been able to depend on disproportionate contributions from the U.S. and a few other reliable sources, it has managed to avoid trimming wasteful spending and setting its books in order.

If the United Nations is forced now to re-examine its finances under the pressure of sharply diminished American contributions and widespread American disillusionment, it may wish it had given the problem more attention when friendlier conditions prevailed.

A Dozen Times Or More in Three Years

P.M. and Nixon Have Been in Touch Quite Often

By DAVE McINTOSH

Mr. Trudeau has told the Commons he has made no direct personal approach to Nixon on either the Aug. 15 U.S. import surcharge and its consequences or on the scheduled U.S. nuclear test next week at Amchitka Island in the Aleutians.

However, the prime minister's aides say the two leaders have been in direct touch by letter or, more often, by telephone more than a dozen times in the last three years.

No recent conversation was disclosed But Mr. Trudeau talked with Mr. Nixon after the Canadian leader's May visit to Russia. The two men discussed the Quebec crisis a year ago. Mr. Nixon called Mr. Trudeau to congratulate him on his marriage last March.

In the first three years of his government, Mr. Trudeau spent an average of three days a month on the domestic road, talking and arguing with various groups of Canadians.

But in recent months, his domestic travel has been reduced by about one-third.

Aides say he seems to be on the road just as much. He makes about as many visits as he did previously but they are shorter—some only a few hours.

Mr. Trudeau will take no direct hand publicly in the Nov. 8 Manitoba byelection in Saskatchewan.

In fact, he has no plans to visit Western Canada again this year. Next month he will visit London, Ont., Windsor, Ont., Montreal and Quebec City.

He participated in 1968 but was out of town in 1969 and 1970 This year he will be in Western Ontario.

The Commons may be involved in an enormous conflict-of-interest problem when it gets around to discussing the government legislation to promote competition.

Various interpretations have already been placed on the legislation, not yet debated, but it appears at least possible that lawyers will be exempted from the terms.

Conservative John Diefenbaker was first, Conservative Sir John A. Macdonald second, Liberal Mackenzie King third and Mr. Trudeau fourth.

Results were made known here by a friend of Mr. Diefenbaker.

Eldon Woolliams (PC-Calgary North) "Oh, oh"

Mr. Trudeau: "Ha, ha."

Ulster's Long Day's Journey Into Night

Ottawa Journal

Northern Ireland continues the long day's journey into night, a night of bloodshed and darkness and peril where there is yet no hope of dawn.

Perhaps the latest shootings and bombings are the final desperate frenzy of madmen who know that their effort to overthrow the state by bullets and gelignite will be allowed to succeed.

That is a possible reading of the terrible new turn which events have taken. Prime Minister Faulkner has been insisting that the gunmen are being worn down; and the Prime Minister of Ulster has been himself a credible man.

But the level of violence today is greater than it was when internment without trial was invoked.

Internment has achieved something which the fanaticism and the revolutionary ideology of the modern IRA could not accomplish: provided a veneer of justification within parts of the moderate Catholic community for at least the passive support of violence. True or not, the allegations of the torture of internees contained in such neutral sources as the London Sunday Times, have played further into the hands of the extremists.

Prime Minister Heath and Mr. Faulkner should have another look at internment. Justifiable though it was, it has transmitted in many minds a band of brigands into patriots and partisans. Abolishing it, if it were possible would be a reconciling gesture which would also make it easier for Prime Minister Jack Lynch to take a tougher stand against those in the South who have been supporting the outlawed IRA.

Nothing could be more fatuous or irrelevant at this moment than the talk of such "solutions" as direct British rule of Ulster from Westminster or, the other extreme now espoused by Senator Edward Kennedy, a final exit to the British connection in Ireland.

In Ireland today the immediate challenge is to contain the contagion of violence; to end the state of siege in Belfast, Derry and Newry and the bombs in the Derry. It is to prevent the border incidents which would give an excuse to hotheads in the South to make Mr. Lynch's moderation look like weakness.

Somehow the moderates have to find an instrument to control violence. The vast majority of Irish, Ulster and the rest moderates. They do not want their country bled any more. They are tired of the divisions and the hatred.

The British Army is the best instrument at the moment, and one shouldn't forget that the Catholic community cheered when it was brought in in 1969. But the army's presence is testimony to the failure of reason and of moderate leadership.

The overwhelming sadness of Ireland today is that a country which has produced so many men, to illumine the thought of the world has now allowed reason to be betrayed with every gunshot and bomb blast.

Greg Clark's Outdoor Scene

Bruce West in
The Globe and Mail

My old hunting and fishin' sidekick, Greg Clark (who'll soon be joining us here on the Globe and Mail staff Weekend Magazine becomes part of our Saturday paper) has another book out which, in my eyes, is one of his best. And that is saying something, because he has produced a lot of good books.

The latest is called Outdoors With Greg Clark (McClelland and Stewart, $5.95) and consists of selections taken from some 3,000 of his "Packsack" columns which he once produced daily. He wrote a lot about the outdoors in that column, because nature and its wild creatures have been one of Greg's favorite subjects throughout his whole long career as an outstanding Canadian journalist.

He has always been hopelessly in love with himself near a forest, field, lake or stream and this love of nature comes through strongly and plainly in his new book. It is filled with perfect little nuggets, minutiae essays based upon his long and affectionate study of nature.

Perhaps some of you have youngsters whom you mean to take through the woods on a stroll . . . some day . . . if ever you get the time. If the years have fleeting by and you're still too busy to carry out your good intentions, get this book and through it allow your youngster to put his hand in that of Greg Clark for a walk along a forest path. It will be a pleasant journey he will long remember.

Vote For Common Market

Ottawa Journal

The final debate on Britain's entry into the European Market was an anti-climax—down even to last night's vote, however surprising the 112-vote margin of the government's victory. But what else could it have been? Great occasions which have been too long billed as such are often emptied of drama and passions by utter predictability.

Everything had been said on both sides of the question. Three Prime Ministers have now sought to enter the ECC as giving the best chance for their economy to match Europe's growth. The anti - Marketeers have warmed ad nauseum against higher prices and selling out British sovereignty for the sake of some dubious unity with the French, the Germans, the Italians, and "those other Europeans". Minds have been closed months ago. Prime Minister Heath knew in advance that he had an assured majority on the issue: that is why he could make the splendid gesture of allowing the Conservatives a free vote.

Yet, whatever its predictability, it was an historic vote last night, the most important taken by the British House since the last war.

But there will be other important votes ahead in the hard slogging to get through Parliament the mass of supporting legislation giving effect to the principle now accepted. Britain is not yet, automatically in the ECC.

In all this it is wise to keep in mind the cautionary comment of the Observer that the phrase "entering Europe" was "portentious and wind swept" when because "for 2000 years Britain has been, politically and economically, a part of Europe."

There will be new trade patterns as the world well knows. But the notion of Britain's insularity has been more emotional than accurate, a concept for poets rather than men of affairs. Certainly belonging to the Common Market, Britain will be in a better position to influence the Community's business. There is every reason to believe that such a possibility will be better for Britain and for Europe.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 3, 1971 . . .

President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected for a second time in a landslide United States election victory 35 years ago today—in 1936. Only Maine and Vermont were behind his opponent, Alfred Landon. The polio-crippled Democratic president won an unprecedented fourth term in the 1944 elections, but died in April, 1945.

1857—Russia launched Sputnik Two into orbit—the first satellite to carry a live animal into space.

1950—The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the federal Parliament may not delegate its exclusive powers to a provincial legislature, and vice versa.

1762—France ceded American mainland colonies to Spain and Britain.

Could Cause Massive Job Loss

Canadians Watch U.S. Tax Legislation Progress with Anguish

WASHINGTON (CP) — To the anguish of Canada and other trading partners, a bit of tax legislation is edging through the United States congressional mill almost unnoticed by the American public and press.

It's practically a carbon copy of a bill that died in the last Congress last year. But Finance Minister E. J. Benson of Canada and some observers here suggest it has a much better chance this time.

Benson says its passage could lead to a massive exodus of manufacturing jobs from Canada to the U.S. European spokesmen say it would put the U.S. in violation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Japan has expressed serious concern over the "potential disruptive" effects of the proposal.

The object of their concern is a clause in an all-embracing tax package that would provide for establishment of Domestic International Sales Corporations which could defer tax payments on much of their income from export business. Some critics say a DISC in fact could be only a paper subsidiary, and that deferment in some cases would amount to a tax exemption.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin of Canada has lumped it together with other measures as part of U.S. "restrictive trade measures." C. A. E. Couture, chairman of the Canadian Export Association, says the DISC proposal in the long run could be more devastating than all other recent U.S. economic moves. He says it could divert to the U.S. the new factories and plant expansions already in the planning stage for Canada.

Aimed at stimulating export business, the DISC scheme would give U.S. companies generous tax benefits to produce inside the U.S. items for export instead of producing them through subsidiaries in other countries, such as Canada.

The over-all tax legislation already has passed the House of Representatives. It probably will get to the Senate floor early in November.

Last session, a similar provision attached to a broad trade reform measure also passed the House but the Senate finance committee balked at the protectionist aroma of the whole trade package and the bill died automatically when the congressional session concluded.

While the country could get along without a trade bill, there is popular support for tax reform and if the bill passes—in one form or another—it is seen likely the DISC proposal would slip through with it.

In both cases, the technique has been to attach the DISC proposal to other legislation that overshadows it in public attention. For instance, this time attention is focused on the bill's provision of some $15.4 billion in tax relief for individuals and corporations over three years.

Saying the Nixon administration's silence on the scheme "cloaks the efforts of the treasury department once again to slide the DISC proposal into the tax law," Prof. Stanley S. Surrey of Harvard law school has termed it a billion-dollar tax loophole.

A DISC—to qualify a firm would have to receive 90 per cent of its revenue from exports or export-related investments—could defer tax payments although profits when distributed to shareholders would be taxed in the normal manner.

Because of complaints that companies would receive a windfall for exports they would ordinarily sell anyway, the House revised the bill to limit deferment to 25-per-cent of the level of export earnings in the base years 1968-70. In cent deferment would be permitted on incremental growth.

This move, observers suggest, enhanced DISC's chances. It is estimated it would reduce the loss in federal revenues to between $100 million and $200 million annually from the $600 million originally estimated.

Organized labor is opposed to the scheme, arguing that it would simply be a bonanza for big business. And some economists have suggested that DISC will not accomplish its main aim—vastly increased jobs and exports.

Another aspect of the bill is a job development credit clause under which a 10-per-cent tax credit would be granted on new investments, but only if the equipment is made in the U.S. This, together with the 10-per-cent import surtax, "would practically paralyse the export to the U.S. of machinery equipment," the European community has charged.

Surrey, writing in the Washington Post, asserts that the DISC law would open a "billion-dollar loophole in the income tax through permitting U.S.- exports—especially our largest corporations—to escape that tax."

Elaborating, he says the value of 15 years deferral—"at the least the period the treasury and business have in mind"—is just about worth the amount of the tax itself, "which makes deferral the equivalent of exemption."

Surrey, assistant treasury secretary for tax policy in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, notes the treasury has said the profits of a DISC, free from taxes, will be used to promote export activities.

"But the tax experts who study the technical details know that these tax-free funds can be used for activities that have nothing-to do with exports," he argues.

Bishops' Synod Upholds Celibacy

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — The world synod of bishops has ended by a large majority to retain the law of celibacy for Roman Catholic priests, Vatican sources said today.

A proposition in favor of maintaining celibacy in the Latin Church received 168 votes in favor out of 202.

Ten bishops voted against the proposition, 21 proposed amendments, and three abstained, the sources said.

The synod, however, failed to come up with the required majority to pass two other propositions on celibacy. One of the would have specifically ruled out the ordination of married men but would have the Pope grant exceptions in some cases.

The other one made recommendations to priests about the best ways to be faithful to their celibacy pledge. Implicitly, however, it also barred reinstatement to those who have left the priesthood in most cases.

The proposition banning a married priesthood, unless the pontiff makes an exception, was rated as the least acceptable in its present wording to the synod. It drew 95 votes in favor and 10 against. Six abstained and 91 proposed amendments.

The other proposition drew 115 yes votes, one no, and 84 proposals for amendments. Two abstained. The required majority for any synod vote is two-thirds.

This meant that those sections in the document must be reworded on the basis of the proposed amendments and put to a vote again.

Life Is Hell After Flood

Santosh Basak of The Associated Press was one of the first newspaper men to visit the coast of Orissa state after it was devastated last weekend by a cyclone and tidal wave. In the following story he writes of the damage to a village he visited.

By SANTOSH BASAK

BHADRAK, India (AP) — In the best of times, life is not prosperous in this small farming town on the coastal plain about 20 miles from the Bay of Bengal.

Today it is hell.

Last Friday afternoon, storm clouds moved in from the coast. By Monday, 'a cyclone and the wash of a tidal wave had swept over Bhadrak and most of the coastal region of the east-central state of Orissa.

The latest official estimate of deaths is 6,000 in the state, but this is expected to rise much higher when reports are received from areas that are still isolated.

Because Bhadrak is not on the coast, it escaped the brunt of the tidal wave, and only 20 of its 7,000 people are known to have died. But the destruction of their mud and bamboo huts and the crop loss on the surrounding farms is a major tragedy for these farm laborers with little or no money and no prospect of getting any.

Sambhu Shau, owner of a small business, said that as the storm clouds built up Friday afternoon, the winds got stronger and stronger.

"The winds were so strong at one point that it was impossible for anyone to stand up without grabbing or holding on to something. By evening, tree tops were touching the ground and the roofs of many houses had blown away."

People frantically threw straw mats—or anything they could get their hands on—on to the roofs of their houses in an attempt to keep them from being blown away.

"But nothing was of much help," Shau said. "People were so frightened. Women and children were crying. It seemed as though that night the whole town was crying."

Sitala Roy, a middle-aged woman who came to a makeshift stand to buy some rice for her family, said the winds swept away her small house "in only a few minutes."

Then, after the cyclone came, the flood waters came and swept away everything that was left of my house," the woman added, sobbing.

Murder Charge Laid

Clifford George Lawrence, 22, of Brampton and David Jefferson, 21, of Clarenceg., Ont., are to appear in provincial court today. They were also charged with the attempted murder of the older brother.

Robert Smith, 19, was killed and his brother Edward left for dead by two men who had commandeered their car. The brothers moved in this town 30 miles northwest of Toronto from Sault Ste. Marie, N.S., about a year ago.

Edward told police he was stabbed and left for dead in a field in nearby Mississauga Township by two men who took over the car in front of a Brampton restaurant.

New Jersey Democrat For Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — Warning that Canada's pro-American policy could be changed to one of anti-Americanism as a result of the 10 per-cent import surcharge, Representative Cornelius E. Gallagher urged Tuesday that the surcharge be dropped from Canadian goods.

"In my view the mounting tide of resentment in Canada caused by the imposition of the surcharge is wholly justified," he said in a House of Representatives speech.

Gallagher, a New Jersey Democrat and co-chairman of the U.S. delegation to the Canada-U.S. interparliamentary group, was introducing a "sense of the House" resolution urging the Canadian exemption.

The unsettling aspects of possible British entry into the European Common Market and Soviet Premier Kosygin's recent trip to Canada "make any unnecessary friction between our two nations especially dangerous," he added. "To alienate such a close friend by continuing the short-sighted surcharge jeopardizes the very security of the United States.

"We must seriously ask ourselves what would be the result of changing Canada's historic pro-American policy to one of anti-Americanism."

"I shop Loblaws regularly because I like it better than the other stores I've tried", says Mrs. Whittacher, who shops for Pvt. "Whenever I've gone somewhere else I've spent just as much money and I haven't been nearly as happy with the food. For instance, Loblaws vegetables and meat are always of the very best quality. And the service here at Loblaws is so much better than in many stores. If I can't find a cut of meat I want on the counter I get them to cut something for me and the butcher here has been very good to me—he always manages to come up with something we really like. In fact, all the people who work at Loblaws are helpful—I've been coming to Loblaws for quite a long time now and really it's just like home. Everyone's so friendly. Nothing is too much trouble".

MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN A. WHITE

White Carter

In the Picton United Church, recently, Rev. R. F. Sherwin united in marriage Eleanor Patricia Carter daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Carter, 78 King Street, Picton, and Stephen Austin White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin White, 11 Fourth Street, Belleville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length A-line gown of white muslin with bodice and cuffs on long full sleeves edged in nylon trished lace. Her cathedral length veil edged with the same lace was held in place by a headband of flowers resembling the fall colors in the bridal bouquet, which was in vivid shades of red carnations, white and yellow 'mums, blue corn flowers and tinted wheat.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Veronica Herman of Ottawa and senior bridesmaid, Mrs. Linda Pearsall of Toronto, wore identical A-line gowns of brilliant multi-colored surrah in floor length with long sleeves and mandarin collars. Miss Angela Carter and Miss Annette Carter, twin sisters of the bride, and Miss Nancy White, sister of the bridegroom, were gowned alike in gold and green crochet crimplene jump suits with floor length overskirts of bright multi-colored surrah slit to the waist. The bridesmaids carried identical flowers of deep shaded gold, yellow and white 'mums with wheat. The tall standards of flowers at the altar were white gladioli and yellow 'mums.

The groomsman was Ted Herman, Ottawa, and the ushers were Doug Olsen, Belleville, Greg White, brother of the bridegroom, Toronto, Corman Milligan and Steve Boyle of Belleville.

The reception was held in the Prince Edward Curling Club lounge where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a coral crepe dress with brown sleeveless coat and a corsage of yellow roses. Assisting the bridegroom's mother wore a brown crimplene dress with matching sleeveless coat and corsage of tangerine colored roses. Uncle of the bridegroom, Robert White of Whitby, was toastmaster.

For the wedding trip to Eastern Ontario, the bride chose a brown and apricot wool dress with corsage of apricot tinted roses. The couple are now residing at 190 Yeomans Street, Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT GLENN FENWICK

Fenwick – Johnston

Eastminster United Church was the scene of the recent marriage ceremony when Janet Marion Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross L. Johnston, Fenelon Falls, Ontario, was united in marriage to Robert Glenn Fenwick of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Fenwick of Newburg, Ontario. Rev. Dr. Harold Swann officiated and wedding music was rendered by Mrs. R. McGugan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length A-line gown of peau de soie featuring a lace bodice with long lace sleeves. A floor length tulle veil was caught to a white velvet headdress adorned with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white daisy 'mums.

Maid of honor was Jane Johnston, twin sister of the bride who wore a full length gown of gold crepe featuring an empire waistline, mandarin neckline and short sleeves trimmed with gold velvet. Her headdress was a gold velvet ruffled bow, and she carried a bouquet of white daisy 'mums intermingled with rosebuds in material to match her dress. Miss Pretoria Johnston of Belleville, sister of the bride, Miss Gloria Flait of Nobleton, cousin of the bride and Miss Nancy Miller of Burlington in sapphire blue were gowned identically to the maid of honor.

Flower girl was Andrea Bolton of Fenelon Falls who wore a gold crepe gown with short sleeves and mandarin neckline trimmed with gold velvet and white lace. Her head dress was gold velvet trimmed with white lace and she carried a white basket of daisy 'mums interspersed with sapphire blue crepe rosebuds.

A reception was held at Club Cedars where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a burgundy shade coat and dress ensemble with matching burgundy feathered hat, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink roses. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother wore a coat dress in autumn brown needlepoint wool crepe with darker brown stole braid trim, two tone brown feathered hat, brown accessories and a corsage of rust 'mums and yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenwick will reside at 27 Humewood Drive, Belleville.

Club Activities

Senior Citizens Club No. 24

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club held a regular meeting at the Recreation Centre with a good attendance Mrs. Kathleen Adams presided and Mrs. Alice Norma was pianist.

One moment of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Hinia Rolland.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Bowers and acting treasurer Mrs. Lulu Longhurst gave the financial standing which included proceeds from the bazaar. Mrs. Gist reported on the sick members who had been remembered by the club. Mrs. Blanche Smith and Mrs. Evelyn Woolcock were reported in hospital.

A birthday party will be held Friday, October 29 at 1 p.m. for those having a birthday in October and they can invite a friend.

The draw was won by Jon Bailey.

After the meeting closed cards were played, the winners being Mrs. Elisa Doyle, Mrs. Marie Feener, Mrs. Margaret Allen, Mr. Fred Smith, Mrs. Martha Fitzgibbon and Mrs. Ruby Bailey.

Refreshments were served the committee for both October meeting being Mrs. Vickers, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Forestell, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. Ford and their helpers.

Two bus loads of members enjoyed a lovely trip to Ottawa on Tuesday. While in Ottawa they were entertained at the Senior Citizens Centre on Richmond Road where the Ottawa members provided a short concert and a lunch in their lovely hall.

Mrs. Adams expressed thanks for their hospitality.

MARMORA SENIOR CITIZENS

Mrs. Edward Post was re-elected to the post of president of the Marmora senior citizens' association at the meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Also returned to the office of treasurer was Mrs. K. J. Donaldson. Mrs. John Heboer was made vice-president and Mrs. George Vilneff will take on the duties of secretary. The various convenors will be chosen at a later date.

Miss Grace Warren read the senior citizens' constitution and acted as chairman for the election of officers.

An invitation has been received from the Havelock association to their "Turkey House" on Nov. 9. Arrangements for a bus will be made if there is a sufficient number of people interested in going. Members should contact Mrs. Post if they wish to attend.

Entertainment at this month's meeting consisted of a reading "October Harvest," by Mrs. Post, "A Little Bit of Humor" by Miss Warren and "The Unexpected Pumpkin" by Mrs. Don Bailey.

A tea and bake sale on Nov. 27 in the seniors' rooms was decided upon.

Tea and birthday cake honoring the five members who had birthdays in September and October was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Prior to her wedding, Mrs. Stephen White (nee Eleanor Carter) was honored at showers given by her co-workers at the Medical Building in Belleville, by Mrs. Ted Herman of Ottawa, Mrs. Bert Pearsall in Picton, and Mrs. Roger Bryant in Wellington.

Church Groups

MADOC BAPTIST MISSION CIRCLE

The October meeting of the mission circle of the Madoc Baptist Church was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Rauws.

In the absence of Mrs. Vaughan, the vice-president, Mrs. George Moorcroft conducted the meeting. She read three poems on Thanksgiving. A hymn was sung and Mrs. Moorcroft led in prayer.

Mrs. George Wood sang a solo.

The last minutes of the meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Gates read a letter from the Sudan Interior Mission, thanking the women for the gift of money given to Miss Watson, to be used for the outfit for going back to Africa.

Offering was taken and roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture pertaining to Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Moorcroft then introduced the speaker, Mrs. Mrs. Rauws, group leader. Scripture was read from Luke. The members noted that the Lord gave thanks for the bread which made his own suffering.

Mrs. Ray read an article on Thanksgiving. Each member then read a verse of Scripture, the occasion for a thanksgiving in the Bible. There were the experiences of Noah, Abraham, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Joshua, David Solomon, Daniel and others.

Mrs. Boodveau read a Thanksgiving piece, Psalm 10. After a hymn, Mrs. Rauws closed with prayer.

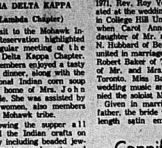
Baker – Hubbard

On Saturday October 23, 1971, Rev. Roy Veasey officiated at the wedding ceremony in College Hill United Church when Carol Anne Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Hubbard of Belleville, was united in marriage to William Robert Baker of Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. White, Toronto. Miss Bailey played wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mrs. Burley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length satin empire styled gown featuring a mandarin collar and full length sleeves. The gown and collar as well as her pillbox headdress with sweeping floor length train, were trimmed with French lace. She carried a bouquet of pale yellow 'mums.



Miss Marlene Hubbard as maid of honor and the brides' maid Miss Judy Charlton, were gowns styled alike in peasant style gold chiffon with cream colored lace bodice and carried a bouquet of dark green 'mums.

John Beardmore attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Mike Deegan, Ronald Hubbard and Garry Baker. Ring bearer was Billie Johnston.

A reception was held in the church hall followed by a dance later in the evening at the CFB Trenton Yacht Club. The bride's mother welcomed the guests wearing a silver and white ensemble with silver accessories and a corsage of white 'mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a turquoise ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and parts of the United States, the bride chose a navy blue crimplene dress and red accessories and a corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside in Belleville.

UCW Rally Held at Westminster Church

The South Hastings Regional rally of UCW was held in Westminster United Church, Wooler, October 25. The theme of the rally was "Trends of Today". Mrs. Percy Barlow welcomed the group and Mrs. C. Sine of Westminster UCW gave a warm welcome on behalf of the UCW and the church session.

Mrs. T. W. Spear, presbyterial president, brought greetings, especially welcoming Frankford UCW into the South Hastings Region. She stressed stewardship and announced the fall festival to be held at Bridge Street United Church Nov. 14.

Mrs. Hagerman, Bloomfield, conducted a lively sing-song accompanied by Mrs. Kidd.

Mrs. Huyck and Mrs. Kelly introduced many new and interesting books, books to go with the Africa Pac, and cassettes in their literature presentation.

Mrs. Barlow read a portion of a letter of appreciation from Mrs. Anow in Angola. She was expressing the thanks of the people there for bales of clothing sent after the 1970 rally. The Presbyterial officers present were introduced. Miss Adams, stewardship secretary, spoke of the coming stewardship workshops to be held at Hallowey Church Nov.

A panel of the "Status of Women" was conducted by Grace United Church UCW. Mrs. G. Chapman as moderator and Mrs. E. Lawrie, Mrs. L. York, and Mrs. C. Smith as panel guests. After the women divided into seven discussion groups which completed the morning session.

Dinner was served in the lower auditorium, Mrs. Spear gave an Africa grace and all enjoyed the delicious dinner served by the Westminster UCW.

The afternoon session opened with a hymn. After some discussion it was agreed to send $20 to Dr. D. Borgal for blankets for the sick and $30 to be sent to Pakistan Relief Fund.

An invitation was received from St. Marks United Church UCW to hold the 1973 rally there and was accepted with thanks.

The women then divided into three groups, rotating to include the following presentations — "Stewardship", conducted by Mrs. C. Thompson, "[illegible] conducted by Mrs. K. Weaver and [illegible] conducted by Rev. C. Roadhouse.

Tabernacle United Church UCW gave an inspiring closing worship service prepared by Mrs. C. Mather and presented by Mrs. A. Charton, Mrs. E. Barlow, and Mrs. L. Dean.

Author Gives Talk On Women's Lib

MONTREAL (CP) — Germaine Greer, outspoken female liberationist and author of the Female Eunuch said Monday that women "might have to put their bodies on the line" in their fight for freedom from male domination.

"Women have to be prepared to go into the streets and be killed. It can amount to a betrayal of your own country," she told a conference on women sponsored by the McGill Alumni Association.

When asked if she herself would be prepared to use guns in the fight, she made fun of the question and passed on to the next.

The 32-year-old English literature lecturer at Warwick University in England told her audience that oppression of women was directly linked to the economic system.

If women stopped being the largest single group of consumers, the economic system would come to a standstill, she said.

"Don't think I'm not aware of these contradictions. I recognize the irony of talking about women's liberation between commercials for vaginal deodorants."

She urged her audience of university students and graduates to further the cause by concentrating on aspects of their careers that specifically applied to women.

She called on female lawyers to pressure for change in abortion and property laws. If the Roman Catholic Church was taxed on its real estate, the government would have enough money to set up day-care centres.

Women doctors must take control of gynecology and research into contraceptive methods. Male doctors and researchers have seen how "the pill" has liberated women, and so have refused to disclose furthermore adverse effects of contraceptives which have less danger of side effects, she said.

"We won't get new methods of birth control unless we badger, and this is where women doctors have a real contribution to make."

An adequate psychology of women has been developed and woman is still categorized in terms of a castrated male. Historians have yet to trace the "castrating" effect of women "taming their women" and literature has failed to explore the concept of a woman's culture, Miss Greer said.

Social scientists must realize they share a common bond the world over. Miss Greer is going on a tour of Pakistan and Viet Nam to find out how American women can help women there.

"We have to make contact with people. We have to contact an enormous mass of women. The important thing for the revolution is to keep the faith."

Women's Institutes

REDNERSVILLE WI

Mrs. H. Weese entertained the Redneresville Women's Institute for the October meeting.

The roll call "A stain and how to remove it" brought several interesting and useful responses.

All signed a card of sympathy to be sent to Mrs. W. Hubbs because of the recent death of her daughter, Alice Wragge.

Mrs. C. Vanclief gave a report of the recent district executive meeting in Picton. The WI activities at Picton fair were discussed and also some suggestions made for next year's fair.

The County WI project, the Century Farms map, needs strengthening and it was suggested to use cheesecloth for backing.

Suggestions of ways to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the WI were asked for. It was decided that the short cooking course, "Ontario Fruit" would hold its first of three meetings at the Redneresville Church hall on Monday, Nov. 8 at 8 p.m. All interested homemakers in the Redneresville district are invited to take the course. For further information contact Mrs. E. Young or Mrs. G. Trounce, leaders.

Combined WI quilting bees and potluck dinners will be postponed until January. Reports on the Area convention held in Belleville Oct. 21 and 22, were given by Mrs. A. Cairns, Mrs. E. Osmond, Mrs. C. Vanclief and Mrs. W. Pulver. Interesting items included a display of crafts: variation of ideas on improving WI relations, given by the public relations officers; a speech by Mrs. Zoeller, Ontario WI president, in which she reported on progress of purchasing the Erland Lee home, illustrated with pictures of the inside and outside of the house.

A resolution was presented — that a change be made in the existing law that holds a property owner responsible for anyone who is injured on his property. This is considered very unfair now that snowmobilers are roaming the countryside, often without the consent or knowledge of the landowner.

At Friday's area convention meeting several suggestions were put forward — a small presentation to the delegate turning in the "pennies for friendship"; selling tickets or quilts not considered a good image for the WI. New projects were discussed and date set for the tailoring course in Bloomfield — March 6 to 17, 1972.

Mrs. H. Bonter introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Hodgson, of Toronto. She is with the Canada Department of Consumer and corporate affairs and gave an informative talk on the handling of consumer complaints and the department's investigation of toys and textile products. She showed a number of toys which gave warning of the flammability of some fabrics. There is a law pending to provide a label on garments, or on material selvage, stating if washable, drycleanable or flammable. Symbols will probably be used for this.

Mrs. Hodgson advised being careful in check for safety advice and to be sure of value before buying. If toys are found to be dangerous they are banned. In case people have a complaint that cannot be satisfactorily settled at the dealers, they are invited to inform the Consumer Consultant nearest us. She also warned that the metric system is definitely on the way. Also a new system of unit pricing in stores is being tested and may be in general use early in 1972.

Mrs. W. Pulver thanked the speaker and hostess and the meeting was adjourned. All enjoyed the generous lunch and social time that followed.

Home And School News

BAYVIEW — HARRY J. CLARK

A general meeting of the Bayview - Harry J. Clarke Home and School Association was held on Tuesday, October 12. The first meeting of the year was called to order by the president Mrs. A. Fort. Mr. G. Muir, the new Bayview principal introduced his staff and Mr. Hackett introduced the teachers from Harry J. Clarke.

Mrs. Fort the introduced Mr. Jack Stephens, president of Hastings County Council of Home and School Associations, who proceeded with the installation of the officers for the current year.

The president then expressed her appreciation for all involved with the "get acquainted tea" especially Mrs. J Fraser and Mrs. G. Brown. She also called attention to the new membership envelopes which have been returned quite favorably.

Mrs. G. Hasselfelt then introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. A. C. McLeod, safety officer for the Ontario Hydro, who gave an interesting talk and demonstration on electrical safety using the Hi-Line demonstrator.

Mr. McLeod was thanked by Mr. J. Stephens.

The adjournment was followed by a social hour conversed by Mrs. D. Davenport. Miss P. May was the pianist for the evening.

Appreciate Surroundings

VICTORIA (CP) — A study of elderly pensioners living in a high-rise apartment building in Hamilton may have found loneliness, fear and isolation to be the dominant characteristics.

The Hamilton study, by pensioner Morris Silber on an Opportunities for Youth grant, said senior citizens in the apartment building didn't get to know their neighbors and remained cut off from one another.

He found in interviews with 120 people that one woman lay dead four days before someone found her, another was sick three weeks without a visitor. One woman said she would have "given anything" to have someone come in her.

In Victoria, a 357-unit 17-storey building for elderlers has just opened, and most reactions are favorable. Residents find the less of their fences and gardens more than made up by the sauna, swimming pool, recreation rooms, and the gorgeous view from their balconies.

One elderly woman, just moved into a bright, airy suite, was told that the Hamilton study found elderly tenants in tall apartment buildings were less active than pensioners who lived in their own homes.

"Naturally, people who have a nice place ar going to stay in it more, but that's Hamilton and I know it well. Ninety below in winter, 90 above in summer—so who wants to go out?

"The retired are a different breed in Victoria. There's so much coming and going that they ought to put in revolving doors."

She said she thought the height would bother her "but now I just feel closer to God."

Seventy-seven per cent of those interviewed in the Hamilton study, although they complained of loneliness and isolation, felt their high-rise suites to be better, or much better. than their former dwellings.

"Some of us, mind you," said a resident of the Victoria building, "would prefere a nice little rose-covered cottage in the country, but there comes a time in your life when you just can't cope with a garden or the emergencies that happen in a house.

"You need to be near the shops, the doctor's office, the plumbers and the rest. Many too, feel a need to be in the centre of things, near the libraries, the theatres, the churches, the parks and squares, the Silver Threads (an old-age recreation group), new or old friends of your own age."

She said it's "just impossible" to find a decent apartment or a house in Victoria. Hundreds of retired "live in airless, cheerless cubicles" paying as much rent as all the new residents of the high-rise.

Legion News

FRANKFORD LEGION, LADIES' AUXILIARY

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Frankford branch of the Royal Canadian Legion held their October meeting in the Legion Hall with the president, Mrs. T. Patrick, in the chair.

The Sergeant-At-Arms, Gail Saulnier, and color party advanced the colors.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and four new members were welcomed: Mrs. Freda Aikenhead from Trenton Mrs. Judi Genereaux, Mrs. Iona Holden and Mrs. Nora Fourvier of Frankford.

Committee reports were read. Banquets last month were a wedding and lunch for the dart and cribbage tournaments.

Plans were made for a visit to Toronto to the Ice Capades on November 6 and for the parade and banquet on November 11.

Plans are being made for the 25th birthday dinner to be held on November 27, with charter members guests, followed by a draw and a dance to which the public is welcome.

The draw for members attendance went to Lois Hughes and the door prize was won by Edna Hall.

With the retiring of the colors, the meeting closed and a social hour and lunch followed.

TIPS ON HOME FREEZING

No. 3 IN A SERIES OF 4

PACKAGING

Before freezing, meat should be prepared in quantities that will suit the needs of the family. Each portion should be wrapped tightly in freezer wrapping or bags to exclude as much air as possible. Steaks, chops or patties will separate more easily if freezer wax paper is placed between the portions

STORAGE TIMES

It is important to mark on each package the kind of meat, weight and date to keep a record of the meat frozen so that no meat will be kept longer than the recommended time.
A guide to the maximum length of time which meat may be stored at zero degrees fahrenheit is:

Sausage and Wieners	2 to 3 weeks	Variety Meats	3 to 4 months
Processed Cooked Meats.		Pork Roasts	4 to 5 months
Meat Loaves, Stews, etc.	1 to 2 months	Veal Roasts or Ch:	4 to 5 months

Woman Economist Is in Commission

OTTAWA (CP) — Irene Johnson is a labor economist who has moved through government ranks to the federal deputy-minister level as one of the three commissioners of the Public Service Commission. She has her work cut out for her.

The commission concentrates on effective staffing of the public service—hearing appeals, providing training and development services. It is committed to the process of increasing bilingualism among federal employees.

Last year, following a study of women in the public service, the commission also established a centre to ensure equal employment opportunities for men and women in the service.

Mrs. Johnson said in an interview the commission wants "as publicize as widely as possible that we are committed to equal opportunity and that we are going to monitor as well as possible practices in the public service to ensure women get an equal shake."

Mrs. Johnson, born in Winnipeg, succeeded Ruth Addison, another former Winnipeg woman, in the commissioner's job last July.

She is a slim, attractive woman with a low voice, brown hair drawn severely back into a bun and engaging smile. She is the mother of a 13-year-old son, Blaine

Her road to government service really began with a decision to pursue her studies after taking a degree in law in 1947 at the University of Toronto.

She was interested in labor and industrial relations generally and she went after a master's degree in economics. A Hudson's Bay Co. scholarship took her to the London School of Economics in 1949 for post-graduate work in industrial relations.

"I enjoyed it thoroughly," she recalls. "I was there nearly two years looking at labor economics and collective bargaining in a European setting."

District Club Activities

QUINTE FIELD NATURALISTS

The Quinte Field Naturalists held their October meeting on Monday, October 25 at the Entomology Research Institute on Dundas Street East. Irwin Knight presided in the absence of the president, Terry Sprague.

Among business items discussed the club voted to give a contribution to George Woodhouse to help defray the cost of feed at his Wildlife Feeding Sanctuary off Elmwood Drive; and to seek more information on the proposed Quinte to Algonquin Trail. Advance notice was given of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists visit to nearby Prince Edward Point next May, and members were asked to keep the date free to participate.

A committee composed of Mrs. I. Knight, Miss Daisy Young and Miss Lillian Hart was selected to nominate a new slate of officers. Naturalists were reminded that the next meeting will be members night when people are asked to bring specimens, slides or articles pertaining to club interests.

It was noted that a flock of bluebirds had been sighted recently in the Spencymoor Road area. Lists of wild flowers found in the Quinte area were handed in to Irwin Knight, a start towards the floral section of the natural history record.

During the second half of the evening Mr. Knight showed colored slides taken during a family trip this past summer across the United States to Yellowstone National Park. Pictures of the bizarre geographic formations of the Badlands of the Dakotas and the hot water phenomena of the famous park, together with close-ups of birds and flowers, provided members with an interesting and delightful evening.

WHITE CANE CLUB

Mrs. Maude Rollins read the correspondence and the Canadian Council of the Blind newsletter for October. Several items in the letter were of particular interest to the members.

The proposed legislation re the raising of personal exemption for single and married taxpayers, also the extra exemption for persons 70 years and over was discussed. The news that the guaranteed income supplement, which goes to pensioners with little or no income other than their old age security pension, will no longer be taxable was greeted with enthusiasm.

A report from India states that the number of eye patients treated last year was 210,694; 21,732 patients were given operations for the restoration of sight and 6,587 operations for the prevention of imminent blindness were performed. The help of the Council and CCB Clubs throughout Canada, in keeping the Mobile Clinic in operation is deeply appreciated by both patients and doctors.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Rollins entertained with piano and vocal solos which were greatly appreciated.

Hypochondriacs Have Real Problems, Should Get Counselling Instead Of Pills

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 13-year-old girl and my problem is 42. He is my father. Every chance he gets he runs to the doctor. It's almost as if he wants to be sick. At least six doctors have examined Dad from head to toe and told him they can't find anything wrong. Then he gets mad and goes to another doctor. All this costs a lot of money and mother is fed up with the doctor bills and the medicine that costs a fortune.

The other evening my father complained of a terrible pain in his stomach and wanted Mom to drive him to the hospital. Mom said: "You were at the hospital last week with the same pain and the doctor said it was nerves and all he could do was give you some medicine to calm you down."

He put mad at her and yelled; "I feel like jumping off a cliff." I said in a very soft voice; "Well, nobody is stopping you." Thank God he didn't hear me but I am just miserable to think I could have such thoughts about my own father.

Is there something wrong with me that I can't stand to be around all this complaining? Is there anything I can do to help my father? Can you explain to me why a person would want to be sick? I need to hear from you, Ann.—Ashamed Daughter.

Dear Daughter: Nobody wants to be sick. While your father may not be physically ill, some of the other homes once in a while. Hamburgers, cold drinks and gallons of ice cream aren't exactly free. The problem is that Diane wants us out of the house when she has her friends over. My husband and I are getting tired of being driven out of our own home.

We have orders to be gone by 7 p.m. and not return until 12:30 a.m. I have told Diane her dad and I see no reason why we can't be in our upstairs bedroom when her guests arrive. They wouldn't even see us. This could not possibly interfere with their good time. She says just knowing that parents are around puts a damper on any party. She wants us out.

I've talked my husband into going along with her thinking but he is becoming annoyed. Diane's argument is that we should be glad she is popular and has friends and we should help her stay that way. You are going to settle this. Thanks.—Headache in Santa Barbara

Dear Head: I'm sorry you didn't write to me the first time your daughter instructed you to leave the house while she entertained. I would have told you to veto the suggestion and lay down your rules for party-giving. Parents should be somewhat in evidence when teen-agers arrive for a party, not hang around, but at least say "hello." They should then disappear from sight but remain under the roof—and the kids should be aware that they are somewhere on the premises.

Woman Successful in Law Career

OTTAWA (CP) — Something about law began to fascinate Elizabeth McFadyen back in Grade 9 and she says she "couldn't let go after that."

Now the courtroom is familiar to the attractive 31-year-old lawyer, just appointed director of the new Edmonton regional office of the federal justice department.

Originally from Saskatoon, Elizabeth, or Liz as she is often called, looks forward to returning to the Prairies although she says she enjoyed her 1½ years in Ottawa with the justice department's tax litigation section.

She did both research and court work dealing with appeals against tax assessments.

"It's fascinating," Miss McFadyen says. "It was a fairly new field for me.

"I enjoy sitting down and preparing a case for trial, deciding on the different arguments to be taken into court and going to court." In short, she likes the whole process.

Parents May Change Their Mind About Boyfriend After Meeting Him

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I've settled down now but my parents won't believe it. I am 17. I am going with a guy who is away working in the bush and we write to each other.

One day while my mother was making her tour of my bedroom she found the letters and she read them. She has no respect for what is private to other people. She rubbernecks (that's what we call it when people listen in on other people's phone calls on party lines) every time the phone rings.

She not only read the letters but showed them to my father. They got the wrong things he said as a joke they thought he really meant.

Mom said I was to break up with him. — Unfair

P.S. My mother always reads your column but never listens to it. But if it is to her advantage she'll make me read it, but not the other way around.

Dear Unfair: You were a bit old before days they are going to have to grant you the right to be a person.

* * *

Dear Doris: Before I was married I was a teacher and accustomed to making my own decisions. Since marriage, my husband has dominated anything I do. He feels I should have no life of my own.

Now the children are on their own. I would like to visit more and take some adult education classes but he just wants to sit and vegetate. I am dependent on him financially. I made the mistake of putting all my money in the farm. I have to ask permission to use the car and then I get accused of gadding.

If I lived in town I could just walk out but on a farm you can't walk that far.

Should I have a showdown — and a showdown it would be! — Rooster-Picked

Dear Rooster-Picked: Yes — and the sooner the better. If you still have the spirit to stick up for yourself, scare him out of his wits by doing so. Better remind him that you are a person too, and that it just isn't good for anybody to be completely isolated from community things.

Remember you have been playing the Caspar Milquetoast role for a good long time. If you had demanded your rights may years ago, you wouldn't be taking these peace-at-any-price consequences now.

* * *

Confidential to Mrs. Ecker: We have seen your handwritten poem about Strawberry Rean en to the reader who was asking for it — and thank you for going to the trouble of copying it out for us.

* * *

Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write for private reply.

Fellowship Service Held at Rawdon Church

RAWDON — On Monday evening Oct. 25, Mount Pleasant - Rawdon United Church women were hostesses for the annual autumn ladies' fellowship service. There were 90 in attendance with eight churches represented.

The president, Mrs. Garth Joslin gave a special message and a welcome to all.

Mrs. Roy Taylor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was pianist and during the devotional Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh sang. Mrs. Allan Wells of St. Paul's United Church was in charge of the devotional with the theme "the wonders of our Father's World". A large array of pictures on that theme were shown. E. W. Bogart read the commentary which closed with a hymn.

The offering was gathered by Mrs. J. Doran and Miss Alice O'Donnell of St. James the Minor Church and dedicated by Mrs. Orno Sharpe.

Mrs. S. McArton of St. Johns introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Pat Bogstad of Kingston. She is an officer of the diocese and works in the family life department. She gave an interesting message on this subject, after which Mrs. Blake Faulkner showed a film entitled Jamie, which had been prepared by the National Film Board.

A discussion period followed with six leaders, Mrs. Jack Burd, Mrs. Edward McDonald, Mrs. Gerald Russell, Mrs. Grace McKeown, Mrs. Doris Wells and Mrs. G. Sutherland.

The president thanked all the church leaders for their assistance and the meeting closed with prayer.

The offering will be given to Bibling public library to purchase books.

The committee in charge under the leadership of Mrs. Burton Sharpe served light refreshments. Mrs. Jack Bath thanked the Mount Pleasant-Rawdon UCW for hospitality.

ADULT FICTION

THEIRS WAS THE KINGDOM — R. F. Delderfield

This is the second volume of the Swann saga begun with God is an Englishman. The novel is both a family chronicle and a mirror of Victorian England with its stinging revelations of social ills. It is an entertaining and compelling tale.

THE DAY OF THE JACKAL — Frederick Forsyth

An excellent novel of suspense, his is the story of a killer in a thrilling race against time as two men duel to save or kill the head of state.

CODE FIVE: A NOVEL OF A CRUSADING DOCTOR — Frank G. Slaughter

STORIES AND PROSE POEMS — Alexander Solzhenitsyn

A fine collection of short stories and parables by the Russian novelist and Nobel Prize winner which will appeal to all ages. Alexander Solzhenitsyn is unquestionably one of the major writers of our time; he is a master portrayer of the human condition and spirit.

DEATH OF THE FOX — George Garrett

Related in flashback and obviously a well-researched narrative opens with an account of the week following Sir Walter Raleigh's trial for treason. King James I, Francis Bacon, Edward Coke, and Raleigh himself come alive in vignettes during this critical era of English history to convey the impact of Raleigh on his countrymen.

FIRE SERMON — Morris Wright

Perky Floyd Warner and his orphaned grand-newphew Kermit live together as next of kin in respect and awareness of the 70 years and several worlds between them. Their 1,948-mile journey from the west coast to Nebraska in an old house trailer hagged by a Maxwell is constantly interrupted by the necessity for watering the car and by he reappearances of a young hitch-hiking couple whose lifestyle is anathema to the old man and a source of interest to the boy.

BOOKS DO FURNISH A ROOM — Anthony Powell

The immediate postwar years of the 1940s see Nicholas Jenkins returning to civilian - literary life and again becoming involved with old friends and acquaintances in and around London, who have figured in previous Powell novels.

LEAVEAS MAN—Hammond Innes

In this engrossing, suspenseful adventure novel steeped in anthropological lore seaman Paul Van der Voort returns to his Amsterdam home only to find his brilliant but discredited anthropologist father has disappeared in Greece. His search for his father takes many strange avenues before he finds the elder Van der Voort red his controversial excavation.

ANGLE OF REPOSE—Wallace Earl Stegner

The title of this novel is actually a geological term for the slope at which rocks cease to roll and is used here as a symbol of human life. Time is the protagonist and a tragically crippled but talented man, himself past middle age, explores through his grandmother's drawings, letters, and publications her life with her engineer husband in his struggle to use his talents in a time not quite ready for him.

Single Tender Turned Down

PICTON (Staff) — Town council's public works committee has rejected a lone tender submitted by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company for the reconstruction of Hill Street.

The open tender was returned when the committee received last minute information of possible government grants for the project.

Then questioned by Picton reeve Albert Piroth, committee chairman James Bird admitted the tender was higher than an estimate provided by the town's consulting engineers, Totten, Simms and Hubicki.

Mr. Piroth argued that the town is now in "a rather awkward position "since the tender was opened and the construction company's bid might be revealed to competitors if re-submission later takes place.

Mr. Bird said two other construction firms had picked up tender forms but did not submit tenders.

He stressed the McFarland bid was not considered only because council could be eligible for government assistance. The fact that the bid was higher than the estimate by Totten, Simms and Hubicki played no part in the decision.

"We must have a guideline," said Mr. Bird.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: When is the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto?

ANSWER: The Royal Winter Fair is at the Royal Coliseum, Exhibition Park, from Nov. 12 - Nov. 20. You should reserve your horse show seats now before they are all sold out. Friday and Saturday evenings — $5 and $4, Monday through Thursday evenings and Sunday matinee (Nov. 14) $3.50 and $4.50. Saturday matinee, $3 and $4. Ticket price includes general admission to the Royal Winter Fair.

QUESTION: We are taking a golf holiday the end of November and would like a few suggestions on places to play in the southern USA.

ANSWER: Georgia would be ideal. It's a 2½-day drive to the coast (about 1,135 miles). There is the elegant Savannah Inn and Country Club and golf course, or you could drive about 75 miles south to St. Simon's Island and adjacent small Seal Island which have good golf courses but not many hotels. A little further south, over another causeway is Jekyll Island with several oceanside golf courses and good motels on miles of hard-packed, sandy beach. The prices of motels here are reasonable. For sight - seeing, there are 30 room mansions inhabited from 1886 until World War II by the Rockefellers, Astors, Vanderbilts, etc. A few are open and one is a museum. Incidentally, golf was introduced by Scottish settlers in Georgia in 1736.

QUESTION: We are planning a trip to Europe next spring and plan to spend four months there. Is it worth buying a car there and importing it back to Canada? What would duty be? Could we arrange for a car to be ready for us in Europe on our arrival?

ANSWER: This is difficult to answer. You would have to be in Europe 6 to 9 months to bring back a car duty free. But the 33⅓ per cent duty you would pay otherwise could easily be offset by the amount you would have had to pay on a drive-yourself rental car. The advantage would depend on how much driving you intend to do. Telephone a local dealer for the car you want for detailed information regarding price and duty. If you buy through him, he will arrange for delivery to your hotel in Europe and getting the car back to Canada.

Six common driving mistakes that cause four out of five accidents:

Poor visual habits. Be aware of what is going on around you. You should not only know what is going on in front, to the sides and rear of your car, but also what is going on in front of cars ahead of you. Poor visual habits are probably the most common cause of accidents.

Failure to maintain a proper distance. Keep enough space between your car and the cars in front, to the sides, and behind at all times.

Speed too high for existing conditions. Compensate for bad weather and night driving by slowing down. Even 30 miles an hour is too fast for some conditions.

Use of alcohol and drugs. Approximately 50 percent of fatal accidents are caused by alcohol and drugs, and a great many smaller accidents are the result of someone having one too many before driving.

Fatigue and inattention: Do not overdrive yourself. On a long trip stop every two hours take a break and refresh yourself. Long hours at the wheel can give you highway hypnosis. Accidents caused by tiredness and inattention are running - off - the - road accidents. It takes only a few seconds before you are off the road and wrapped around a tree or telephone pole.

Failure to yield right-of-way. This includes failure to observe and obey traffic controls and signs. Right-of-way must be yielded to pedestrians as well as to other automobiles. It is always easier to blame the other guy.

Madoc

MADOC — The Tabernacle mid - week prayer and Bible study was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Heeney in Bannockburn recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Bradford of Madoc village, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Direct distance dialing was prematurely put into use last weekend when the telephone company's operators went on strike, leaving the Bell offices short of staff. A bit of confusion resulted for some residents, but on the whole, most report being very pleased with the fast, efficient service of dialing direct.

Court Hears Warden

KINGSTON (CP) — One of the first prison officials to enter Kingston penitentiary April 18, after four days of rioting, said Tuesday he had difficulty immediately identifying two prisoners who died of apparent beatings.

Bernard Fleming, 57, assistant deputy warden, was testifying at the non-capital murder trial of 13 prisoners charged in connection with the death of fellow-inmates Brian Ensor, 26, who died during the riot, and Bertram Robert, 34, who died of injuries a month later.

Mr. Fleming told the court he saw Robert still alive, being taken from the prison on a stretcher and that his face was so badly battered he had difficulty identifying him.

He said he located the body of Ensor lying on the main floor of the south-wing cellblock. "I presumed he was dead. . . . His head was smashed in. . . . I had to turn him over to identify him properly."

Labor Wants Say in Automation

TORONTO (CP) — Organized labor is ready to fight any move to weaken proposed federal legislation that would give unions power to oppose the adverse effects of automation, the president of the Canadian Labor Congress said Tuesday.

"Limited as this legislation is, it has already aroused strong opposition from employer groups across the country," Donald MacDonald told delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Businessmen, he said, "are rallying their forces and they are applying political pressures in the way in which they are so adept.

"I just want to serve notice that organized labor has a fight on its hands—and we don't intend to back away from it—to see that adequate protection is adopted to protect workers who are likely to be the victims of automation."

As a signal of concern, the federation also sent off a telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau warning that labor will protest any retreat from the proposed legislation as a "betrayal of the working people not only of this province but of all Canada."

The legislation, Bill C-253, was introduced in the Commons in June by Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey.

A main feature opposed by both the Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is a clause which would extend to unions a limited right to strike in the event of disagreements over the introduction of technological change in an industry.

In other business Tuesday, the OFL decided that welfare benefits should be available for workers who are on strike and qualify under the law.

Convention delegates overwhelmingly supported a policy statement arguing that strikers are entitled to benefits at least as much as are the families of prisoners convicted of crimes.

A ban on the employment of off-duty policemen by strike breaking agencies was urged by Don Montgomery, president of the Metropolitan Toronto Labor Council.

"If we are going to have cops making $10,000 or $11,000 a year in salaries paid by taxpayers then we should ask if they need to moonlight," Mr. Montgomery said.

"If it is to be allowed, then there should be restrictions on what they can do."

Mr. Montgomery said the "moonlighting cop" has become the secret weapon of the up-to-date strike-breaking agency.

Waffle Rebuffed

TORONTO (CP) — An effort to unsign the Ontario Federation of Labor towards a more radical stance earned only political bruises for the left-wing Waffle labor caucus Tuesday.

The main push by the Waffle unionists, identified with the left wing of the New Democratic Party, was over a convention resolution urging immediate discussions "with non-affiliated labor bodies in an attempt to have them become actively involved in the main stream of labor."

Roughly translated, the resolution was a challenge to the federation executive and the Canadian Labor Congress. The principal mavericks outside Canada's house of labor are the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, expelled in 1960 for alleged gangsterism, and the United Electrical Workers, said to be Communist-led and disaffiliated since the late 1940s.

The Wafflers dominated a convention-floor debate over the resolution.

Andre Beckerman of the Canadian Union of Public Employees argued that the federation executive was trying to keep alive quarrels "which should have been buried years ago."

In support, William Longridge of the United Steelworkers said the executive's opposition to the resolution was "so far removed from reality that it calls into question its intelligence."

Federation President David Archer replied he is, not opposed to the return of the mavericks so long as they follow the CLC constitution. He objected, however, to any implication that CLC leadership was responsible for the break in solidarity.

His position was upheld in a show of hands that followed and it was made to stick despite an angry demand for a roll-call vote.

China's Ottawa Envoy Is Given Post at UN

OTTAWA (CP) — Huang Hua, Peking's first ambassador to Canada, learned from reporters Tuesday he is to serve concurrently as the permanent Chinese representative at the United Nations in New York.

There was immediate speculation that the appointment is a temporary one or that Peking will be naming a new ambassador to Canada.

The 58-year-old envoy, asked for a statement as he left a meeting with External Affairs Undersecretary A. E. Ritchie, confessed to reporters he had not been informed of the appointment. He said he would have to check the cables when he got back to his office.

Announcement that Mr. Huang had been named by his government as China's permanent UN representative and delegate to the 15-nation Security Council was made at United Nations headquarters.

Heading Peking's 10-member delegation to the current General Assembly will be Chiao Kuan-hua, vice-minister of foreign affairs. The assembly voted last week to admit the people's republic to membership in the world organization, and expel the Chinese Nationalists.

Four Seasons to Open Room for Younger Set

The Four Seasons Hotel in Belleville is "getting with it" by opening a new room, to be called the Mad Mechanic, designed to cater to the young crowd.

Only seven months after the opening of the city's newest hotel, management has decided that the dual purpose of the upstairs lounge and the dining room works against itself while musicians are performing.

Christopher Cornwall, manager of the hotel, said this morning, "it is very uncomfortable for people to sit in the dining room and compete with a band while trying to talk to the person across from them."

For this reason, management has been booking entertainment that "plays down the middle of the road," said Mr. Cornwall.

With the opening of the new room, "we will be able to provide the correct atmosphere for both the quiet dinner and conversation music in the existing bar, and wild, crazy, loud music in the room to be constructed beneath the lounge and bar.

The firm responsible for designing the building has undertaken the job of the addition, and with plans now completed, Mr. Cornwall anticipates that the new room will go under construction at the close of the month and the job will be finished no later than March.

Designed after similar rooms in other hotels included in the Inn on the Park chain, the name Mad Mechanic is brought from the first such room constructed.

"The room was built in the space once occupied by a garage used for client parking," said Mr. Cornwall. "The external appearance of the building will remain as is."

As Mr. Cornwall says, "the swinging, hip, with it, room will be definitely geared to the young crowd and decor for the room will be rough but orderly."

"Rough plaster and painted pipes," says Mr. Cornwall, "will make up the walls while parts of old cars, license plates and headlamps will ornament the room."

Draft, which Mr. Cornwall says "will be drunk by the gallon by the young crowd," will be served as well as the convenience of a complete bar.

The room, which has a capacity of at least 300 and dancing space for another 80, will be bringing in bands such as the Davis tour band Jalopy and Celebration, which appeared earlier in the hotel but were "just too much for the quiet older folk," added Mr. Cornwall.

The new room will be a separate entity from the rest of the building, using its own entrance below the now existing one, and also having its own staff.

"It's better to keep the both groups separated as much as possible," said Mr. Cornwall.

"After all, this is the nature of the room, to give the kids what they want and the adults what they want."

While many of the final details have not been worked out, management of the hotel states, "this idea was not an overnight thing, rather it was proposed as soon as we knew we would be opening here. It was financial restrictions that limited us to the rooms that we have at present."

Banquet, Dance November 25

PICTON (Staff) — A banquet for members of the Prince Edward County Holstein Club will be held Thursday, November 25, at 7 p.m. in Demorestville Hall.

A dance will follow dinner and the presentation of club awards. Music will be provided by the Cherry Valley Sweethearts and the Branded Men.

Tickets are available at $2.25 from members of the holstein club or the agricultural office, Picton.

CPR Wants Speedup

The Canadian Pacific Railway wants to increase the speed of its trains passing through the city.

And to make this a possibility it is recommending that the John Street level crossing be closed and that crossing protection be provided for George and Church Streets.

Committee members indicated they would have no strong objection to closing John Street providing an access roadway could be provided parallel to the tracks and connecting with another street.

The present speed limit of CPR trains passing through the city is 10 miles per hour and the railway would like to have this increased to 40.

The committee recommended that a meeting be arranged with both railways to discuss the crossing closing and the possibility of securing an access roadway.

Renovation Plan May Change

PICTON (Staff) — Plans for a $75,000 renovation program for the former Mary Street school as lockup and town office facilities could be altered by town council if the county courthouse is vacated.

Councillor William Lane Monday night told councillors that possibly the Ontario government will proceed with a building project which could incorporate the offices remaining in Hall and perhaps the registry office as well.

If this rumored plan is developed, Mr. Lane noted the registry office could also provide lockup facilities. Office space could be rented in Shire Hall.

He suggested council should investigate this alternative before continuing with its renovation plan for Mary Street School.

Mayor Ackerman confirmed that the offices used by the town at the former Prince Edward County Jail will remain available indefinitely.

Councillor Lane observed that this development with the time needed to examine possible use of other facilities.

Urges Dog Control

Danger of Rabies Stressed by MOH

Two children in Prince Edward County are undergoing anti-rabies treatment and Quinte district health officials are appealing to both public authorities and private individuals to restrict domestic animals which may become carriers of the fatal disease.

The warning last night was issued in Belleville by Dr. C. R. Lenk, medical officer of health for Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

Dr. Lenk fears there may have been an increase in the number of rabid wild animals — especially foxes — in the area.

"Now, when the weather gets cooler those creatures come nearer to human residential areas and get in fights with (domestic) animals like dogs and cats."

Recently, in Prince Edward County, two children were bitten by a dog which proved to be rabid," he said.

As a result the youngsters now are undergoing treatment — a painful 4-day technique in which serum is injected under the skin of the stomach.

Dr. Lenk did not specify where the incident occurred or the identities of the children.

However, federal government district veterinarian Dr. J. F. McCorquodale, said his staff investigated an incident at Demorestville recently in which laboratory tests showed a dog was rabid.

However, the report given the federal veterinarian was that the animal had rushed at a man "but never touched him".

Dr. McCorquodale said there had been a "slight increase" in the rabies incidence in Hastings County — but not over the county as a whole. One pocket of increase was isolated to Rawdon Township, he said.

Some farm animals had died from the disease and the wild carriers appeared to be mostly foxes.

Dr. Lenk appealed to private householders to keep pets restricted and also to municipal authorities in both counties to either enforce more strictly existing bylaws on animals running at large or produce ordinances in rural municipalities which have no such measures.

He believed there were some municipalities in his jurisdiction which still did not possess such bylaws.

Dr. Lenk conceded that in more desolate rural areas "on lonely farms, bona fide farmers will use dogs to protect their property and this is a different story".

However, persons visiting such properties — and approached by dogs — should remain in their automobiles until a human appears on the scene.

But different attitudes must apply in more populous areas he said.

"Even in this city (Belleville) you see so many dogs running loose because people don't care," said the health officer. "Yet, it is their responsibility for human life."

There also are legal involvements: Anyone bitten by a domestic animal can sue, he pointed out.

"I know the police and the Ontario Humane Society (officials) — the latter hold annual control contracts in Belleville — are doing what they can," said Dr. Lenk. "But it's still not enough."

He believed it might be "a good thing" if some owners whose pets have been picked up running at large "were prosecuted and fined heavily" as deterrent examples.

"After all, we all like animals but we cannot risk human life because of them," he said.

'Let's Try It Just One More Time!'

A novice gets sympathetic aid from couple of veterans as city school children participate in free skating time at City's Memorial Arena today. Phillip Rosebush, 6, who said it was his first time on skates — was guided around rink by Ronnie Bell, 12, (left), Robert Bruce, 13. Event was part of program providing youngsters with ice time, worked out with separate, public schools and city recreation authorities.

City Children Get More Ice Time

It was as representative a bit of icing as you'd find anywhere — not that all of 'em found it a piece of cake.

Some glided gracefully; some skated smoothly; the odd few slithered helplessly to the ice.

The scene: Belleville's Memorial Arena rink this morning with several hundred public school youngsters away from their desks and out on the ice.

It's all part of a plan worked out between public and separate school authorities and the city's Recreation Arena Committee to give city youngsters more time on their skates.

City Recreation Director Larne Williams says the idea was launched on a trial, part-time basis last year. Now ice time is made available to school authorities between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. — except on Fridays, which is rink maintenance day.

"We provide the ice time, they (school officials) provide the schedule," he explained.

In a broader sense, the program is also reciprocal, since the recreation department uses city schools for some of its night-time community programs, he said.

It's certain the skating program will prove profitable since it reaches — through the schools — the bulk of city youngsters.

It gives young skaters added ice time and allows some of the smaller fry "who may have never skated before a chance to start skating," he says.

Picton Council Approves $93,450 Sewer System

PICTON (Staff) — Opposed by Picton reeve Albert Piroth, town council has approved the construction of new sanitary sewers on Bridge Street at an estimated cost of $93,450.

Council's decision to continue with plans for the sewer was blasted by reeve Piroth as "putting the cart before the horse" since 20 to 25 million gallons of raw sewage overflows annually from the Bridge Street pumping station into Picton Bay.

This overflow occurs during March and April creating "a deplorable situation at the head of Picton Bay," according to the reeve.

He added council has been cognizant of this situation for several years but said he blamed the town's firm of consulting engineers for failure to provide a multi-phase program including correction of the sewage overflow.

Mr. Piroth felt council should correct conditions permitting the sewage drain, then build a new sanitary sewer.

Mayor Margaret Ackerman said she felt the overflow has existed since the installation of town sewers and remarked the new sanitary sewer would not have won the approval of the Ontario Water Resources Commission if the problem had been "too serious."

She predicted that when leakage is stopped in the Hill Street sewer, the problem of overflow will be reduced.

Picton deputy - reeve James Bird voiced agreement with reeve Piroth but stated the town is attempting to correct the situation with the advice of the OWRC.

He said the OWRC is aware of the overflow and commented the town should build a new sewer on Bridge Street, placing the pumping station next in priority.

"It only happens at the peak flow in the spring when sewers overflow and raw sewage gets into the head of the bay," said Mr. Bird.

The deputy - reeve suggested Mr. Piroth was being "too harsh" with the town's consulting engineers who have not been asked for specific advice on the problem because of the cost factor involved.

Council has resolved to apply to the Ontario Municipal Improvement Corporation for $93,450 in debentures to be paid over a 20-year period with an interest rate of 8.3 per cent.

City Ambulance Team Makes Good Showing

A squad of Belleville ambulance employees placed 12th among 54 entries at an international first-aid competition at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, last month.

The five man team from City Ambulance, making its first competitive appearance finished ahead of five other Canadian entrants in the International Rescue and First Aid Association's annual contest. The remaining participants were all American.

The local squad spent three weeks preparing for the event, although this presented some difficulties. "As professional rescue men," said Bob Howell, vice-president of City Ambulance, "we are not just involved in first aid and the fellows must come down to a first aid level."

Taking extensive casualty equipment, the team had plenty of opportunity to put it to use as they were asked to take charge of operations at a typical accident scene.

"You are given two or three victims, informed about what has happened and about possible injuries and then told to do a further examination," said Mr. Howell.

"Theoretically there will be bystanders so you have the problem of everyone interfering. You have to appoint people for specific jobs such as crowd control, going for an ambulance, applying first aid and setting up equipment."

The team was asked to perform in three different situations, each observed by a pair of judges. Scores were determined by the speed and comprehensiveness of the operation.

The IRFAA also has European members and last year a group was sent overseas from the United States to demonstrate American first aid techniques with the aid of an ambulance and an assortment of equipment.

The meeting in Myrtle Beach also gave members a chance to view an extensive display of new rescue devices and vehicles.

Mr. Howell said his team was pretty happy with its 12th place showing. "It's difficult because most of the U.S. teams are volunteers who go to practice for their own enjoyment. With the Belleville group, first aid is a business and we have nothing more than an inservice training program which, unfortunately, does not include first aid instruction."

"In future," he said, "knowing what to expect and what the judges are looking for will stand us in good stead."

Anchors - - and Ships - - Aweigh

When winter winds blow hearty and inland sailors take to warmer pastimes, nautical carriers are put to rest. Each fall, giant cranes hoist ships, such as the Johan of Rhu, onto drydock supports. At the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, owner Robert Wartman of Napanee, had his 32-foot yacht plucked from the water to join other local ships.

Red Wings Dreading Those Last 20 Minutes

Hamilton Red Wings of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series must dread playing the third period against Toronto Marlboro.

The Marlboros scored three goals in the final period Tuesday in blanking the Wings 3-0 in Hamilton. On Sunday in Toronto, Marlboro went into the final period trailing, 3-0 but poured in four goals to win 4-1.

Bill Harris opened the scoring at the 8:04 mark and Peter Marrin added the second at 8:22. Paulin Bordeleau scored the third goal with two minutes left to play.

The win boosted Toronto into a fifth-place tie with Ottawa 67s in the 10-team league.

At London, the seventh-place Knights scored three goals in just over three minutes in the second period when the score was 2-2.

Reg Thomas scored three goals, Randy Rowers and Lou Nistico two each, and Jay Babcock his first of the season for London.

Tom Cassidy scored twice for Kitchener with Mike Kennedy and Bruce Herridge adding single goals.

There were 24 penalties, including game misconducts to Cassidy and London's Gary Silcher and a match penalty to Kitchener's Bill Barber for slashing Nistico early in the final period.

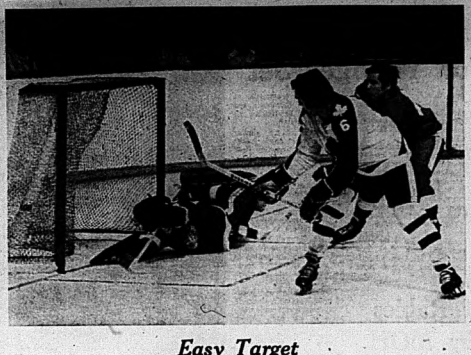
Hull May Miss Wednesday Game



CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks may miss Wednesday night's National Hockey League game with Philadelphia because of a knee sprain, but is expected to return by the weekend.

Coach Billy Reay said Tuesday:

"The doctor examined his knee Monday, gave him a shot and now we'll just have to wait and see how he is Wednesday."

Hull suffered a sprain to his left knee Sunday in Vancouver as the Hawks lost 6-2.

Cazzie Russell, traded by New York Knicks during the off-season, pumped in a pro career high of 42 points Tuesday night to lead Golden State Warriors to a 108-91 victory over Baltimore Bullets in the National Basketball Association.

Russell sank 16 of his points in the final period to break open a close game as the Warriors won their fourth straight and six of their last seven.

Chet Walker scored nine points in the last two minutes to spark Chicago Bulls over Phoenix Suns 109-101 in the other game scheduled.

Russell's 42 points came on 20 field goals and three free throws as he improved his game average to 26.5 points on 265 points in 10 games. In addition, he grabbed 15 rebounds. Jack Marin was high for the Bullets with 28 points.

Phoenix wiped out a 12-point deficit to tie Chicago at 96-96 before Walker broke loose in the closing minutes to sew things up for the Bulls. Walker finished with 33 points. Clem Haskins paced the Suns with 22.

Vancouver Right in Running for 1973 World Aquatic Meet

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver will make a bid for the first world aquatic championships in 1973 and at least one high-ranking official believes it will land them.

A delegation headed by Dr. Stuart Maddin of Vancouver, Canadian Amateur Swimming Association president, will leave for Singapore Nov. 12 and make its presentation to the International Swimming Federation Nov. 17-19.

Dr. Harold Henning, federation secretary, said Tuesday in Naperville, Ill., that Vancouver has "a very good chance" of being selected for the event, which will include world championships in swimming, diving, water polo and synchronized swimming.

The championships, to be held from Aug. 25 to Sept. 2, 1973, would be staged at the Crystal Aquatic Pool scheduled to be built on the old Crystal pool site in west-end Vancouver and at a pool to be built in nearby New Westminster for the 1973 Canada Summer Games.

Sixty-five nations will be invited and about 550 athletes are expected to anticipate.

Henning said that he had received a cheque for $3,000 as a deposit from the Canadian Federation of Amateur Aquatics.

"Geneva, Rome, Madrid, Mexico City, Monaco and Belgrade all have displayed interest in the games, but they have not followed up with anything concrete," Henning added.

"The Canadians, by sending the cheque, have showed they are in earnest about getting the games."

Dr. Maddin, who has been working on the project 18 months, is in Ottawa arranging final details for the presentation, but one of his assistant organizers in Vancouver said Belgrade was the most serious competitor.

But he added that Belgrade's facilities would not be available to be host to the Games until 1974.

NEW YORK (CP) — A handsome home for a hockey team will be ready for play in Nassau County on Long Island in 1972. N-body yet knows what team it will be.

"We're hoping to get an NHL franchise," says William A. Shea, the man appointed by Nassau County executive Ralph Caso to find sports tenants for the 15,000-seat coliseum.

Neil Shayne, president of the New York franchise in the new World Hockey Association which is to begin play in October, 1972, also wants to put his team in the Nassau Coliseum. He has indicated he'll try legal action to get in, if necessary.

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player defeated Jack Nicklaus by one stroke in a head-to-head clash here Tuesday.

Player took the 18-hole exhibition match with the three-under-par score of 70. Nicklaus shot 71.

Nicklaus lost an early lead on the second green when his second drive hit a spectator on the head, deflecting the ball 25 yards into the rough behind the green.

Cause of all the background jubilation is Quinte Secondary School fullback Paul Hall, scoring the first of three touchdowns while in the grasp of Trenton defender Chris Hyatt. Hall and his Quinte teammates trounced Trenton 37-6 Tuesday for the bay of Quinte senior high school football championship, the third in succession for the Saints. Quinte will play host to Peterborough's Crestwood Collegiate Friday afternoon for the Central Ontario Secondary School Association title game.

Quinte's Saints COSSA-bound Again

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The Trenton senior quarterback could be excused if he believed that there were five extra bodies, and unfriendly ones at that, stationed right in the backfield with him. That's where the Quinte Saints defensive line spent most of their time as they paced the defending champions to their third consecutive 8-1-y of Quinte football title by routing Trenton 37-6.

The defeat helped avenge an earlier 16-8 loss at the hands of Trenton, the only loss for the senior Saints this season. Perhaps the big difference in the two game's was aggressiveness as Quinte reversed the trend of the previous meeting by dishing out most of the physical punishment.

The defensive five, consisting of ends Wayne Harrison and Mike Whalen, tackles Randy Van Norman and Joe Whalen and middle guard Rod "Bubba" Hinze typified the turnabout in Quinte tactics.

"During the other game they didn't get to the quarterback even once, but they were in there all game today," noted Quintes' offensive coach Jack Sisson.

"If you're going to mention anybody, it has to be Mike Mayo," observed head coach Nick Locke of the inside linebacker who drew his first starting assignment after a rib injury sidelined starter Steve Rushlow. Mayo helped turn the tide in the first half when he picked off a Trenton pass deep in his own end as the Tigers threatened a 6-0 Quinte lead.

A factor that may have helped turn the tide even more occurred early in the game when Trenton's "Road-rullner", Duncan Armstrong suffered a fractured ankle.

The speedster had given his team an early 6-0 lead when he zipped 53 yards for a touchdown on an end run.

The Trenton coaching staff, however, refused to put the blame on the injury to Armstrong for the loss. "They played better than they did last game," observed head coach Tom Nigro. "But I think you'd have to say, as well, that we made a lot of mistakes today."

Quinte's offensive spark came mainly from within fullbacks Paul Hall and Bill Kirkham gaining the tough inside yardage. Kirkham was particularly impressive, breaking loose for a 30-yard touchdown run on a third-and-one-gamble early in the third quarter. The major score gave Quinte a 15-6 lead, and they were never headed after that.

Hall collected three touchdowns for his afternoon's work with a seven-yarder in the first half and a pair of one-yard plunges in the second, while picking up another point on one of his bounding punts which even a key to the Quinte win.

Kirkham added the other two majors and capped a fine pass receiving performance by picking off a two-point conversion. Terry Meagher, a two-way standout at end and another two - point convert, while brother Rick bootlegged for yet another.

The Saints now advance to the COSSA final against Crestwood Collegiate to be played at Quinte Secondary School Friday beginning at 1 p.m. The Peterborough school will be seeking its first COSSA final action in any sport.

Senior Appears Ready To Join Quinte Lineup

Coach Gene Poirier wasn't using clichés when he talked about the addition of Doug Senior "adding scoring punch" to the Belleville Quintes' lineup.

Senior, the crafty centre who paced the now-defunct Mo-Hawks in point production with 18 goals and 23 assists in only 11 games last winter, is apparently ready to sign for his second season of Belleville senior hockey.

"We expect Doug will be dressing Friday against Orillia," said Poirier after a Tuesday night practice session that yielded another piece of good news.

Defenceman Mike Rexe went for his first skate since suffering a knee injury in the season - opener against Kingston, a game in which he picked up two assists.

"I doubt he'll be ready this weekend," Poirier hastened to add, "but we'll be glad to have him back."

Going into Friday night's 9 p.m. Orillia visit, the Quintes have been unbeaten at home in four outings. That streak helped them considerably in compiling a 5-3 record, good for second place in the OHA Senior A standings.

Some of the more ardent team supporters, the booster club, will be running a 37-seat bus to Saturday night's return game in Orillia.

Cost of the trip, including game admission, is $6. The bus will leave the Memorial Arena at 4 p.m., Saturday, and interested passengers are invited to contact Mrs. George Rutledge at 962-6630.

The busy boosters have also come up with another method of rewarding—those who show up to support the Quintes. Pairs of Maple Leaf NHL tickets will be raffled off at upcoming home games.

DOUG SENIOR

Driving Good for Fairways

KINGSTON (Special) — As satisfied as he was with his team's 5-3 Eastern Ontario Junior B win here Tuesday night, Belleville Fairways coach Murray Hunter was discontent.

"They got three fluke goals — one ricocheted in off a skate and another was scored from behind our net. We can't afford to give up those kind of goals and hope to beat teams like Peterborough or Oshawa."

Prior to last night's win, the Fairways' second in five starts, Hunter was also thinking about an 8-5 home-ice loss to the same Frontenacs a couple of Sundays ago.

"The difference? Well, tonight we played a lot better defensively," said Hunter, singling out Peter Ackerman and rookie Jim Cain for praise.

"And offensively, we got good effort from all three lines. I even used a fourth line in the third period."

Rookie Brian Cousins got the offense rolling after only 2:55, with Dave Horwood and Pete Ackerman drawing assists. The Frontenacs squared things with Dave Johnstones goal at 5:16 but the first period belonged to the Fairways.

They outshot their hosts 14-5 and goals by Cliff Janitch and Cousins' second of the night gave them a commanding 3-1 edge after the opening 20 minutes.

Tim Yohn's goal, the only scoring play of the second period, made it 4-1 for the Fairways.

Phil Marshall and John Murray narrowed the Belleville lead to 4-3 with five minutes remaining in the game, but John Mulvihill's empty-net goal at 19.37 doused the Frontenac threat.

Kingston drew seven of the game's 12 minor penalties, pouring 33 shots at Fairway goalkeeper Bob Harrison while Dave Dungey had 37 to handle.

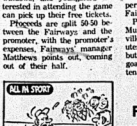
Canvassers Ready For Hockey Horse Show

This year's guaranteed packed house for Belleville's Junior B Fairways is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 3, when they play host to Picton.

That's the night manager Jim Matthews has selected for a "Pony Night", when chances to win a pony, bicycles, hockey sticks, and an assortment of prizes traditionally brings city youngsters to the Memorial Arena in droves.



Soliciting by Sports Productions Inc., Pony Night promoters for the local Junior B's, was scheduled to begin this week, with city merchants being canvassed to purchase game tickets.

Proceeds are split 50-50 between the Fairways and the promoter, with the promoter's expenses, Fairways manager Matthews points out, "coming out of their hair."

No Forum For Title Fight

HALIFAX (CP) — Promoter Loeroy (Roxy) Jones announced Tuesday that the Canadian middleweight boxing championship bout between champion Dave Downey of Halifax and Johnny Leaw of Edmonton scheduled here for Nov. 23 has been postponed. Jones said he could not obtain the Halifax Forum for this bout and has been to present the match in January.

Award Gives Fergy Bargaining Power

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Winning the Cy Young Award as the National League's outstanding pitcher is like having "a big star up there beside my name" for Ferguson Jenkins.

The Chatham, Ont., native today became the first Canadian to win a major baseball award when he was named the Cy Young winner by a panel of baseball writers.

Jenkins said in an interview here the award should strengthen his bid for a $100,000- salary when he begins contract negotiations with Chicago Cubs.

"It gives me all the more bargaining power," he said.

"I can't blame the club owners for trying to keep a young player's contract down. If you pay him $100,000 now, in two or three years you might have to pay him $200,000.

"Bob Gibson didn't make $100,000 until he was in the league for 18 years or so; neither did Ted Williams or Willie Mays. I've only been in the league seven years."

Jenkins was a 20-game winner for the fifth straight year in 1971. But he feels the Cubs' failure to win a pennant in that span has cost him recognition.

"It means a lot to get into a World Series. Everything is centralized in a World Series and therefore there is a lot of national recognition. People put a lot of stock in World Series performances."

It is Jenkins's belief that the 1971 season was his finest.

"I had a lot more runs scored for me this season but I still could have won five or six more games with just one more run.

"It was my best season for wins, productive wins, innings pitched and control. The biggest things for a pitcher are control and concentration and I had both this year."

Jenkins says conditioning and a potent bat helped him pitch so many innings.

"I have never had a sore arm. Again the end of a season you become tired and tired mentally but my arm has never been sore.

"I stay in a lot of games because of my bat. I won eight games last year with my own hits."

Jenkins plans to spend the winter in Chatham, Ont., where he used to be a first baseman, with his father, his wife Kathy, and two baby daughters.

He rents a cottage on Lake St. Clair and plans to do a great deal of hunting and fishing before 1972 spring training rolls around.

"Warren Spahn won 20 games six years in a row on two occasions and had 13 20-game seasons in his career. It would be a great accomplishment to surpass a super ball player like Spahn."

The 28-year-old righthander from Chatham, Ont., received 17 first place votes and a total of 97 points from the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Tom Seaver of New York Mets was runner-up with six first-place votes and 61 points while Al Downing of Los Angeles Dodgers was third with 40 points, including the remaining first place vote.

A 6-foot-5, 205-pounder, Jenkins compiled a 24-13 record for the Cubs, the most victories in the National League. He completed 30 of 39 starts and pitched 325 innings, tops in the league. He was second in strikeouts with 263 and compiled a 2.80 earned-run average.

He is the first Cub pitcher ever to win the Cy Young Award, given annually to the league's outstanding pitcher.

Gabler Last Ticat Chance

HAMILTON (CP) — Wally Gabler's back in town, a little rusty in his timing, with Hamilton Tiger-Cats' Eastern Football Conference hopes riding on his slim shoulders. They meet Ottawa Rough Riders here Sunday in sudden-death semi-final action.

The one-time Toronto Argonaut was dropped by the Ticats early in the 1971 season after leading them to two of their first three victories that year.

Gabler, 27, had his first workout Tuesday night since rejoining the club following an injury to incumbent quarterback Joe Zuger in Sunday's 23-15 win over Toronto.

"My timing was off," said Gabler, who only last week refused to join Montreal Alouettes because of a dispute in the wording of his contract. He figures to get back in the groove after "a couple of days of throwing."

His arm, he said, is still in shape "because I kept throwing two weeks after they (Hamilton) cut me and last week with the Als."

"Timing is my only problem."

Coach Al Dorow was more than pleased to have a replacement for Zuger already versed in Hamilton's offensive formations.

"He was throwing the ball with a lotta zip," Dorow observed while watching the Ticat workout. "It's nice to have Wally . . . he's so easy to work with because of previously playing here.

"The only new stuff in offence is our "I" formation and automatics. But he picked that up in our first meeting (Monday night)."

The dispute with the Als stemmed from a Canadian Football League ruling that an option clause, enabling the team to pick up his contract for a year after it runs out, be carried in all players' contracts.

Fake Turf for CNE?

TORONTO (CP) — Albert Campbell, chairman of Metropolitan Toronto council, said Tuesday metro will make a bid for the 1976 Grey Cup game.

While some councillors argued that under no circumstances would the CFL consider holding the Grey Cup game at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium without artificial turf, Campbell replied that this problem would be considered shortly by CNE directors.

Next year's Grey Cup game has been awarded to Hamilton.

* * *

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto council said Tuesday a bid would be made for the 1978 Commonwealth Games on the understanding major amateur sports facilities would be built to accommodate the events.

Council considered a submitted report and said a successful bid for the Canadian Games Committee later this month would force a critical evaluation of a proposed $46 million domed stadium, rehabilitation of the Canadian National Exhibition Park and construction of swimming pools.

Other Canadian cities bidding for the Games include Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Hamilton.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it: A X Y D L B A A X E Z L B A A N E Q I H X H U I S L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letter apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Bob Hope's Christmas To Be Overseas Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope is busy making his Christmas show plans. "We'll be going around the world again," the comedian says. "Hawaii, Okinawa, Thailand, Vietnam, Italy, Madrid and Guantanamo — that's my Christmas list if we were doing anything else."

While Hope and his aides are pulling together his company for the annual tour of U.S. bases abroad, two advance men have later this month to make arrangements for each stop.

Hope is busy with a new film and has another of his television specials coming up on NBC next Sunday.

Raymond Burr and Barbara Hale were reunited Tuesday night in what started out to be an intriguing mystery on NBC's Ironside. Miss Hale, who played secretary Della Street during all those Perry Mason years, this time had the part of a chic New York playwright, one of Chief Ironside's old flames. She really was sort of a footnote to the plot, a background story of the killing of a louse named Lenny. The windup, alas, was a big let down.

Two on a Bench, ABC's 90 minute Movie of the Week, was an increasingly rare TV sight: a light comedy that actually worked and even moved one to occasional laughter. This was largely due to the talents of Patty Duke, who can handle comedy as adroitly as she does serious roles. Ted Bessell proved he can do something more complicated than play straight man for Marlo Thomas. It was a giddy story with satiric overtones about a rich, stuffy young man and a swinging big city girl picked up by federal agents as spy suspects. But the show was stretched beyond its strength: It would have been a delightful hour.

Grand Master Pays a Visit

STIRLING (Special) — An event of significance in the life of Stirling Masons took place here last week when the presiding Grand Master of Ontario, and a native of this area, paid an official visit to the local lodge.

The honor of having a local member become Grand Master is rare when the number of lodges and members in considered, and now that Most Wor. Bro. William R. Bailey is living in Toronto, it's even more unique that he should come back and visit his mother lodge.

Proceedings began with a banquet in the ROOF hall at 7 p.m., where the usual program of toasts and social function was held. This was followed by a regular lodge meeting in the Masonic Hall.

Arrangements for the visits were made by Ralph Clements master of Stirling Lodge No 69, AF and AM.

Mr. Bailey was initiated into this lodge, but since his teaching career took, him from the area, he also joined Bay of Quinte Lodge 603 in Scarborough. He attended school in Stirling.

Master Becomes Mistress

Truffaldino the servant played by Douglas Chamberlain (centre) is surprised to find that one of the masters he serves is a woman, Beatrice, disguised as her brother played by Tedde Moore. The other master is Florindo, played by David Renton. The Servant of Two Masters, a hilirious farce by Goldoni, was enacted by Neptune Theatre at Centennial Secondary School Tuesday night. A repeat performance is scheduled for tonight.

Good Humor Abounds In Neptune Production

By SUSAN KORAH
Staff Reporter

For those seeking an evening of entertainment and relaxation, The Servant of Two Masters by Carlo Goldoni enacted by Neptune Theatre of Halifax at Centennial Secondary School on Tuesday night, proved to be an effervescent cocktail of slapstick, farce, and every other brand of humor. It could be said without much exaggeration that no one from the packed auditorium went home that night in dull spirits.

The famous 18th century farce obviously knew the same kind of laughter it must have inspired originally in Italy. It abounded in commedia dell 'arte, a style of comedy popular at the time, the play is noteworthy for the abundance of gags and its opportunities for improvisation which the original players touring around with the minimum of props relied on to entertain audiences. Its execution however, can prove difficult for a company untrained in Italian stylizations.

Recognizing the needs, Neptune's director Robert Sherris has engaged a director familiar with Douglas Chamberlain as Truffaldino, the ingenious servant who contrives to serve two masters without letting each one know of the other's existence. Tony Van Bridge and James Valentine are his backup men, with Tedde Moore as the heroine and David Renton as Florindo.

Full of the classic ingredients of intrigue, disguises, mistaken identities and star-crossed lovers, the Servant of Two Masters is reminiscent of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night, without however the beautiful imagery and delicate artistry of Shakespeare's language.

The plot though rather complicated, chiefly concerns two pairs of frustrated lovers who, for complex reasons, cannot work out their own affairs. Silvio and Clarice love each other but she has been betrothed by her father to Beatrice's brother who is thought to be dead. However, when Silvio and Clarice are on the point of getting married, Beatrice, disguised as her brother, enters, temporarily shattering the lovers' hopes of happiness. Truffaldino takes it upon himself to serve two masters. Beatrice, disguised as her brother and Florindo. Through his hilarious efforts, Silvio and Clarice are reunited, as are Beatrice and her lover Florindo and the traditional wedding bells ending is brought about.

Douglas Chamberlain as the servant, dazzles the audience with his quick succession of gags, and his antics as he dashes up and down the stage trying to meet the demands of two masters. Tony Van Bridge, as Dr. Lombardi, has a relatively minor part but establishes his stage presence right away when he puffs and pants about at the beginning.

Tedde Moore is a handsome, always feminine Beatrice, even in male disguise and is well partnered by strong confident David Renton. Brian Mckay as Silvio, Clarice's imbecile lover, whose valor is limited to sword fights with an imaginary opponent and who dissolves into a simpering coward when a real enemy appears, is appealing. So is Susan Hogan as the shelfered, helpless Clarice.

Asides to the audience which were fairly frequent in the play, were well executed, and in the most natural manner possible. In scenes where the focus is on two or three characters, those in the background contributed with little comic effect by being preoccupied with their own parts in the comedy. Without, however, detracting from the centre of the action.

A major asset of the production is his setting and costumes by Robert Doyle. The visual presentation leaves nothing to be desired.

The play will be repeated tonight at Centennial Secondary School at 8.30 p.m. Some tickets are still available at the door.

Skelly Named CN Police Head

MONTREAL — Appointment of W. C. Skelly as director of investigation for Canadian National has been announced by president N. J. MacMillan. Mr. Skelly, who moves into his new position November 1, will have responsibility for the railway's police force, one of the largest industrial forces in the country.

Mr. Skelly joined CN in 1938 as a constable in London, Ontario. Following service with the RCAF during the second world war, he served as a constable in several locations in Ontario prior to promotion to the rank of special agent in charge of the Belleville division.

He became sub-inspector of investigation at headquarters in Montreal in 1959 and later became inspector of investigation for the Grand Trunk Western Railroad, a CN subsidiary. He was promoted to superintendent of investigation, Mountain region, in 1963, and a year later moved to his current position as superintendent for the railway's Great Lakes region.

Church Plans Faith Festival

United Church members will congregate Nov. 14 for a faith festival — an occasion to re - dedicate themselves to their faith.

Under the theme, we are not alone, they will reaffirm the fundamental faith of the church and call all United Church people together in witness to it.

The president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, Alvin Black, has asked each of the seven presbyteries throughout the conference to designate a place and an hour when all the people of a presbytery can gather together. Every local church within the conference has been asked to plan for its own participation in the event and to inform members and provide necessary transportation.

A special speaker has been invited to conduct the service in each presbytery.

Shulman Says Lambton Voters Got $50 Rebates with Ballots

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman, New Democratic Party member of the legislature for Toronto-High Park, said Tuesday the Lambton riding results of the Oct. 31 Ontario election should be declared invalid because there was a series of voting irregularities there.

Calling for a byelection in the riding, Dr. Shulman cited in a news release an instance in which he said some voters were handed $50 bills representing the provincial tax rebate at the same time as they received their ballots to vote.

He said those voters, residents of the Twilight Haven home for the aged near Petrolia, were told as they received the money: "This comes from Mr. (Premier William) Davis."

The Lambton election results gave Progressive Conservative incumbent Lorne Henderson 10,054 votes compared with 9,371 for Liberal Fred McCormick, 2,854 for NDP Harry Wellington and 508 for independent Donald Smith.

Dr. Shulman, whose charges were denied immediately by Mr. Henderson and others, said Roderick Lewis, chief electoral officer and clerk of the legislature, has been informed of the allegations and that he should refuse to swear in Mr. Henderson as an MPP.

"With all these irregularities, the election should be declared void and a byelection held," Mr. Shulman said later in an interview. "If Mr. Lewis doesn't act, then I'll raise it in the legislature."

Joan Elliott, assistant administrator of Twilight Haven, said in an interview the 150 cheques were received a couple of days before the election and that the institution's administrator, Gordon Titus, asked the recipients to endorse the cheques.

"We have no facilities to cash the cheques here," she said.

Mr. Titus then had all the cheques cashed on election day and distributed the $50 bills.

"But he went from room to room," Mrs. Elliott said. "No money was distributed in the polling area."

James Armstrong, chief returning officer for Lambton, said he inspected the poll at Twilight Haven for about 20 minutes.

"There was nothing going on," he said. "Everything was just fine."

He said there were 222 eligible voters, including most not living at the home, and 167 voted. Mr. Henderson received 117 votes, Mr. McCormick 40, Mr. Wellington six and Mr. Smith four.

Other irregularities cited by Dr. Shulman:

—In two Petrolia polls, Conservative literature was handed out with ballots.

—A majority of ballot boxes were not sealed, including some unsealed until 45 minutes before the polls closed.

On advance polling day, Oct. 16, the Conservative campaign manager left one poll with a ballot box unsealed, unaccompanied by the poll's deputy returning officer, drove away.

—A week prior, the election 30 new polls were created but the opposition parties were not told until election day. That meant they were unable to have scrutineers there.

—Revised voters' lists were not given to either the Liberals or the NDP until election day.

The Conservative campaign manager told the deputy returning officer in all 119 polls to telephone the results to Conservative headquarters instead of to the chief returning officer.

A Conservative worker sought proxy votes from workers in hospital who "were in no condition to know what they were doing."

Mr. Henderson said his campaign manager, Tip Corey, had ordered all 119 deputies to phone their results to party headquarters.

In some cases, he said, his poll chairmen might also have been deputy returning officers, in charge of a poll—"but then they would have followed the instructions from the returning officer to phone him with the results."

Mr. Henderson said Mr. Corey left a poll with a deputy returning officer on an advance polling day, but the keection official carried the ballot box and locked it in his own car before driving off with Mr. Corey.

He also said he knew about the government cheques being cashed and distributed on election day, "but I had nothing to do with it."

Mr. Armstrong acknowledged that about a dozen returning officers had failed to phone in the results of their polls to him as instructed. "They were new DROs and just forgot," he said.

"Or they may have phoned Conservative headquarters by mistake."

He said he did not know anything about Conservative literature being handed out at two polls but said he visited only 12 of the riding's 119 polls on election day.

In two polls, he said, he found ballot sized x he continues this.

Dr. Thostesen: In regard to glaucoma I have been told drinking more than 48 ounces of fluid a day is bad—that is, water, juices, beer, etc. Is this so? If so why?—B.D.

It can be harmful. Essentially glaucoma involves excessive pressure inside the eyeball. Too much fluid in the body itself can contribute to this. In fact, a water loading test during the patient drink considerable water before testing eyeball pressure) is used at times in testing for glaucoma.

Since eye pressure tends to rise late in the day, one should be careful not to take excess fluids after the evening meal.

To Your Good Health

It Is Possible for Stroke To Develop by Slow Degrees

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, Dr. Thostesen: In a person about 67 years old:

1. Can a stroke come on gradually, with just mild confusion in thought patterns, and finally develop into an almost total speech loss and partial paralysis of the right side, all within about a month and a half, resulting in death

2. Is a stroke a blood clot of the brain and how can you tell where it is?

3. What are the usual tests or treatment given to a stroke patient in the hospital?

4. Is it possible to diagnose a stroke?—Mrs. F.A.S.

Answers:

1. Yes, the onset of a stroke can be insidious until some blood vessel in or leading to the brain becomes totally occluded. It can happen—but that doesn't mean that mild mental confusion will necessarily lead to the disastrous pattern you have described.

2. A stroke is not always a clot. Hardening of the arteries can bring progressive narrowing of an artery or arteries, thus interfering with circulation. A clot may lodge at a narrowed point or it may not. Cerebral hemorrhage, a leading or rupture of a blood vessel in the brain, also can cause a stroke but in that case it comes on suddenly.

3. Various tests may be used, according to need but the centerpiece is neurological examination to determine loss of function—the location of paralysis is a valuable guide to the part of the brain that is affected; spinal puncture to determine if there is bleeding; electroencephalogram ("brain wave test"); carotid arteriogram (an xray procedure to localize obstruction of an artery) . . . very rare in the neck.

4. Ordinarily it is not difficult to diagnose a stroke.

The patient's medical history, mode of onset, and the findings, both physical and in laboratory tests, all point the way. Very slight strokes are the hardest to recognize. In severe ones there is usually little doubt even without laboratory findings.

Dr. Thostesen: What is the danger of using shoe polish on the skin? I have a friend who is using it to cover the bald spot on his head.—E.H.

I think shoe polish can be dangerous. It contains various acids, terpenes and dyes. Some of these are oil-soluble, meaning they could be absorbed by the oily secretions of the scalp.

I wouldn't want to predict just what type of scalp irritation could develop but I'll be surprised if your friend doesn't have something worse than a bald spot in the offing.

Union Plan Rejected

OTTAWA (CP) — Derek Blackburn (NDP—Brant) argued Tuesday night that the government is costing the Canadian treasury $352,716 and the Quebec treasury $399,475 by not accepting recommendations of labor leaders in layoffs at the General Motors plant in Ste. Therese, Que.

Mr. Blackburn said 665 GM employees are being laid off this week.

Local 1163 of the United Auto Workers had met Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand and told him the problem could best be solved if layoffs were avoided and all employees instead worked a four-day week.

Under the proposal, the federal government would pay 80 per cent of their wages for the fifth day. That would cost the government $1,311,336 overa ix months.

But considering the unemployment insurance benefits the government would not have to pay, and the contributions workers would continue to make in unemployment insurance, social care, pension funds, income tax and other taxes, both the federal government and the Quebec government would come out ahead if they followed the plan.

What the Stars Say

Thursday, November 4

General Guide—A Democratic "closet candidate" is due to announce his White House intentions officially. Immediate reaction is surprisingly positive, making long range pollsters contend with another variable in predicting the winners.

Aries (March 21-April 19). When some touchy subjects are brought into the conversation, nobody else is better at changing the topic than you. Sidestep arguments quickly.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). Extra cash is literally for the asking today. Those you approach for loans or credit won't be able to turn you down.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). You don't have to come right out and say what you mean to partners to get the picture. A small favor or act can convey your feelings just as well.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Let your intuition guide you now to make the correct decision regarding a confusing business situation. You can trust luck to work with you.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). You can be bursting with some happy announcement that will cheer up loved ones. Wait until you get home this evening to deliver the news in person.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A family member can turn to you now to disclose a secret surprise. Regardless of how exciting the event is, don't give things away prematurely.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Optimism is due for a return, mainly because of messages received from a distance or possibly a bit of innocent eavesdropping. Official confirmation will soon follow.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). Partners now have considerable confidence in your money-handling abilities. If any buying has to be done, you'll be able to drive the best bargain.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Praise or public recognition received now may come from indirect sources but it's no less valuable or sincere. Keep trying to sell your ideas and ambitions.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There's a lot that's happening going on behind the scenes that you should be aware of after today. Trust loyal friends to bring you up to date. The news is good.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Those who have been counting on raises or bonuses can receive the word from Highcrpus today that the money is on its way. Do some early celebrating.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). A any chance for a financial gain now, as profits may have to tide you over until next summer. Don't believe any long-range promises where cash in involved.

Government Puts Navy's $52-million Hydrofoil in Mothballs

OTTAWA (CP) — With no prospects of foreign sales along with a shift in defence priorities the government has decided to put the navy's $52.2-million, experimental hydrofoil vessel in the boathouse for five years.

The decision, announced in the Commons Tuesday by Defence Minister Donald Macdonald, drew immediate opposition fire.

Michael Forrestall (PC—Dartmouth-Halifax East) said it was the wrong decision taken for the wrong reasons.

Doug Rowland (N D P—Selkirk) said it was another of the defence department's "insupportable blunders".

Mr. Macdonald, who told the Commons defence committee last February he was encouraged by the "recent level of foreign interest" in the hydrofoil, said Tuesday that countries which had expressed interest subsequently made it clear that buying this type of vessel is "well down on their latest priority lists."

Canadian priorities had also changed since the hydrofoil Bras d'Or, on which development started in 1961, finally made it to the functioning prototype stage in 1968.

The first priority of Canadian defence as outlined in a policy white paper last summer is protection of sovereignty and surveillance of Canadian territory and coastlines, Mr. Macdonald said.

To achieve this, top consideration had been given to replacement or major overhaul of the aging Argus long-range patrol aircraft. Right behind this was the matter of replacing some outdated surface ships with vessels capable of penetrating arctic ice—for which the high-speed hydrofoil is unsuited.

"These factors and considerations have, therefore, lowered the priority of the hydrofoil, which began as an experimental project based primarily on an anti-submarine role."

A storage facility would be built at Halifax and the Bras d'Or would be laid up there, Mr. Macdonald estimated cost of the facility and lay-up at $1 million for five years.

The hydrofoil, which uses wing-like hull extensions to lift the entire hull out of the water and achieve speeds impossible for conventional vessels, has had a chequered career through its development stages.

De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. designed it and in April, 1963, won a contract for a prototype ship. Development costs were estimated at $20 million.

But this figure was being outstripped even before a severe fire Nov. 5, 1966, at the Sorel, Que., yards of Marine Industries Ltd. where the ship was being built. The fire set back construction by many months and was directly responsible for another $6.5 million in construction cost.

An investigation by the Commons public accounts committee concluded that Havilland was negligent because fire - fighting facilities and prevention provisions were inadequate at the yard.

The committee expressed amazement that the contractor had not been required to carry insurance. The taxpayer absorbed the cost.

A defence department decision to buy $16 million worth of weaponry for Bras d'Or while it was still in the experimental stage also was criticized by the committee which added that the government had not been given a solid estimate of the "probable over-all cost" of the project.

Once Bras d'Or made it to sea trials in 1968, however, she lived up to her billing as the world's fastest warship. The vessel hit better than 70 miles an hour in tests and demonstrated high-seas durability by sailing to Bermuda from Halifax.

Mr. Forrestall, Conservative defence critic, said the latest decision meant taxpayers bought $52 million worth of mothballs to be stored in a $1 million garage. The government should have completed research on the vessel to improve chances of selling it abroad.

You've Got Hydrofoil, Now What Do You Do with It

HALIFAX (CP) — "Now that you've got a hydrofoil," a United States Navy official once asked the skipper of the Canadian navy's prototype Bras d'Or, "what do you do with it"

At the time, Cmdr. Gordon Edwards replied that "she could do many kinds of work—anti-submarine warfare, search and rescue, pollution control—you name it."

But Ottawa has decided to leave Bras d'Or—the world's fastest warship—high and dry, mothballed at the naval dockyard here.

Bras d'Or, the product of 13 years' work and $52.2 million dollars of public funds, pulls her hull out of the water with wing-like extensions to attain speeds yet impossible for conventional vessels.

She set a world speed record for warships, a blistering 72.3 miles an hour at the mouth of Halifax harbor in 1969, and added to her laurels in a high-speed endurance run to Bermuda and Norfolk, Va., earlier this year.

When she returned from the southern cruise where she put on displays of her capabilities for U.S. naval officials, she was put up on a barge for a major overhaul. It's on that barge she'll probably sit for the next five years.

Captain Jim Knox of Ottawa, the Bras d'Or project manager, said the 200-ton aluminum craft will probably have a boathouse built around her as she sits on the barge.

Captain Knox said it is possible, but unlikely, that the concept of the hydrofoil could be outdated while the vessel is idle.

"It has taken us a long time to get to this stage and I don't see much on the horizon that's likely to overtake us in five years," he said.

The next stage in development work would have cost $4.5 million over three years.

House Speeds Tax Bill Study

OTTAWA (CP) — The House picked up speed on its long ride through the government's tax bill Tuesday and defeated an opposition proposal to grant all Canadians a tax saving of up to $75 a year.

Thirteen sub-clauses in the 707-page bill were approved, beating Monday's record of eight. Four others went through last week, leaving 308 still to come.

Clause-by-clause study of the bill began Oct. 12 and has taken the best part of 12 sitting days since. Parts approved on voice votes Tuesday dealt with new rate structures and other elements of personal taxation.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) offered the tax-saving amendment, which would have cut the tax rate on the first $500 of taxable income to two per cent from 17 per cent.

For all taxpayers earning more than $500 taxable income, that would amount to a $75 reduction in taxes.

Conservatives, who have long supported such a tax-credit system, and the Social Credit, favored Mr. Knowles's amendment. But they were outnumbered by the Liberal majority.

Tax credits would give all taxpayers the same benefit—weighing more beneficially in a small income—whereas the present tax-exemption system saves more money for the rich than for the poor.

Pat Mahoney, parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister E. J. Benson, said the government—and the public—prefers tax exemptions, which reduce the income on which taxes are calculated.

Breath Test Law Validity Upheld

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal has upheld the validity of the Canadian Criminal Code's compulsory breath-test law for suspected impaired drivers in two cases where it had been challenged as violating the Bill of Rights.

In one case, the three - man court upheld the conviction of Clarence Wayne Brownridge of Stayner, Ont., for refusing to take a test on a breath-analysis machine. Brownridge had claimed the Bill of Rights entitled him to consult a lawyer before doing so.

In the other case, the appeal court rescinded a lower-court order prohibiting the trial of Oakville millionaire George Clinton Duke.

Duke was charged last March 11 with having more than .08 per cent of alcohol in his blood. He obtained a court order prohibiting trial on grounds that police refused him a sample of his breath and this prevented him from preparing a proper defence.

Both appeals were heard by the same panel of judges—Mr. Justice A. R. Jessup, Mr. Justice J. B. Aylesworth and Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay. Both decisions were unanimous.

Family Home Law Is Upheld

TORONTO (CP) — The owner of a bungalow in the Borough of North York that was occupied by four young career women was convicted Tuesday of violating a local bylaw requiring occupation of houses by families only.

Mrs. John Wilson was given a suspended sentence. Prosecution followed complaints from neighbors.

Mrs. Wilson, the court learned, rented the house to one of the girls on a two-year lease beginning last April for $250 a month.

Two of the four girls are teachers, one is a social worker and the other a laboratory technician.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead—three of diamonds.

The hasty play in bridge is in many ways analogous to the old saw about marrying in haste and repenting at leisure.

Assume you're in three no-trump and West leads a diamond. You win in dummy with the six and apparently have nine sure tricks consisting of a spade, a heart, three diamonds and four clubs.

Lulled by this false sense of security into thinking that everything is under control, you try a spade finesse at trick two, losing the queen to the king.

When the ten comes back, you begin to realize that there is at least some doubt about making nine tricks. The four club tricks you assumed at the start are much easier to count than to cash.

If you cash the K-Q there will be no entry to dummy for the A-J, while if you cash the king and overtake the queen with the ace, you will make only three tricks unless the ten luckily falls.

In the actual hand, it doesn't—and you go down one.

To make matters worse, you realize where you went wrong. The fault goes back to the opening diamond lead, which you won in dummy with the six. It would have been better to win the trick with the ace. You could then cash the K-Q of clubs and continue with the king and another diamond, thus forcing your way into dummy to cash the A-J of clubs and so sew up nine tricks.

Actually, winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds is altogether reasonable if you stop to consider the overpowering value of the play. But if you play hastily to the first trick and win it with the six, you will have lots of time the rest of the hand to repent at leisure.

Tomorrow: The theory of anticipation.

Caribbean Papers Fear for Freedom

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuter) — Proposed government legislation affecting newspapers in several Commonwealth Caribbean countries has evoked sharp criticism and fears in many quarters for the future of press freedom.

A number of governments have put forward measures affecting the content and conditions under which papers may operate, declaring that these moves are in the public interest.

But critics—including Opposition politicians and businessmen as well as journalists—have described the proposals as gags on the freedom of expression.

Two press bills before the Antigua Parliament have been vigorously attacked by the island's three newspapers.

One bill requires anyone starting a newspaper to obtain a publishing licence from the cabinet and pay an annual fee of $625. Newspapers already in existence are automatically licensed.

The other requires each newspaper to deposit $7,700 with the government as a surety to meet any damages for libel awarded against it by the Supreme Court.

The Antigua Star, which usually supports the ruling Progressive Labor movement, said that if the measures became law the local press would be in grave danger of extinction.

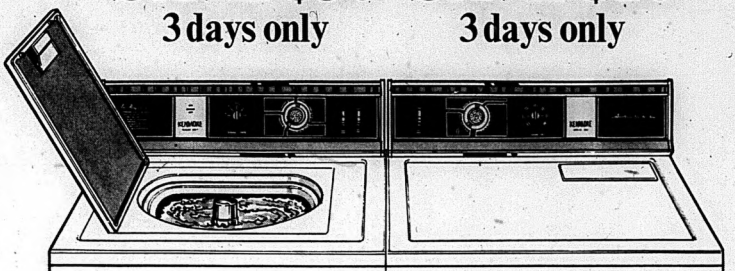
Another storm has blown up in St. Kitts, where Parliament is considering a bill prohibiting undesirable publications calculated to harm national interest.

The measure would prohibit material that insulted the government or its ministers, was deemed prejudicial to the reputation or defence of the state, was considered scurrilous, seditious or blasphemous, or which so distorted information as to be likely to deceive people on matters of public interest.

In Grenada, the government has defeated an attempt by a local business group to acquire an old established newspaper, the West Indian, by deciding to take over its property under a land acquisition act.

Premier Eric Gairy explained that the government wanted the plant to assist its own press with official work. The newspaper will continue under a board as a non-political organ.

A member of the thwarted group said it saw this action as



In St. Vincent, controversy arose over a proposed bill that would bar public servants from editing or managing any newspaper, magazine or periodical, or from being interviewed on any question of public policy.

A-test Protests Staged at Border

Head Of AEC To Be At Test

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — Opponents of a giant underground nuclear explosion put final touches on a U.S. Supreme Court appeal today as last-minute preparations for the blast went ahead on Amchitka Island off the Alaska coast.

Environmentalist groups, turned down Wednesday by a U.S. Court of Appeals, said they still hoped to prove that the test scheduled for 5 p.m. EST Saturday is unsafe.

To dramatize his faith in the safety of the test, Chairman James R. Schlesinger of the Atomic Energy Commission planned to fly to Alaska today to be present for the test of the Spartan anti-ballistic missile warhead.

Seven conservationist groups, headed by the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility, say the explosion is likely to set off earthquakes and tidal waves, spring radioactive waste into the air and kill fish and seals in the northern Pacific Ocean.

They say the government suppressed evidence about environmental dangers by keeping secret adverse reports and withholding government conclusions from a public statement required by law on potential hazards.

Sharp Thinks Sea Law Broken

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian protests mounted Wednesday against the United States' Amchitka nuclear test.

Traffic at Detroit-Windsor crossings in Ontario was blocked or disrupted and thousands also marched in mass demonstrations at Toronto, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria. There were smaller protests in St. John's, Nfld., Ottawa, Winnipeg and Lethbridge.

In Washington, D.C., eight Canadians stood in the rain outside the White House in a brief silent demonstration, then delivered a letter at a reception desk and returned to Canada.

The underground test is scheduled for 5 p.m. EST Saturday—11 a.m. local time in the Aleutian Islands off Alaska.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the House of Commons Wednesday Canada believes the U.S. may be breaking the law of the sea by restricting ships from a 50-mile control zone around Amchitka Island. But both he and Prime Minister Trudeau told reporters Canada has no grounds for formal protest of the restrictions, at least until they are applied to a Canadian vessel.

Mr. Trudeau said the Canadian government has made its opinion known to Washington on this and several areas of disagreement over the Amchitka experiment.

Mr. Sharp said there would be grounds for a legal protest only if a vessel were prevented from exercising its right to innocent passage in the zone. He said he hoped that would not happen.

But 38 Canadians on a converted minesweeper, calling themselves the Greenpeace Too mission, were on their way to Amchitka Wednesday to challenge the control zone.

The Greenpeace crew reported by radio-telephone to a Vancouver protest rally they were making a steady 17 knots in relatively calm seas off the Alaskan coast and expected to reach Amchitka early Saturday. They plan to stand by, just out

Students Protest At Madoc

MADOC (Staff) — More than 600 students of Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, took to the streets of the community early this morning, waving placards and chanting slogans protesting U. S. plans to detonate an underground nuclear blast on Amchitka Island this weekend.

The students plan to march on every street of this community.

The parade is being led by six youths supporting a gigantic Canadian flag. One teacher is accompanying the teenagers to ensure crowd control.

Representing more than half of the school's population, the students each paid 10 cents for a telegram to U. S. President Richard Nixon, objecting to the proposed test.

Navy Provides Rescue Force

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A navy destroyer and a helicopter carrier have been assigned to the Amchitka Island area and "will be available for immediate commitment in the event of any emergency," Gov. William A. Egan of Alaska said Wednesday.

Gandhi to See Nixon Today

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon meets today with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India and is expected to urge her to join in a proposed pullback of troops massed along the borders of East and West Pakistan.

The meeting between the two leaders comes in a time of deepening crisis in the Indian subcontinent as refugees continue to flee from East Pakistan at the rate of 30,000 to 40,000 a day.

Protesting Students Block Border

A crowd of about 5,000 students protesting the planned Amchitka bomb test blocked the Ambassador Bridge between Windsor and Detroit for three hours Wednesday. Detroit riot police blocked the U.S. end of the bridge. (CP Photo)

Tito Acclaims China in UN

OTTAWA (CP) — President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia used a state banquet Wednesday night to acclaim the admission of the Chinese People's Republic in the United Nations.

He also said his country is prepared to develop more intensively its valuable co-operation with Canada in international organizations and at international gatherings.

The banquet for the 79-year-old president, given by Governor-General Roland Michener, capped the first full day of President Tito's five-day visit to Canada.

The grounds of government House, where President Tito and his wife are staying as guests of the Micheners, and where the banquet was held, were heavily patrolled by RCMP security personnel. Some of the policemen had dogs. Other security officers were stationed around the perimeter of the vice-regal estate.

But there were no demonstrations at Government House.

Several hours earlier though, when the president arrived on Parliament Hill for a 40-minute look at Canada's House of Commons in action, he was greeted with cries of "Tito murderer" and "Tito pig" from about 150 Yugoslav Canadians demonstrating against his visit.

However, except for one or two faint-hearted and easily-repulsed attempts by individuals to cross police barricades, there were no incidents.

His reference to China was contained in the final draft of his banquet speech, though not in an earlier draft.

Having described Canada and Yugoslavia as active factors in the pursuit of peace and in strengthening the UN, he said: "In this sense the decision of the General Assembly of the United Nations on the restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China . . . is an important step forward towards the realization of the universality of the world organization and strengthening of its efficiency.

"This is also in accord with the initiatives which are under way with a view to establishing broader contacts and dialogues, to which Canada has made a notable contribution."

Protest Improper While Dean on Bail

OTTAWA (CP) — It would be improper for the government to express opposition to the five-year jail sentence imposed on the Anglican dean of Johannesburg while the dean is free on bail and appealing the sentence, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the Commons Wednesday.

But he said the government abhors the racial separation apartheid policy of South Africa.

Very Rev. Gonville ffrench-Beytagh was sentenced Monday to at least five years in jail under South Africa's Terrorism Act.

Schreyer Asks Higher Wheat Price

ERICKSON, Man. (CP) — Premier Ed Schreyer said Wednesday a 1-cent% increase in the price of bread for Canadians would pay half the cost of a program that would guarantees farmers an annual net income of $5,000 on a 500-acre farm.

The premier told a political meeting in this west-central Manitoba community that it would cost $180 million a year to implement a meaningful program for the stabilization of the western grain economy.

Half of this should come from the federal treasury, the rest through a higher price for domestically-consumed wheat that would mean about 1¾ cents more for a loaf of bread.

The Canadian consumer would be willing to accept this increase because he realizes that the farmer is really being wrung out, that everything is going up except the farmer's share of the food dollar."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Light northwesterly flow of cold air continues across Ontario today with snowflurry activity penetrating south to an Ottawa-Sarnia line. Temperatures are expected to remain at or a little below normal today and tonight. A weak high pressure ridge will cross the province overnight and produce some clearing. More cloud and milder temperatures are expected over the entire area Friday as a storm now in Alberta moves rapidly east towards the Great Lakes.

U.S. Trade Expert Visits Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S. treasury trade expert John Petty will confer with top Canadian trade, finance and foreign affairs officials today on Canadian-American trade relations.

The afternoon meeting in the office of E. A. Bilchie, former Canadian ambassador to Washington and now undersecretary of state for external affairs, was described by a government spokesman as "official and exploratory."

No formal statement on the outcome of the session is to be expected, he said.

Mr. Petty, assistant secretary of the U.S. treasury for economic affairs, told Canadian reporters in Washington six weeks ago that the U.S. has a number of demands to make on Canada for revision of current trade relations, including removal of Canadian protection clauses in the U.S.-Canada automobile free trade agreement.

He and Philip Trezise, assistant secretary for economic affairs in the U.S. state department, are to meet Mr. Ritchie and the deputy ministers of finance and trade, C. S. Rotsman and James Grandy.

One of the subjects likely to be raised by the Canadian officials is the prospect for a new U.S. excise levy against American imports of Canadian-made automobiles. The U.S. Senate finance committee Wednesday approved power for President Nixon to impose such a tax if he wishes.

Officials said today they thought it unlikely that President Nixon would use the power, though they wanted an assurance of this from the American officials—if they can give it.

What to Do, What to Do?

Chief Earl Hill appears slightly barfled as he surveys site of a big problem facing his people — Tyendinaga's Quinte Mohawks. The chief is on the site of what was once the reserve's centre of community activity — its council house — before destruction by fire in mid-summer. Now, months later, Mohawks have collected funds for some building materials. But there's much more to do. For details, see Page 2.

New Industry For Deseronto

Town council this week approved the sale of municipally-owned service property to Ormond Optical Ltd. which plans immediate construction of a new 8,000 square foot building.

The firm will initially employ about 18 workers when the plant goes into operation next May.

Jack Richardson, former manager of Canada Optical at Deseronto, along with another plant employee and William Ormond of Toronto, are associated with the new firm.

The property, purchased as the site of the new Grand Optical plant, was originally occupied by the old Dominion Match Company and later taken over by the Eddy Match Company.

It is expected that the new optical firm will eventually employ between 50 and 75 persons.

Students Visit Indian Reserve

Grade 2 pupils at Park Dale School are learning about Indian life first hand — by living with them for a day.

The 70 pupils are completing a unit of study on Canadian Indians by visiting school on the Mohawk Reserve today. The two classes are accompanied by their teachers.

"It would be nice to have the Indian children bused here at Park Dale for a day later on to return the favor," said school principal Bernard Wright.

Truck Hits Tree Limb Blocks Road

PICTON (Staff) — Traffic was halted yesterday afternoon near the town limits on Highway 33 when a transport struck a tree, knocking a large limb across the road.

Damage to the tractor-trailer, owned by Canada Cartage System Ltd., Toronto and driven by Ernest Boyington, 48, of Lakeview, was estimated at $800.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said traffic was blocked for about an hour while the tree limb was removed.

MRS. CHARLES BAILEY

A former, Marmora Township resident, Mrs. Gladys (Ida) Bailey of 33 Mikel Ave., Belleville, died in Belleville General Hospital Monday, Nov. 1, in her 72nd year. She had been in failing health for some time.

Born and educated in Marmora Township and a resident there most of her life, she moved to Belleville in 1966 following the death of her husband, Charles.

She was the daughter of the late Robert Bonter and the late former Annie Mason.

She leaves a daughter, Miss Anna Bailey of Belleville, and three sons, Douglas of Moira, Robert of Belleville and Charles of Toronto. She also had three grandchildren.

Another son and daughter are deceased.

She is also survived by a brother, William Bonter of Marmora Township, and three sisters; Mrs. Earl (Ula) Smith of St. Cloud, Florida; Mrs. Donald (Clarence) Sanderson and Miss Vera Bonter, both of Marmora Township.

The funeral was held at Howden Funeral Home, Marmora, Wednesday at 2 p.m. Officiating was Rev. G. W. Kemp of Marmora Free Methodist Church and Rev. L. Bauder of Kingston assisting.

Interment took place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

CLARENCE VINCENT TOBIN RR1, Madoc

In failing health for the past five years Clarence Vincent Tobin, RR1, Madoc, died Wednesday at Belleville Hospital. He was in his 64th year.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tobin, he was born at Madoc and had lived in the area all his life. He was a member of Sacred Heart of Mary Church in Madoc.

A bachelor, he is survived by two brothers; Francis C. Tobin and Michael J. Haley, both of RR1, Madoc.

The funeral will be held Friday from the Mackenzie Funeral Home at Madoc to Sacred Heart of Mary Church for requiem mass at 11 a.m. Interment, Sacred Heart of Mary Cemetery.

Quinte Mohawks, volunteering labor, carry building materials to site of what some day they hope will be a new council house, replacing community centre burned last summer. Such voluntary work also has helped raise cash toward $50,000 building fund — progress of which is measured on graph being passed (from left) by Willard Hill, Chief Earl Hill, Vernon Claus, Everett Maracle.

Cold Weather Becomes Deadline

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Indian summer is over: winter draws closer and the Quinte Mohawks here still face some chilly possibilities over their community activities.

It all started in mid-summer — July 7 to be exact — when their community hall burned down. For well over a half-century the big frame building on the reserve's fairgrounds had served as the centre of Quinte Mohawk Indian life. Everything from bingos and dances to the council meetings of the reserve's formally-elected local government met there.

"We're in a bad situation without it — without the hall," he said yesterday.

No suitable facility exists on the reserve to meet all requirements once served by the building.

Not that the Mohawks have been squatting on their heels bemoaning their misfortune. Since the fire they've been out raising funds for a centre — and have done "very well" for things considered, says Jim Left, of Shannonville, a veteran of the building's fund-raising committee.

So far, voluntary efforts have raised about $15,000 of the building fund's $50,000 target.

If only federal and, or, provincial governments would match the volunteer subscriptions, the Mohawks' problems could be closer to solution, believes Chief Hill. He's now pondering if the reserve council could qualify for government subsidy as a winter - works project.

Which makes some ironic sidelights:

(1) At the time of the fire, the Mohawks were renegotiating an insurance assessment of their old building, says the chief.

(2) When the blaze broke out, the reserve's recently-purchased fire truck was being serviced in Belleville. However, small pumps kept the flames from spreading to other fairground buildings.

Buckskin hides worth about $700 went up in the blaze. Transformed into handicraft items they could have fetched up to $4,000, believes the chief.

The recreation group ran various fund-raising events in the hall to underwrite its activities among the Mohawks.

Money still is being raised by running bingos in a nearby fairgrounds shed — but this will soon end. Come harsher weather, the shed will boost the reserve fire truck, says the chief.

To raise funds, the reserve's 1,300 Mohawks have tackled various projects — from a 21-mile walkathon to lotteries and raffles. Other municipalities — Belleville, Tyendinaga township and Deseronto — subscribed from their municipal treasuries. Money has come from an Orange lodge, churches on the reserve and the reserve's Little Indian Dancers Group.

But more — much more — money is needed. With funds in hand, the Mohawks have purchased cement blocks and other building materials already. Left voluntarily clearing away the fire ruins.

If they can get the foundations and a basement built, they'll have space to start running social events like dances — and the ever-popular bingos — and advance the building fund more rapidly.

The big expense comes when the building proper goes up — its steel framework alone is estimated around $15,000, says Chief Hill.

And, if a start isn't made soon, the project will cost more to build during winter, he fears.

Last week, the Mohawk council went to Ottawa to set if the federal government would recognize the restoration as a winter works project. A similar trip is planned to provincial authorities at Queen's Park this week, he says.

An earlier funds request to the provincial government shortly after the fire drew a promise that authorities would "look into it," but nothing further has developed, says Chief Hill.

"I approached the federal government when the building first burned and they said there was no money put in any budget for that purpose," he adds.

So, unless it's approved as a winter works project, the Mohawks face the possibility of having to raise the entire sum themselves.

But, at the least, says Chief Hill, the governments "should match the amount raised by the people themselves".

In the walkathon, a seven-year-old wearing only rubber boots, tied the entire distance despite the fact he had no moccasins. When word got around, one man gave the youngster five dollars. A Belleville group bicycled from the city to give the Mohawks a cheque.

"It's been a wonderful experience," says Mr. Left.

But Chief Hill admits to cold er realism.

His council now meets in the reserve's administration office, across from the fairgrounds. Yet a big general meeting of the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians is set for here in January. Besides dislocation of local groups, at the moment there is no meeting place for the association.

And, warns the chief, there are only so many fund-raising events that any group can organize no matter how vital the objective.

Mr. Left is still hopeful of raising more funds — among future planned events is an auction.

And, anyway, he adds, the emergency produced a good community experience.

"I think it's been a wonderful thing the way this community got together," he said.

Appeal Is Disallowed

PICTON (Staff) — Harry Evans, defeated candidate for election to the Ontario Milk Marketing Board as representative for zone 4, yesterday became a loser for the second time when the Ontario Milk Commission overruled his claim that the election was "null and void".

Mr. Evans protested the election because of a one - hour extension of polling time allotted through confusion between EST and daylight saving time.

The Cherry Valley farmer was beaten at the polls by incumbent Allen Ketcheson of Madoc who polled 296 votes to his 177. A third candidate, Mrs. Helen Lang, Shannonville, polled 42 votes.

Mr. Evans wrote to Mr. J. F. Jewson, secretary of the Ontario Milk Commission, Toronto, immediately after the election to protest its validity.

In a letter of reply Mr. Jewson stated that the time of voting was stated, inadvertently, as EST in notices to all licensed producers in the region.

"This fact was entirely unnoticed," he added, "until the morning of the voting when a producer brought the matter to the attention of one of the deputy-returning officers."

Consequently, all deputy-returning officers were requested to keep the polls open until 8 p.m. standard time as stated in the letter to milk producers.

According to Mr. Jewson's letter, fewer than 15 producers voted in the extra hour allotted. "The final results of the election therefore could not be affected," remarked the OMC secretary.

Mr. Evans was invited to appear before the milk commission to appeal its decision if he wished at its next meeting on November 24 and 25.

The farmer promptly replied to this suggestion with the observation, "Let them come to me."

In a further letter to Mr. Jewson, the defeated candidate stated it might be more appropriate for the OMC members to meet in the locality of the election "for obvious points of referral and evidence."

He commented that he had demanded the election declared null and void because of glaring discrepancies contravening the Milk Act.

Mr. Evans said he has learned every ballot used in the Napanee poll was found to bear the incorrect name of candidate Helen Lang and all were altered by the polling officers.

He also contended in his latest letter to Mr. Jewson that the OMC secretary's record of the number of voters casting ballots after 8 p.m. is incorrect.

"The series of pathetic errors caused by your department in our first democratic election leaves room for a disqualification of the election," stated Mr. Evans' letter.

Mr. Evans, a member of Athol township council, told the press such discrepancies would not be overlooked in "a simple municipal election." He added that acts cannot be changed and laws cannot be broken.

"It was the . . . . . civil servants. They've been telling us what to do for a hundred years," he asserted.

CLIFF CHATTERTON

Mayor Opposes Garage

TRENTON (Staff) — Mayor Duncan McDonald announced yesterday he will personally oppose plans to have the old post office site used for a parking garage.

"Just go down and look at the property closely," he said. "it is no paice for a parking garage."

He stated he believes the property should be sold to the town can recover as much money (from sale and taxes) on the land as possible.

Two banks, he said, have shown interest in buying the Dundas Street, Orange, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce expressed its interest in a letter to council earlier this year.

Mayor McDonald contends the land is too valuable for it to be used as a home for a new parking garage, mentioning there is much vacant land just south of Dundas West on Quinte Street that he feels would be more suitable.

Sanitation Firm Adds to Pickups

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton Sanitation is beginning today to rectify a string of grievances against its garbage collection service here.

Mayor Duncan McDonald revealed the news in an interview here yesterday amid rising discontent with the new town garbage collector.

United Church Broken Into

PICTON (Staff) — Town police this morning are investigating an overnight breakin at Picton United Church on Chapel St.

Police Chief George Pitt said a person or persons gained entrance by breaking a basement window. No damage was reported and a search has revealed nothing missing to date. The church will celebrate its 178th anniversary this Sunday.

401 Crash Injures Trucker

A 52-year-old Downsview man is listed in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital after he was admitted Wednesday morning suffering from what is believed to be whiplash injury.

Thomas Berger was injured following an 8.15 a.m. accident on Highway 401, four miles east of Belleville. Damage to his half-ton truck has been estimated at $1,500.

Remembrance Day Plans Set

Former members of the Canadian Armed Services who gave their lives for freedom in two world wars will be honored in Remembrance Day ceremonies in Belleville next Thursday.

In the morning, veterans of two world wars with color parties, members of the armed forces, bands and cadets will march to the Cenotaph for wreath laying ceremonies.

In the evening the annual Remembrance Day banquet will be held at the new Royal Canadian Legion hall on Pinnacle Street, when Cliff Chatteron, executive secretary of the National Council of Veterans' Associations in Canada, will be the guest speaker.

Plans for the Remembrance Day parade and for the banquet were completed at a meeting of the Veterans of Belleville Council held over the weekend at the Legion Hall executive room.

The parade will leave the Armories at 10:30 a.m. and, led by Parade Marshal Sidney Scott, will march to the Station Street Cenotaph.

Padre Bram Humphreys will be in charge of the Cenotaph service while the parade marshall will supervise laying of the wreaths. Sea Cadets will form a guard of honor. The Duke of Edinburgh Unit Pipe Band will play the Lament.

The evening Remembrance Day banquet will be held in the Holland Room of the new Legion Hall which will seat close to 500 people. Admission will be by tickets priced at $2 each, which are available at the Legion Hall, the ANAF clubrooms or any member of Cde. Harold Vaughan's ticket committee.

The banquet guest speaker Cliff Chatteron, is no stranger to Belleville having been speaker at the ANAF provincial convention here in 1969.

He and Mrs. Chatterton will be greeted on their arrival in the city by ANAF Dominion President J. C. Lundberg and Mrs. Lundberg.

The Sea Cadet Band will provide musical interludes during the banquet, while members of the Duke of Edinburgh Ladies Auxiliary will be caterers for the meal.

The Veterans of Belleville Council under Chairman Howard Kokesh hopes for one of the largest turnouts of veterans and members of the general public to Remembrance Day ceremonies.

The sale of wreaths prior to Remembrance Day is reported to have been the best in many years.

Archbishop Opens School Addition

The new addition to St. Carthagh's School in Tweed was officially opened Sunday by Archbishop J. L. Wilhelm, of Kingston.

The addition contains school offices, a guidance room, health room, library, kindergarten and 4 primary classrooms.

The classrooms have movable walls that can be pushed back to form a large open area for team teaching methods.

Presiding for the occasion was Edward Courneyea, separate school trustee for Tweed. Ben Krocse, chairman of the Hastings - Prince Edward Roman Catholic Separate school board welcomed guests and E. J. Neville, superintendent of schools, commented on the construction features of the addition that reflect modern education methods. Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed commended the spirit of the separate school system and the ecumenical outlook of Tweed citizens.

Among the distinguished visitors were Bishop McNeil of Saint John, New Brunswick, and Rev. Brother Margaret MacDonald, Superior General of the Sisters of Providence, Kingston.

Before the blessing of the new addition, Sister Noella Seguin, principal of the school introduced the 11 teachers on her staff.

The assembled guests followed Archbishop Wilhelm through the school as he blessed each new room in the addition.

Service Interrupted

MADOC (Staff) — Twenty-five families on Russell Street will be without water until tonight following a water main break.

Workmen shut off the water supply to residents early this morning, as well as flows to two large garages at a local hotel bar. Two streets not connected to the mains in the northwest end of the village, remain unaffected by the shutoff.

The break occurred at the corner of Russell Street and Queen Victoria, and workmen report a substantial loss of water at this time.

Cause of the break is unknown, but they expect repairs to be completed by the end of the day.

Nuclear Test

We are no more enamored at the prospect of the Amchitka nuclear bomb blast than anyone else, but what could Prime Minister Trudeau have done to prevent it? Blamed for just about all our ills these days, the P.M., in the view of some, should have shown more leadership over this issue by making direct representations to President Nixon.

The President is already well aware of the displeasure of Canada and other nations concerning the Amchitka blast. Mr. Trudeau similarly is aware of the sense of dismay and even outrage that such a test should be deemed necessary at this time.

However, any personal approach by Mr. Trudeau at this stage, let alone in the earlier stages of this dispute, would be taken by Washington as unwarranted interference. This is a matter for the Americans; it is their decision, albeit a bad one. There remains court action in the U.S. as perhaps the only certain means of preventing the test. An injunction is being sought to this end, with results which we now await.

Winter Driving

Winter snow and difficult driving conditions are not far off. These hazards we are all aware of, as well as the need to make the necessary adjustments in the way we handle the car. But it is not only the automobile we must treat with respect in this regard. We must now consider the snowmobile as well.

The Ontario government has warned that unless people show more responsibility in the use of snowmobiles a sharp increase in the number of people killed and injured in accidents with these vehicles can be expected.

Last season 38 people were killed and 598 injured in snowmobile accidents and those who boast "it could never happen to me" should just pause for a moment and ponder the foregoing statistics.

Communications Minister Charles MacNaughton, citing irresponsibility in handling of the vehicles as the principal cause of death and injury, has urged snowmobilers to obtain a copy of his department's pamphlet. It sets out the law relating to their operation and gives training tips.

The main causes of accidents last season were snowmobilers riding on the wrong side of the road, colliding with parked cars, failing to obey stop signs and other road warnings, as well as lack of knowledge of the capabilities and limitations of the machines.

Modern Myths

Along with the modern myth that this is the age of leisure (who, pray, has the time or stomach for too much free time, let alone idleness?) comes that other, and even more recent one, concerning the so-called gentle sex. First, we discover that women are numbered among the active, warring, members of the IRA in that dreary round of terrorism in Ulster. And now, we learn from NBC news that women soldiers are on the increase in the United States. Certainly there has been no shortage of women among those clamoring hordes who take to the streets in protest against real or imagined wrongs. Having sensed the heady feel of the riot situation it is perhaps only a short step to involvement in crime. Any number of other reasons too lie behind wrongdoing in our society today, among them the loosing of family ties, discipline, and the introduction of the permissive, "anything goes" attitude to one's fellow man and society as a whole. This is part of the tragedy of our age.

Mellow Season

From across the bay, from the high ground along the Old Picton Road, Belleville has appeared in these latter days of the year in varying shades of grey and blue, but mostly the latter in these incredible days of Indian summer, and reflecting by day and night off the waterfront buildings. From morning mist to the flat calm of the bay at midday, and out there is a yacht and on the far shore the trees are as shadows. Dusk falls and the sky sends forth the myriad colors that precede the night and speak of the wonder of the universe. Darkness comes and, as on a number of nights lately, you see the phenomenon of the shooting stars, shafting across incalculable miles of outer space. Meanwhile, they say it is going to get colder soon . . .

P.M. Grilled Following Kosygin Visit

Opposition Picks Holes in Canadian-Soviet Exchange

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It did not take Ottawa long to come out of its moonstruck post-Kosygin euphoria.

Premier Alexei Kosygin had been gone only six hours after jetting out from Toronto's International Airport for Cuba, when Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau began backing off from the great glow of Russian-Canadian Government love-in.

The Premier had blasted off shortly after 1.30 a.m., and it was just about 2.30 p.m. the same day when the House of Commons got around to chewing over the Soviet-Canadian communique which spoke so reassuringly of the mutual pursuit of peace, trade and other praiseworthy goals.

But long before then, in fact, even before Premier Kosygin's arrival in Ottawa, the Prime Minister had been getting some flack on the wisdom of rolling out the red carpet for the Communist leader.

Flack not just from the Americans, and from the ethnic minorities here in Canada, but from a lot of plain Canadians, ordinary taxpayers like you and me and the guy down the block.

Such people have always wondered vaguely, about Pierre Trudeau's still only sketchily - documented early years when he gypsied around Eastern Europe and Asia.

They were jarred when, on his Soviet trip, he was uncritical of most of his Russian hosts and the worries the Kremlin for years had been causing the world, he blurted out that as a Canadian he was more concerned about the possibilities of American cultural, economic, political domination here.

So by the time Premier Kosygin had come and gone, the Prime Minister had long sampled the winds of Canadian public opinion and must have been troubled by the chill.

He began backing off just a bit from his posture as the initiator of the great Canadian-Soviet love - fest in a quite canny political way.

He generously tried to share the credit with Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield.

The Opposition Leader, fascinated by the communique's talk of Canadian-Soviet co-operation in diairmond, peace, trade and other noble endeavors, asked if the Soviet "really has changed its position."

The Prime Minister, politically sharp as a razor, responded Mr. Stanfield a bow with the statement that "as a result of the Conservative leader's trip to Russia there had been some advance in the Soviet position."

Mr. Stanfield looked astonished, as well he might.

"If the Opposition Leader does not wish to take credit for it," smiled the wily Prime Minister, "well, I suppose that is fine. But we think the Soviets have moved since they saw him."

To slowly, down - to - earth, serious, sincere Robert Stanfield such sophistry as he and it, "smiled alec" stuff.

While all that might have been very civilized, the Prime Minister has been undergoing some rough handling.

Prairie Conservative MP Jack Horner asked now that things were so jolly with the Russians, would the Bomarc missiles' bases being phased out at North Bay and LaMacaza be reactivated with Russian warheads?

Another Prairie Conservative, Jack McIntosh, wondered, with all the Soviet-Canadian kissyfacing going on, was Canada still in NATO - NORAD?

Former Conservative Prime Minister John Diefenbaker was roughest of all, telling off Pierre Trudeau as being the victim of the greatest international con game in being "taken" by Premier Kosygin, since Hitler did his Munich snow-job at Neville Chamberlain.

All Diefenbaker said Dief, had been "shocked" at how easily the Prime Minister had been "had a bit" by Kosygin's bag of the most aggressive and greatest military power in the world.

New Long Distance plan for calls within Ontario and Quebec

Five months ago we made some changes in Long Distance rates, because we were running into overload problems at certain times. To overcome these problems we had to withdraw the low-cost "Family Calling" Plan — a disappointment to many of our customers. A new plan has now been developed to provide alternative times for those longer conversations that mean so much to them.

On November 28th, we're introducing the new Long Distance "Sunday Visit" Plan, with rates that are about the same as the previous "Family Calling" rates. This change will restore as much opportunity as possible for leisurely Long Distance calling—Sundays, from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

For the benefit of late callers, the "Late Night" rate offers a two-thirds discount after 11:00 p.m. every night.

We believe that the plan shown below will help to keep Long Distance calling within the reach of everyone.

The following changes in discounts on Long Distance calls have been approved by the Canadian Transport Commission for a six-month trial period.

They apply to calls within Bell territory in Ontario, Quebec, Labrador and N.W.T.

New "Sunday Visit" Plan

On Sundays, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. you'll get a discount of 3/4 off the dial direct regular charge, as shown in Table 1, for the initial minute and each additional minute of your call. That means if the regular rate for your call is $1.00 you'll be billed 25 cents.

The "Sunday Visit" rate is not exactly the same as the "Family Calling" rate — in some cases it works out to be a little more, in others less—but it's close. From 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. a discount of 1/2 applies. See table 2.

	From November 28th "Sunday Visit" Plan 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.		Before June 6th "Family Calling" Plan 10-12 p.m. & all day Sunday
	10 mins.	20 mins.	10 mins.	20 mins.
For example:
North Bay to Toronto	$ .81	$1.61	$ .80	$1.55
Kingston to Toronto	$ .73	$1.46	$ .75	$1.50
Ottawa to Cornwall	$ .53	$1.06	$ .60	$1.10

New "Late Night" rate

From 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. you get a 2/3 discount off the regular rate, when you dial direct. That means if the regular rate for your call is $1.50, you'll be billed 50 cents. For typical comparisons see Table 3 below.

New pay phone and hotel rates

There is a 3-minute minimum on station-to-station calls from pay phones and hotels, and discounts do not apply to this initial period. Discounts (Table 2) will apply only to additional minutes, as shown in Table 1 — provided that you pay for the call by inserting coins or, in the case of a hotel phone, on your hotel bill.

Since this is provided as an alternative to dial-direct calls, the discounts do not apply to collect calls, credit card calls, or calls billed to a third number. Pay phone charges are rounded to the nearest nickel.

	Customer-dialed call weekday evening	Similar call from pay phone or hotel, weekday evening	Credit card, collect calls or calls charged to a third party
	3 mins.	10 mins.	3 mins.	10 mins.
For example:
Ottawa to Toronto	$ .73	$2.37	$1.30	$2.93	$1.30	$3.75
Kingston to Montreal	$ .67	$2.16	$1.20	$2.69	$1.20	$3.44

501-Over	.56	1.70	3.40	.47

2 Discounts (starting November 28th)

TIME OF DAY	WEEKDAYS	SUNDAY
8 A.M. to 6 P.M.	REGULAR CHARGE	3/4 OFF
6 P.M. to 11 P.M.	1/3 OFF	1/2 OFF
11 P.M. to 8 A.M.	2/3 OFF

These discounts apply, during the hours specified on calls you dial direct. Discounts do not apply to operator-handled calls, collect calls, credit card calls, or calls billed to a third number. Exceptions are detailed under the heading of pay phone and hotel rates.

If dial-direct service is not available where you live, or in the community you are calling, our Operator will place your call for you at the same dial direct rate.

Rates for long distance calls made from within Quebec and Ontario to points in other provinces, U.S.A. and overseas, are not affected by rate changes within Bell Canada territory, and remain as they were prior to June 6th.

Memory Can Be Stimulated on Growing Older

By DORIS CLARK

As Charlotte Whitton held the floor and reminisced, someone remarked about her prodigious memory.

Charlotte explained, "My mother used to make all us kids work at remembering things. When she sent us to the store she never gave us a written list. She would make us remember it by saying that we would have to get bread, then butter to go on bread, and then jam and so on. Everything was associated with everything else.

"It was a matter of pride with us kids to remember every single item. If there was something we had forgotten we would be marched right back to the store for it."

Psychologists agree that the function of memory can be developed just like any other part of the brain or the body. Also, it is insisted, memory can still be stimulated as we grow older.

We can teach ourselves to remember names, dates, even memorize poetry. Harder, maybe, at 65 — but something to be worked at — and quite possible.

Dear Doris: I have just read the letter from In A Web re her phobia about going out. I had this happen when I went into an early menopause.

I had psychiatric help and a new lease on life, but sometimes I get a feeling of butterflies in the stomach, which reminds me that self - help and a good psychiatrist are a better crutch than drink. No one can understand the feeling of panic and terror as well as others who have gone through it. — More Confident Now

Dear Doris: To In A Web I would suggest I had the same panics during the menopause and though I take a drink, that was not my problem. I was overweight and finally a psychiatrist put me on a diet pill.

I forced myself to join a bowling league just to start mixing with people and finally got looking forward to it instead of dreading it every week. Last winter I joined the Y (Tm 50) and though I didn't learn to swim, I enjoyed floating around and the company in the Sauna. When you get out with others you will find we all have troubles of one kind or another.

Best wishes for her recovery and sympathy in the loss of her family. — No Longer Panicky

Dear Doris: About In A Web, I was once a very bright housekeeper when all of a sudden I found myself going down hill. I started feeling exactly like she did only I knew that there was no cure.

So I went to a doctor who was so understanding. He told me to get out of my shell. To go out shopping, to visit my neighbors for tea.

Now I feel great and when I do feel down in the gutter, I go for a walk. Then I get home and start doing some baking. I always keep my mind busy. She should put confidence in someone she really likes and talk it over with them. — Two In A Web

Dear Friends: In A Web and I appreciate the concern that prompted your helpful letters.

Ask Doris for the information you need. If she doesn't know she'll find out from one of her consultants. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

by JOHN CONWELL

Does a wife ever get tired of 'I love you'?

Answer: No, and neither does a husband ever get tired of hearing that phrase from his wife. Another thing: a husband doesn't have to express that thought in different ways. He can put it in precisely those three words 365 days in the year, and his wife will be pleased to hear them. Nor will a husband ever tire of saying them, because his wife will let him know how delighted she is to hear: "I love you."

Is alcoholism an occupational sickness?

Answer: Only in this respect: pick out any occupation and you will find in it alcoholics who drink, they say, because of the particular work they do. Yet if these same people were printers or poets, plumbers or professors, doctors or diggers, they will drink in excess because they depend on alcohol. If they were to heal their sickness, they could do the same job without resorting to drink.

Would an outgoing individual ever envy a shy person?

Answer: Certainly, although it is the rare outgoing individual who would ever admit that he even gives a second thought to any idea of being shy. Yet, unconsciously, someone who acts as if he never lets anything bother him might be afraid to take an inward look at himself. He may learn, he thinks, that he is just as shy as the next person; but he finds it easier to force himself to be outgoing rather than admit to being shy.

MELROSE WI

The October meeting of Melrose WI was held at the township school on the evening of the 27th with Mrs. G. Bates as hostess. As was planned, the women appeared in hats of their own making. Judges were appointed and a parade enabled them to compare the creations and announce the winners.

Mrs. Boisvert wore the daintiest hat: Mrs. J. Macfarlane and Mrs. Mac Lanier tied for the humorous creations and Mrs. Don McLaren for the most original which was decorated with autumn leaves and flowers. Six women paid fines for not entering the contest.

Mrs. G. Stratton reported on the arrangements made for the bus trip to the Ice Capades in Toronto Nov. 4.

The secretary reported the finances were in good shape, having realized $222.76 from catering for the banquet sponsored by the municipal council for the senior citizens of the township.

Thank you notes were read from Mrs. Jean Bates and Mrs. J. Milligan both of whom are unable to attend the meetings.

The recreation committee reminded the WI that no donation had been received this year. A $25 donation will be forwarded to that committee.

A trophy for the 4-H calf club high showmin will be presented again this year and the president Mrs. J. Macfarlane and Mrs. N. Saville will look after the suitable engraving.

A report of the area convention was given by the delegate Mrs. G. McLaren. Mrs. A. English and Mrs. R. Badgley spoke briefly on their impressions and regretted that more Melrose women were not in attendance. The displays this year were better and larger than usual and received favorable comments.

Guests at this meeting were Mrs. Hodgins of Belleville and her daughter, who showed many interesting pictures taken while she attended Expo in Japan.

A small token of appreciation was presented to Miss Hodgins for making the meeting so interesting.

Mrs. Mac Lanier conducted a contest after which refreshments were served.

FEMALE ADVICE

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Sherry Lane, a lady groom at the harness racing stables at Yonkers Raceway), advises women who are taking on responsibilities that were once solely for a man: "never ask for help and never play a weak female." Asking for help "would only cause resentment from the men," Miss Lane says.

Little Girl's Delight

Pam Thompson, aged 3, is anxious to see if there is any mail for her at the 'post office' run by Mrs. Ruby Fleming. In reality, the post office was one of the booths at the Emerald tea and bazaar held on Wednesday afternoon at Elk's Hall by Bethlehem Shrine No. 11, White Shrine of Jerusalem.

Emerald Tea Held at Elk's Hall

Green and gold streamers caught up by butterflies with softly gleaming stardust wings and baskets of fall flowers on the stage gave Elk's hall a festive air on Wednesday afternoon when the Emerald tea and bazaar was held by Bethlehem Shrine No. 11, White Shrine of Jerusalem. Displayed on a table on the stage was a large paper cut-out in a fall fruit motif, framed by a wreath. The fall fruit motif was repeated at various points on the panelled walls.

Separating the bazaar section from the tea room was a white picket fence. Two huge paper sunflowers with butterflies hovering over them sentinelled the entrance to the tea room.

The main table centrepiece consisted of a bouquet of emerald green 'mums in a trumpet shaped gold holder flanked by green and gold lighted candles. Pouring honors were done by Glenna Black, Ethel Keller, Coral Adams, Leona Austin, Ruby Fleming, Hazel Baragar, Margaret Hobson, Gertrude Elsworth, Dora Elvidge and Mary Hearns.

The general convener was Mrs. Dorothy Ellis and the co-conveners were Mrs. Dorothy Jones and Mrs. Margaret Newman. The tea room convener was Mrs. Gertrude Elsworth.

The conveners of the various booths were Mrs. Margaret Stalker (home baking); Mrs. Ruby Fleming (post office); Mrs. Edith Hanna (candy) and Mrs. Dora Elvidge and Mrs. Kay Baskell (Past High Priestesses' booth). Douglas Ellis and Marc Pope assisted by Dave Hollinger were in charge of the men's table. The kitchen convener was Mrs. Kay Bushell.

Guests were received by Mrs. Helen Shorey, Worthy Hih Priestess and Mrs. Dorothy Ellis, Noble Pluraphetess.

Jaycettes Sponsor 'Fashions for '71'

Fashions for almost every member of the family were modelled at the show entitled Fashions for Fun for '71 held on Wednesday night at the new Royal Canadian Legion hall by the Jaycettes. With the proceeds slated for the retarded children of the community a number of local commercial organizations pitched in to contribute fashions and services.

The clothes were provided by Jack Fraser's Mens' and Boys' wear and The Loft. Women's styles included a number of pert, flirtatious hip-teasing minis, proving that legs are still very much in style as well as hot pants, jumpsuits and pant suits. Most of the mannequins either ac ever-ups for hot pants or as dresses by themselves were seductively split to reveal a flash of leg as the wearer walked. At least two dresses featured an unusual neckline with a band of fabric swathing the throat and a small cutout just below.

The men models showed off suits and casual outfits suitable for different life styles. Pants for both business wear and casual wear were invariably flared while jackets offered a choice of single and double breated ones. A number of tweed and easy care double knit suits were shown, also mix and match outfits for casual wear. A wide range of men's coats was modelled including some smart sporty ones suitable for casual outings (a hockey game for example) also some with a more tailored formal air.

The undisputed star of the show was seven - year - old Michael Moon who modelled all the little boys' styles in the show. He showed off a number of suits and casual outfits including a flaming tomato red ski jacket and a purple turtleneck sweater teamed with pinvale corduroy slacks, with the air of self - possession and aplomb of a born model.

In the teenagers' section, Grant Hopkins showed off a swinging blue denim jacket with matching flared jeans set off by a red, white and blue belt. Equally swinging and superbly attuned to Grant's outfit was Mary Lou Worley's blue jeans - and - peace jacket outfit teamed with a brilliant red turtleneck sweater and a matching Indian style head band. Another eyecatching style modelled by Grant was a pair of chocolate and off white striped pants with patch pockets topped by a chocolate brown sweater. The wide, wide stripes, just two on each leg would have found their natural setting in a swinging discotheque.

A number of fashions for skiing and snowmobiling for both men and women were shown including a pair of mauve 'his-and-her' silicone treated snowsuits worn by Ann and Marty Lalonde. Most of the ski jackets shown were belted.

The commentators were Gerald Joyce and Shirley Woodcock, while organ music played by R. B. Mason provided a musical background for the models. With modelling advice from Mrs. Sandra Saunders of the London of England Modelling School, the models showed off all the styles to advantage. They were: Dan Bishop, Linda Gruba, Grant Hopkins, Ann and Marty Lalonde, Paula London, Anne Marie McKay, Shirley Ann McWilliams, Pam Moon, president of the Jaycettes, Michael Moon, Bill and Milford Robb, Ted Tedesco, Dianne Vande Vooren, and Bob and Mary Lou Worley.

Draws were held and a number of prizes donated by various merchants were won by members of the large audience. Chief of these was the wardrobe worth $250 won by J. Englehart.

Fashions for the Family

Dan Bishop, Michael Moon and Linda Gruba model styles for men, women and children at the 'Fashions for Fun for '71' show held by the Jaycettes on Wednesday night at the new Royal Canadian Legion hall. Proceeds from the show in which many other models participated, will go to the retarded children of the community.

Paprika Known as 'Cosmetic Spice'

By ALICE DENHOFF

If some Columbus of the Space Age discovered a planet where the most delightful exotic fruits and vegetables grew luxuriantly, we would hardly be more excited than Columbus and his men were when they came upon those juicy red pods —the ancestors of our modern paprika peppers. Paprika and the other capsicum pod peppers seemed to grow all over the Caribbean and tropical America when the early explorers arrived.

The Aztecs, the Toltecs, the Olmecs, Indians of the New World, apparently ate astounding quantities of the flavor pods. Capsicums, according to explorer Acosta, "were the principal sauce and the only spice of the Indians."

There are many varieties of capsicums. One thing is sure—those used for paprika must be brilliantly red, since we call this a "cosmetic spice." In general, the more than 11 million pounds we use annually is sweet, mild. The Hungarian variety has a slight bite. Paprika is one of the big five on our national spice shelf, so let's use it for some pleasing dishes. Just right for now:

BRAISED LAMB WITH PAPRIKA SOUR CREAM

2 pounds lamb stew meat
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
¼ cup flour
4 tablespoons shortening
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup hot water
2 tablespoons onion flakes
1 tablespoon paprika
1 cup sour cream

Trim and discard excess fat from lamb; cut meat into one-inch cubes. Combine salt, pepper and flour. Add to meat; mix well. Brown meat in hot shortening in heavy skillet or saucepan. Add next three ingredients. Cover and cook 30 minutes or until meat is tender. Stir in paprika and sour cream. Heat only until hot. Serves six, a stew with Hungarian overtones.

Also of Hungarian origin is this tangy, tasty chicken dish, the traditional:

OVEN-BRAISED BEEF

2 pounds beef stew meat
2 tablespoons shortening
1¼ cups hot water
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 tablespoons onion flakes
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon paprika
Cooked rice or potatoes

Trim and discard excess fat from meat; cut meat into one-inch cubes. Brown in hot shortening in heavy saucepan or skillet. Add next six ingredients. Cook, covered, in 325-F. oven 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Serve with rice or potatoes. Serves six with a good, nourishing main dish. Thrifty, too

OVEN-BRAISED Beef Stew needs no tending and comes to table in its baking dish with an added border of fluffy rice.

Pink was never the color of "my true love's hair". There are no eyes of that shade, unless afflicted. But when it comes to salmon and wine—pink seems to be preferred.

There is a certain gaiety, fun and laughter associated with pink wine...and that's a happy association.

Over 500 'Solutions' Are Received for Woman's Offensive Odor Problem

Dear Readers: Several weeks ago I printed a letter from a woman who said her life was ruined because of an offensive odor she couldn't get rid of. She made the rounds of nose specialists, endocrynologists, dermatologists, gynecologists but no one could explain it. In fact, no one could smell it. She said no friend or relative had ever mentioned the odor but it was driving her crazy.

I suggested one more doctor — a psychiatrist. I told her that over the years I have received hundreds of letters from readers with the same complaint. My consultants agree that when no physical problem exists the problem is psychological. These tortured people have a deep-seated feeling of worthlessness. The "odor" which no one else can smell is an ego-saving excuse to keep them away from people. It also explains, to them, at least, why no one wants to be around them.

When the letter appeared I received over 500 "solutions." Here's a sampling:

From Wheeling, W. Va.: The woman with the "odor" is not sick—she is gifted. I, too, have the ability to smell things that no one else can smell. I can smell animals in the woods and birds flying over head. I can also smell friends and acquaintances before they enter a room. I first realized I had this gift when I was four years old. I said to my mother: "Grandpa will be here soon." She asked: "How do you know?" I answered: "I can smell him." Sure enough, in five minutes Grandpa arrived. Please tell the woman who wrote not to worry. She's exceptional.

From Marshalltown, Iowa: Tell the lady with the strange odor to cheer up and she will smell better. Scientists have proved that happy people give off a fragrant scent. Negative brain waves (worry, anger, fear, anxiety) give off unpleasant odors. Animals can smell emotions but most people can't.

From La Porte, Ind.: The woman who "Nose It All" should stop drinking coffee. The odor that is bothering her is the result of caffeine poisoning.

From Jackson, Mich.: Tell "Stinky" to put a cup of salt in her bath water.

From Juneau, Alaska: Tell the lady with the odor to sleep with a raw oyster over each eye at night. It's a sure cure.

From London, Ont.: Her trouble if not in her mind, Ann, it's in her nose. She should line her nostrils with vaseline every night when she goes to sleep.

From Flint, Mich.: The lady with the odor problem should change toothpaste and soap. She has an allergy that is throwing her chemistry out of balance.

From Des Moines, Iowa: If the woman will stop wearing synthetic fabrics (Nylon, acetate, etc.), her odor will disappear. Synthetics stimulate glandular secretions which create odors.

From Knoxville, Tenn.: The woman who smells things should be aware that she has a rare talent. Her highly developed olfactory sense should be put to use. She should rent herself out to church groups who have picnics. Every year at least a dozen people die from food poisoning at these affairs. If you'll give me her name I'll see to it that she is put to work at once.

LACK STANDARDS

MONTREAL (CP) — There is a glaring lack of facilities and trained staff to provide the improved pre-school education for Quebec youngsters, says Mark Braham, associate professor of education at Sir George Williams University. "There are no standards in Quebec to govern facilities, personnel, programming and supervision of pre-school education. The schools need only a health certificate and business licence to operate."

Milton Curfew At Ten Urged

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Brian Best, who read the Riot Act to 50 teen-agers last Sunday, wants to impose a 10 p.m. curfew on everyone under 17 in this small town, 25 miles west of Toronto.

Mr. Best read the Riot Act early Sunday morning after a crowd of teen-agers celebrating Halloween smashed courthouse windows, damaged two police cars, and threw rotting vegetables and stones at the courthouse and town hall. The act, seldom invoked, orders a crowd to disperse within 30 minutes.

In an interview Wednesday, Mr. Best said he feels parents of children who break the proposed curfew should be fined under Ontario's Child Welfare Act. They should also be charged with any offences their children commit, he added.

Officials of the province's department of social and family services began checking their statutes Wednesday to see if this would be legal.

The mayor also will ask the town council's general committee Monday to approve newspaper advertisements naming the parents of teenagers convicted of crimes.

Federal law prohibits identifying any teen-ager under 16 who is charged with an offence.

Two Bank Employees Lose Plea

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — An appeal against two-year prison sentences imposed on two former bank employees who stole $414,647 from the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Summerside, P.E.I., was dismissed in Supreme Court Wednesday.

The appeal, made by lawyer Charles R. McQuaid on behalf of William Angus MacDonald and Archibald MacLeod, said the sentence handed down in magistrate's court had been excessive and unduly severe.

But the justices hearing the case said no new reasons had been advanced to change the sentence since it was passed Oct. 21.

MacLeod and MacDonald pleaded guilty to theft of more than $50 after they surrendered to police in Summerside in early October. They had been missing with the money for one month.

The two returned to P.E.I. from the United States following negotiations with Mel Simmons, chief security officer for the bank.

'Holdback' For Milk To Be Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is reducing the amount of money it skims from dairy farmers to cover the cost of selling surplus dairy products abroad, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson announced Wednesday.

He told the Commons the lower "holdback" will add about $8.5 million to dairy farmer income during the 1971-72 financial year.

The move was being made because of improved markets for dairy products both at home and abroad.

The federal holdback from payments on manufacturing milk earlier were set at 25 cents a hundredweight on April and May deliveries and 20 cents for deliveries starting the June. The new rate would amount to 10 cents on a hundred pounds.

The 10-cent levy is applied retroactively to last April 1, so farmers will get a 15-cent rebate on their April and May deliveries and a 10-cent rebate on those from June to the present.

The levy applied by the Canadian dairy commission is to cover the cost of the difference between domestic prices and the lower price at which surpluses are exported.

Fleas Gassed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — That flea collar that keeps Fido from scratching contains a nerve gas that was developed during the Second World War, a Niagara Falls alderman has told city council.

Ald. Norman Puttick asked city manager Carl Ruggins to ask the Niagara regional health unit how harmful the flea collars may be to children and others.

Senators Pay Off Ball Debts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania's two United States Senators rode past the Capitol Wednesday atop their Republican party's mascot—five elephants.

Senators Hugh Scott and Richard Schweiker looked poised and steady atop the pachyderms for the 10-minute parade to the cheers of at least 300 onlookers and reporters.

The elephants were provided by the Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus and Maryland Republican Senators Charles Mathias and J. Glenn Beall. It was the payoff for Baltimore Orioles' loss to Pittsburgh Pirates in the baseball World Series.

"If it wasn't for the honor of the thing, I'd just as soon walk," Scott said before climbing aboard 35-year-old Jenny, Schweiker got 40-year-old Susie for his ride. Both are Indian elephants.

Mathias and Beall, wearing Orioles' jackets and caps, carried peanuts and a shovel, but no clean-up detail was necessary.

U.S. Election Shows No Clear Trend

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Local elections throughout the United States Tuesday failed to give any definitive guide to the '72 presidential and congressional balloting, in the opinion of most political observers.

While some pundits viewed "tough-cop" Frank Rizzo's election as mayor of Philadelphia as a possible indication of a national trend toward law-and-order candidates, others believed the former police commissioner's victory did not portend any heavy emphasis on this issue in next year's campaigning.

The elections of Democrat, and Ralph Perk, a conservative Republican who won the Cleveland mayoralty race, had racial overtones in that both were almost solidly opposed by the black electorate.

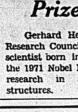
But in two other important races, Boston and Jersey City, the voters rebuffed law-and-order candidates to elect liberal-leaning mayors. Democrat Kevin White won re-election in Boston and Dr. Paul Jordan, a reform candidate, upset the organization man backed by the machine of long-time Democratic party boss John V. Kenny in Jersey City.

Th decisive defeat of black independent Charles Evers in his bid for the governorship of Mississippi was no surprise. Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers, said of his conqueror, Democrat William Waller:

"He ran one of the cleanest races of any white gubernatorial candidates I have ever seen."

The Perks victory in Cleveland over Arnold Pinkney, the independents black candidate supported by retiring black mayor Carl Stokes, was seen as a significant development in the black political structure.

Some observers said it smashed — for the time being, at least—any dreams Stokes might have had for starting a national black political movement or for winning greater influence for blacks within the Democratic party.



In the over-all picture, the Democrats scored some notable triumphs Tuesday.

In Kentucky, the only other state with a governorship at stake, Democrat Wendell Ford beat Republican Thomas Emberton, a protege of retiring Republican Gov. Louie Nunn.

Ford, the current lieutenant-governor, campaigned strongly against President Nixon's economic policies. He declared that his victory was the beginning of a national movement to defeat Nixon for the presidency in 1972.

The Democrats did well in New Jersey, where they cut sharply into the Republican majority in the state Senate and gained an apparent standoff—20 seats to 40—in the previously Republican-controlled Assembly.

The Democrats also had impressive gains in city and town contests in Indiana and Connecticut

Harassment Is Denied

TORONTO (CP) — James Crossland, Crown counsel at the Heighes inquest in August, denied Wednesday before a meeting of Ontario coroners that he had harassed witnesses at the hearing.

During a one-hour review of the inquest into the death of 45-year-old Geraldine Heighes, Mr. Crossland said he had been unjustly criticized for his conduct at the inquest. The dead woman's husband, Ree, 57, killed himself on the day he was to testify.

Mr. Crossland said two Toronto homicide officers thoroughly investigated Mrs. Heighes death after she collapsed on her way to work Feb. 20, 1970. He had been consulted and they concluded there was insufficient evidence to warrant laying a charge of murder against anyone in the case.

"There was no possibility of any new evidence coming forward that would have in any way altered the assessment of insufficiency of evidence for a charge," Mr. Crossland said.

If any witnesses had made a statement against any of he others about possession of strychnine at the time of the death, their evidence would have been "in direct contradiction to their signed statements to the police."

Mr. Crossland said police had no evidence that anyone possessed strychnine or had access to the poison during the weeks before Mrs. Heighes' death when she started taking diet pills. The pills were returned to the family by a policeman following her death and had been destroyed by the time a routine test from her autopsy showed death had been caused by strychnine poisoning.

Publicized allegations that his questioning of Mr. Heighes at the inquest drove the man to suicide were completely without foundation, he said.

"Far from being deprived of his rights, it is difficult to see what more could have been done to ensure that his rights were protected."

Mr. Heighes was informed several times before the inquest that he could have a lawyer but "chose" not to do so, Mr. Crossland said.

The day before Mr. Heighes killed himself, he was questioned at the inquest only about his denial that he had been sent a registered letter, Mr. Crossland said. Testimony from the Crown attorney and a policeman indicated that Mr. Heighes had been lying.

"He knew he'd be faced with that lie when he left the courtroom that day prior to his death."

Pollution Rules Given

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Wednesday outlined new regulations designed to cut by at least 70 per cent the water pollution caused by pulp and paper mills.

The regulations, tabled in the Commons by Environment Minister Jack Davis, are not intended to create economic hardship for the industry.

And although they become law immediately, under the Fisheries Act, Mr. Davis said mills built before there was a concern for pollution will have plenty of time to clean up.

The regulations are aimed mainly at suspended solids, such as clay used in paper making; organic matter such as wood fibre and bark which uses oxygen from water as it decomposes, and substances toxic to fish.

The regulations have been in the works for a year, and were first announced by Mr. Davis in June.

They order new mills or mills undergoing expansion or alteration to employ the latest technology available in meeting the requirements of the regulations.

But Mr. Davis, in a news conference, said existing mills which do pollute have nothing to fear.

"We're not going to put people out of work. We're not going to close mills."

The government would work closely with the provinces in implementing the regulations, he said, but results would not be immediate.

For old mills it could take up to 10 years to reduce their pollutants by the 70 per cent called for in the regulations, he said.

The regulations call for writing "schedules of compliance" to guide existing mills as they improve their pollution control techniques.

Non-compliance with the regulations, Mr. Davis said, would result in legal prosecutions.

The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association says the new regulations will cost the industry about $283 million.

In Quebec it would cost $244 million, in Ontario $135 million; British Columbia $136 million; the Atlantic provinces $137 million, and Prairie provinces $13 million.

Individual pulp or paper mills must monitor their own effluents and report monitoring results to the federal government.

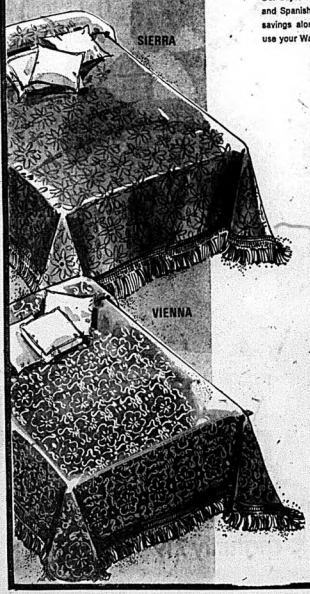
But the government will also make spot checks and carry on a continuing biological evaluation program, putting pollution-sensitive fish into water containing 05 per cent mill effluents.

Eighty per cent of the fish must survive for 96 hours or the mill would have to install biological treatment facilities in addition to the normal mechanical and chemical facilities.

Taxpayer Foots Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Every dollar of industrial scientific activity in the last 10 years has cost the federal taxpayer from 40 to 55 cents, and a Carleton University economist says too little attention has been given to the expenditure.

Gilles Paquet, writing in the current issue of the Canadian Tax Journal, says that of the $301.4 million spent on scientific activities by Canadian industry in 1970, $110.0 million was provided by the federal government in various forms of grants and another $84.4 million was lost to the federal treasury in the way of tax relief.



This amounted to a taxpayer cost, in grants and lost revenues for the treasury, of 40 cents for each dollar of scientific activities performed by industry last year.

PCs Attack Liberals' Attitude to U.S.

Adoptive Parents

Already the parents of three boys, Hilda and Mervyn Ungar wanted a girl — whatever her race or color — to complete their family. Within two months, the Baron de Hirsch Institute in Montreal had found them a baby girl available for adoption in the Northwest Terrorities. She was the child of a teen-aged Indian girl. Three-month-old Rachelle Morena is held in the photograph by Mrs. Hilda Ungar while Jack, left, Mike in front, and Brian, look on. (CP Photo)

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservatives mounted a double-barrelled attack in the Commons Wednesday against economic and diplomatic policies of the Liberal government.

The party presented a motion criticizing the government for failing to employ and improve Canada-U.S. relations while at the same time doing nothing to foster Canadian economic independence.

The motion opened a two-day special debate, for which the Conservatives picked the topic, in the time set under House rules to air opposition grievances. Debate ends tonight with a vote on the motion.

The Conservative contention was that the Liberal government had adopted a cool position towards the United States that could put this country in the economic doldrums.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, main government spokesman Wednesday, rejected the anti-American allegation but admitted Canada is less than happy with recent U.S. economic moves.

T. C. Douglas, former New Democratic Party leader, said his party agreed on the government's lack of policies to create an economically-independent Canada but disagreed that the Liberals had cooled out Canada-U.S. relations. That had been done by recent decisions the U.S. administration took on its own, Mr. Douglas said.

An NDP attempt to delete the anti-American allegation from the Conservative motion was ruled out by the chair.

Debate was launched by Heath Macquarrie (Hillsborough), Conservative foreign affairs critic.

No Canadian government, given the close interweaving of the two economies, could afford to embark on a "rampage of anti-Americanism" without reaping fearful results throughout the Canadian economy, he said.

Ninety per cent of Canada's foreign policy involved relations with the U.S.

Yet Prime Minister Trudeau, on a visit to Russia, handed a gratuitous insult to the United States by saying Canada was red to diversify trade relations and lessen economic dependence on the United States.

At the United Nations, Canada voted for recognition of Communist China and expulsion of Nationalist China. The expulsion was a cruel act that could mean that the people of Formosa would never again be represented in the UN.

The Liberals had no mandate from the Canadian public to vote for this expulsion, Mr. Macquarrie said.

He wasn't arguing that Canada had to follow every U.S. diplomatic lead. There was room in a friendship for differences of opinion.

But Canada did require a close and special relationship with the U.S. and this is what is worrying him and many other Canadians, the Conservative MP said.

He deplored the U.S. decision to go ahead with the nuclear test blast in Alaska. But even though all other protests had failed Mr. Trudeau would not go to Washington and make a personal appeal.

Mr. Douglas said there is a "not-too-subtle campaign" afoot by right-wing elements to equate any individual or group that opposes U.S. desires as "conying up to the Communists."

The Conservative argument was "giving effect to exactly that type of campaign."

He was intrigued by the Conservatives adopting the role as champions of the Americans.

What about 1963 and 1963 when John Diefenbaker, then Conservative prime minister, accused them of interfering in Canadian elections on the issue of nuclear arms for Canada?

"He knows how to forgive them," Steve Paproski (PC—Edmonton Centre) interjected, causing bursts of laughter from the Liberal and NDP benches.

Mr. Douglas said the Liberal government could not be blamed for the retreat into protectionism by the current American administration.

But it certainly could be criticized for inadequate responses, did not know what the Americans wanted Canada to do.

Mr. Sharp said the low point in Canada-U.S. relations was reached under Mr. Diefenbaker.

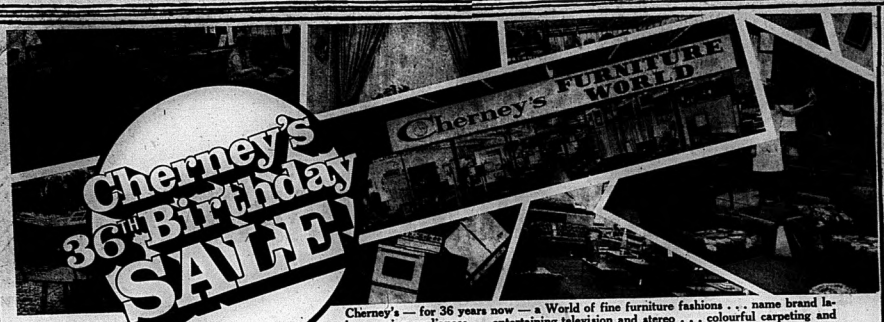
Quebec Will Halt Montreal Dumping

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec government will stop the dumping of earth and waste matter on St. Lawrence River islands east of Montreal and will soon present a plan for the 45-mile stretch of river, Victor Goldbloom, Quebec environment minister, said Wednesday.



The minister was speaking before the top award of $10,000 for contributions to preservation of the Canadian environment was given to Tony LeSauteur, 42-year-old conservationist.

Last week, Mr. LeSauteur released the results of a detailed, summer-long study of the ecology of 117 islands in the St. Lawrence and called for a government plan to turn the area into public parkland.

He was chosen by a panel of 10 judges, including Stanley Burke, Judge W. R. Bonnycastle and Pierre Berton, for the 1971 White Owl Conservation Award. Nominees came from across Canada.

A director of the Quebec Wildlife Federation, Mr. LeSauteur is currently directing a project to reclaim 110 islands in a 55-mile stretch of the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Sorel for public recreational use and wildlife preservation.

Mr. LeSauteur has developed a method of stocking lakes with fish, now in widespread use across Canada, helped conduct a survey of the Quebec pulp and paper industry and formed 50 lake associations to prevent pollution in the province.

City Tennis Goes Inside

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

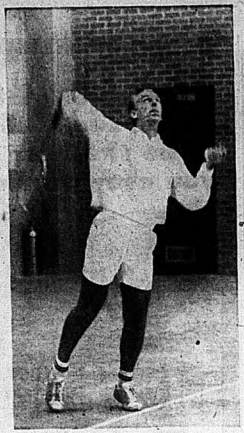
Wimbledon it isn't.

You're pretty well restricted to lob shots below the 20-foot level, and there is the ever - present risk of chasing an opponent's south line shot into the men's washroom.

But playing tennis in Ben Bleecker Auditorium does have its advantages, particularly in November.

The latest twist in the city's Recreation - Arena Committee's tennis program became official this week, when the first sets were played on the solitary yellow - lined court in Bleecker Auditorium.

Membership in the winter program costs $15, with the court available Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 6-10 p.m., alternate Thursday nights from 6 - 10, Sunday mornings, for casual play, and weekdays.



Program participants must make advance bookings by phone through the Pinnacle St. Recreation Centre where a limited number of memberships are still available.

Early comers adapted quickly to the auditorium's concrete surface, despite the fact fairweather tennis in Belleville is played mainly on the Quinte Tennis Club's clay courts, or asphalt surfaces at Zwick's Island or St. Andrew's Church.

Some players will have to alter their tennis strategy for the winter months, however. These lovely three-storey lobs that keep an opponent guessing until the last second are limited by Bleecker's concrete ceiling T-beams. One also runs the risk of detonating an overhead fluorescent light.

But, for those who now have the opportunity to enjoy their sport year-round, these are small hazards compared to frostbite.

Look Out Above!

The sky's not the limit at the new indoor tennis facility in Ben Bleecker Auditorium. Dr. Mike Walcott, about to blast a serve, was one of the first participants in the new Recreation-Arena Committee program, launched this week.

Saints Hope Third Strike Connects

The Quinte Saints hope their third Cossa strike meets with more success than their last two.

The Saints, who wrapped up their third successive Bay of Quinte title Tuesday with a resounding 37-6 win over Trenton, will be trying to gain their first Central Ontario Secondary School Association senior football crown in five years Friday.

Coach Jack Sisson hopes a change in opposition brings the Saints better luck. The past two years, the Quinte seniors have played their last games of the season unsuccessfully against Peterborough's Thomas A. Stewart, coached, ironically, by Quinte graduate Wayne Gilroy.

Opposition in tomorrow's 1:30 game at Quinte's College St. field will be provided by Crestwood, another Peterborough collegiate.

If desire means anything, the Peterborough visitors should provide Quinte with quite a challenge. Tomorrow marks the first time Crestwood has had a COSSA finalist in any sport.

Meanwhile Trenton will be carrying the Bay of Quinte banner to Cobourg East tomorrow for the junior COSSA championship game.

The 1971 Tigers went undefeated through six regular-season and two playoff games, and will be making their school's first appearance in a junior COSSA final in at least six years, coach Joe DiCresce estimates.

Expert Won't Bet on Many Medals

TORONTO (CP) — Chris Pickard, because of his position as statistician for the Canadian Track and Field Association, knows how well most Canadian athletes measure up against foreign competition.

And because Pickard knows, he's not betting heavily on Canada's chances in track and field events in the 1972 Olympics at Munich.

"If I were to bet money on Canada winning a medal in any event," Pickard said in an interview. "I wouldn't bet more than I could afford to lose."

"I've just looked through the world ranking and I can't find a Canadian in the first five in any event."

But what happened to our champion high jumper, Debbie Brill of Hanley, B.C., and our pentathlon star, Debbie Van Kiekebelt of Toronto?

"For their ages," said Pickard, "they're the best in the world and either one of them might do something in Munich."

But, he said, while Miss Brill[18], has jumped six feet, 1¼ inches, she must compete against 10 European girls who are regularly clearing six feet. He said he found there are eight or nine girls with a higher rank than Miss Brill and seven or eight better than the 17-year-old Miss Van Kiekebelt.

"If anybody is going to win a medal," Pickard said, "it probably will be Abby Hoffman in the 800 metres.

"She has been through two Olympics and has the best international record of any Canadian."

The 23-year-old Miss Hoffman from Toronto holds three Pan-American Games medals, one of them a gold in the 800 at the last Games in Cali in August.

Her time of 2:02.8 in the 800 early this year in a meet in England puts her among the world's top 10.

With the seeming lack of talent, is Canada heading for a repeat of the 1900 Olympics in Rome when our only track points came from a sixth-place finish by walker Alex Oakley?

"It's true that Canada's leading athletes have not kept pace with the rest of the world in the last 10 years, but we have more depth than we've ever had, enough to qualify two or three people in at least five events."

The five events are women's pentathlon, high jump, 800 metres and 1,500 metres and the pole vault.

Walsh Drives Double

KINGSTON — Belleville's Gerry Walsh scored his first double at Frontenac Downs Wednesday night in chilly weather.

Walsh scored wins with Lady Violet Direct and Kendal Brook and moved into the top 10 percentage drivers.

Lady Violet Direct won the sixth race in 2:11, while Kendal Brook won the second in 2:13.

Ben Wemp of Harrowsmith also scored a pair of wins and narrowly missed a third. He took the fourth with Isola Sue and the seventh with D J Ben.

Lotteries Will Aid Athletes

TORONTO (CP) — Sports Lottery announced today that two lotteries a year are planned which it said could raise as much as $2,000,000 for amateur sport in Ontario.

"Each should raise $1,000,000 for sport, half to be spent by local areas selling the lottery tickets," Sports Lottery, which is licensed by the Ontario government, said in a statement.

"After deductions for prizes and costs, the remaining proceeds will be equally divided between Sport Ontario and the Canadian Olympic Associations."

Sport Ontario which co-sponsors Sports Lottery along with the association, is a non-profit organization representing 54 sports in the province.

The first lottery will be launched Nov. 15 and close April 15, with prizes totalling $100,000.

"The first prize of $50,000 and two second prizes of $5,000 each, will be drawn April 29," the statement said. "In addition, each ticket bought before the end of March will qualify for an early bird prize of $1,000. There will be 40 early bird prizes drawn, two a week from Dec. 1 to April 12. Win or lose, your ticket stub stays eligible in all future draws.

Special prizes for those selling tickets will equal 10 per cent of each prize — $5,000 for first, $500 for second and $100 for early bird prizes.

Ex-nomad Gary Smith Delights New Bosses

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Gary Smith used to delight National Hockey League crowds by skating with the puck out of his goaltender's crease past the centre red line before passing off to a team-mate.

The league passed a law banning these safaris, so Smith concentrated more on keeping the opposition from scoring. And now his Chicago Black Hawks, who acquired Smith from California Golden Seals this year, who are delighted.

The 27-year-old Ottawa native, who rode the bench early this year while the Hawks and Seals resolved legal problems developing from the trade, turned in his first shutout of the year Wednesday night as Chicago blanked Philadelphia Flyers 3-0.

The win kept the Hawks a jump ahead of Minnesota North Stars in the West Division race after the Stars clipped Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1.

In other games, Frank Mahovlich's 13th goal of the campaign launched Montreal Canadiens toward a 5-1 win over St. Louis Blues, New York Rangers drubbed Los Angeles Kings 7-1 and California Golden Seals took Pittsburgh Penguins 5-3.

Tonight Boston Bruins entertain St. Louis and Buffalo Sabres visit Detroit Red Wings.

Smith, son of Des Smith, former NHL defenceman, has allowed only eight goals in five games with the Hawks. He has played 293 minutes since being reactivated and now has a goals-against average of slightly more than two a game.

Smith developed a penchant for roaming out of his crease during his junior days in the Leaf organization and his unorthodox play probably was the reason Toronto let him go in the 1967 expansion draft to the then Oakland Seals.

The 6-foot-4, 215-pounder also was tagged with the nickname "Suitcase," but this had nothing to do with his errant ways. When he first turned pro, he was never sure in which direction he was going in the Toronto organization so he always came well prepared with a full wardrobe.

After four seasons on the coast, during which the Seals grew steadily worse while finishing in the West Division cellar the last two years, Smith's image remained untainted despite the enormous number of goals scored on him.

When the Hawks trade goalie Gerry Desjardins and forwards Gerry Pinder and Kerry Bond to California early this season for Smith, Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan said: "We think Gary Smith is a great goaltender."

Smith is making Ivan's prediction stand up. Wednesday night he had relatively easy time, turning aside 21 shots, while team-mates Pat Stapleton, Doug arvett and Jim Pappin scored within a span of five minutes in the second period to give him all the support he needed.

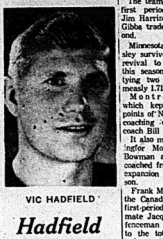
Lou Nanne provided the hometown North Stars with their margin of victory at 3:51 of the third period when he angled a shot past Toronto goalie Bernie Parent.

The teams played a scoreless first period before Toronto's Jim Harrison and Stars' Barry Gibbs traded goals in the second.

Minnesota goalie Gump Worsley survived a late-game Leaf revival to remain undefeated this season, winning four and tying two while giving up a measly 1.71 goals a game.

Montreal's win at home, which kept them within two points of New York, spoiled the coaching debut of St. Louis coach Bill McCreary.

It also marked the first meeting for Montreal coach Scotty Bowman against the team he coached from early in the 1967 expansion year until last season.



Frank Mahovlich, who started the Canadiens rolling with his first-period score before linemate Jacques Lemaire and defenceman Guy Lapointe added to the totals, was in Ottawa today with his brother and team-mate, Peter, and their wives for a reception given by Yugoslav President Marshall Tito.

The Mahovlichs, of Croatian descent, are Canadian-born but their parents emigrated from the old country more than 40 years ago and settled in the Northern Ontario mining centre of Timmins.

Ted Irvine, traded by Los Angeles to New York two years ago, supported Ranger goalie Gilles Villemure's 23 saves with two goals and assist.

The Rangers haven't been defeated in their last nine games and it was their seventh win against one loss and four ties this season.

After being held in check through the first period, in which the Kings' Ralph Backstrom scored the only goal, Irvine touched off a three-goal second period as Rangers shelled Dennis Dejordy with 15 shots and followed up with 17 more in the final 20 minutes.

OF QUEENS AND KING -- by Alan Mayer

Flyers Sign Sly

BARRIE (CP) — Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series announced the appointment Wednesday of Darryl Sly as playing coach, replacing coach Ray Gariepy who resigned.

Sly, 32, joined the club this year after a National Hockey League career with Toronto Maple Leafs, Minnesota North Stars and Vancouver Canucks. He is a public school teacher at his native Collingwood, 28 miles northwest of Barrie.

Hornets Add Two

TORONTO (CP) — Forwards George Westfall and Pete Darcy were added Wednesday to the roster of Allan Cup champion Galt Hornets of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Westfall, a 33-year-old Ottawa resident, played with Orillia Terriers until this year. Darcy, a Galt native, had 30 goals and 70 points for Guelph's Junior A team last season.

Bruins Bolster Blueline with Ravlich

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins acquired on waivers veteran defenceman Matt Ravlich Wednesday from Los Angeles Kings.

Ravlich, 33, had been playing for Seattle Totems in the Western Hockey League on loan from the Kings.

Ravlich had been the property of the Bruins from 1961 to 1963 after being drafted from Chicago. He played only two games during that period, however, spending most of his time on assignment to Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

He was traded back to Chicago in 1964, where he was a regular until he fractured his leg in 1967. He made a comeback the next season, and in 1969 was drafted by Detroit. He subsequently was acquired on waivers by the Kings.

The Bruins' defence has been weakened this year by the absence of Ted Green, who has yet to see action because of pulled stomach muscles.

Bombers Get Their Way

WINNIPEG (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders puzzle Winnipeg offensive coach Dave Smith but Blue Bombers' defensive coach Jim Stanley says puzzle or not, he'd "rather play the Roughriders than anybody."

And play the Roughriders Winnipeg will, Saturday in Regina in a sudden-death semi-final contest to determine the opponent for Calgary Stampeders in the Western Football Conference final.

It will be the first playoff game in five years for Winnipeg, its last game being a 21-13 loss to the Roughriders in 1966 in the second-game of a two-game total-point final that sent Saskatchewan into the Grey Cup.

Smith, considered something of an offensive genius for the explosive attack he has built into the Bombers this year, says the Roughriders haven't changed much "from the time we played them in a pre-season game, and I doubt they'll do much changing now."

The Bombers won that pre-season game, as well as two of their three regular-season meetings.

Smith, who combined with quarterback Don Jonas and a group of receivers headed by Toronto cast-off Jim Thorpe to produce the most potent Winnipeg passing attack in history, says the Saskatchewan secondary "can get badly burned in man-to-man coverage," a situation Jonas likes to get Thorpe into.

While passing has dominated the Winnipeg attack throughout the season, Smith says the club will be doing some running Saturday if the field permits, "but we won't make a big thing out of it."

"We feel we're a multiple-of-fence team and we scratch where it itches."

Stanley, who faces the formidable task of trying to find ways to stop the Saskatchewan offence, says the Riders are "the most dynamic team, offensively, that we play."

"The first thing you have to do is respect George Reed, especially the sweeps," he said "but Lancaster (quarterback Ron Lancaster) is the man . . . and we just have to hope he doesn't come up with a hot hand."

"We'd like to duffup Ron early and establish something, but it isn't going to be easy."

Head coach Jim Spavital, who takes a team consisting mainly of playoff "rookies" into the contest, says the club "will just have to be ready to play if we intend to stay in the game."

The game will be on the CBC national TV network starting 3 p.m. EST.

Football Briefs

TORONTO (CP) — Mike Eben, Toronto Argonaut flanker, said Wednesday he has recovered from a bruised lung, survived a case of food poisoning and will be ready for the Eastern Football Conference final.

Toronto placed him on the 30-day injury list. He will be eligible to play in the first game of the Eastern Football Conference final Nov. 14 against either Hamilton Tiger-Cats or Ottawa Rough Riders who meet Sunday in a sudden-death semi-final at Hamilton.

* * *

Dallas, the 1970 Super Bowl runner-up, is 4-3 for the season and two games behind Washington Redskins in the National Football Conference Eastern Division.

* * *

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference got an early recruiting start for the 1972 season today with the signing of Karl Sweetan, 29, former Los Angeles Rams reserve quarterback.

Shave Launched Eagles' Streak

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If your boss came in one day and said, cut off your mustache, that's an order, would it improve your work?

Coach Ed Khayat of Philadelphia Eagles gave the order to his National Football League team two weeks ago. There was grumbling, but off came the mustaches.

The Eagles had lost their first five games of the season, two under Khayat, who succeeded Jerry Williams as boss after the third game. Minus the hair on their lips the Eagles won the next two games.

Did the mass mustache shaving—22 Eagles had to run for the razors—make the difference?

Ed Khayat laughed at the question. A former player on the champion Eagles of 1969, he knew his players didn't run, pass, block or tackle with their lips.

He made no bones about the reason for the victories—seven recovered fumbles, three pass interceptions, a blocked kick that became a touchdown, guards who pulled out and knocked down a few people.

"Good grooming is one of the many facets of discipline," he said, repeating what he said at the time of the order.

The two victories since the mustaches came off were against the Giants and Denver Broncos, not exactly the elite of the NFL. The theory that Khayat made his players angry by the mustache ploy, and that psychologically they became a better team gets an acid test Sunday against the tough Washington Redskins (6-1). If the Eagles upset the Skins that would be a hairy one.

Prize Rookies Picked

ST. Louis (AP) — The Sporting News Wednesday named Bill Parsons of Milwaukee Brewers, Chris Chambliss of Cleveland Indians, Reggie Cleveland of St. Louis Cardinals and Earl Williams of Atlanta Braves the major leagues' top rookies for the 1971 season.

Parsons, selected the American League's top rookie pitcher, posted a 13-17 record and a 3.20 earned run average.

Chambliss, called up by the Indians in May, batted .275 in 111 games and had 48 RBI.

The Cardinals' Cleveland posted a 12-12 record after going 8-4 in a brief pitching stint during the 1970 season.

Atlanta's Williams, besting Philadelphia whiz Willie Montanez for the NL rookie-of-the-year award, slugged 33 home runs and had 87 RBI.

Selections of the four players were by a poll of major league players.

Murtaugh Ponders Retirement

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Danny Murtaugh said Wednesday he will decide "in the next 10 days or two weeks" whether he will manage world champion Pittsburgh Pirates next year.

Vacationing here with his daughter, Kathy Wallen, Murtaugh said he will decide on his future after returning from a trip to Puerto Rico.

"Many people have asked me if I'm going to retire or not and I'll make that decision in 10 days to two weeks," he said. "I haven't made up my mind either way and I'm going to speak to Joe Brown (Pirates general manager) after I return from Puerto Rico."

Palmer Wins 2nd

TOKYO (AP) — Jim Palmer gained his second victory in Japan Wednesday with a three-hitter as Baltimore Orioles defeated Japan All-Stars 7-0.

Palmer, in his third appearance, went the route for the American League champions who took their seventh victory in eight games. The other game in their barnstorming tour ended in a 3-3 tie.

Minister and Communist Give Views to Inquiry

TORONTO (CP) — A Presbyterian minister and a Communist presented their philosophies on the War Measures Act Wednesday as a quiet audience of 13 listened from the old wooden pews of Holy Trinity Church.

The two men spoke through microphones that were hardly necessary for the first sessions of the citizens' commission of inquiry into the act, a private group which will hold hearings across Canada.

John Hanly Morgan, one of 10 commissioners, said he was disappointed at the turnout but expects it will get better.

Rev. S. B. Coles of Toronto told the commission that when Prime Minister Trudeau announced invocation of the act last October to stem the rise of the Front de Liberation du Quebec, there seemed to be a sigh of relief.

"I was with a number of educators and they seemed to sigh simply because Mr. Trudeau had made a decision."

He also said many persons, especially the young, have become more disillusioned with governments.

He said the disillusioned said then that the problem in Quebec was not severe.

"Now they look back and say: 'I told you so'."

William Kashtan, general secretary of the central executive committee of the Communist Party of Canada, said there was no danger of an "apprehended insurrection" in Quebec last October.

"To speak of an apprehended insurrection is to speak in fact of a revolutionary situation and the immediate prospects of an armed uprising in Quebec."

He said the act had solved nothing and that government action "has led to a further radicalization and polarization of politics and class relationships in that province."

Two briefs were presented at a morning session.

David Frank, a 22-year-old student at the University of Toronto and editor of the university's newspaper, The Varsity, at the time of the Quebec crisis, said three students were arrested after the act was pronounced.

He said two were questioned for pasting the words FLQ on their backs and walking around the campus. They were released 2½ hours later.

J. C. Cole, a stationary engineer, said all acts of separatism in Quebec should be treated as acts of treason, "one of the grounds for which we retain the death penalty."

Strike Leader

Late in the 1960s, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union moved into Nova Scotia and began organizing close to 200 men working on the deep-sea trawlers owned and operated by Acadia Fisheries Ltd. The union presented the firm with a demand to be recognized as bargaining agent for the fishermen in 1970. Fishermen were not included in the province's Trade Union Act and Acadia felt no obligation to concede a point. Some now feel that the seven-month strike which resulted was a key factor in the fall of the Conservative government in Nova Scotia. A dollar still goes a long way.

We still stamp the Volkswagen's beetle shape out of a heavier gauge metal than even most big cars use.

Our paint job is still the envy of the industry. 28 pounds, 4 coats.

And we still get letters from people who have driven their Volkswagens 100,000 miles or more. (And are still driving them.)

True, a dollar buys a lot less these days, but it doesn't buy less Volkswagen.

Now Panasonic has simplified the art of color TV tuning. With two simple systems. The first is "Panalock", Panasonic's Automatic Fine Tuning (AFT). The most reliable known method of tuning color TV reception. One touch of the "Panalock" button and the best possible picture is locked in. Instantly! On all channels. Which is very nice.

Even nicer is the second system. Panasonic's revolutionary new "Sell-Set Color" (SSC). Touch a button or slide a lever and get beautiful pre-set color and tint. Right on, right away. So no more annoying color or tint adjustments.

Complete that picture with our ultra bright "Pana-Color" picture tube. It delivers remarkable brilliance and clarity, because we make it with remarkable rare earth phosphors. Compare Panasonic color TV's with any other set on the market. Then make your own decision.

One 17" color TV to go... with the works

The "Del Mar" 17" portable has all the major features of our larger sets in a distinctively contemporary design that fits practically anywhere. Panalock and Sell-Set Color automatic tuning, ultra-bright Pana-Color picture tube, Speed-O-Vision instant-on, set and forget tuning, slide-lever controls, VHF and UHF antennas, and 50 solid state devices.

Beautiful rosewood grain cabinet. CT-600C

Most good color TV's have an automatic tuning system. We have two.

Our unique 20" portable on our unique swivel base.

The "Franklin" is our exciting new Swivel-Vision color set that turns to face you wherever you sit. This deluxe 20" model features both Panalock and Sell-Set Color push-button automatic tuning, our new ultra-rectangular picture tube that shows you exactly what the TV camera in the studio sees, Speed-O-Vision so you don't have to wait, Set-and-Forget tuning, slide-lever controls for finger-tip adjusting. Over 50 solid state devices for superb reliability. Handsome walnut grain cabinet with black and chrome trim. CT-394C

The "Laurentian", our magnificent 22" consolette model that makes viewing a pleasure even from a distance.

Hungry People Chew on Trees

BHUBANESWAR, India (Reuter) — Starving children gnaw at tree trunks to stay alive in the cyclone-smashed coastal region of India's Orissa state.

There is little or no food for them or hundreds of thousands of other bedraggled survivors of the killer winds and waves that swept in from the Bay of Bengal six days ago.

About five million people were in the target area of winds of at least 110 miles an hour and 20-foot-high waves.

The latest official death toll of 8,300 climbs by the hour as rescue teams find more bloated bodies.

An official spokesman in Bhubaneswar, the state capital, said the figure could pass 10,000 and local politicians have made estimates as high as 25,000.

Many victims were swept out to sea by the backwash of the tidal waves.

For those still fighting for survival in areas of appalling devastation the outlook is bleak. About 7.5 million homes have been destroyed or damaged and hundreds of square miles of crops obliterated.

The Indian government is rushing food and medical supplies to the stricken region. But with roads, railways and communications wrecked the problems are enormous.

A Reuter correspondent saw incredible destruction around the battered towns and wrecked villages in Orissa's Mahanadi River delta. There were thousands of smashed mud houses, thousands of trees uprooted, brick houses with their corrugated iron roofs peeled back like opened sardine cans and iron telephone poles bent to the ground.

In the village of Jambou, part of an area of islands and low-lying coastal mainland that is criss-crossed by rivers and creeks, bodies lined the banks of the Gobari River.

A state deputy magistrate in charge of relief in Jambou said a relief operation had been started and every adult was receiving a daily ration of just over one pound of rice and half a pound of wheat, or millet flour.

But villagers say they had only been given two ounces of broken rice since the cyclone struck.

The correspondent watched two children sucking desperately at the pith of banana and tamarind tree trunks, stripped of their leaves and fruit by the raging winds.

Opening lead—Jack of clubs.

The cautious declarer is unceasingly busy trying to protect himself against any distribution of the adverse cards that might undo him.

Here is a typical case. A club is led and declarer sees that there are no possible losers except in trumps. He can lose a trump trick and make the slam, but he cannot afford to lose two trump tricks.

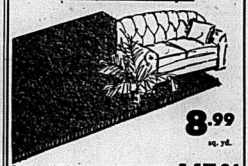
So South gives thought to the trump combinations the opponents may have that might defeat him. Obviously, if the trumps are divided 2-2 or 3-1, there is no chance of losing the slam.

The only distribution that can endanger the hand is a 4-0 division. This can occur in only two ways— either opponent may have all four trumps.

If West has them, there is no problem. Whenever South plays the ace East shows out and sooner or later declarer leads a low heart to the jack to restrict himself to one trump loser.

But if East has the four trumps and the ace is led, South is in trouble. East's Q-10-9 sitting over the J-7-6 are good for two tricks and South must go down.

Since the 4-0 distribution is the only one that can put the slam in jeopardy, declarer tries to find a method of play —a safety play— to guard against this possibility.



He wins the club lead in dummy and plays the five of hearts. If East produces the nine, ten, or queen, South wins with the ace and cannot lose more than one trump trick if he plays properly.

If East, on the five, plays the deuce, South plays the three as a safety measure. If West wins the trick, that closes the door to further trump losers, while if West shows out, South again cannot lose more than one trick.

Demand for Nickel Declines as Productive Capacity Climbs

TORONTO (CP) — International nickel industry is suffering an economic hangover and a slump in consumer and plant equipment purchases has compounded the industry's problems.

During the late 1960s and into 1970 nickel was scarce and producers were expanding as rapidly as they could. Then supply surpassed demand and at the same time demand began to decline.

International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd., the non-Communist world's largest supplier, produces annual figures on consumption which estimate the amount of nickel actually processed in factories.

Industry sources say they expect Inco's 1971 consumption estimate—the figure usually is released in December each year—will be between 800 million and 825 million pounds. It was 985 million pounds in 1970, 844 million in 1969 and 830 million in 1968.

The decline in nickel consumption is in large measure a reflection of the drop in steel production.

Henry S. Wingate, Inco chairman, noted in a speech last month to the International Iron and Steel Institute in Toronto that more than 60 per cent of primary nickel consumed last year was in steel or iron-containing products. Stainless steel alone accounts for 40 per cent of the nickel market.

Mr. Wingate said the nickel-steel alloy markets are relatively less important to the steel producers.

Only about four per cent of steel sold contains nickel but he added: "In general they are, however, high profit products and products with a rapid growth potential."

Raw steel production for the first nine months of this year was down 5.05 per cent from the same period of 1970 in countries reporting to the International Iron and Steel Institute and accounting for about 80 per cent of world steel production.

Metallgesellschaft A. G., a West German firm which is one of the largest metals dealers in the world, also estimates nickel consumption and its estimates would correspond closely to sales by producers. While Inco estimates the amount of nickel consumed by factories, Metallgesellschaft adds both factory use and stockpiling.

Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd. makes projections on Metallgesellschaft figures and the projection for 1971 is between 900 and 910 million pounds, up to about 10 per cent more than what industry sources expect the Inco estimate to show.

Falconbridge, the non-Communist world's No. 2 nickel producer, projects 1972 consumption at between 900 and 990 million pounds.

The Metallgesellschaft consumption figure for 1970 was 900 million pounds; for 1969 it was 788 million pounds; and, for 1968 it was 813 million pounds.

Problems for the major producers are compounded by price-cutting by small companies. Producers in Africa, Finland and Greece have been marketing nickel at prices as low as $1 a pound. The large companies rely on long-term contracts and the small companies disregard the uniform price structure used by the major producers.

The situation within the industry is dramatically demonstrated by one statistic from Inco—which accounts for more than half the deliveries in the non-Communist world.

Inco's inventories at the end of September were valued at $425 million, more than triple the $139 million worth of nickel the company had in stockpiles at the end of 1970.

As a result, Inco has made two reductions this year in production levels, one by seven per cent and the second by 15 per cent.

U.S. October Car Sales Set Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thanks to the price freeze, October apparently was the biggest sales month in the history of the United States auto industry, Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Co., said Wednesday.

He said preliminary sales figures indicate it was the first month in which more than one million vehicles were sold by U.S. manufacturers.

For all of 1971, he told the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce, it appears the industry will exceed the 10-million unit sales mark for the first time.

The four major U.S. automakers sold 893,713 cars in October, shattering the mark of 885,328 set in October 1968. Because of new model introductions, October is traditionally the industry's strongest sales month.

October sales soared 48.5 per cent above October 1970, when only 629,132 cars were sold.

Canadian Exports to U.S. Up

OTTAWA (CP) — There was a pronounced shift to more exports to the United States and more world-wide exports of Canadian finished goods in September, the first full month of President Nixon's new 10-per-cent extra duty on American imports, federal statistics show.

Statistics Canada released revised September export figures Wednesday, showing that exports to the U.S. rose to $1.03 billion in September from $946.4 million in August. The U.S. surcharge was imposed Aug. 15, mainly against foreign manufactured goods going into the U.S.

This increase was more than enough to offset a decline of Canadian exports to other countries in September. Exports to all countries rose to $1.48 billion from $1.43 billion in August.

The latest compilation of export figures for the first nine months of 1971, unadjusted for seasonal trends, showed sales to the U.S. running to $9.9 billion compared with $8.2 billion in the same period last year.

Sales to all countries for nine months this year amounted to $13.1 billion, compared with $12.5 billion last year.

The government has warned that the impact of the U.S. surcharge will become heavier as the months go by and could become serious late this winter if they are not lifted soon.

Tax on Canadian Cars Proposed

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Senate finance committee voted Wednesday to give President Richard Nixon power to slap an excise tax on cars imported from Canada.

The administration had proposed eliminating the seven-per-cent excise tax on all cars as part of President Nixon's new economic policies. Foreign cars, however, were subject to a 10-per-cent import surcharge.

The Senate finance committee earlier voted to give the president the option of imposing the excise tax on all foreign cars except those made in Canada. Wednesday, the committee extended the option to cover Canadian-made cars.

A committee spokesman said the action meant the U.S.-Canadian auto agreement will have to be overhauled.

Any move to slap an excise tax on Canadian cars would cause dismay in Canada, which has already protested bitterly at the effect the U.S. 10-per-cent surcharge on imports is having on the Canadian economy.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y Z D L B A A X E
B L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

W G M U C J E G G N U V K Y T N L U V Y C ,
K Y M C H E G V M G E U N B V G J G C C K E I N H W G I P C N G E U H B C K V B D N K V F
— S U E C H M D G G H S R G T U V Y N H V

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE GUILTY IS HE WHO MEDITATES A CRIME; THE PUNISHMENT IS HIS WHO LAYS THE PLOT.—COUNT VITTORIO ALFIERI

LBJ Memoirs A Touchy Subject

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Moyers, who was presidential press secretary for Lyndon B. Johnson, is host on a weekly educational television network discussion program, This Week. His toughest assignment of the season was presiding Wednesday night over a critical analysis of his former boss's book, The Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency, 1963-1969.

Moyers, who probably knows more about Johnson than any of the three White House correspondents discussing the author and his book—often in uncomplimentary terms—restrained himself in his interrogator's role.

He smoothly continued to question his guests after swallowing some tart observations. James Deakin, for instance, described the volume about Johnson's tenure as "not as Lyndon Johnson saw it but as he wishes us to see it."

William Lawrence, a veteran White House reporter, accused the former president of occasionally "shaving the truth." While Moyers injected a few sharp questions, only his tone of voice indicated he was on the defensive.

Consensus of the three guests seemed to be that the book reflected little of the "vital, tempestuous man" as one of them described the Johnson they had known and for whom they felt mixed emotions.

The program was hardly typical of the series. A man of opinion and deep perception, Moyers usually participates more actively in the discussions. It is an interesting, worthy series but a bit ragged in spots.

ABC's The Smith Family,

Cloudy, Cool for Percy

TORONTO (CP) — Percy Saltzman, the CBC's chalk-toting weather specialist leaves the corporation after 19 years because of a dispute over salary.

"I didn't quit the CBC: it quit me," he said. "I'm willing to negotiate with anybody any time, including the Russians and Chinese."

Henry Fonda's TV vehicle which is certainly making no waves, looked brighter this week with an action show and some of that cozy family stuff for a change.

Word was around earlier that the series would shift emphasis this season to cops-and-robbers stuff, but to date this type of treatment has been the exception.

Dick Cavett, ABC's late-night talk show host, has won a year's renewal of his network contract. It will take him through 1972. In recent weeks, Cavett and CBS's Merv Griffin have been slugging it out toe-to-toe in the ratings for second place.

It is widely anticipated that Cavett will not have his arch-rival around for long since. Griffin has indicated he wants out of his current spot by year's end.

Nuclear Scientists Say Amchitka Blast Needed to Test Theory

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Ask a nuclear scientist plotting between Anchorage and rocky Amchitka Island why the powerful nuclear weapon beneath the island should be exploded and he'll say: "You can only go so far in theory before you must test."

Ask the young man in furry parka and heavy boots pacing to and fro with his protest sign in front of the federal courthouse here why the blast should be stopped and he'll speak of possible earthquakes, tidal waves, radiation leaks and the nests of bald eagles and peregrine falcons on Amchitka's coastal cliffs.

The controversy that has arisen over the Atomic Energy Commission's plans to detonate a nuclear device equivalent to five million tons of TNT is the latest example of modern technology coming face-to-face with environmental decency. The test is code-named Cannikin.

But the debate over the Amchitka test, now set for Saturday, is further complicated by international issues.

Amchitka, a barren windswept 42-mile-long finger of an island 1,400 miles west of here, is only 870 miles from Soviet territory. Canada and Japan have protested against the blast and the Soviet Union denounced earlier detonations on this treeless island.

Because Cannikin is a defensive weapon, proposed for use on the Spartan anti-ballistic-missile system, many justifications for the test must remain secret, AEC and defence department officials say.

Scientists building the first atomic bomb in 1945 were confident their calculations were correct. But they had to test it before the device would have any military value.

The same is true, AEC weapons experts say, for the Cannikin device.

Spartan is designed to eventually streak into the sky, dueling any incoming enemy ICBMs in the vacuum of deep space where a conventional nuclear weapon wouldn't be satisfactory.

On the ground, a nuclear weapon wreaks its havoc with searing heat and the shock wave transmitted by the air. But in space, the heat would have little effect on a missile and there is no air to carry the shockwave.

But an enemy ICBM can be knocked out by bombarding it with intense radiation—powerful x-rays and neutrons. They would penetrate the missile's skin, alter electrical structure in the electrical components and render them useless.

The radiation would travel for hundreds of miles at the speed of light. A one-megaton Spartan warhead might thus throw up a curtain of radiation which enemy missiles couldn't penetrate.

The device also must produce a wide range of radiation particles that make it difficult to shield enemy missiles.

Such a device test is deployed in a 30-foot-wide chamber 6,000 feet below Aupchiks. Arrayed around it are sensitive instruments that will measure the weapon's radiation and send the data to the surface in the split-second before the blast destroys the instruments. Scientists will find out if their calculations are right.

But Amchitka lies in what seismologists call the "ring of fire," an earthquake-prone belt that follows the Pacific Ocean coast from South America northward through Japan and Asian coastal lands.

Forces deep in the earth pushing the continents about cause plates of the earth's crust to rub against one another, building up strain. If the strain at some point suddenly becomes too great, two pieces of crust lurch past one another and cause an earthquake.

Opponents of the test fear a large earthquake might be set off. If the quake occurred underwater, a tidal wave might be sent down on Hawaii 700 miles to the south or the Alaskan or continental U.S. coasts.

The AEC says their studies have shown this to be a remote possibility.

But added fuel was fed to the controversy Wednesday when the AEC released previous secret documents, one in which Russell E. Train, chairman of the president's council on environmental quality, said the blast could set off a chain of earthquakes like falling dominoes and send a tidal wave across the Pacific.

The AEC says the possibility of a radiation leak is "remote and if a leak occurred it wouldn't endanger the environment.

The AEC says Cannikin may cause a few rock falls and soil slides along Amchitka's coastline, affecting nests of bald eagles, peregrine falcons and other birds.

But they cite studies conducted in 1969 after detonation of Milrow, a nuclear explosive equivalent to one million tons of TNT, that showed a few fish off shore might have been killed or injured and that about 10,000 cubic yards of material along the cossis fell. No adverse effect on sea otters were detected.

But conservationists say because Cannikin is five times greater, it could have a much more pronounced effect.

Testing All for Rubella Would Be Wasteful Procedure

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, MD

Dr. Thosteson: Recently I read an article advising all women who wanted to have a child to have a test to determine immunity to rubella, or German measles.

I had the test the next day, and it was so simple and inexpensive (free at the Health Department) that I wonder why doctors don't advise all female patients to have the test.

Also if the test shows no immunity and I have had the vaccine, how long should I wait before becoming pregnant?—Mrs. J. D.

For female patients who may become mothers, yes, the test is fine. But it would be wasteful to test women past child-bearing age. Rubella is a pretty mild disease except in one situation—pregnancy. When a woman gets it in early pregnancy, especially the first three months, it is tremendously dangerous to the fetus, the child she is carrying.

In the epidemic of the mid-1960s, there were 20,000 stillbirths, deaths in infancy, or babies with defects in the United States alone.

Now that we possess an effective vaccination against the disease, the aim is to vaccinate as many children, all if we can, that further epidemics cannot occur.

Until that time comes, any woman who has not already had German measles, or been immunized, risks having a defective baby, or losing the baby altogether.

It is very good advice for women who may have babies to have the test to see whether they are immune to German measles. Many don't know for sure whether they've had it.

There are, in fact, four methods of testing for this, but the simplest is used most often, the HI (hemagglutination - inhibition) test). This is being produced in kit form by several pharmaceutical firms and the test gives results overnight.

Four out of five women already are immune but the other 20 per cent represents a lot of women.

One timely suggestion is to make the rubella test part of the physical examination required for a marriage licence. Weak point is that in some places such examinations are not required or are very sketchy.

Another blind spot that needs attention is that the mass vaccination programs are being carried on through the schools, which leaves the pre-schoolers without the vaccination. A rubella epidemic just among these little ones could cause havoc.

Your final question: If you have had the rubella vaccine, take the most stringent care not to become pregnant for the following two to three months.

Also, before having the vaccine, a woman always should be tested to make sure that she isn't, unknowingly, already pregnant. Having the vaccination, in early pregnancy can do the same damage that having the disease causes.

What the Stars Say

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5

General Guide — Battle lines are firmly drawn between the two major parties over Nixon's policies. One leading Democrat's criticism is loudly aimed from a level reserved for mudslinging, an attack that will eventually backfire next spring to jeopardize his own career.

Aries (March 21-April 19). Publicizing any recent losses in an attempt to gain sympathy will only set you sharply criticism. No one feels sorry for somebody who's too thick-headed to listen to advice.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). Your bull-like determination to succeed at any cost can generate some vehement opposition from partners. If you can't change your aims, at least soften your approach.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Nobody's fooling you with any fancy airs or snooty manners. A social climber can provide you to expose his humble and unglamorous origins to the whole crowd.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Your latest economy drive can be hastily abandoned when a tempting luxury catches your eye today. I'm warning you, Cancer, start to save.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Key alliances are under strong stresses due to your insistence that things have to be your way. Scream and shout, but you won't get partners to change their minds.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Today's Virgo phrase is "you're driving me crazy" and everyone, from the mailmen to your boss to your mate will manage to touch off your annoyance. Try to stay calm.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Social duties could prove more costly than you had anticipated. Be sure to have some extra cash with you if you step out with friends this evening.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). It'll be easier to keep home folks in line by making polite requests instead of issuing ultimatums. A big word could set off a powder keg of revolt.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Make sure that what you say and write today is strictly factual. If your stories start to get too wild, an irate buddy can step in and set the record straight.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Spending more is being eliminated entirely by emotional considerations. When your practical instincts gain the upper hand tomorrow, you'll want to kick yourself.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). An official at work can call you on the carpet because of a reckless business move on your part. Be sure to get the boss' approval before taking any action.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). Your own excitability and sensitivity can help an opponent score points against you with a critical remark. Don't let your anger show.

Today's Birthday — Things go smoothly this year, both on the domestic and the professional scenes, provided you know when to shut up. Don't try to have the last word.

Police Chief Holds Girls Who Barked

TEMPLETON, Que. (CP) — Police Chief Roch Bergeron was not amused when high school girls on a school bus barked at him after one girl had called him "a dog".

He detained the bus and the girls at the police station after they refused to tell who had done the barking.

The girls were told to telephone their parents to pick them up, but it was nearly three hours before they had all left the station.

"It may sound stupid to have detained them but I don't think I have to stand for such abuse," said Chief Bergeron.

Templeton is on the Ottawa River, six miles east of Ottawa.

Rooster Whips Eagle Trying to Steal Chick

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 17-pound bald eagle that lost a bout with a barnyard rooster in Lawrence County is recovering at Ohio State University.

The eagle tried to take a hen from a barnyard flock near Chesapeake, along the Ohio River.

But a watchful rooster fought with him beak and spur for 100 feet across the barnyard. The rooster broke one of the eagle's wings with a powerful blow.

Policeman Drinks to Disprove Mouthwash Defence

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — Insp. Frank Hewer had beer for breakfast, liquor for lunch, a few snorts in between and mouthwash for a chaser.

It cost another Preston resident $60.

The inspector volunteered at a plea from Judge J. R. H. Kirkpatrick of the Galt provincial court to duplicate the intake of Ernest Kells of Preston.

Kells testified he drank a certain quantity of beer and liquor, soaked his top denture in mouthwash and rinsed his mouth with it. The defence contended that the mouthwash was responsible for his high breath-alcohol reading.

Insp. Hewer's breakfast consisted of a beer, two eggs and a piece of toast, then two more beers.

At 11 a.m., he had a bowl of soup, a toasted cheese sandwich and a glass of milk. An hour later, he drank two ounces of rye whisky, and 50 minutes later, another two ounces of rye.

Around 5 p.m., his wife drove him to the police station for the mouthwash and a breath-analysis. His reading failed to approach Kells's.

The next day, Kells was fined $60.

Said the inspector: "One of the reasons I did it was because have an upper denbecause I have an upper den-

Lake Full of Mine Wastes Is Proposed for Valley in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A lake full of mine wastes—four miles long, a half-mile wide and held back by a 600-foot-high dam—is a possibility for the Highland Valley in British Columbia's southern interior as a result of planned mining development in the area.

C. O. Brawner, a Vancouver mining consultant, explained:

"What I am talking about is a way of storing the estimated one billion tons of waste materials that the mines will produce over the next 40 years.

"A dam to hold back the (liquified) wastes from the four producing or planned mines qit the valley would be larger than any dam made for a similar purpose now in existence in Canada."

Mr. Brawner said the four mining companies with active interests in the Highland Valley are exploring the possibility of a joint undertaking of such a project.

The earth dam would span the width of the valley, about 3,000 feet, and could be placed at one of several locations along the 50-mile-long valley floor.

Mr. Brawner said the area now is grazing land, swamp and a couple of hay fields. "There isn't even a house there."

He said about 99.5 per cent of the rock excavated at the big open-pit mines envisaged for the valley will be waste called tailings. These would be ground to a fine powder and mixed with water to form a slurry which would be pumped up to four miles to the dam site.

Mr. Brawner said the Bethlehem Copper Corp. Ltd. mine now in production in the valley is already using a tailings dam 300 feet high. He identified the three other mines in the area as Lornex, which is under development, and Highmount and Valley, in the planning stages and looking for customers.

There is not much danger of pollution from such tailings, he said, because copper residues have a very low rate of ground and water seepage.

"After the mines are played out," he said, "the water evaporates and the surface of the tailing can be used for agricultural purposes. It has the texture of a silty soil, and with fertilizers added it would bring out good crops."

Mr. Brawner, a stability engineer for Golder, Brawner and Associates Ltd., was in attendance this week as 150 mining experts from around the world gathered in Vancouver to discuss methods of keeping mine tailings and the slopes of open-pit mines from shifting accidentally.

Shifting of mine tailings can bring about tragic results, such as when a schoolhouse in the South Wales town of Aberfan was buried, and when a flood of slurry was loosened by an earthquake in Chile three years ago and swept down a valley, killing 300 persons.

Mr. Brawner said there will be more open-pit mines as underground mines become less economical to operate.

He said an underground mine can usually average about 1,000 tons of ore a day. Several open-pit mines in B.C. average more than 30,000 tons a day.

Quebec Will Decide How Social Assistance Grants Are Spent

QUEBEC (CP) — Several cabinet ministers said Wednesday that Quebec would accept money set aside by the federal government for social assistance measures but the province would decide how much funds were spent.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette released the text of a letter to John Turner, federal justice minister, which said he would be "very happy" to accept funds under the federal government's legal aid program, announced last Friday.

However, legal aid is "definitely under provincial jurisdiction" the letter said.

Maurice Tessier, municipal affairs minister, told the national assembly the province alone would decide which municipal winter works projects will be eligible for federal aid.

The federal government has set aside $50 million for winter works projects in the province.

Raymond Garneau, Quebec finance minister, said the province does not have a special budget for aiding municipal winter works but would use a $63 million federal loan, announced by Finance Minister Edgar Benson.

Creditiste leader Camil Samson asked Kevin Drummond, minister of lands and forests, to comment on another demonstration which turned to violence—this one near Manneville, about 400 miles north of Montreal.

He said that about 40 provincial policemen armed with riot sticks charged a group of 100 people after the group formed a road block which prevented access to a lumber camp.

Mr. Drummond said he would comment on the matter only when fully informed about the conflict. He was to meet with representatives of the area's regional development council later in the day.

Belgium To Expel Russians

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian government has decided to expel or ban from Belgium more than 30 Soviet citizens named as spies by defector Anatoliy Tchebotarev, an informed source reported today.

About one-third of the Soviets already have left the country, the source said. He predicted there would be no sudden mass expulsion, as there was recently in Britain. Instead, diplomats and trade representatives would be asked to leave in small groups.

They would all be gone "within a reasonable time," the source said. This would reduce the number of adult Soviet males in Belgium by more than one-fourth.

Tchebotarev, 38, was a counsellor at the Soviet trade mission in Brussels. He disappeared Oct. 3 and later it was announced that he was in the United States. The list of names he furnished was transmitted to Belgium by the U.S. government, the source said.

One reason the Belgium government is playing down the case is that the North Atlantic Alliance, which has its headquarters in Brussels, has given Belgium the job of arranging the first talks with the Soviet Union on troop reductions in Europe.

Marchers Suggested For Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — Some of the people who took part in orderly demonstrations against the visit of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin to Canada last month would make good members of the Senate, Senator Allister Grosart (PC—Ontario) said Wednesday.

Senator Grosart said the demonstrations would have done a lot of good if they made the premier aware of the spectrum of Canadian feelings about the treatment of other human beings anywhere in the world.

He observed in a Senate speech that the premier had referred to the demonstrators as people of no consequence.

"I would be surprised if Premier Kosygin was not aware that there were people protesting, and imprisoned for protesting, whom we would welcome in this chamber for their qualities of intellect and concern for others," he said.

Lawrence Wants To Check Probe

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Allan Lawrence said Wednesday that persons who feel they were mistreated by police in a demonstration here last week should report their complaints to him in writing.

Mr. Lawrence said in an interview he wants to receive specific complaints and charges from demonstrators who were protesting the Toronto visit of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin Oct. 25.

He said he wants to check the adequacy of an investigation being conducted by the Metropolitan Toronto police commission into the complaints.

If he believes the commission's report is inadequate, he said, a royal commission, judicial inquiry or further investigations and hearings by the commission may be held.

More Studying Part of Time

OTTAWA (CP) — It is time universities looked more seriously at part-time education, a study group at the annual meeting of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada decided Wednesday.

Statistics Canada figures quoted in University Affairs, the Association's monthly publication, show that the number of part-time students is increasing more rapidly than that of full-time students.

U.S. Senate's Plans Deepen Trade Fears

Auto Pact Prime Worry

By The Canadian Press

Several Canadian business and union spokesmen, mainly those with the auto industry at heart, spoke out Thursday against a United States Senate committee proposal that would give President Nixon authority to impose further import duties.

Some, however, appeared to adopt a wait-and-see attitude.

The U.S. Senate finance committee voted earlier Thursday to give Mr. Nixon emergency authority to impose the curbs, including an increase to 15 per cent in the present 10-per-cent extra duty on imports.

The measure, which could include a seven-percent excise tax on cars imported from Canada, drew an unhappy response from Abe Taylor, president of Local 222 of the United Auto Workers, in Oshawa, Ont.

He described the proposal as a "club" to make the Canadian government abandon safeguards in the auto pact between Canada and the U.S. He said a reduction in the safeguards would severely damage the Canadian auto industry and economy.

In Montreal, the chairman of the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said he "views with very serious concern" the U.S. move.

Brock Bradley said in an interview:

The chamber believes that trade negotiations should be conducted on a multilateral basis.

"The use of selective quotas to negotiate trade concessions is a temporary device to help exclusively the U.S. balance of payments with no regard for the long-term interests for world trading relationships."

An official of the Canadian Export Association said Canadian exporters deplore what would appear to be evidence of an inward-looking philosophy of the U.S. administration.

He added, however, the association hoped the new powers would not be implemented.

A spokesman for the Canadian Manufacturers Association said in Toronto the measure would mean "to hell with GATT (General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs) and let's work out our own deals."

Farewell Party Given by Tito

OTTAWA (CP) — President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia capped a busy last day in Ottawa by throwing a big party and getting to know some Canadian sports celebrities.

The Chateau Laurier reception was a crowded affair Thursday night, with perhaps 1,000 people jammed together at close quarters.

In the spotlight were three guests from the sports world, each of Yugoslav extraction: Frank and Peter Mahovlich of the Montreal Canadiens hockey team and George Chuvalo of Toronto, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion.

"If Tito's such a friend, how come we never see his first name?"

wet snow into all Ontario regions north of Georgian Bay today, the weather office said in its morning bulletin.

A slight risk of freezing rain in northern areas also exists, the weatherman said.

Swirling snow hit parts of southwestern Ontario Thursday but temperatures in the high 30s and low 40s melted it during the afternoon. High temperatures of 45 to 50 were predicted right across southern Ontario today with no precipitation.

Cold air pouring southward behind the storm will feed into Northern Ontario Saturday.

U.S. Chief Justice To Rule on A-Test

WASHINGTON (CP) — While final preparations were being made for a huge nuclear test at Amchitka Island, environmental groups today pinned their hopes of halting the blast on a promised early decision by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

The Atomic Energy Commission plans to set off the five-megaton explosion at 5 p.m. EST Saturday, 6,000 feet under the island in the Aleutian chain off Alaska. The blast will test the hydrogen-bomb warhead of the Spartan anti-ballistic missile.

Conservation groups opposed to the test, code-named Cannikin, took their plea to Burger Thursday after losing two lower-court attempts to have the test stopped. A U.S. Supreme Court spokesman said a ruling could be expected today.

The appeal to Burger was filed by the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility, one of seven groups opposed to the test, asking that the test be halted, pending a hearing by the full Supreme Court.

The appeal cited a Court of Appeals ruling that "substantial questions" exist on whether the government complied with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, "and whether, accordingly, the action is lawful."

The appeal said the Court of Appeals determination "there was not enough time for a "judicial resolution" of the matter. "The result is to permit the carrying out of a federal action whose effect on the environment may be among the most significant in all man's history," the appeal said.

A spokesman for the conservation group had said that if Burger turned down the request without referring it to the full court, group lawyers could then appeal directly to other individual judges.

Organizers May Be Made Pay Damages

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said Thursday his department is studying a French law which makes demonstration organizers responsible for damages caused during a demonstration.

Aurele Audet (Cred—Abitibi West) had asked whether "the different organizations or unions" involved in "riots" in Montreal last Friday would be held responsible by the justice department and ordered to pay the costs.

Mr. Choquette said Mr. Audet seemed to be referring to a French law "which will be one of the alternatives we will examine . . . to ensure that liberty is exercised legally."

DISC Ominous States Benson

OTTAWA (CP) — Cabinet ministers remained calm Thursday as economic thunderclouds appeared on the United States horizon and secret Canada - U.S. meetings were held here.

The thunderclouds came from the U.S. Senate finance committee, which approved authority for President Nixon to impose a seven-per-cent duty on Canadian-made automobiles and to increase to 15 per cent the 10-per-cent surtax on imports entering the United States.

In the Commons, Finance Minister E. J. Benson and Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said it is too early for alarm at the danger of higher U.S. import duties on Canadian goods.

In an interview, Mr. Benson said the surtax vote "is not really all that important."

Even if the Senate eventually granted the authority to President Nixon it would not mean he would use it.

A more ominous action by the committee was its move toward approval of the DISC program, Mr. Benson said.

The DISC program would enable companies to set up domestic international sales corporations which would receive tax concessions on export earnings. Beside encouraging U.S. exports, it would encourage U.S. corporations to make goods for export in the United States and probably close down subsidiaries in Canada and elsewhere.

The surtax isn't going to move from 10 to 15 per cent or anything like that," Mr. Benson said. "But the DISC proposal is very worrisome to Canada."

If the DISC plan became law in the United States, the Canadian government would have to consider measures to counter it.

Asked about the closed-door meeting of Canadian and U.S. officials, Mr. Benson said there's nothing spectacular or newsworthy in this". It was a continuation of a series of general meetings between officials of the two countries.

Cabinet colleague Pelrin spokesman would say only that "further preparations are made in discussing problems of concern to both countries relating to payments and trade matters."

The United States was represented by two senior trade officials—John Petty, assistant treasury secretary for economic affairs, and Philip Trezise, assistant secretary for economic affairs in the state department.

It was Mr. Petty who told Canadian reporters in Washington six weeks ago that the United States had a number of demands to make on Canada, including removal of Canadian protection clauses in the 1965 U.S.-Canada auto agreement.

"I've no comment, nothing to say," was Petty's only remark as he walked by a reporter Thursday.

Government officials said they consider unlikely a new U.S. duty on Canadian cars, but they wanted assurance of this from the two U.S. officials—if they would give it.

Asked if the auto pact is in trouble, Mr. Benson said: "No, I would say it is not in trouble."

Forces Get Pay Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Pay increases for members of the armed forces, designed to give the military wage parity with the public service, were announced today by the defence department.

The increases, retroactive to Oct. 1 this year, require 11.5 per cent. They consist of a pay raise of six per cent and a 5.5 per cent adjustment as a first step of a two-year plan to remove the pay lag between the forces and the public service.

A further 5.5 per cent adjustment to achieve pay parity will go into effect next year.

This year's increases will bring the basic pay of a fully-trained infantry private up to $400 monthly, an increase of $65.

A finance clerk with the rank of corporal will get $607 monthly, an increase of $89.

A general service captain's basic pay will rise to $885 a month, up $55. Minimum monthly pay for a colonel in the general service category now will be $1,635, an increase of $125.

The department said the increases also take into account special conditions of military service which place the servicemen at a net disadvantage in relation to the public servant.

These disadvantages include unpaid overtime, frequent moving, and early retirement.

God, Nixon, and PM Asked to Stop Blast

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Appeals to God, President Nixon and Prime Minister Trudeau were made Thursday as Canadians turned from mass demonstrations to prayers, telegrams and letters to protest the five-megaton nuclear test scheduled for Saturday on a remote Alaskan island.

In Washington, a half-mile-long protest telegram containing an estimated 177,000 Canadian names was delivered to a presidential assistant.

More than 100 Canadian members of Parliament signed a telegram to the president asking him to stop the blast set for Amchitka Island, Church leaders signed a third. Other telegrams appealed to Mr. Trudeau.

Criticisms of the prime minister's alleged inaction in the Amchitka situation have come from the Greenpeace Two protest vessel, on its way to Amchitka; from Mayor Rod Sykes of Calgary; David Anderson, Ontario Federation of Labor president, and political opponents.

Scattered protests against the blast continued across Canada Thursday although the main day for protests was Wednesday.

At Ottawa, Mr. Trudeau declined to sign the MPs' telegram because he said the government had already made its position known and the Commons had approved a motion on Oct. 15 opposing nuclear tests in general and the Amchitka one in particular.

Members of all parties signed, including Mr. Nixon's and the Canadian government's earlier protest and urging him "in the name of humanity" to cancel the test.

In Montreal, 100 students from McGill University protested in front of the American consulate Thursday, the second demonstration there this week. Tuesday 100 members of the Voice of Women held a vigil around for three hours.

In Toronto, members of major religious faiths attended a noon-hour service of "sorrow and prayer" to protest the planned explosion.

Rev. Robert Cuyler, representing the Anglican diocese of Toronto, said it is "God's wish that man should live creatively but all we seem to be able to think of is creating bigger ways of destruction."

There's No Risk Says AEC Head

AMCHITKA ISLAND (AP) — The head of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission described preparations for Saturday's scheduled underground nuclear blast and said "there is no risk."

With his wife and two of his daughters at his side, AEC Chairman James R. Schlesinger late Thursday peered into the 6,000-foot-deep hole where the five-megaton device will be detonated.

"Any plan to refrain on this barren, windswept Aleutian island until after the test.

"It's fun for the kids, and my wife is delighted to get away from the house for a while," Schlesinger said.

Auto Pact Prime Worry

By The Canadian Press

Several Canadian business and union spokesmen, mainly those with the auto industry at heart, spoke out Thursday against a United States Senate committee proposal that would give President Nixon authority to impose further import duties.

Some, however, appeared to adopt a wait-and-see attitude.

The U.S. Senate finance committee voted earlier Thursday to give Mr. Nixon emergency authority to impose the curbs, including an increase to 15 per cent in the present 10-per-cent extra duty on imports.

The measure, which could include a seven-percent excise tax on cars imported from Canada, drew an unhappy response from Abe Taylor, president of Local 222 of the United Auto Workers, in Oshawa, Ont.

He described the proposal as a "club" to make the Canadian government abandon safeguards in the auto pact between Canada and the U.S. He said a reduction in the safeguards would severely damage the Canadian auto industry and economy.

In Montreal, the chairman of the executive council of the Canadian branch of Commerce said he "views with very serious concern" the U.S. move.

Brock Bradley said in an interview:

The chamber believes that trade negotiations should be conducted on a multilateral basis.

"The use of selective quotas to negotiate trade concessions is a temporary device to help exclusively the U.S. balance of payments with no regard for the long-term interests for world trading relationships."

An official of the Canadian Export Association said Canadian exporters deplore what would appear to be evidence of an inward-looking philosophy of the U.S. administration.

He added, however, the association hoped the new powers would not be implemented.

A spokesman for the Canadian Manufacturers Association said in Toronto the measure would mean "to hell with GATT (General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs) and let's work out our own deals."

Students Protest Amchitka Blast

District secondary school students have joined the protest against tomorrow's scheduled underground nuclear explosion at Amchitka in the Aleutians.

In four Hastings county schools protest marches have indicated students' reaction to the American nuclear policy.

And at least one principal is pleased about his students' initiative.

C. M. Griffith, principal of Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, said today that he could not condemn his students for raising their voices in protest.

Yesterday, about 200 CHSS students staged a protest march around the streets of Madoc "to impress upon the village that, no one in the adult community had lifted a voice against the test".

Earlier, the students had collected 30 cents a person to pay for a protest petition, with more than 200 names that they sent to President Nixon.

The parade was headed by three students carrying a Canadian flag banner eight feet long.

"I was proud of their initiative in finding that big flag", said Mr. Griffith.

There were ban-the-bomb placards and "even a few Union Jacks".

We took these kids to put cause and effect together in the classroom", said the principal. "We teach them to reason and to think. Then when we can expect different conclusions from us, we clobber them. I didn't give permission for the march, but I won't condemn it."

Students at Quinte Secondary School in Belleville yesterday started a petition-telegram to President Nixon in Washington. They collected between 300 and 350 names at 10 cents a head and also sent telegrams notifying the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa and Prime Minister Trudeau of their action.

At Moira, student council secretary John Vani began circulating a petition at 8 a.m. today and by 11 a.m. had collected about 250 signatures at the standard 10-cent, a-person rate.

The grade 12 student said the petition will be telegraphed to President Nixon later today, with a copy going to Hastings MP Lee Grills.

"We're not all-Maria effort," said Mr. Vani. "The students are doing it on their own."

At Centennial Secondary School, about half of the 1,200 - member student body launched a walkout during the fourth period.

Special Service

PICTON (Staff) — A special service marking the 178th anniversary of Picton United Church will be conducted here Sunday at 11 a.m. Guest speaker will be Rev. Whiteley is a former minister of Picton United Church.

The morning service will be followed by a coffee hour in the C. V. Lee Library. An award will be presented for the first time to a candidate for the ministry.

Attraction Is Added To Parade

Santa Claus will have another noteworthy competitor for the hearts of spectators at the Dec. 4 Santa Claus Parade.

Only this time, the opposition will be geared to the male onlookers manning the sidewalks.

While the pied piper of the trumpet, Bobby Dimby, is luring small fry with the strains of C-a-n-a-d-a, the men can enjoy a glimpse of the current Miss Dominion of Canada, Norma Hickey.

A bare-midriff ensemble from Darnley, Prince Edward Island, Miss Hickey will likely be riding in her own convertible, warmly bundled if early December — unless she holds true to form.

One of 10 children, she was born in Summerside, PEI, and is an avid enthusiast of swimming, archery and baton twirling.

Prior to becoming Miss Dominion of Canada, she was taking a secretarial science course in Summerside, but hopes one day to complete the course and go on to become a teacher.

Centennial Students Stage A-blast Protest

Motel-Hospital Receives Patients

Belleville took another step toward a total health care plan for its citizens yesterday when the first patients were admitted to the Queen's Self-care Unit on Dundas St. East.

The former Queen's Motel closed its doors to the public Nov. 1 and four days later went into operation as a hospital for ambulatory patients. Six patients were admitted Thursday afternoon — some recuperating from surgery and almost ready to go home and some being admitted for tests and investigation.

The self-care unit offers a completely different concept of medical care. The patients wear street clothes, take their meals in the restaurant and live in motel rooms that bear no trace of the traditional hospital atmosphere. Even members of nursing staff have left their uniforms behind at Belleville General Hospital and wear street clothes. Even hot pants.

The six patients admitted yesterday are the forerunners of many more. When the unit becomes fully operational it will have accommodation for 70 patients.

But more work must be done at the former motel before the unit is operating at full capacity. Covered passageways will be built between the three lodges so that patients can walk to the restaurant with a minimum of difficulty in winter weather.

A large common room is also in the planning stage.

Mrs. Earl MacDonald is unit co-ordinator, with a staff of three full-time and three or four part-time nurses to assist her. Their function is to keep a watchful eye on the patients — all bedside nursing services will be provided by the Victorian Order of Nurses on a contracting basis.

Dr. Reginal Anderson, BGH general co-ordinator said the average length of a patient's stay at the unit will be four or five days. Those admitted for tests and investigation are expected to remain in the unit for an average of only two days.

The unit will care for two types of patients.

One is the person recovering from an acute illness or surgery, who is better off convalescing at home than in a hospital. He is not ready to go home but doesn't require much nursing service.

"Physically and psychologically it is a great advantage for some patients to live in a near - normal environment," said Dr. Anderson.

The second type of patient is called the "hostel type". This is the person who must undergo tests, X-rays and medical investigation before admission to hospital.

"The self-care unit is particularly convenient for the out-of-town patient," commented the medical co-ordinator.

Patients are free to leave the unit to shop and visit and friends and relatives can visit them at the motel and eat with them in the restaurant.

The province of Ontario has leased the motel from owner David Kerr, who remains to administer the plant. Before the motel closed he had 23 employees on staff. Now there are 42. Others will be expected to rise when the self-care unit goes into full operation.

Air Crash Bereaves Parents

TRENTON (Staff)—The son of a Belleville couple, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hodges, 48 Keller Drive has been identified as one of the eight Canadian Forces airmen who died in the crash of a Dakota in the Arctic Tuesday.

Twenty-four-year-old Cpl. P. C. Hodges served as First Officer (co-pilot) aboard the search and rescue plane from Winnipeg's 440 Squadron. He had been posted at Trenton's 424 Squadron from November 1968 to June 1969.

Others to die in the crash were Cpt. S. H. Gitzel, 28, Thorsby, Alta., Capt. L. A. Cooper, 35, Gilbert Plains, Man., Lieut. D. W. Smart, 23, Chatel, Man., Capt. C. A. Healey, 25, Sault Ste. Marie; Sgt. J. R. Lemieux, 35, Ottawa; Cpl. W. E. Platt, 25, Winnipeg; Cpl. D. N. Vodden, 35, Cobourg, Ont.

Wreckage of the plane was found in the tundra about 70 miles south of Port Parry on Canada's Arctic sea coast. The aircraft had been engaged to assist a drayed helicopter bush pilot, Mrnley Showalter of Yellowknife stranded in the area since October 30.

Mr. Showalter survived the Canadian Press yesterday he watched helplessly as the plane that had come to help rescue him stalled, dived and exploded. The Dakota crashed less than a mile from the Showalter aircraft.

According to the bush pilot, the Dak was about two-thirds of the way through a turn when its left wing seemed to drop abruptly. He said it then plunged abruptly "straight into the ground," exploding on impact.

"The boys stuck their necks out for me," Showalter said by walter, "but I guess if I were in their shoes I would have stuck my neck out too."

Parks Board Members Check Year's Progress

Results of an extensive program of summer parks development were viewed yesterday by city parks board members who were taken on a guided tour by superintendent Lloyd Syer.

The touring board members were shown developments work carried out during the past summer and were also filled in on future developments planned for the city.

Belleville one of the better municipal parks systems.

Making the parade along with superintendent Syer, were board members Don Templeman, Aldermen Robin Jeffrey and Donald Soutter and board secretary Gerald Brennan.

First area to be visited was the city's east side bay front district where, through co-operation on the part of the Belleville Harbor Commission, the Ontario Water Resources Commission and the city parks board, considerable progress has been made in the development of a waterfront neighborhood park.

Slough areas immediately to the west of the sewage plant have been filled in; grass has been seeded and parking areas laid out.

East of the sewage plant, members saw the results of the Moira River Conservation Authority, approximately 60 acres of riverbank property has been purchased, the ultimate aim being to have a continuous park area stretching from College Street north to Highway 401.

Already the parks board has the brush cleared away leaving the preferred tree growth.

A 600 foot swimming beach area immediately opposite the present Riverside Park area on the east side of the river will be developed; a changing room/washroom will be erected and a roadway put in.

Further to the south, down the hill on the east side of North Park Street, preparations are under way for the construction of a garden and supply centre for the parks department.

Long range plans for the west Moira area call for the development of a year-round, multi-use area including sled and toboggan runs, a lookout area and hopefully a limited bird and wild life sanctuary.

The area has the highest elevation of any part of the city and there is an excellent view over the countryside in all directions.

Mayor Disputes Reeve's Figure

PICTON (Staff) — Mayor Margaret Ackerman says she protested reeve Albert Piroth's recent claim that 20 million gallons of raw sewage empty Picton Bay each spring.

He mentioned the figure during Monday's session of town council.

Mayor Ackerman stated the town has taken steps to deal with the sewage problem and added some of it is due to water entering the sanitary sewers through storm and drainage system.

Last summer town council's public works committee met with representatives of the engineering firm of Dillon, Sims and Hubicki and learned that storm water from the county has a direct effect on the sewerage system. This problem is now being reconsidered to have been responsible for a strain on the capacity of the 1,200 barrel pumping station.

Overflow of sewage into Picton Bay is expected to be further reduced by installation of new sanitary sewers which Belleville sewer sewerage now exists.

Town councillors Monday night approved the expenditure of $1,000 to have sanitary sewers on Bridge Street.

Mayor Ackerman said this new sewer will mean a daily return of 5,000 gallons.

The Bridge Street sewer will serve 28 homes and, according to Mayor Ackerman, will not place undue strain on the pumping system.

Trenton Was Ready for VIPs

TRENTON (Staff) — CFB Trenton has been prepared to receive some distinguished international personalities in recent days but the visitors did not show up.

The Intelligencer learned yesterday of the existence of two well - guarded contingency plans for the reception here of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Tito of Yugoslavia.

When each dignitary was flying to Canada, plans were developed to have their planes land at either Ottawa or Trenton.

An armed forces spokesman said yesterday, if bad weather or a mechanical problem demonstration had been waiting the VIPs in Ottawa, their flights would have been diverted here.

A cavalcade of polished staff cars, buses and trucks formed at the local base in the hope before Kosygin and Tito made their respective arrivals in Canada, in case the contingency plans had to be used.

Yule Sharing Plans Being Made Already

Christmas countdown has begun — with only 51 days to go.

And those will be 51 busy days for the committee directing this year's Christmas Sharing Program for Belleville.

Last year 349 families with 1,140 children were given a memorable Christmas through the contributions of the people of Belleville to the Christmas Sharing Program.

This year the need is the same, and the program has been under way for a week.

Donors' groups have been contacted, helping agencies are submitting their lists of families needing help and the two will soon be matched. By the end of November, a call to 962-3531 will put donors in touch with recipients. Aim of the Christmas Sharing Program, operated from the John Street offices of United Community Services, is to offer a confidential clearing house for the names of families requiring Christmas assistance and thus avoid duplication.

The names of donors and recipients are registered and suggestions are given donors for hampers and gifts suited to the recipient family's circumstances.

No fund drive is planned for this year, but because some families may receive cheques instead of food hampers, donations of money will be welcomed by the Christmas Sharing Committee.

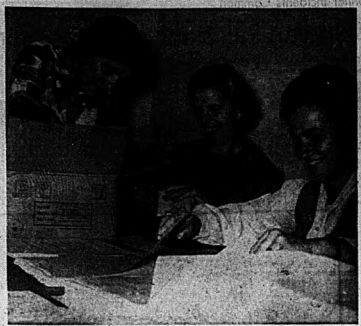
Service this year will be limited to the immediate Belleville area, and single people living alone will not be put on the recipient list. A special Christmas assistance program for them is now in the planning stage.

As usual Belleville Firefighters will take care of toys for the children on the lists. They need good, new and used toys for distribution. The firemen have found that the nature of their annual holiday season contribution has changed — many modern plastic toys cannot be repaired and so they must collect used toys still in good condition. The firefighters can also use cash contributions for purchase of candy for the children — a traditional part of their Christmas contribution.

For Mrs. Selma Bochner, again heading the Christmas Sharing Program, the appeal of the program lies in its personal touch.

"Donors buy the food for the hampers, select a special treat for each member of the family they are helping, decorate the basket themselves and deliver it. It is a contribution with immediate, tangible results," she says.

For this reason, the Christmas 'sharing Program is popular with children and young people's groups. The younger set, who cannot afford large cash donations, can contribute gifts of food, toys and creative talent to the Christmas cause.



A special appeal is going out this year to teenagers for gifts for teenagers in recipient families. Anything available for young people is requested—jewelry, cosmetics, games, records, books.

In past years young people have been the backbone of the Christmas Sharing Program, with church groups, Scouts, Cubs, Brownies, Guides and schools coming through in handsome style.

In former years, individual high schools have packed as many as 50 baskets in a last-day-of-school frenzy.

"One is mind that it's Christmas," says Mrs. Bochner. "Live it up a little. Seek the family you are helping do the same. Decorate every basket, including those for the whole family from toddlers to teenager to grandparents."

There are only 51 days left to do it in.

Santa's Helpers

Every city family is guaranteed a happy Christmas, thanks to the Christmas Sharing Program, a clearing house for the names of families requiring holiday assistance. Getting the program under way are Mrs. Sharon Rock, Mrs. Eleanor Revill and Mrs. Carol Groten, volunteers in charge of contacting donor groups. The first appeal for help went out in the mail this week.

Christmas Hampers Practical Gifts

Another is each program's knowledge of recipient families' circumstances and the degree of confidentiality they wish preserved.

Included in the information the program gives donors is the number of people in the family, their ages and type of cooking facilities.

Many families have only a single hot plate, and in these cases the Christmas fowl should be pre-cooked or a canned ham substituted.

Refrigeration facilities have a bearing on the contents of a Christmas hamper, and when fresh produce cannot be kept cold, the Christmas Sharing committee suggests giving canned pork and beans, luncheon meat, soups, fruits, vegetables and jelices.

The committee has prepared a list of items for a food basket for six persons that it gives to donors as a guide-line for their purchases.

It is better, the committee believes, for donors to pack two baskets, rather than one too-elaborate basket for one family. Equitable distribution is one of the aims of the Christmas Sharing Program.

A basket for six people will cost about $18.20, and with the addition of extras such as jam and fruit cake the price will be about $20.

Condominiums Not for Rent

Residential property owners in the College Hill area may not legally convert what is meant by condominium housing.

Some apparently believe that the term condominium housing is just a fancy way of saying low rental housing.

But, according to Maurice H. Rollins Construction Ltd., which is planning construction of condominium units for the College Hill area, this is definitely not the case.

The condominium units proposed are for sale to private owners and would not be for rental.

The area proposed for the condominium units (actually connected townhousing) is bounded by Prince of Wales Drive, College Street and Moira Street, East. But before construction can commence a zoning change will be sought, to permit R-2 category to R-4-C is required.

City council has approved the zoning change but before Ontario Municipal Board approval can be sought, area residents must be given the opportunity to object.

Accordingly letters have gone out from city hall to property owners within 400 feet of the designated area to determine whether there is objection to the change. Owners have until Nov. 17 to lodge their objection.

Rollins Construction is already being besieged by telephone calls objecting to the condominium proposal.

"They seem to believe that condominium housing is really low rental housing," said James Cathcart, sales manager for the company.

"The units planned for the College Street area are for sale, not for rental," Mr. Cathcart assures.

The units are really intended for the lower income families in the $5,000 to $7,000 a year bracket.

Selling price of the units will be in the $16,000 to $18,000 bracket, but because of the saving on land requirements, the accommodation will compare favorably with single family housing with a price tag of $20,000 to $22,000.

"Buyers will own their own homes and have a share of the land," Mr. Cathcart said. "They can sell their homes at the same as the owner of a single family private home."

According to Mr. Cathcart, condominium housing is rapidly gaining favor in the larger centres because of reduced land costs but is just now being introduced at Belleville.

Hides Used for Crafts

TWEED — The Dept. of Lands and Forests here reports a "fairly good response" from Quinte - district hunters who are trading in deer hides in an exchange program to encourage Indian craftsmen.

The department's Tweed district launched the campaign to gather hides for the first time this year — after it was successfully introduced in the Lindsay area last year.

The formula works this way:

Hunters who have no use for their deer hides — or those of moose, rare in the Quinte northland — are asked to turn them over to the nearest department office or officer in the field.

In return they are given a receipt and are later forwarded a gift — a hand-warmer for use on cold hunting days.

"We're getting some responses from this — a pretty fair response," said Russ Whitfield, game management official here.

Hunting season began in the Quinte district this week.

The hides are sent into northern areas of Canada for use by Indian craftsmen in a project developed by the department and the federal Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, he said.

Renovation Announced

Tenders are now being called for renovations to Prince Edward Heights School, Picton, at an estimated cost of $50,000.

The renovations at the former army camp will add an industrial arts shop, an arts and crafts room and a home economics area to the residential school for the retarded.

The school, now partly functional, is located in part of the former Camp Picton, acquired by the Ontario government last year from the Federal government.

The $50,000 renovations will include masonry repairs, a new stucco finish and exterior painting.

Band Seeks New Home

Six members of the eight-member music group—United Power — were left without a home and practice hall when their rented dwelling in Sidney Township, burned down last week.

John Graves, a spokesman for the group said the six members are scattered around Belleville. They have no hall in which to practice, although their engagements keep them busy enough.

He took exception to neighbors references to the former home as a "hippie haven."

"We all work full time at this and pay our own bills," he said.

At present, they are looking for another home, which would also provide a parking space for their 24-passenger bus, used by the group and their two road men to transport instruments to and from engagements.

"It's the only way to keep the group together," he added.

Bible Clubs Active Here

Bible education for children is on the upswing in the Belleville area.

Under the directorship of the Child Evangelism Fellowship of Ontario, 13 Good News Bible clubs attract youngsters from across the city to interdenominational home sessions. Club teachers receive instructions bi-monthly at 60 Lewis Street.

Toward the end of October European Fellowship director Sam Doherty addressed local members at Parkdale Baptist Church. On Saturday, Oct. 23, the CEF used facilities of Holloway Street United Church for the annual fall conference. Part of the program included a visual demonstration of songs by Mrs. E. Mancer and a workshop session headed by Miss Marjorie Laing, Belleville area director.

Dr. Stewart Boehmer, president of the Ontario Bible College was the evening guest speaker.

Report on Parks Said Inadequate

TRENTON (Staff)— A brief report from the parks board on the condition of parks in the west end may not be sufficient to satisfy the Ontario Municipal Board that grievances against the parks presented at the Elemenck highrise hearing were unfounded.

Planning board dealth with the report commissioned by council as part of its strategy to have the OMB reconsider refusal of a rezoning for the Fraser property, site of the proposed seven-storey building.

Reviewing the terse parks board report — little more than a page in length-planning board member Doug Living-stone asked "is this enough to satisfy the OMB?"

The report dismisses objections to the area's parks by saying it has never heard the objections before. On hearing the objections that include the allegation the parks are used by "undesirables", the parks board concludes it sees "no reason" in the charges that comprised a leading basis for the OMB ruling that turned down the building.

Despite the misgivings of Mr. Livingstone and Mrs. Wayne Simmons, who supported his view, the majority of board members balked at asking the parks board to beef up its report with some facts and figures. However, the board will recommend that a member of the parks board should be prepared to articulate the board's position when the OMB again considers the question.

Frontier Incidents Common

Indian-Pakistani Hostility Compounds Refugee Problem

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

India and Pakistan are countries where catastrophic events occur with relatively little attention from the West.

At present, part of India is reeling from the effects of a vicious tidal wave which swept ashore from the Bay of Bengal, killing thousands of persons and causing vast material damage.

At the same time, semi-starvation reigns in an area further from India and Pakistan, the suggestion is being made that hostilities between the two countries have already begun on a scale which, if transposed to any area of the Western world, would have immediately aroused violen outcries.

President Yahya Khan of Pakistan insists that the Indians are firing between 150 and 3,000 shells at various points every day across their border with his country's dissident Eastern province.

Similar charges of frontier violations have been made by New Delhi against the Pakistanis.

All this has been going on against a backdrop of millions of refugees from East Pakistan currently threatened with starvation or other forms of death in India in the face of food shortages and severe weather conditions in the refugee camps and shelters.

Adding to the verbal feuding between India and Pakistan are the charges being voiced by both sides that widespread mobilization of military forces is under way and threatens to turn their longstanding arguments over Kashmir and East Pakistan into all-out war.

Still another cause for concern is the possible involvement of two great Communist powers, China and the Soviet Union, on the sides of Pakistan and India respectively if war erupts on the sub-continent.

Yahya Khan himself has said that in a time of military conflict, his country would be able to count on Chinese help.

For their part and with border tensions steadily on the increase, the Indians have been playing host to the commander of the Soviet air force, who held talks with the defence minister in New Delhi.

Some observers maintain that, in view of their present policy of relative friendship towards the outside world and the uncertain state of their own domestic politics, the Chinese would hesitate before plunging into a foreign military commitment as large as the wartime support for Pakistan would inevitably require.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has herself been talking in confident and even defiant terms about her country's troubles with Pakistan during her tour of London and other Western capitals.

In contrast to this, Yahya Khan is trying to turn the apparently weaker military situation of his nation to psychological advantage by portraying Pakistan as the underdog in the present crisis.

Yet Pakistan has, generally speaking, suffered a loss of respect in world eyes as a result of the unpleasant events in the province and its president.

But it claims that it has international support no matter how aggressive, in his eyes, present Indian policies seem to be.

THE OLD MAN AND THE SEA

Prison "Reform"

Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer was busy berating the mass media the other day, and in Trenton of all places.

Eighty per cent of all prison inmates, Mr. Goyer told a high school audience, offer good chances of rehabilitation. This prison population he classed as among the underprivileged of society who "need the help of the government." And the media, he charged, pay more attention to the failures among those who are paroled — among the remaining 20 per cent — than to the successes among the majority.

Yes Mr. Goyer but isn't it precisely that 20 per cent with which we should be most concerned having regard to the safety of society? We are happy about the success of the majority, but they are the converted so to speak. The other 20 per cent are a menace to all of us.

Mr. Goyer seems to recognise this, even while getting in his dig at the media, for he admitted that "we have always to bear in mind the 20 per cent and we have to protect society against them."

But just how effective is the government's and parole board's watch over this sizeable minority? Not too encouraging is it when we recall the slaying of three du Pont executives in Montreal recently, allegedly by a young man undergoing rehabilitation, and the killing in Ste. Therese of a police officer, again, it is alleged, by a man similarly on leave from a psychiatric prison.

Nor can we ignore Mr. Goyer's remark in the Commons recently, recorded by Hansard: "We have decided from now on to stress the rehabilitation of prisoners rather than the protection of society."

Good luck to the 80 per cent ,but let the government keep a much stricter watch on the 20 per cent when it comes to parole and leave from psychiatric institutions. It would appear there is now too much leniency in this regard, and disregard for the interests of society at large.

Peace-keeping Role and More Aid Urged on Canada with Regard To Indian-Pakistani Confrontation

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

The crisis in India-Pakistan has reached such proportions that only massive international intervention can effect any tenable solution. It is because of this belief that Oxfam Canada is urging strong Government action to be taken immediately.

Mr. Alan Leather, assitant to Raymond Cournoyer, Oxfam Field Director for East India, during the present refugee crisis, was in Canada the first week of October. During his visit, Mr. Leather and Oxfam Canada personnel met with Mr. P. Gerin-Lajoie, president of the Canadian International Development Agency which is a department for External Affairs, to discuss the current situation in India-Pakistan. Discussion centred around the question of further government aid to the refugees in India. It was urged that the Government of Canada initiate immediate placement of the Pakistan situation on the agenda of the UN General Assembly; that Canada press for a much expanded UN aid program to include UN negotiations with the Pakistan authorities and the Bangla Desh for safe conduct of food and relief supplies within East Pakistan and the appointment of senior UN personnel to operate the program; and the urging of a cease-fire as a temporary solution to the problem to allow the introduction of massive amounts of relief supplies into East Pakistan.

On October 19, Dr. Robert McClure, former Moderator of the United Church of Canada and a member of Oxfam's Board, addressed a special committee of the House of Commons. In Oxfam's brief, Dr. McClure stressed the need for political settlement, the need to encourage voluntary agencies such as Oxfam to increase public awareness of the Indian-Pakistan problem — an awareness that could be increased by the application of matching grants to agencies from government sources — and the need for the Canadian Government to act immediately both in a financial and peace-making role.

There are over nine million refugees within India. A famine of staggering proportions is imminent in East Pakistan. This is not an "internal matter". It is a matter which must actively involve the entire world community. If we turn our backs it will be to our everlasting shame.

DEREK HAYES,
Chairman, Board of Directors,
OXFAM OF CANADA.

World of Theatre

In a world where the news is often of unhappy events, of things harsh, discordant and destructive, where materialist pressures are all around and the environment is a polluted place, it is a pleasure to escape at times into the atmosphere of make-believe.

Such was our experience in seeing the Neptune Theatre's performance of "The Servant of Two Masters." The Carlo Goldoni classic is a demanding piece of theatre in which the performers require expertise not only as orators and comedians but considerable athletic prowess as well. The action scens as the servant Truffaldino (Douglas Chamberlain) and waiters did their thing was reminiscent of the best of latter-day Mack Sennett farce. It was the same also with the nimble and comely Smeraldina (Nicole Lipman) and that venerable pair of Latin scholars, Dr. Lombardi (Tony van Bridge) and Pantalone (James Valentine), not to mention Silvio, son of Dr. Lombardi (Brian McKay), Beatrice, daughter of Pantalone (Susan Hogan), Beatrice of Turin (Tedde Moore), Florindo Aretusi of Turin, Beatrice's aristocratic lover (David Renton) and fine supporting cast. Alan Tower's guitar accompaniment to the absorbing dialogue and swift-moving action was musicianship that had its own special appeal.

Belleville is the richer for theatre of this calibre and the Quinte Arts Council must have been encouraged to see such a full turnout. We spoke at the outset of things discordant, pollution for instance, and it may be churlish to mention it in this context but access from Centennial where cars park, the grass verge is a mass of litter, discarded paper, cans and all the rest of it. From the world of make-believe out into the cold night air —and reality!

Post - Mortems Continue

Queen's Park

Prognosticators who were rash enough to publish predictions about the election, and in some cases to back them up with substantial bets, still are trying to figure out just what happened.

No pundit I know of came remotely close to the actual result in his speculations.

In fact the only people I have heard of who were pretty well on the beam was a small group close to the premier, mainly civil servants.

Most of the group, in their back and forth wagering, were within a seat or so of the final Progressive Conservative standing.

With time it has become clear that it was almost entirely the position of the NDP which threw so many people off in their calculations.

Those who erred badly in their predictions invariably assessed far too many seats to the third party.

For example one respected observer who has been at this business of politics for a long time gave the party of Stephen Lewis 38 seats, twice as many as it actually took, and left the impression it could do more.

A television reporter, also far from a wet hand, was certain of minority government, again on the strength of expected NDP success.

There were two key reasons why the NDP was such an upsetting factor.

One was the mass canvass approach which the party was able to adopt full-scale for the first time in this election.

This had been apparently successful in by-elections, but the party had not had the strength to apply it before in a general election.

With the by-election successes in mind, observers were extremely cautious about the canvass approach. And even though the other indicators pointed to a substantial government victory, it was a disturbing unknown which distorted their speculations.

As it turned out, of course, the canvass was a much overrated consideration. For it had only a limited effectiveness. If that.

The other very important influence of the NDP was that with the factor of its canvass campaign, and the new image under Stephen Lewis, it had the PCs scared.

And not only the members and candidates, but also the rank-and-file supporters.

The consequence was that the party in most ridings had a wealth of workers. In fact in a large number of ridings the party for the first time was able to cover the electorate at least once in its own mass campaign.

The candidates who were able to have this done to that it was helpful, but many have doubts whether a continuing canvass, covering each household three or four times as the NDP tried to do, mightn't do more harm than good.

Air Travel Scene

Empty Seats Over the Atlantic

Ottawa Journal

Amid controversy over North Atlantic air fares, it is worth noting that, over the past 20 years, their price is less in terms of real buying power.

Twenty years ago Qantas cost equalled about five men's suits, when selling at about $100 a piece. Today a suit's price is almost doubled, but an air fare can be had for about the price of one suit. A girl secretary can fly on a vacation to Europe today, everything included, at a cost of about one month's salary: it would have cost her many months' labor 20 years ago.

Even so, the empty seat syndrome plagues airlines on the North Atlantic crossing. The problem was outlined with crystal clarity on The Saturday Journal's business page by Jack Charleson, Ottawa manager of United Aircraft Services.

At he explained it: 274 daily North Atlantic flights carry an average of 18,000 passengers, and 13,000 empty seats. Each jetliner costs $25,000 a day to own and operate; flying with about half capacity, each carry earns about $50,000 a day. So far, so good.

But it cannot operate daily. The big jets must be lavishly serviced, during which time it costs $1,000 an hour and earns nothing. Hence the airlines' frantic attempts, when the jets are flying, to fill those empty seats with early bird and other gimmick fares. Their resulting welter of rates, Mr. Charleson notes, "is about as confusing as our proposed new income taxes."

Still unknown is the extra number of Atlantic fares that can be lured by lower fares. Is passenger potential just about reached, for the present?

If so, an obvious conclusion would be that too many airlines with too many aircraft are flying the Atlantic.

After-Hours Construction

The following is a copy of a letter to Belleville City Manager, R. Reynolds:

Would you please register a complaint in my name to city council.

The night time construction of the Bridge St. East apartment building is absolutely intolerable. No emergency is great enough to deprive a whole neighborhood of its sleep, particularly two blocks from the hospital. And even more important, the mental anguish of late tenagers at 4 o'clock in the morning to all concerned is of grave importance to the well being of our city.

Government Penalty Clauses

When Is A Pension Not A Pension?

The following is a copy of a letter from an area resident to

Prime Minister Trudeau:

On reading about what a swinger you are, I would imagine that if you bet $2 at a race track, you would like to have a chance at least of realizing a little of your wager.

Such is not the case with your Canada Pension Plan under the present rules and regulations.

All your rule books on the plan cover from age 65 and up, with a change at age 70.

If I were to retire at age 65 in 1972, I would receive $83.75 per month.

If I were to retire at age 66 in 1972, when I reach the age of 67 this pension will be reduced appreciably and I will not become something like $33 a month.

If I receive a yearly pension from my employer in excess of $1,100, I cannot contribute for the other five years from age 66 to 70 and receive it in the normal manner. I suggest that I have contributed to the plan for a total of since 1924. Also it is taxable income. I am told that I will be paying Pension Plan office that I would have to earn this money from another job before I can contribute. This would also become taxable earnings.

If I were allowed to contribute for the remaining five years, I would get a pension of $106 at 65, which would be 1977. I fail to see how they could not meet that then and should have it all their own way, you will become penalized, but you can not take the other avenue out.

My employer now will allow me to draw my pension at age 60 with no penalty. We are face to face with high unemployment and a lot of people will be governed by this penalty, is set out in the Canada Pension Plan and remain working rather than accept it and receive less.

If you have contributed for 10 years regardless of your age you should receive benefits. I think that you should still be entitled to the amount you have built up. $106 on a delayed basis or when you reach age 70.

Now I am 67 and still very employed and until you reach age 70 you have contributed 36 cents on each $1 earned over $900 a year. For $1,000 I pay out $1 for each $1 over that. By this method you would only have to earn $4,478 a year to obtain your Canada Pension.

The $3 last week accepted as a retirement age, even Canada's Old Age Security Plan, I fail to see how these penalty clauses of Canada Pension should be written into legislation by the government of Canada or the contributors.

OMB Ruling Against Sarnia Annexation Has Implications

TORONTO (CP) — A landmark decision this week by the Ontario Municipal Board that prevented Sarnia from annexing parts of surrounding rural territory is alive with implications for other Ontario cities.

The decision moved in on urban sprawl and its attendant problems of pollution, industrial development and loss of the rural environment.

The board, in effect, told Sarnia city officials to solve their problems within the existing city limits. It also prevented the city from amortizing its debts by unleashing widespread industrial and residential development to expand its municipal assessment.

In a sense, the board opted for community control. It said the four townships and two villages involved know what is best for the people who live in them and are doing a good job of controlling urban development and providing services.

The decision shows the OMB is taking a much tougher line with cities that want to get into residential and industrial development by expanding borders.

The key phrase in the 26-page decision is "enclosure of a community of interest." And it was this phrase that tripped the Sarnia applicationthe city's third unsuccessful annexation bid in the last 20 years.

The board said the city had failed to prove that its residents hold anything in common with people who live by choice in the largely rural townships.

These are new ground rules many other cities with expansionist ideas will have trouble getting used to.

The board found Sarnia had failed to prove its case that the population of the area will greatly increase in the next 30 years and that planning must be done by a monolithic city government.

"This board cannot in conscience be expected to approve an annexation based upon a concept of enclosure of a community of interest which would leave vast rural areas under urban government awaiting an urban overspill so many years away.

"It must be shown to the board in matters of this kind that the community is such that in a reasonable time lands taken will be urbanized. The board is not satisfied that the difficulties with which the area is faced can indeed be resolved by this massive annexation."

In other words, economic and population pressures must be so great that annexation is the only course of action left open to a city before it will be allowed to gobble up surrounding rural areas.

A city won't be allowed to eat its neighbors just because it needs a fiscal transfusion that might be generated by allowing massive development in newly-annexed land.

The decision might place the OMB on an economic tightrope, balanced between ensuring the financial survival of the cities in an era of escalating municipal expenditures and keeping some semblance of order in the headlong rush to build factories and homes.

The OMB offered no solutions to Sarnia for solving its problems—lack of financing, the shrinking area available for construction and the need for more secondary industry.

Presumably, this is something that the city will have to work out on a higher plan, perhaps in consultation with the federal and provincial governments.

Senators Fear Effect Of Tax Reform Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Proposed federal tax changes may adversely affect the competitive position of Canadian firms in world markets, the Senate committee on banking, trade and commerce said Thursday.

In a 48-page preliminary report on the government's tax bill, the committee called for softening of proposed new taxes on international income.

It also recommended various restrictions on the application of the planned tax on capital gains and a lighter tax burden on resource industries.

But it commended the government for its proposed tax reductions and greater tax exemptions on personal income.

The committee said it issued the preliminary report in hopes of persuading the government to amend its tax bill during committee-of-the-whole debate in the Commons, the stage at which the bill now is.

Presbyterians Will Be Asked To Forego Christmas Presents

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. Murdo Nicholson, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, is not giving any Christmas presents this year.

And he's going to ask the 125,000 Presbyterian families in Canada to do the same and give an equivalent amount to starving refugees.

Dr. Nicholson of Calgary told the church's board of missions this week that spending huge sums of money on things that people don't really need is "a sin against our fellow man and against our God."

He estimates he spent more than $250 last year on his four children and five grandchildren.

He told the board he will write to each of the 1,083 congregations in the church asking their members to consider giving money equivalent to annual Christmas-gift spending to such organizations as the Committee on Inter-Church Aid, Refugees and World Service, which is supported by most of the Christian churches in Canada.

"Of course, this ought to be a matter for discussion in the family. The children should be involved in the discussion, but you will find that children are easily moved to generosity."

The 63 board members voted unanimously to stand behind their moderator's call to the church for a "voluntary, self-imposed self - denying ordinance."

the request of one of his constituents, said he "might have made a mistake" in light of "startling" statements attributed to Mr. Kenny.

Two IRA Factions Seek To Get Money in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Views of two North American representatives of conflicting factions of the Irish Republican Army were expressed Thursday following a news conference called to announce a North American money-raising tour by one of them

Sean Kenny, 27, who carried a document signed by Cathal Goulding, IRA chief of staff, naming him official North American representative, told the conference the IRA supports the FLQ and Parti Quebecois in their fight for the poor of Quebec.

William O'Connor, who said he is the official Canadian IRA representative, said the Canadian Irish support a unified Canada.

"If he was a true member of the IRA he'd be over there (Northern Ireland) fighting instead of politicking," said Mr. O'Connor, the head of the Northern Aid Committee of Toronto.

"And we strongly condemn any statement by him that would reflect upon the integrity and willingness of our allegiance to Canada."

Mr. Kenny said Mr. O'Connor is probably a member of a splinter group of the IRA known as the Provisionals whose violent tactics are similar to those of the FLQ. He said the official IRA supports violence, but feels there are other means to bring about change.

Mr. O'Connor said he finds the aims of the FLQ repugnant, but admitted he is wholly in favor of violent measures to force change.

Mr. Kenny said news coverage of the Irish situation is misleading in that it pits Roman Catholic against Protestant.

The struggle, as he sees it, is Roman Catholic and Protestant poor united against the status quo. Mr. O'Connor supported this interpretation.

Mr. Kenny said the money he collects on his tour is to be used for the cause of political prisoner, but added contributions wouldn't be refused if a donor asked that it be used for arms.

AM. John Sewell, who said he booked a city hall committee room for the news conference at

Industrial Leaders Blamed

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis emerged Thursday from his first caucus meeting since his party's setback in the Oct. 21 provincial election to announce he is ready to fight again.

The Ontario New Democratic Party leader admitted there had been some criticism of his leadership, but added that the caucus meeting ended on a positive note by making future plans.

St. George's Guild Tea

Although somewhat small in numbers St. George's Guild made up for it in hospitality at their fall tea and bazaar held in St. George's Hall, Station Street on Tuesday afternoon.

In keeping with the fall color scheme of green and orange the attractive tea table with white linen cloth was centred with a colorful arrangement of large green and organe 'mums interspersed with bulrushes. Pumpkin and brown candles in double candelabra and shining silver tea services completed the setting. The guest tables were equally attractive, each covered with white embroidered luncheon cloth.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. B. Wright and Mrs. R. H. Goddard while serving were Mrs. W. Coleman, Mrs. F. Askey and Mrs. B. Adherson. Mrs. F. Markle and Mrs. W. McLeod attended to kitchen duties

Merchandise at the various sales tables sold rapidly especially the candy and homecooking which was pretty well depleted by mid - afternoon. Mrs. F. Garrow convened the bake table and candy was sold with white linen cloth was centred with a colorful arrangement of large green and organe 'mums interspersed with bulrushes. Pumpkin and brown candles in double candelabra and shining silver tea convened by Mrs. W. Babcock and Mrs. K. Bowers had an abundance of gift giftes articles including warm mitteens, and socks, crocheted doll sets and multi colored cushion covers. Adjacent, to this was a table with potted-mum plants which were in demand.

Taking tickets and welcoming guests at the door was Mrs. M. J. Welch president of the Guild.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD D. PARNELL

Parnell – Follwell

Right Rev. Bishop J. B. Creeggan performed an impressive candle lighting wedding ceremony in Christ Church Anglican, Belleville, on Saturday, October 30, when Mary Beth Follwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Follwell, was united in marriage to Edward Douglas Parnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas E. Parnell of London, Ontario. He was assisted by Canon R. B. DeBlois Wright, rector of Christ Church. Gary McLeod was altar assistant. Brian Yealland played the prelude organ music and John Withers played during the ceremony and accompanied the soloist, Ronald Robertson. An excerpt from The Prophet was read by Rod Follwell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an empire A-line gown of white crepe with flowing train and long tapered sleeves. The gown was completely trimmed with imported French lace at the neckline, bodice, sleeves, continuing around the graceful hem and train. Her headpiece was a dainty rose of lace from which flowed a full length veil of illusion tulle enhanced with scattered roses cut from the lace of her dress. She carried a hand bouquet of bronze daisy 'mums with bubgundy oak leaves and sprigs of wheat.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Cathy Weston of Exshaw, Alberta, and the bridesmaids were Judith Ann Alexander of the Dominican Republic, Mary Frances Bateman, Toronto, Lorna Follwell, sister of the bride, Belleville, and Peg Herbert, sister of the bridegroom, Waterloo. They wore identical dresses of rich olive green crepe trimmed with a two inch mod embroidered braid, styled in an empire A line with full length ruffled sleeves and a deep ruffle around the floor length hemline. They carried hand bouquets of yellow daisy 'mums, oak leaves and yellow feathered edge ribbon.

The winsome flower girl was Pamela Pratt, Ottawa, godchild of the bride. She wore a dress similarly designed and of the same color and material as the gowns of the bridesmaids. Preceding the bride up the centre aisle of the church, she scattered yellow rose petals from her small basket which was decorated with yellow daisy 'mums and feathered ribbon.

The bridegroom was attended by Walter Greenway, London, Ont. Ushers were Timothy Parnell, brother of the bridegroom, and Herbert, Ross McGregor and Rodney Follwell, brother of the bride.

Attending the wedding were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lorne Brough, and the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. A. D. Matheson.

A reception was held at the Madrid Room, Sun Valley Motor Inn. Guests were greeted by the bride's mother who wore a deep raspberry dress styled in the princess lines with long sleeves. Her dress was trimmed with loops and buttons down the back and on her sleeves. The hem was banked with rose petals made of the delustered silk of her dress. She wore a matching headpiece of petals in the back of her hair and black suede accessories. Her corsage was of bridal pink roses and stephanotis. Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother in a brown silk chiffon dress with pleated skirt and long sleeves gathered at the wrist. She wore a feathered headpiece of matching color and a corsage of Wobern Abbey sweetheart roses and carnations.

For the first meal after their marriage vows the newlyweds shared a loving cup in a traditional family custom. And they used carved wooden spoons joined by a chain to symbolize their union. This reproduction of a rare set of spoons was hand carved from a single piece of wood by "Uncle" Jim Hemlock.

For the honeymoon trip the bride chose a lavender jumpsuit of wool crepe with matching blazer type jacket worn with a white ruffled sweater. Her corsage was a single yellow daisy 'mum with oak leaves and another, a couple left for a short stay in the Muskoka District and will continue their honeymoon in the Caribbean.

Following the reception an Open House for the "under 26's" was held at the Follwell cottage on the Bay of Quinte. Guests who disqualified themselves were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Follwell at their home.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT LOCKE

Locke – Mawdsley

Anne Elizabeth Mawdsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Mawdsley, became the bride of Robert Brian Locke, son of Mrs. Lorna Locke and the late E. F. Locke on October 23 at Christ Church. Cannon R. B. Wright conducted the ceremony with Mr. John Withers and the choir boys supplied music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length white nylon gown with patterned daisy flocking over white polyester celanese with an empire waistline, jewel neckline and ruffled cuffs. White daisy trim adorned the hem of the gown and also the flowing circular veil which was attached to the gathered waistline by a bow. A juliette cap of daisies and seeded pearls held the bridal chapel length veil in place. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white stephanotis.

The matron of honor Mrs. Dianne McWaters wore a gown of sheer multi color floral nylon over orange ice polyester featuring an empire waist, mauve velvet sash, long sleeves, jewel neckline and gathered skirt. Her hair was adorned with mauve velvet bows and she carried a basket of white daisies and mauve tipped 'mums.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Locke sister of the bridegroom's sister and Miss Diane Ellis. The flower girl was Angie Gillespie. All three were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

The ring bearer was James Hardy the bride's cousin. The best man was Roger Mawdsley the bride's brother while the ushers were Ronald Locke the bridegroom's brother and Danny Thompson.

At the reception held at Christ Church parish hall, guests were greeted by the bride's mother in a street-length A-line dress and coat ensemble of turquoise crochet crimp knit. She wore brown accessories, flowers in her hair and a corsage of white sprayed carnations.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother in a green sleeveless street length dress with embroidery accenting the hem and waistline. She wore a fur stole, brown accessories, flowers in her hair and a corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to points-West, the bride donned a purple hat pant-outfit with purple suede accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Upon return the couple will reside in Belleville.

Ann Landers

Husband Feels Ann's 'Forget and Forgive' Philosophy Is Sound

Dear Ann Landers: I'm back from a trip and am just catching up with the letters from women who are mad at you because of your advice to the infantryman's wife. I thought your answer was great. You pointed out what can happen when the guilty party is told repeatedly what a skunk he is.

As the guilty party (and the skunk) may I tell you how it feels when a wonderful wife is willing to forgive and forget? Every married man who cheats has periodic nightmares of what it would be like to be caught by his wife. That nightmare turned into reality for me ten years ago. My wife simply said: "We'll talk later,"—and we did. She told me if I wanted all other chance I could have it, that she would forgive me and not mention it again. She kept her word. I felt like the lowest creature in the world.

My love and admiration for her grew tenfold. That incident strengthened our relationship and heightened my respect for her. The psychological scar is still there—but it's a scar, and not an open wound because she let it heal and didn't pick at it. So stick by your guns, Ann. Maybe not every woman is capable of forgiving and forgetting, but I'll bet most wives could do better if they gave it a try.—Mr. Lucky

Dear Mr. Lucky: In a book by the late Dr. Eric Berne, "Games People Play," he described a game called "Now I've got you—you S.O.B.!" It's the approach most wives use against a caught husband. It's the wrong one. Your wife used the right one and my hat is off to her. Instead of tossing out the lemon, she made lemonade.

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter about a young woman who bathed twice a day, used anti-perspirants, deodorants and colognes—but still she was sure she had an unpleasant odor. She had even gone to several doctors and they could not detect the offensive odor which she said was ruining her life. You told her she needed a head doctor, not a skin doctor.

The person I am writing about has the reverse problem. She really does have an offensive odor and is not aware of it. Those of us who work with her are appalled by her insensitivity. She's smartly dressed and attractive—what my mother used to call "clean on top dirty underneath." Please tell us what to do. Would an anonymous letter be in order? There are five women in this office and four men. Thanks from all of us.—Tongue-Tied.

Dear T.T.: Decide among yourselves which woman in the office communicates most easily with Miss Clean On Top. That person then should tell her how she herself solved the very same problem after someone was good enough to give her the word. Easy to do? No. But suffering in silence is not easy either. Someone should speak up.

Dear Ann Landers: I have heard about married men who tell girls they are single, but what about a single man who tells a girl he is married?

I started to date Don four months ago. I told him at a very respectable singles bar. He told me he was married but not living with his wife. Now I find out from a friend who works with his brother that Don is not married, and never was. Why would he lie about a thing like this?—Stunned

Dear Stunned: Don's "message" is that he is not marriage material. Take the hint and give him back to his "wife."

Never Hesitate to Get Psychiatric Help for Child If Needed

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Your letter from the mother of the 12-year-old who "shut the drapes" has prompted me to write this. I have a brother who is a paranoid schizophrenic today because of stubborn parents who did not get help for him when he was young. I am not a psychiatrist but please let me list some first hand experience:

Do any of your parents have a small child who:

1. Wakes up screaming with fright and nightmares frequently?
2. Whines a lot?
3. Plays by himself because other kids are "picking on him"?
4. Shuts himself in his room for hours?
5. Decides to eat only certain things and starves himself if he doesn't get them?

Do any of you parents have teen-agers who:

1. Sulk a lot?
2. Get up at odd hours of the night and eat constantly or rock in a chair or do other things to disturb the rest of the family at rest?
3. Pick on the younger children frequently?
4. Use filthy language and make unhealthy gestures?

Don't walk—RUN—to your nearest clinic and seek help for such teen-agers. Today my brother is a walking vegetable living on one kind of pill after another because he didn't get any help until he was 18! He had many talents but the fears that are so real to a schizophrenic have taken over his life.

I love him dearly and I often wonder what he would be like today if my parents had taken the advice of his school teachers and sought help for their "problem". — One Who Knows

Dear One: I hope "Problem" and anyone else who has a similarly afflicted child will read and act on your advice, and ours!

Dear Doris: We have a son getting married in December. What is expected of the groom's parents? Do we give a shower or not?

We have never met her parents. Do we invite them down for a Sunday dinner or something? I would like to meet them before the wedding date.— Mother of the Groom.

Dear Mother: Sometimes family members get together and have a party, at which they make a presentation to the happy couple. Or they may give a reception for other people to come in, but this time no gifts expected.

The groom's parents make the first overture of friendship to the bride's parents usually by getting in touch and paying them a visit. No reason why you shouldn't invite them to your place, as long as the initiative comes from you.

Herbs and Spices Bring Out Flavor of Various Cheeses

By ALICE DENHOFF

There is an endless reservoir of cheese dishes because cooks everywhere are always creating new recipes. Herbs and spices add to and bring out the flavors of various cheeses, bland or tangy.

CHEESE AND EGG CROWN CASSEROLE

7 slices white bread
Butter or margarine
1 cup grated sharp American cheese
3 eggs, lightly beaten
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon powdered mustard
⅛ teaspoon ground white pepper
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder

Spread bread slices lightly with butter. Cut two slices twice diagonally, making eight triangular pieces. Cut remaining bread into cubes (1¼ cups) and place half over the bottom of a buttered one-quart casserole. Sprinkle with grated cheese and top with remaining bread cubes.

Combine remaining ingredients and pour over bread cubes and cheese. Arrange triangles of bread upright around edge of dish to form a crown. Place in pan of hot water. Bake in 325-degree-F. oven one hour or until a knife inserted in centre comes out clean. Serve at once. Serves six. Nice for lunch or supper.

HERBED CHEESE CUSTARD

1 teaspoon powdered mustard
1 teaspoon water
¼ cup butter
2 cups milk
⅛ cup soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon marjoram leaves
1-16 teaspoon black pepper
1 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
3 eggs, lightly beaten
6 teaspoons grated sharp Cheddar cheese

Mushroom Sauce (recipe follows)

Blend mustard with water; let stand 10 minutes for flavor to develop. Heat butter with milk. Add bread crumbs and set aside to swell. Add mustard, salt, marjoram and black pepper. Stir in the one cup shredded cheese and eggs. Turn into six buttered six-ounce custard cups. Sprinkle each with one teaspoon grated cheese. Place cups in pan of hot water. Bake in slow oven (325 F.) one hour, 20 minutes or until a knife inserted in centre comes out clean. Recipe serves six. Over the cheese custard, pour:

MUSHROOM SAUCE

½ can cream of mushroom soup
½ can water
¼ teaspoon marjoram leaves

Combine and heat ingredients. Makes 1¼ cups of an easy-do sauce. The recipe is a fine choice for lunch or supper—hearty, nourishing, good.

UNUSUAL dish—cushions of softened bread, Parmesan and egg, deep fried, served with light but tasty tomato sauce.

Why is Brookside Dairy qualified to carry the Quality Chekd label?
QUALITY CHEKD
Extras earned it for Brookside.
Extra care. Extra effort. Extra quality.
You see, the Quality Chekd people are as particular as their name implies. They are an international group of more than 100 independent dairies dedicated to extra quality. And they look for the same dedication in new members. Like Brookside.
Brookside has been producing extra quality dairy products for 62 years. Testing. Re-testing. Constantly improving. To meet their own high standards over and above those of the government. The dairy thus earned the right to take the final tests given by the Quality Chekd Dairy Products Association! 38 extra "special exams" for everything from cows to cartons.
Brookside passed with honors. They'll be undergoing the same tests periodically. And submitting samples regularly to the Quality Chekd testing laboratories. To insure extra quality.

Leftist Control Seen

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Driediger, president of the Social Credit League, charged Thursday that leftists and Marxists have taken over every legitimate organization in Canada and are controlling the minds of young people.

In an emotional speech to the party's women's auxiliary, Mr. Driediger accused young people who took part in Wednesday's anti-Amchitka demonstrations of not knowing what they were protesting about.

He accused the news media of being controlled by Marxists and leftists because they gave undue coverage to the demonstrations and he attacked a radio host for appealing over the air to people to sign a petition which was sent to Washington protesting the blast.

"Leftists and Marxists have taken over every legitimate organization in Canada and right here in British Columbia—they are the ones dominating the news media today.

Doctors Told to Be Sure They Have Right Patient

TORONTO (CP) — Citing a 1970 case in which a Canadian doctor operated on the wrong woman removing her uterus instead of her teeth, the Canadian Medical Protective Association has warned doctors to make sure they operate on the right patient.

"While there have been no recent disastrous mishaps because of improper identification of a patient or operation on the wrong part, errors have occurred and have led to lawsuits and threats of legal action," the association said in its 70th annual report.

The association warns that it is "virtually impossible to defend the position of a doctor who operates on the wrong patient."

In the case where the woman had her uterus removed, the report says she was to have had teeth removed, but was taken by mistake to a gynecologist who examined her then removed her uterus.

The woman initially took the news in good humor, the report said, but later she brought legal action and a settlement had to be made.

Was FLQ Right?

TORONTO (CP) — A glum and pessimistic future for Quebec was forecast Thursday at a hearing into the federal government's invocation of the War Measures Act in October, 1970.

Laurier Lapierre, member of a citizens' commission of inquiry into the act, said after listening to several briefs that more and more people in Quebec are starting to ask themselves whether the Front de Liberation du Quebec was right.

"There was a time when myself and others would never have thought that but now the question is there. It is a terrifying situation. As I grow older, I grow more and more radical."

Mr. Lapierre made his comments following a lengthy, financial submission by Leo Johnson, an assistant professor of history at the University of Waterloo.

Mr. Johnston said that in Canada the gap between the rich and the poor is accelerating and the French people of Quebec are among the most disadvantaged.

"It has been a subject of their anger," he said. "The FLQ manifesto concentrated on this."

"The poor and disadvantaged are losing and there will be more of what happened in Quebec last year unless the government acts to help them."

Earlier, Gloria Fulton, an executive member of the Voice of Women, said:

"What the War Measures Act did achieve was a further separation between English Canada and Quebec."

Integrated Service Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — An integrated transcontinental passenger- train service, trimmed of wasteful duplication, should be on the rails by late 1972, says the Canadian transport commission.

But before that target date the commission plans public hearings on ways of integrating transcontinental service of Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The commission's comments came Thursday in a summary of proposals for consolidating CNR and CP Rail facilities, such as stations and ticket offices, and reducing off-season train capacity.

The commission also broke new ground in offering to consider job security costs as an expense item in railway claims for subsidy. It was concerned about the effect of integration on railway employment.

The report drew generally favorable reaction from railway unions and management. Spokesmen for CP Rail and the Canadian Railway Labor Association said the commission seemed to be moving in the right direction in solving transcontinental passenger train problems.

The commission earlier this year ordered CP Rail and the CNR to continue operating their transcontinental trains, now losing about $30 million annually. The trains were declared uneconomic by the commission and are eligible for a federal subsidy of up to 80 per cent of annual losses.

The commission turned down recommendations for reducing summer service because transcontinental trains are heavily used in the months of June, July and August.

It also said that both the CNR and CP Rail should continue operating transcontinental trains.

The report outlined suggestions for route changes in the off-season, including single trains operated by CP Rail from Montreal to North Bay, Ont., and by the CNR from Toronto to North Bay. Both railways now run trains from Montreal and Toronto.

Another suggestion was that both railways could continue operating on their own lines to Vancouver from North Bay. But there could be alternate-day service on stations between North Bay and Kamloops, B.C., with trains using the CP Rail route one day and the CNR line the next.

The commission said it is studying proposals for common ticket and reservation offices across Canada. There could also be a common fare scheme with ticket interchangeable between the two railways.

Auto Wrecks Said to Be Getting More Recent and Less Valuable

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Cars are being made cheaper and cheaper every year and the only thing that's improving other than safety features, are the engines, says Mrs. Mary Lloyst, bookkeeper for Hillcrest Auto Wreckers.

In fact, with more and more plastic and cardboard ingredients being incorporated into North American car bodies the staff at Belleville's largest wrecking yard has turned in their 1970 and 1971 automobiles and bought 1968s, claiming they are better built vehicles.

Indicating the grills of three two-year-old cars, Brendan Lucas who manages the yard with his father, pointed to the plastic component, and said "no wonder the price of scrap keeps going down."

With an annual turnover of 500 scrap cars, the yard says each vehicle averages only $3. to the crushing company. It's about $6. a ton now; the price keeps going down."

It's rather discouraging, he says, because at that price, the sale of 500 scrap vehicles doesn't bring enough money nowadays to purchase one regular-size new American or Canadian family car.

"Three years ago, it was more than double that", Mr. Lucas said. In 1967, Hillcrest Auto Wreckers received $13,500 for their 500-car allotment. In 1969, the figure dropped to $10,000 and in June of this year, they received $3,150.

Mrs. Lloyst says their business was predominantly that of scrap years ago, "but we had to change. Now we concentrate on supplying good parts to body shops."

Their annual turnover in parts and scrap now amounts to more than $150,000.

Years ago, wrecking yards in the Quinte area bought up any scrap car, but with the emphasis now on good body and engine parts, people wanting to dispose of their old flivvers are getting turned away at the yard door in many cases. If their hulks are bought, they don't get away with much more than $5, although prices for non-running cars can range up into the $20 mark.

Although the city calls the yards in come and take away front-yard wrecks and street derelicts, it doesn't pay to get these cars free, she said.

Working on a base of $3. it isn't worth the effort of sending men and a truck to pick up the scrap car, outfit it with tires and haul it down to the lot. "Usually the young lads have removed anything we might sell, so it goes right into the back lot, waiting for the bulldozer".

Most dealers won't look at a worn out car if it's over seven years old. Beyond that point there is little profit to be made from parts.

And with cheaper and thinner bodies — 200 pounds lighter than three years ago — "scrap isn't going to be worth anything" in a few years."

Mrs. Lloyst says much of the reason for drop in value rests with the large scrap dealers. Companies from Toronto who used to come in and almost beg for waste metal, are now no longer interested. The market has fallen to smaller, local companies who don't pay as much for the old cars.

They now deduct about 25 per cent of the weight of each load for the plastic and cardboard waste.

It's because of this that the Hillcrest owners and employees have traded in their 1970 and newer-model cars for the most they believe to be better built 1969 models. They claim the metal and paint are better then. Indicating pre - 1969 cars scattered throughout the lot, Mr. Lucas said rust forms quicker on newer cars than older models.

They predict 1971 cars will be good for little more than scrap within five years. "This is to be a safe car and one that isn't rattling apart".

The little old lady from Pasadena that only drives her car once a week to wrestling matches, is likely to command a better price for her A-1 jalopy than the driver of a worn-out three-year-old.

The man who polishes his buggy to a hard shine every weekend, but finds the engine shot, will be in a worse position than the smooth-running rust bucket, claims Mrs. Lloyst. If the engine runs smoothly, it's worth buying for parts.

Three 1969-model taxis sitting in the front row, look impeccable, more or less, but aren't worth rejuvenating. Required to be certified as cabs, the cars are simply not worth reconditioning.

They'll be sold for parts and scrapped within a year or, two.

Mrs. Lloyst claims she can judge what car manufacturers have done each year in improving sales in their vehicles, by recording the parts most often purchased.

One year, she says, most manufacturers of American cars made oil seals extremely awkward to get at. Because of this the seals in the engines manufactured that particular years, aren't worth repairing.

In 1969, thermostat housings were built to break down, she says. Most 1969 models in the wrecking yard have had these housings stripped within hours of arriving at the scrap lot.

45 Cents A Month Here

Bell Requests Rate Increase

The charge for having a residential telephone could go up 45 cents a month in Bell Canada Belleville's exchange areas under new rate increases being sought by the company.

Bell released the new schedule today, as it announced it was applying to the Canadian Transport Commission for approval of rate increases in all aspects of its telephone business.

The main feature of its proposed rate schedule is a 9½ per cent increase in the cost of basic monthly service —the monthly rental charge for having a telephone.

This increase, said Bell, would apply to business and residential phones in the majority of communities the company serves — in Ontario, Quebec, Labrador, and the Northwest Territories.

Belleville $4.80 ($5.25); Bancroft, $4.05 ($4.45); Madoc $4.05 ($4.45); Marmora, $3.85 ($4.20); Tweed, $4.05 ($4.45).

"Bell's costs," says a company announcement, "like everyone else's have gone up, and . . . expenses have outstripped revenues under its present rate schedule."

Bell's increases are charged according to the number of phones they can reach without paying a long distance charge, and in relation to the distances between associated exchanges.

The new schedule would also include a 10-cent monthly increase in the cost of residence extensions and a $15.50 increase for business extensions. Optional items, such as Princess and Touch-tone sets would go up 10 cents for residential and 75 cents for business installations.

Long distance rates would go up one cent on the initial minute of a call dialed directly by the customer and one cent per minute of overtime on all calls.

The general range of the increase for individual residence telephones would be from 35 to 80 cents, depending upon the size of the community served.

Exceptions would be some of the communities surrounding metropolitan areas of Toronto and Montreal, where the increase would be as little as a nickel and Windsor and Quebec City where it would be 85 cents.

The variations would stem from a major regrouping of exchange areas that Bell proposed to discuss during the hearings the CTC will hold on its application.

One aspect of Bell's current application to the CTC is a request for interim rate revisions to take effect Jan. 1. The balance would come later — "at the earliest possible date."

Main features of the interim schedule is a one per cent increase, rounded out to the nearest nickel. Translated in to money terms it would mean a five-cent monthly increase for all basic residential service and a five-to-20 cent increase in basic business service.

The company says because

Hunt Slow So Far

Deer hunting appears off to a slow start in favorite area hauls.

Weather, perhaps fewer deer and hunters are among the factors, says a department of lands and forests spokesman.

Weather is finer than usual — Tweed had its first killing frost Wednesday night when the temperature dropped to 26 degrees; the low at Bancroft was 24 and Plevna, the lowest with 22.

Many hunters prefer snow on the ground since it aids in tracking the game.

Also with finer weather, deer populations remained scattered and have not yet started to centralize in winter feeding areas, known as yards.

"The deer are dispersed over the whole summer range yet," said the spokesman.

In the first two days since the 1971 Quinte season opened Monday, 886 hunters had been checked throughout the department's Tweed division and had killed 52 deer. Of these, 18 were bucks, 24 does and nine fawns.

An expected high death rate among the deer population during last winter's heavy snowfalls may not have occurred, since fewer carcasses than anticipated were found during spring surveys by game wardens.

However, because of poor feeding conditions and harsher weather, deer may have borne fewer fawns than usual. If so, this could affect future seasons.

of time involved in debating and applying new rates they couldn't possibly be in effect for the whole of 1972. The company says it is facing a downturn in earnings next year, partly because of increases in wages and benefits, and the interim rates would bring in enough revenue to at least cover them.

In the overall package Bell is presenting to the CTC, the basic residential telephone bill in metropolitan areas such as Montreal and Toronto, would go up a total of 60 cents a month, to $6.65 from $5.05. In small towns such as Algoma Mills and Williamsburg in Ontario, and Fortierville and St. Zenon in Quebec, the increase would be 55 cents, and the new rate $4.20 instead of $3.85. The even smaller towns which would be reclassified under Bell's exchange regrouping proposals would have their bills increased by 60 cents a month to fit into this $4.20 group.

The over-all increase in revenues would amount to $78.1 million if the proposed rates were in effect for the whole of 1972. Bell estimates that this would result in an 8.2 per cent return on average total capital if it were in effect for the whole of next year — the minimum with which it could work effectively.

Without increased tariffs, Bell's rate of return would be about 7.0 per cent.

The company says it must have the additional revenues to meet current and projected needs of its subscribers and to provide a rate of return sufficient to attract the vast amounts of capital it requires.

The company estimates the revenues from the interim increases would give it a 7.72 rate of return on total capital of approximately 7.4 per cent — about the same as in 1971.

In 1970, Bell Canada has net earnings of $133,202,000, representing $3.32 per common and had killed 52 deer. Of these, 18 were bucks, 24 does and nine fawns.

An expected high death rate among the deer population during last winter's heavy snowfalls may not have occurred, since fewer carcasses than anticipated were found during spring surveys by game wardens.

However, because of poor feeding conditions and harsher weather, deer may have borne fewer fawns than usual. If so, this could affect future seasons.

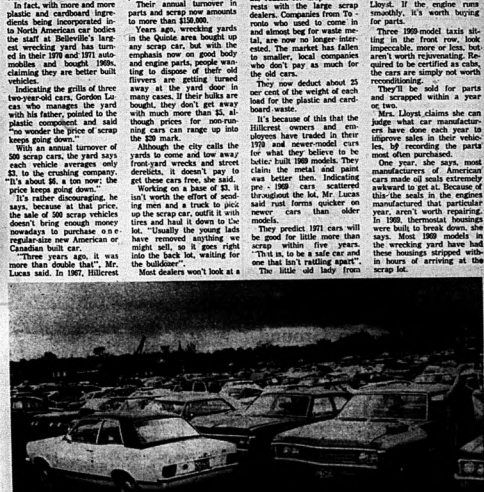
approved by the CTC, and that despite productivity gains expenses are galloping as far ahead of revenues that 1972 earnings will fall drastically.

The company's application notes, the imbedded cost of debt — as the percentage of $1,540,000,000 that it owes — has risen from 4.9 per cent in 1966 to 5.7 per cent in 1970 and is expected to reach 6.3 per cent in 1972. Cost of new debt money in 1971 was about 8 per cent.

The operating ratio, or the percentage of revenues absorbed by operating expenses, was 62 per cent in 1970 and is expected to reach 63 percent this year and 66 per cent in 1972 with present telephone rates. This high level had not been experienced since 1969.

Bell will spend nearly half a billion dollars this year on the development of its physical plant, and this is expected to rise to $525,000,000 in 1972. The company says it will require large amounts of capital from outside sources to meet the bill and to turn over large blocks of debt coming due and that it can only attract the money it needs on reasonable terms by earnings of from 8.2 per cent to 9 per cent.



The rate regrouping proposals being made by Bell stem from a suggestion it originally made in 1966.

Communities are regularly being grouped upwards as their populations grow and subscribers can reach a greater number of telephones without having to pay a long distance charge.

Bell has applied twice for a general rate increase in recent years. In 1967 it made its first such application in a decade, asking for $53.6 million. The Canadian Transport Commission allowed the company only $27.5 million, and limited the increases to long distance, a variety of service charges and a new charge for unlisted numbers.

The company returned to the CTC in 1970 asking for $30,000,000 to help fund its ailing costs, and was granted $22,500,000 applicable to a broad range of basic services. The increases ranged from 16 cents for residential service in small towns to 70 cents for business telephones in some suburbs of Toronto and Montreal.

Fox Shot, Rabies Suspected

An Elmwood Drive family is keeping a close eye on its pet dog after the animal was repeatedly attacked last night by what may have been a rabid fox.

The carcass of the fox now is being held for federal government laboratory tests which will reveal if the fox was rabid.

Only this week Dr. C. R. Lenk health officer for Hastings and Prince Edward counties warned against the disease being spread by foxes. Two Demorestville children already are receiving daily anti-rabies shots after it was feared they were bitten by a rabid dog.

Scene of the incident was the home of Albert Short. Seven of the Short children, aged 8-17 — were in the house at the time when their dog began attacking the dog, a part retriever.

The fox was first spotted by Mrs. Short about 5 p.m. when she returned from shopping.

At first, she thought it was another dog annoying the family pet and couldn't say how long the fox had been there when she noticed it was too bushy." she said.

The Shorts aren't certain if the dog was bitten but are keeping it tied up under observation.

The fox made different attempts to attack him — but we don't know if he made any contact. As soon as we realized what it was we phoned the woman down the road and told her to call her children in."

There was a .22 gauge rifle and a shotgun in the house at the time, but Mr. Short was away and his wife did not know how to use them.

She phoned police who suggested the immediately contact conservationist George Woodhouse who lives nearby, while officers were being dispatched to the scene.

Mr. Woodhouse hurriedly answered the call and shot the fox.

This morning, he was holding the carcass for local federal government veterinarians who will later forward it to laboratories in Hull, Que., to determine if the animal was rabid.

Mrs. Short said the family pet is constantly tied up and it will be watched until results of the tests are received.

They have also warned neighbors to keep their animals from running at large, she said.

Dr. Lenk, who earlier this week warned against cold weather forcing rabid wildlife closer to urban areas, said today dogs posed an easier problem to tackle since they could be kept tied, up and watched.

Cats, however, are more natural wanderers and spread their activities over a larger area.

"There's nothing that can be done about it I'm afraid", he added. "But at least if the public keeps it in mind and lets the authorities know if the cats start behaving in some unusual way, it can be a help," he said.

Fishing Derby Results Late

PICTON (Staff) — Entrants in the fishing derby sponsored annually in Prince Edward County remain on the hook as officials struggle to compile final results.

Al Owen, operator of Baycrest Marina and president of the Quinte's Isle Tourist Association, is responsible for the derby, changed to a seasonal event under new sponsorship, this year has fewer contestants.

In past years the derby was promoted by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce during the Victoria Day weekend in May. A new area was added each year and each division and prizes distributed.

The chamber decided this year to turn the project over to the QITA with a promise of assistance.

It was agreed to extend the derby throughout the fishing season and five prize catefories were announced.

Mrs. Owen observed, "This was thrown in our laps too suddenly and we didn't have time enough to work out controversial details such as the possibility of purchasing tickets after catching a fish."

Mr. Owen said the QITA did not get the results it should have received from the derby, particularly because of promotion problems.

Publicity is offered strictly at the local level but the sole reason for the derby is to publicize the area and bring tourists here.

Mr. Owen added that he has been approached by local residents to compete. Tickets for the derby were sold this year but fewer contestants.

Boy Dies Of Injuries

An eight-year-old Belleville boy, run over Monday afternoon while playing in the parking lot of his North Park St. home died yesterday afternoon at Belleville General Hospital.

Martin McIlmoyle was crushed beneath the rear wheel of a car when he fell from the vehicle. He had been hanging on to the left door handle of a car driven by Brian Bonisteel of Cedar Dale Crescent, when Payne moved the vehicle forward.

Police say there is a possibility that an inquest will be held into the boys death.

Chiefs' Otis Taylor Half Way to Best Receiving Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At the halfway point in the National Football League schedule, flankier Otis Taylor of Kansas City Chiefs is half way to matching his pass performance of 58 catches for 1,297 yards in 1968.

Taylor never topped 1,000 yards after that season although he came close the following year with 958. After that he suffered a pulled groin muscle and slipped to the 600-yard plateau.

Last week, with 70 yards against Oakland Raiders, Taylor passed his 1970 total of 618 yards and now, with 30 catches in seven games, has 948 yards, good for second spot among American Football Conference receivers.

The NFL weekly statistics show Bill Parks of San Diego Chargers the leader in number of passes caught—with 33, but Parks has gained only 497 yards for a 15.1-yard average while Taylor's average is 21.6.

Most important, however, is that the Chiefs know they can count on Taylor to make a big catch when it's needed.

The six-foot-three receiver credits the Kansas City offensive line.

"I think we can throw to anyone if Lenny (quarterback Len Dawson) is given enough time," he said, "and the way our linemen have been playing, they've been doing the job and that's the big secret."

As a result, Dawson has been near the top in the list of AFC leading passers most of the season. The leader last week, he dropped to second this week in the NFL rating system based on percentage of passes completed, interceptions, touchdowns and yardage.

Bob Griese of Miami Dolphins has taken over the lead with 71 passes completed in 139 throws, 11 touchdowns, 1,142 yards gained and only three interceptions.

Dawson has hit on 81 of 153 pass attempts for 1,264 yards, eight touchdowns and had seven intercepted.

Bill Kilmer of Washington Redskins leads the National Conference passers with 81 completions in 137 throws for 1,154 yards and seven touchdowns with five interceptions.

Second among NFC quarterbacks is Roger Staubach of Dallas Cowboys, having completed 43 of 72 attempts for 633 yards, five touchdowns and three interceptions.

Offence Often Undid Ticat Defensive Work

HAMILTON (CP) — Coaches of the two teams that meet here Sunday in the Eastern Football Conference sudden-death semi-final have seen their teams undergo significant changes during the last couple of weeks.

Coaches Al Dorow of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Jack Gotta of Ottawa Rough Riders have apparently saved their jobs in the immediate future by reaching post-season play at the expense of Montreal Alouettes, last year's national champions.

Both clubs had less than spectacular seasons but showed signs of recovery late in the schedule. The Ticats scored a 25-15 victory over Toronto Argonauts Sunday to take second spot and the Riders edged Montreal 9-7 Saturday to squeeze into third place.

But both are experiencing long-term problems as they prepare for the game that will qualify the winner to meet Toronto in the two-game, total-point EFC final starting Sunday, Nov. 14.

Dorow's biggest grief is getting an offence that can keep pace with the defence. Gotta's problem has been acquiring Canadian talent to replace lost after Ottawa's 1969 Grey Cup victory.

The Hamilton defence has been nothing less than spectacular in recent games and over the schedule turned the ball over to the offence 65 times, including 34 fumble recoveries to set a Canadian Football League mark.

The 1953 Winnipeg Blue Bombers set the previous standard of 32.

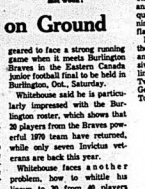
"Most of those fumbles were the result of aggressive hard-hitting football," said Dorow.

The Ticat offence, however, was prone to giving the ball over to the opposition. Opponents intercepted 25 Hamilton passes and recovered 14 fumbles, giving the Ticats a plus 26 in the turnover department.

Turnovers mean little, however, unless the offence can capitalize, as the Riders proved during their last visit to Hamilton. They turned the ball over to the Ticats 10 times in that game, including seven fumbles and an interception in the first half, yet walked off 40-16 victors.

And since the Hamilton defenders accounted for nine touchdowns this season, six on fumble recoveries and three by pass interceptions—one-third the Ticats' total TD output, Dorow has reason to be concerned going against Ottawa's rejuvenated Rough Riders.

There were few, if any, who would have given the Riders any chance of making the playoffs as they wallowed along in the CFL cellar at mid-season.



But a sudden rivals, sparked by quarterback Rick Cassata and the arrival of fullback Bob (Hoss) Houmard, moved the Ottawans into high gear and they put 94 points on the scoreboard their last three games.

But Gotta realizes the talent he's working with, particularly the scant number of starting Canadians which leaves his bench rather shallow.

He knows championship clubs are built on Canadian talent as well as outstanding imports. Canadians were a mainstay of the Riders' championship clubs during the 1960s.

"Take a look at the roster of our 1969 Grey Cup team," he recalled in an interview Thursday. There were 11 starting Canadians on that club, including quarterback Russ Jackson, running back Ron Stewart and flanker Whit Tucker, all retired.

Nine in all have departed, either by trades or retirement, and the only two left are offensive tackle Moe Racine and linebacker Wayne Giardino. Two others, defensive halfback Gene Gaines and offensive end Tom Pullen are with Montreal.

"Coach makes him wear it. Says his helmet don't fit anymore after three knockouts last week?"

Gotta Admits Error

OTTAWA (CP) — It wasn't until Rick Cassata became the starting quarterback that Ottawa Rough Riders embarked on a three-game winning streak and earned a playoff spot in the Eastern Football Conference.

Coach Jack Gotta revealed this week that his two assistant coaches, Jay Fry and George Brancato, favored dumping Gary Wood and giving Cassata job a six-month earlier.

"I kept waiting for Gary to come along," said Gotta. "Had I given it a month earlier, we might not have been life-and-death to make the playoffs."

Cassata first played Canadian ball with Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers. But he was the second-string quarterback both times.

When he takes to the field with Riders Sunday afternoon for the sudden-death semi-final against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, it will be the first time he has started in post-season game as a quarterback.

Cassata left Regina when it became apparent he wasn't going to dislodge Ron Lancaster for his job. At Winnipeg he played second fiddle to Wally Gabler.

He came to Ottawa this season when he was assured by Gotta that the quarterback job was his if he could earn it.

He gave 14 interceptions this season and this appeared to be the biggest knock against him. His strength was his ability to run and shake up the defence.

Cassata carried the ball 65 times this year averaging six yards a carry. His longest gain was 58 yards.

Braves Big on Ground

MONTREAL (CP) — Reg Whitehouse, coach of Verdun Invictus, says his team will be geared to face a strong running game when it meets Burlington Braves in the Eastern Canada Junior football final to be held in Burlington, Ont., Saturday.

Whitehouse said he is particularly impressed with the Burlington outfit, which shows that 20 players from the Braves powerful 1970 team have returned, while only seven Invictus veterans are back this year.

Whitehouse faces another problem, how to whittle his lineup to 30 from 40 players without causing dissension.

League rules allowed Invictus to dress 40 players for regular-season play, but they must pare their lineup by 10 for the finals.

Turf Coming

TORONTO (CP) — The CNE Stadium, home of Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, may have artificial turf installed sooner than expected.

Health Minister John Munro has advised CNE officials the federal government may contribute $50,000 of the cost if the stadium is made available for amateur athletics.

The Canadian National Exhibition Association's executive committee agreed to recommend today that Metro council install the turf at a cost of $250,000 to $400,000.

Band Leader Picked Right Time to Call Rewarding Tune

TORONTO (CP) — Band Leader, who finished last by 23 lengths in a field of 11 horses in his last outing at Greenwood racetrack won the $25,000 Thursday and paid a whopping $187, $45 and $16.20.

"The only thing that might have helped him was the track," said trainer Ted Mann. "It was fast, and the last time it was muddy.

Coming from far off the pace, jockey Robin Platts rode Band Leader down the middle to finish a half-length in front of Late Frost. Lonzy Floyd Mangrove was third.

The daily double of Country Coup and Celtic Glory paid $186.10, and the sixth-race exacta of Takavor and Ivy's Prince returned $215.50.

The fifth race was declared a dead heat between Highland Myth and Octaurus. Highland Myth, ridden by Lloyd Duffy, paid $4, $4.60 and $3.20 while Octaurus, ridden by Ted Colangelo paid $5.30, $5.70 and $4.40.

A crowd of 6,033 attended.

Trevino Credits Lead to Driver

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "I'm just driving it so straight I can't help but score good. I get on some of them narrow holes and just automatically go to the old driver and hit it right down the middle."

Lee Trevino, admittedly "a little weary," was holding forth after shooting a seven-under-par 65 Thursday for a three-stroke lead in the first round of the Mexican National open golf tournament.

Trevino, a heavy favorite to add this national title to his collection of British, American and Canadian Open crowns, didn't miss a fairway and didn't miss a green in his stunning effort over the 7,174-yard Club de Golf course, called by many pros one of the world's best.

The only amateur among the leaders was Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont. The 23-year-old reigning United States amateur champion was six strokes off the pace at 71.

Al Balding of Toronto was well down in the field at 81.

Three rookies back of Trevino and tied for second in the event were Becky Thompson and veteran Billy Maxwell, along with Mexico's Juan Neri and Ernesto Perez Acosta and Angel Gallardo of Spain.

Record Ride For Jones

ENSENADA, Mexico (AP) — Parnelli Jones, veteran race car driver and owner, captured the Mexican 1,000 off-road race Thursday in record time.

Jones, former winner of the Indianapolis 500, drove a specially-built Ford Bronco over the 825-mile course in 14 hours 59 minutes, starting at Ensenada and finishing at La Paz.

Jones, 36, from Palos Verdes, Calif. had Bill Stroppe, 53, of Long Beach, Calif., as his navigator.

They bettered the record of 16:07 set last year by Drino Miller and Vic Wilson of Costa Mesa, Calif., in a Volkswagen-powered dune buggy.

Vachon Worth Four

MONTREAL (CP) — Earlier this week goaltender Rogatien Vachon told Montreal Canadiens to "play me or trade me." Someone in the National Hockey League club's front office took heed.

Vachon is en route to Los Angeles today, where he may find more work than he bargained for.

In return, the Kings gave up goalie Denis DeJordy, defencemen Dale Hoganson and Noel Price and forward Doug Robinson.

Los Angeles has given up 48 goals in 12 games since the season started.

The Montreal club announced that DeJordy and Hoganson were to report immediately to the Canadiens, while Price and Robinson were to catch up with Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League.

Dryden, last year's Conn Smythe Trophy winner as most valuable player in the Stanley Cup playoffs, had grabbed the No. 1 spot. He appeared in all 20 playoff games that led to Montreal's Stanley Cup victory last spring and has played all but 20 minutes of the Canadiens' 11 games this season.

Vachon worked that 20 minutes in New York and allowed four third-period goals as the Rangers beat Montreal 8-4.

Vachon, 26, came to the Canadiens in 1968-69 when he played 19 games after little experience with the now-defunct Quebec Aces of the AHL and Hull-Ottawa Apollos of the Central Hockey League.

The following season he shared the Vezina Trophy with veteran Lorne (Gump) Worsley. Vachon played in 39 games that season and posted a 2.48 goals-against average and four shutouts.

He was a key figure in the Canadiens' Stanley Cup triumph of 1968-69 with a 1.42 average in eight playoff games.

DeJordy, 33, comes to Montreal after almost two seasons with the Kings. He went to Los Angeles in February 1970 from Chicago Black Hawks. While with the Hawks in 1966-67, he shared the Vezina Trophy with now-retired Glenn Hall.

Bush Could Coach Hamilton in WHA

TORONTO (CP) — Excavation for a new $5-million arena in Hamilton to accommodate an entry in the World Hockey Association may start by Dec. 1.

Jim McCreath, 23, one of two Toronto men bidding for a franchise, said Thursday arrangements have been made to build a 10,000-seat arena on a 14-acre piece of property in the southeast end of Hamilton.

Associated with McCreath in the venture is Doug Michel, president of Smith and Long, Toronto electrical contractors.

McCreath added, however, that nothing is final.

"Actually, everything is still a bit nebulous but things have been moving so well for us that we can't see anything to stop it."

McCreath said the property owned by Basil Griffiths of St., Catharines has not been purchased.

It is valued at $60,000 an acre but "that's no problem", McCreath said. The owner is on vacation in Barbados.

He said Hamilton Mayor Vic Copps is very enthusiastic and that the area has already been zoned for the arena.

"The minute we get the franchise, we start to dig," McCreath said.

McCreath said that Eddie Bush, former National Hockey League player and coach of Hamilton Junior Red Wings, is being considered as manager-coach.

"We're not going to raid the NHL but when a player's contract has ended, we'll talk to him. We're going after players."

Awrey Shines for Bruins; Sabres Roar Back on Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The spotlight doesn't focus on Don Awrey all that much, what with playing in the shadows of Orr, Esposito, Green and such.

In fact, the Boston Bruins defenceman goes about his business in such a methodical fashion he's known as the quiet man of the National Hockey League club's defence corps.

But he proved again Thursday night why he's such a solid force in the Bruin fortunes, coming up with key plays as the Bruins rolled 6-1 over St. Louis Blues.

In the only other game, Buffalo Sabres came from four goals down to tie Detroit 4-4 and remain two points ahead of big Red Wings in their East-Division battle for sixth place.

The Bruins got two goals each from veteran John Bucyk and 21-year-old Reg Leach and were ahead 6-0 in the dying moments when Frank St. Marseille spoiled goaltender Gerry Cheevers's shutout with 20 seconds left in the game.

But Cheevers, who turned aside 30 other shots, got a lot of help from blueliner Awrey, especially in the first period when with team-mate Dallas Smith in the penalty box.

The hustling Kitchener, Ont., native dropped in front of the St. Louis shots before they could reach Cheevers as the Blues put on their best shorthanded effort of the night but were unable to dent the 2-0 margin Bruins held at that point.

Quiet and modest, Awrey, who attracted few votes in last year's all-star poll, believes in letting his skating and checking talk for him.

To this end, he observes, it's necessary to work a lot harder between games.

"Working hard is all-important in this game," he said following a workout at Boston. "If you don't work hard in practice you can't do it in a game."

Meanwhile, coach Tom Johnson has a pleasant problem: What to do with three kids who believe the goose is to score.

Leach and his linemates, centre Ivon Boldirev, 23, and left wing Carol Bailey, 23, accounted for three goals while seeing only part-time action as the fourth attacking unit.

"I guess the only way I'll be able to keep them on the bench is to tell them to stop scoring," Johnson said jokingly.

"They're doing everything well. . . They're young, aggressive and hungry . . . forechecking, hitting and backchecking. You can't ask for much more."

After a scoreless 20 minutes the Red Wings appeared geared to give now coach Johnny Wilson his first victim as they roared into a 4-0 lead by 12:32 of the second period on the strength of two goals by Bill Collins and a goal and two assists from linemate Nick Libett.

But the Sabres recovered and scored two of their own before the period ended, including rookie Richard Martin's 10th of the season, and tied it up on Danny Lawson's score at 17:49 of the third period.

Wilson, who replaced Doug Barkley behind the Red Wing bench last Sunday and saw his team drop a 6-1 score in Toronto the next night, had the Detroiters working strenuously through the week for the Buffalo game.

The Wings peppered Buffalo goalie Roger Crozier with 14 shots in the first period and 15 more in the second but apparently ran out of steam. They could manage only five in the last period while the Sabres came on strong for the tie.

Buffalo returns home tonight against Philadelphia Flyers with two games going on the West Coast. New York Rangers against California Golden Seals and Pittsburgh Penguins against Vancouver Canucks.

Elgin Baylor Ends Basketball Career

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elgin Baylor announced his retirement from pro basketball Thursday, ending a 13-year career as a forward with Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

Baylor said: "I had hoped to end my career after one last successful season. Out of fairness to the team, to the Lakers and to myself, I have always wanted to perform on the court up to the level and up to the standards that I have established throughout my career.

"I do not want to prolong my career at a time when I cannot maintain these standards."

Baylor, six-foot-five and 225 pounds, figured in some great scoring feats. He scored 71 points against New York Knicks on Nov. 15, 1960, and in one seven-game span the next year he averaged 63.5 as the Lakers won all seven.

Baylor was named to the NBA All-Star squad on 10 occasions and in 1959 he was named rookie of the year.

Cazzie Russell keeps scoring the new Golden State Warriors in the National Basketball Association.

The former Michigan All-American sank a 16-foot jumper with five seconds to play that gave the Warriors a 98-96 victory over Seattle SuperSonics Thursday night for their fifth in a row and first place in the Pacific Division.

Russell finished with 19 points, seven of them coming in the closing minutes to follow up his pro career high of 43 against Baltimore Bullets Tuesday.

Jeff Mullins was high for the Warriors with 22 while Spencer Haywood of Seattle was high for the game with 31.

A three-point play by rookie Sidney Wicks with 12 seconds left gave Portland Trail Blazers a 112-110 victory over Houston Rockets in the other game.

Wicks, an All-American at UCLA last season, was fouled while making a basket from the corner and sank the free throw. That gave Portland a five-point lead at 111-106 and offset two baskets by Elvin Hayes at the Rockets in the closing seconds.

Wicks finished with 31 points, 20 of them in the second half. Hayes led Houston with 28.

EDMONTON (CP) — The helmet recommended by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is not the best available, Clare Drake, coach of the Canadian college hockey all-star team said Thursday.

He said there are hockey helmets on the market which give better protection to the back of the skull and the temple than the highly promoted Patterson helmet.

He said in an interview he considers the helmet a good $5 value but objects to company statements that it is worth from $15 to $30.

HOUSTON (AP) — Buster Mathis opened his training camp Thursday for his Nov. 17 fight against Muhammad Ali in the Astrodome and cautioned against underestimating the 15 round match.

"Don't take this fight so lightly, fellows," said Mathis, who gave his weight as 265.

Mathis has been inactive since March 24, 1969, when he lost to Jerry Quarry in New York.

Mathis' record is 29-2, including 23 knockouts. Ali is 32-1.

All arrives Saturday night and holds his first workout Sunday.

Seven Spells Success

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Jack Canning didn't get to be the best five-pin bowler in the city on seven games a week. But that's all that's keeping him there.

"I can remember the Saturday nights I'd bowl 22 games," the chartered accountant says when queried about his current 270 average, tops in the city.

"But now I'm only bowling in two leagues — the Classic and Major A."

As Canning sees his sport, once you get to a certain point you've got it made, barring injury or something similar.

"A good bowler just throws the ball the same way every time. He may change his spot, but he still uses the same grip and follow - through," Canning analyzed.

"I don't see why you couldn't average over 300 if you were doing it for a living. What's the difference between a 270 and 300? A missed corner pin or headpin."

Canning's current perch atop the Bowl-O-Drome's list of "Big Seven" five - pinners is no flash in the pan. A 269.1 average won for him in the 1967-68 season.

"It was the first in the city to break 260 — now I'd like to be the first to break 270," he says.

Although he's never rolled a perfect 450 game, or won a major local city tournament, Canning has had his share of bowling excitement since getting a part - time job as a Bowl - O - Drome pin - boy 22 years ago.

Back in 1960 he enjoyed a three-week stint on the CBC's O'Connor Bowl match series from Toronto, and he rolled 400 games for three straight seasons, from 1966-69.

Before this year, his best season's average was a 264.

Today, it's pushing 271, and unless he falls through a trapdoor in one of the Bowl-O-Drome alleys, Jack Canning won't have to bowl 22 games a night to keep it there.

Top Tumbler

Jack Canning has been tumbling five-pins at a better clip than any other city bowler. The Belleville accountant sports a 270 average and hopes to be the first bowler in city history to average that score over a season.

Even Fast Cabbies Can't Catch Hotelmen

It's tough to catch a taxi in the Quinte hockey league, but even tougher to tear down a hotel. Central Taxi took an 8-4 win from Slinson Construction last night but failed to gain any ground on Belvedere Hotelmen who took a 7-1 decision from Reid's Dairy.

Ted Schwager and Dwight Rathwell were top trigger men for Central, netting two goals each. Grant Hagerman added a goal and three assists with the others going to Wayne Brown, Doug Bolte and Terry Casselman.

For the losers Ted Waite counted a goal and three assists with Phil Meeks adding two goals and Doug Jodoin scoring the other. Slinson's drew five of the game's nine major penalties.

A hat trick performance from Bill Goodfellow paced Belvedere to their third win in as many games. Elmer Cain and Gerry Jones each added two goals and as many helpers to round out the scoring for the defending league champions.

Joe Clarke spoiled the shutout bid of Belvedere netminder Claude Carr by scoring with less than two minutes left to play in the game. Each team drew six penalties.

Quintes Hope to Stick by Old Saying

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Before the current Ontario Hockey Association Senior A schedule began, Belleville coach Gene Poirier recalled an old sport saying: "A team that wins all its home games and one on the road should finish in first place."

The adage doesn't hold true in all leagues, but even in the eight-team Ontario senior group that sort of record is a cinch to put a team in the playoffs.

And going into a 9 p.m. Memorial Arena game with visiting Orillia Terriers tonight, that's exactly what the Quintes have done.

Their four home victories and one in Owen Sound leave the Belleville seniors with a 5-3 record, and that's good enough for second place in the standings approaching the quarter - pole of the 48-game schedule.

Tonight's game with the Terriers looms large for the Quintes who are only four points behind league-leading Galt Hornets, slid enjoy two games in hand. But three teams — Oakville, Kingston and Barrie — are breathing right down their necks with eight points each.

Faces to watch tonight include Steve Rexe, whose 2.12 goals-against average makes him the senior league's top goaltender; Doug Senior, last year's leading club point-getter who will be making his first appearance of the season after signing this week; and Archie McLennan, a right wing tryout from Lethbridge, Alberta who stepped off in Belleville this week after being cut by Syracuse Blazers.

In addition to revealing Rexe's current reign over the league goalkeepers, the latest statistics show Belleville linemates Georges Godseur (four goals, nine assists) and Al Ferguson (eight goals, four assists) are still among the top 10 league scorers.

Leading the pack is Barrie Flyers' Doug Acomb, who played professional hockey in Toronto Maple Leafs' farm system last year, who has 15 points on seven goals and eight assists.

This year again an early winter is anticipated, a great amount of work and planning still has to be done, to get everything ready. Unfortunately, along with the work, a fair amount of money has had to be spent, for equipment and parts which will make an increase in our rates inevitable. However, for the 1971-72 season, the rates remain the same as last year's rates. Come out and get your season ticket now. Remember, last season many had to be turned down in record overcrowding.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three X's. X for the two O's. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

G U W N W R F Q Y G U W L R Z Q C G U W
G N X Y F M N V F F Q N D F U R N J D F
T W P R E F W D G ' F F Q P N Q L F W J . - S D Y
U E T T R N J

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: BE DISCREET IN ALL THINGS, AND SO RENDER IT UNNECESSARY TO BE MYSTERIOUS-ABOUT ANY.—FIRST DUKE OF WELLINGTON

Liberals Attacked for Offending U.S. and for Being Too Meek

OTTAWA (CP) — Has the government been wrecking traditional friendly relations with the United States, or has it been sitting idly as the economy becomes ever more dependent on U.S. business?

Opposition MPs took both sides of the question in the Commons Thursday as they wound up a two-day debate on a Conservative non-confidence motion on U.S.-Canada relations.

Liberal MPs who sometimes disagreed among themselves—were quick to observe that the motion itself seemed to offer both contradictory views.

Proposed by Heath Macquarrie (PC—Hillsborough), it called on the House to condemn the government for deterioration of communication with Washington and failing to employ and improve relations with the United States on the one hand, and for failing to produce a new policy that "would strengthen our independence," on the other.

The motion was defeated 134 to 80, with Conservatives supported by nine Social Creditors and Paul Hellyer (Ind L—Toronto Trinity). Roch LaSalle (Ind—Joliette) and 17 New Democrats sided with the Liberals.

A New Democrat amendment deleting the reference to the need for improved relations with the United States was defeated 130 to 36, with only the NDP and Social Creditors supporting it.

Standing in the 264-seat House: Liberal 150, Conservative 71, NDP 31, Social Credit 13, Independent two, Independent Liberal one, vacant three.

MPs debated the issue while top U.S. and Canadian officials were conferring on Parliament Hill about their differences stemming from the U.S. import surcharge and other economic measures proposed by President Nixon.

Adding heat to both the debate and the talks, the U.S. Senate finance committee Wednesday approved a measure that would empower President Nixon to raise the import surcharge to 15 per cent from 10 per cent and to put a tax on auto imports from Canada. It also passed a measure aimed at spurring U.S. exports by allowing U.S. firms to set up exporting subsidiaries with tax concessions.

In the Commons debate, Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) said the government had failed to set a clear policy on U.S. investment.

Instead, it had damaged relations with the United States by drawing closer to Russia and China, giving the "red-carpet treatment" to U.S. anti-Vietnam-ers and permitting a "daily barrage of anti-American propaganda" by Liberal MPs and the CBC.

Mr. Nesbitt said some ministers—including Industry, Development Minister Jean Chretien and Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin—had urged U.S. investors to come to Canada. Others, such as Energy Minister J. J. Greene, discouraged foreign investment.

But Doug Rowland (NDP—Selkirk) said the Conservative motion made the Liberal "do nothing" continentalists" look good.

In fact, the government had lain supine while Americans had taken over the economy, benefitting from low Canadian tariffs and the floating Canadian dollar.

Harold Danforth (PC—Kent-Essex) retorted that Mr. Rowland's line had almost led to the death of the NDP in the Oct. 21 Ontario election.

The NDP was much less anti-American when it came to the control of Canadian unions, he said.

The Liberals displayed some disagreement in their own ranks.

Hubert Badanai (L-Fort William) said Canada needs U.S. capital and knows how. If U.S. investment would help reduce unemployment, he was all for it.

But Ian Wahn (L-Toronto-St. Paul's and Warren Allmand (L-Grace) reiterated the findings of the Commons external affairs committee last year that Canada should be much less dependent on U.S. investment. Mr. Wahn is chairman of the committee, and Mr. Allmand is a member.

Paul St. Pierre, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, said the Conservatives were saying: "We must stand up to the Americans, but we must never tell them anything they don't want to hear."

Ed Broadbent, (NDP-Oshawa-Whitby) called for a tough bargaining stand by the government as the United States presses for changes in the 1965 U.S.-Canada auto trade pact.

He said the basic demand should be for Canadian car production to equal the value of cars sold in Canada.

The U.S. Senate finance committee has authorized President Nixon to impose a seven-per-cent excise tax on cars from Canada. Such a tax would break the current auto agreement if implemented.

Michael Forrestall (PCDart-mouth-Halifax East) turned the debate to U.S.-Canada defence relations, which he said were endangered by the government's retreat toward neutralism.

He said Canadians were seen in the United States as hand-hunting profit-seekers taking advantage of the defence production sharing agreement.

C. Terrence Murphy (L-Saulte Ste. Marie) suggested that the clout of the U.S. surcharge could shake Canada into economic maturity.

To Your Good Health

Dry Mouth Is Not Unusual When Body Functions Slow

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dr. Thosteson: My doctor says I have high cholesterol. I have quit eating butter and use oleomargarine. I drink low fat milk and I eat only fat free or fried foods. Yet when I had my physical exam my cholesterol was 270, and I understand it should be 150 to 200. What else should I do to bring it down?—L. M.

Maybe nothing except to continue what you are doing. Or maybe eat a little less and get a little more exercise.

One more thing. Laboratory methods can vary and different test methods may be used, so the numerical results aren't exactly what we might describe as "holy writ."

You specify 150-200 as the acceptable limits and your figure is 270. Those indicators you are only a little bit above the upper acceptable limit. To put it in medical terms, "slightly elevated."

It makes a difference whether your doctor said your cholesterol was "slightly elevated," or "grossly too high," or "higher than it ought to be," or "dangerously high." Or whatever words he may have used.

Yours is only slightly high and there is no reason for great concern. If I knew more about you—your age, your weight, your exercise habits, and a lot of other things—I might modify my answer but I wouldn't change it radically. My answer is this: Stick to your diet which is low-in saturated fats. If you are too heavy, reduce total food intake. If you don't get much physical activity, become more active.

And watch your relative cholesterol level. If it is gradually coming down, just keep it coming down and stop worrying. If it is going up in spite of your efforts, your doctor can prescribe medications to help things along if he considers them necessary.

And if your level is remaining fairly stationary, I can't see any cause for concern.

While cholesterol levels have significance, they must be evaluated in relation to other pertinent factors. Don't disregard high cholesterol, but don't think it's the most important thing to watch for in guarding your health. And certainly don't panic if the level is "slightly high."

Dr. Thosteson: What causes hair to grow rapidly out of a pore on the face? It is thick, coarse hair that grows much faster than other regions on the face. Is there any way to stop this?—R. H.

I can't explain the speed of growth but it happens to males other than those on the face, too. Some moles are hairy, others smooth.

Only suggestions I can offer would be to have a registered electrologist destroy the hair follicles, or roots, or to have your doctor remove the whole mole, hairs and all.

Note to Mrs. T. W.: No, there is no way to dissolve gall stones. Your friends may have confused them with kidney stones, which sometimes can be by a very tedious course of treatment.

Senators Fear Effect Of Tax Reform Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau filled four of the 20 vacancies in the 102-seat Senate Thursday.

George C. Van Roggen, 50, Vancouver lawyer.

The appointments are effective immediately except for Dr. Bonnell's, which will be effective Nov. 13.

Dr. Bonnell is a native of Hopefield, P.E.I., and a graduate in medicine from Dalhousie University, Halifax.

Mr. Goldenberg, a pipe-smoking lawyer, is an authority in labor-management relations and has been assigned by federal, provincial and municipal governments across Canada to mediate labor disputes.

Since 1967 he has been special counsel to the prime minister on the constitution.

Mr. Buckwold has been active in Saskatoon municipal affairs since 1953. He was mayor of the city from 1958 to 1963 and took over the post again in 1970.

Mr. Van Roggen practised law in Whitehorse, Y.T., for eight years and since 1957 has been a partner in a Vancouver law firm.

He is also a former president of the British Columbia Liberal Association.

A senator, who may hold office to the compulsory retirement age of 75, is paid $18,000 a year in salary plus $4,000 annually in tax-free expense money.

Of the 18 Senate vacancies remaining after Thursday's appointments, four are for representatives of Nova Scotia; three for Quebec; two each for British Columbia and New Brunswick and one each for Alberta, Manitoba, Newfoundland, Ontario and Saskatchewan.

What the Stars Say

Saturday, November 6

General Guide — Venus joins with Neptune, the illusion maker, creating conditions and influences that are only beneficial to those who earn a living writing fairy tales. The rest of us had better keep a superstar grip on the facts this weekend.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Idealistic values can provide excellent inspiration but mix these ideas with some common sense before you act on them. The world isn't perfect.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — A sound system to achieve and maintain financial security should be based on rewards for services performed. Gifts and speculations are just extras, they're not fixed income.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) — With partners in a love-the-world mood, you're included along with everybody else. It won't start to think that it's a response aimed at you alone or that you're very lucky.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) — Your health and physical well-being are starting to improve, mainly because you're worrying less. Your mental attitudes have a lot to do with the way you feel.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — The stronger your attraction to new heart interest, the greater the risk of deception and disillusion. You've snared a real loser this time.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Household improvements may look terrific now, but they'll begin to look a downright headache as the days wear on. Shun expensive decorating schemes.

Libra (Sept. 22-Oct. 22) — The world created by a romantic novel or a Hollywood love saga can provide an excellent and entertaining escape. Just remember it's all make-believe.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — The temptation to indulge in a forbidden pleasure, from a shopping spree to chocolate cream puffs, may negate all your previous good behavior. You won't be able to stop.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A happy go-lucky mood influences this weekend's activities causing you to develop dangerously high hopes regarding financial alliances. Monday brings a crisis.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Secret plans will develop smoothly today and tomorrow, but that's as far as they'll get. Be prepared to abandon schemes next week.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Kin can appear to be in accord with your views, but this unqualified agreement is apt to be deceptively encouraging. One major issue will shortly prove misleading to you.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) — Just don't push your nice pitching head of the household this weekend. The rest of the family can stage a revolt by Monday if you're not careful.

Today's Birthday — Save every penny you can in the next few months; regardless of how optimistic your economic conditions appear. April events put a drain on your pocketbook.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Spades and North leads the king of clubs. How would you play the hand?

	♠AJ632 ♥107 ♦QJ84 ♣A
♠K95 ♥AQ63 ♦K107 ♣1087	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Notrump and North leads his fourth best spade, the five. How would you play the hand?

	♠AKJ4 ♥6 ♦J65 ♣KQ83

1. Win the club with the ace, play a heart and finesse the queen.

If it loses the king, ruff the probable club return, play a spade to the king and a spade back, planning to finesse. This sequence of plays will make the contract if South has the doubleton or tripleton queen of spades.

If the heart finesse at trick two succeeds, you are faced with an altogether different problem. Since you now have no potential losers outside of trumps, you should bend every effort to avoid losing more than one trump trick.

Accordingly, at trick three, you play a low spade to the ace and, if both opponents follow suit, you are home. Continue with a low spade and, if North follows low, insert the nine as a safety measure to cover the possibility of his having started with the Q10x.

If North follows suit with the ten or queen at trick four, you win with the king and ruffly make the seventh while if North shows out on the second trump lead, you go up with the king and return the nine towards the jack to limit yourself to one trump loser.

The heart finesse is taken at trick two before tackling trumps—in order to be in a position to discover the best way of handling the trumps.

2. Win the spade with the queen and cash the A-K of diamonds, discarding two clubs from dummy. Thus play a diamond towards dummy, finessing the nine. When South wins with the queen or king, he is board to hand you the fourth trick regardless of which suit he elects to return. He is ended-played in three suits.

200 Watched While 13 Beaten with Iron Bars

KINGSTON (CP) — More than two hundred convicts watched in silence as 13 others were beaten with iron bars in a "mass genocide," a former prisoner testified today at the non-capital murder trial of 13 convicts charged in the deaths of two other prisoners.

Mr. Justice William Henderson of the Ontario Supreme Court has directed that the names of the convicts and former prisoners who testify at the trial not be published.

The witness told the court that he crashed two five-pound bars wrapped in a sock to protect himself during the four-day riot which began April 15.

L. H. Tepper, counsel for one of the accused, asked whether any of the prisoners in the area of the beatings made any attempt to stop the assaults.

"Would you?" asked the prisoner. "There was nothing we could do. You didn't know who was standing next to you."

He said some prisoners intervened to have a black convict removed from the circle of men being beaten after another prisoner said the black man was not a child molester. After a lengthy discussion, the Negro was removed from the circle.

Following the riot, the battered body of Brian Enser, 26, was found in the corridor of the cellblock. Bertrand Robert, 34, was found beaten but alive. He died a month later.

Enser was serving time for a sex crime involving a child, and Robert was serving six years for assault involving the disciplining of his own children.

The 26-year-old former convict, who was serving a three-year term for possession of burglary tools and a .38-calibre pistol, described himself as non-violent and said he was "scared to death" during the beatings.

He described to Crown Attorney Alan Newell how 13 chairs were placed facing inward in a circle and 13 men brought out, hands tied behind the chairs and feet tied together.

The ex-prisoner said Brian Beauchgo, 23, of London, began the beatings breaking men's noses with a "karate shot". Another prisoner followed him smashing noses with an iron bar, he said. Beaucage then retired to watch.

Bed sheets and blankets were then thrown over the heads of the men in the circle, he testified. This was done so that if Canadian Armed Forces troops entered the area they would not know whether those in the chairs were prisoners or guards.

He said he saw prisoner Glenn Morris, 25, of Staunton, Va., pour hot glue over one man's head, then place a glass on the man's head and then smash the glass with an iron bar.

Edward Fowler, 19, of Toronto, cut open the leg of one of the men in the circle with a knife. The victim was an elderly man with arthritis. He said Fowler also cut the leg of Enser.

The ex-prisoner said Robert Robideaux, 18, of Toronto, hit several men with a bar across their faces and the tops of their heads. David Birt, 24, of Charlottetown, hit all of the captives over the head with an iron bar, he said.

Joseph Hodge, 22, of Petrolia, Ont., would shake the men to see if they were awake and if they moved he hit them on the head and told them to go back to sleep, he said.

He described William Shepley, 24, of Windsor, Ont. as "the master of ceremonies" with a loudspeaker telling everyone what to do.

The beatings ended in two hours, then the captives were taken to a room and stacked on top of each other in about two inches of water.

Also charged are: James Ogg, 24, and Donald Ogg, 20, both of London, Ont.; Wayne McGurgin, 23, Toronto; Edward Johnston, 22, Clarkson, Ont.; Ernest Bugler, 24, St. Thomas; and Harold St. Amour, 39, Pembroke.

The trial continues.

Retail Sales Rise

Retail sales continued to rise sharply during the summer months with department and clothing stores experiencing good sales gains. Total retail sales are expected to increase eight per cent in 1971. A more favorable outlook for employment, higher personal disposable income and continued high levels of residential construction activity are expected to raise retail sales in 1972 by over eight per cent. Axe-slayer Gets Life At Trial at Pembroke

PEMBROKE (CP) — Lorne Edward Lafrance, 34, was sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday after being found guilty on two counts of capital murder in the axe slayings March 12 of six-year-old David Witt and his 29-year-old uncle, Leslie Molson.

In a separate trial Thursday, Catherine Margaret Delarge, 17, pleaded guilty to a charge of being an accessory after the fact in the deaths. She also pleaded guilty to a charge of wounding her mother Eleanor Witt, 51.

The young woman was Lafrance's girlfriend. She is to be sentenced Dec. 20.

A 12-man jury ended Lafrance's Ontario Supreme Court trial after a 20-minute deliberation. The jury verdict was accompanied by a jury recommendation that Lafrance be provided every opportunity for psychiatric treatment.

The conviction concluded four days of detailed evidence relating to the deaths.

Mrs. Witt, mother of the murdered boy, told the court that Lafrance had kept her and her son captive in her rural farmhouse near here for two weeks before the killings. Lafrance, who had been living at the house, had tortured both her and her son during their captivity.

Mr. Molson, Mrs. Witt's brother, was struck six times with an axe when he came to him for help during a visit at the farmhouse.

Later that night, said Mrs. Witt, Lafrance burned her and her son with cigarettes and matches before killing the boy by striking his head with the axe.

A police officer testified that Mrs. Witt was found on the floor of the blood-spattered farmhouse with two cuts in her abdomen.

Psychiatrists testifying at the man's trial said he had a history of mental disorder. Two of the experts said Lafrance was schizophrenic while another, Dr. Barnett Eades of the Penetanguishene hospital for the criminally insane, described him as "a psychopathic individual."

But Dr. Eades would not say whether he thought Lafrance capable of appreciating the "nature and quality" of his actions, the criterion the jury was to use in determining whether Lafrance was insane at the time of the killings.

Miss Delarge, daughter of Mrs. Witt by a previous marriage, was not sentenced immediately because the judge, Mr. Justice W. A. Donahue, said her age presents a serious difficulty.

He called for a full pre-sentence report before Dec. 20.

Miss Delarge was originally charged with attempted murder but it was reduced to the wounding charge.

Drug Abuse By Adults Is Common

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's adult population should look in the mirror, in front of a medicine cabinet stocked with barbiturates and tranquilizers, and recognize its own drug scene instead of condemning the younger generation, Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario's supervising coroner, said Thursday.

In an interview he said many adults have been using young people's drug scene as a smoke screen to cover their own problems, not only pills but cigarettes and alcohol.

He said alcohol is still the biggest killer and accounted for 300 deaths in 1970 in Ontario.

"It's a fact that is too frequently and easily lost when the attention of society is fastened on the more exotic and sophisticated types of drugs.

"It seems a new chemical or a new fad crops up on the drug scene every few months but they forget that alcohol kills more people many times over each year than all these put together."

Many deaths attributable to alcohol are not reported solely by law but really are due to drinking over a period of 20 years or more, he said. Many more are caused by drinking drivers.

Today, at a coroners' education course, Dr. Cotnam was to present a paper on the 563 deaths caused by drugs, including alcohol, in Ontario in 1970.

Although he does not condone the widespread use of marijuana, speed and MDA by the younger generation, Dr. Cotnam said "adults are doing the same and setting a poor example for the next generation.

"It's pretty hard for some kid to accept his parents telling him not to smoke pot when they drink a couple of cocktails before dinner or take barbiturates or tranquilizers on a daily basis" cases they don't need.

"A mother takes pills to control her appetite while her son takes speed—it all depends on how you interpret their action."

Dr. Cotnam gave this breakdown of 1970 drug deaths in the province: 300 by alcohol, 113 from alcohol plus other drugs, 75 by barbiturates, all but seven suicides, and 75 others.

Of these others, there was only one death directly connected to marijuana—a youth's suicide from the Peace Tower at the Parliament Buildings, he said.

Today's Cannikin Day

Zero Hour Plea Made To Top Court In U.S.

H-bomb Blast Set for 5 pm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists made an 11th-hour plea today in an effort to halt the detonation of a five-megaton underground nuclear device on chilly, rain-swept Amchitka Island in the Alaskan Aleutians.

The appeal before the United States Supreme Court came just hours before the hydrogen bomb was set to explode at 5 p.m. EST.

The justices evidently are the last hope of eight environmental organizations and their sympathizers who fear the explosion might cause earthquakes, release radioactive debris and generate giant seawaves.

Thirty-five senators, headed by Edward W. Brooke (Rep. Mass.) have petitioned President Nixon to stop the test, but the administration has stood fast to its position that government investigators have turned up no real reason for delay.

The one-hour court hearing was granted over the justice department's opposition at the request of the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility and the seven allied groups. Two lower courts had rejected their bid for a postponement.

The latest was to take place at the bottom of a shaft nearly 6,000 feet deep. Code-named Cannikin, it is designed to test a nuclear warhead for use in the Spartan anti-ballistic missile, scheduled to become operational in 1974.

There are unsubstantiated reports in Canada that radical groups have threatened to blow up 50 plants owned by companies based in the United States if the explosion takes place.

The principal contention of the environmentalists is that the Atomic Energy Commission violated the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 by not including advance comment on the test in its evaluation papers.

The brief emphasizes a statement by Russell E. Train, chairman of the president's council on environmental quality that "a threshold may exist, which, if passed, will release a major earthquake."

"The Cannikin detonation may release enough energy to pass this threshold. . . ."

The immediate decision facing the justices was whether to grant an injunction halting the test until the court could consider all the legal points at a second hearing. The groups said they could be ready to present their case as early as Monday.

The planned nuclear blast, widely expected to have at least the force of those above ground have less than half that power, it appears from data released by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Students Stage March

City Fathers Agree To Protest to Test

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville's official voice yesterday joined the clamor of protest against the American nuclear blast at Amchitka in the Aleutians.

A telegram from city fathers to President Richard Nixon was the direct result of a protest march through downtown Belleville Friday afternoon by more than 400 Centennial and BCI secondary school students.

The students achieved their aim — an official expression of city council's opposition — after an orderly, although noisy, demonstration that ranged through the streets from Centennial to BCI to Nicholson Catholic College before ending in front of city hall.

At the climax of their march they were met by acting mayor Art Keegan and city clerk Adam Stalker. The students continued parading around the building while six of their representatives were closeted with the officials in council chambers.

Mr. Keegan told the students that city council had taken no protest action because it considered Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau the proper person to speak for Canada on the subject of the nuclear test blast.

But the students insisted that council had a responsibility to notify the American president that "Belleville cares".

"It (a telegram) may not solve anything now, but people will know Belleville is concerned," said Centennial spokesman Stephen Gallinger, a member of his school's student parliament.

Mr. Stalker and the students framed a telegram, but the acting mayor warned them that all members of council would have to be polled and a majority would have to favor the move before the telegram could be sent.

"A telegram costs money and it's the ratepayer's money, so we must have council's consent," Mr. Stalker told the students.

When Mr. Keegan's decision was relayed to the waiting crowd, the students responded with a loud cheer for council and quickly dispersed.

At 4:50 p.m. Friday Mr. Keegan had obtained the consent of a majority of aldermen and the telegram was on its way to Washington.

"The council of the corporation of the city of Belleville on behalf of the citizens of Belleville, supports the students of Centennial, BCI and Quinte . . . in their protest against the nuclear blast," it read.

The city's protest climaxed two days of activity in county schools against the Amchitka test.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police constable Bernard Charlebois was shot and killed Friday when a security guard apparently mistook him for a burglar.

Constable Charlebois, 27, of Hawkesbury, Ont., his partner Constable Guy St. Cyr, and a security guard were investigating a false burglary alarm at the Imperial Converters Ltd. plant in the city's north end when the shooting occurred.

Here Is What Ought to Happen

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (AP) — The explosion of a nuclear weapon under Amchitka Island today will send the ground above the blast lurching up as high as 25 feet.

The Atomic Energy Commission also says this will happen:

In the 52-foot-wide chamber at the bottom of a 6,000-foot shaft where the Spartan missile warhead is to explode the rock walls will become as hot as the surface of the sun—three million degrees.

The rocks will turn to molten lava in a flash, and a cavern as large as a football field will be blown.

Fractures of a second after the blast the surface at ground zero will begin falling, returning to its original position.

But the pressure of more than one mile of rock pressing down on the cavern will be too great, and the roof of the chamber will crumble and great tons of rubble cascading onto the chamber floor.

This probably will cause the island's surface at ground zero to begin sinking. It may sink slowly as much as 40 or 50 feet, forming a depression several hundred yards across.

The whole island will shake from the blast, just as though it were experiencing a moderate earthquake.

Rocks will tumble down cliffs into the ocean, water in the ponds will be tossed into the air. The ocean offshore may froth white as it vibrates from the blast.

The shaking will be most intense for just a few seconds, but the island could quiver for as long as one or two minutes.

Picton Plant One of 5 Closed by Bomb Threats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More Canadian protests were scheduled today as arms hour approached for a United States nuclear blast at 5 p.m. EST on a remote Aleutian island.

Among developments Friday was an anonymous threat of reprisals against U.S.-owned factories in Canada which caused five of them in Ontario to shut down.

The companies that shut down were Hoover Chemical, MASTICO Industries Ltd., and Canadian Leaf Tobacco, all at Tillsonburg, North American Containers, Aylmer, and Proctor-Lewyt Co., Picton.

In Picton, security guards patrolled the Proctor-Lewyt Division of S.C.M. (Canada) Ltd. this morning.

Officials of the large appliance manufacturing plant yesterday refused comment but one spokesman did not deny that some workers were absent from their jobs.

Employees reportedly continued work yesterday morning after being given the choice of staying at the plant or returning to their homes. They were dismissed at noon.

In Belleville, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said his men had orders to give added attention to American - owned plants while on patrol in the city, but no extraordinary measures were otherwise taken.

The head of a city security services operation said he had received no requests for assistance from American - owned companies.

The vice-president of one of the largest American-owned industries in the city said extra security patrols were in effect for the weekend, but no other measures had been taken.

Generally this seems to be the response at other such Belleville plants, he believed.

In Trenton, Detective Sergeant Sid Vickers said that at least six American-owned plants in town are being watched by the town police today and that most of these have advised their private security guards to be particularly alert.

A Canadian government spokesman said in Ottawa that before deciding to proceed with the five-megaton underground test in Amchitka Island, President Nixon took into consideration a motion passed by the Canadian House of Commons concerning environment and safety.

Canadian demonstrations Friday included those by fishing boats in Vancouver Harbor, student marches on the Prairies, British Columbia and in Montreal and protests in Ontario at the international border points of Windsor, Fort Frances and the Thousand Islands.

An incongruous note was introduced in Toronto with delivery by taxi to the United States consulate of a gift-wrapped, frozen pig's head.

It was from Pollution Probe, a citizen's group that researches pollution and publicizes its findings. It was the fifth delivery of the week: a bouquet of dead leaves, Monday; a dead wren on a platter Tuesday; a dead white rabbit on a bed of leaves Wednesday, and a fetal pig in a glass jar Thursday.

"We made it worse and worse," a Probe spokesman said. "But certainly none of it is as bad as Amchitka."

Davis and Inner-cabinet to Go Into Hiding to Plan Session

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis goes into hiding next week with his inner-cabinet policy committee to plan for a new session of the legislature and the federal-provincial conference on unemployment scheduled for Nov. 15 in Ottawa.

The premier and members of the cabinet committee on policy and priorities were to gather Sunday night at an undisclosed location for three days of private meetings, returning to Toronto Thursday.

The committee, which includes senior cabinet ministers such as Attorney-General Allan Lawrence and Treasurer Darcy McKeough, is a powerful inner group created by Mr. Davis to streamline the cabinet decision-making process. It met last summer at a Muskoka resort near Barrie to plan for the Oct. 21 provincial election and set policy on aid to separate schools.

An aide said Friday the Ottawa conference and the new legislative session, expected late this month or early in December, will be the chief agenda items.

Mr. Davis has been staying out of the limelight since he returned Tuesday to his Queen's Park office from a week-long vacation with his family in the United States.

He looked tanned and fit, apparently fully recovered from six weeks of campaigning that led to the return of his government with an increased majority.

He spent this week on routine government business and plans to spend the weekend with his family, closing his summer cottage on Georgian Bay.

Work is expected to be done at next week's closed meetings on the speech from the throne, outlining government policy for the new session, which is expected to produce a mini-budget before adjournment for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Davis said prior to his departure for a holiday that brief session of the legislature would be required to deal with measures to ease unemployment, that may arise from a federal-provincial conference in Ottawa this month.

Before a new session is called, Mr. Davis will have to appoint a new speaker and fill two cabinet posts left vacant by retirements prior to the election.

A likely candidate to replace retired speaker Fred Cass is Allan Reuter (PC—Waterloo South) deputy speaker in the last legislature.

Backbencher Arthur Meen, re-elected in York East, and newcomer Jack McNie, an impressive first-time winner in Hamilton West, appear to be favorites in the running to take over financial and commercial affairs, left vacant by the retirement of Arthur Wishart.

The only other vacancy is the post of minister without portfolio held by Edward Dunlop before his retirement.

If Mr. Davis decides to fill the post, speculation is that he will assign it to one of two successful women candidates in the election, Margaret Scrivener, Toronto St. David, or Margaret Birch, Scarborough East.

Mr. Davis promised during the campaign to include a woman in his cabinet if re-elected.

Keegan: Admirable

Musgrove: Futile

Students' Amchitka Blast Protest Splits City Establishment

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Confrontation with more than 200 determined, but good-natured, high school students didn't phase acting mayor Art Keegan yesterday.

Notified about noon of the probability of a student march on Belleville's city hall he left work and hurried down to meet the crowd on the sidewalk when it arrived.

"I kind of admire the attitude of the young generation," he said after meeting six students in council chambers, to hear their request for an official protest of the Amchitka bomb test.

"They will be taking over our country soon and already they're showing a willingness to take a part."

"I'm pleased they're taking this attitude of voicing their opinions. The people of Canada should be concerned about the nuclear test...I hope the blast doesn't start a chain reaction throughout the earth."

But Centennial Secondary School's principal W. J. Musgrove criticized the march media caused the demonstration. He said: "The publicity was responsible for the walk out at his school.

"It was prompted by a reporter from The Intelligencer coming up here and making himself obvious in the halls," he said. "Someone phoned and said there would be one (a demonstration) and he (the reporter) was lurking around here. It was as good an excuse as any for the students to get out of school. It was an exercise in futility.

"Radio and newspaper men climbed on the bandwagon for news instead of exercising responsibility," he charged.

"The reaction of most of the staff and students here is that the media fell down in its leadership role."

The incident, Mr. Musgrove said, will be used as the basis of a discussion in a senior history class on the role of the media in influencing world events.

The Centennial principal said it was unfortunate that just a week before examinations because a walk out "usually hits the people who can least afford it".

Grade 9 students said two Centennial teachers gave famous marks to those who did not participate in the protest march. The teachers called the bonuses "citizenship marks".

BCI's principal William MacKay speculated that "the citizens of Belleville were not very vocal (about the nuclear test) and perhaps the students were trying to stir them up."

He suggested that perhaps the walkout of his students was an excuse to "get out and go to the COSSA game at Oshawa".

He added students who join the march would be asked to bring a note from home so their parents would be aware of their absence.

"And perhaps a letter will go out informing parents that there are more effective ways of protesting," he added.

The demonstration might be a lesson for teachers, Mr. MacKay mused.

"Perhaps we haven't taught students to be effective in their protests," he suggested. "Adults have been teaching these students how to protest — La Press and Belfast are good examples," he added sarcastically.

IN MEMORIAM

HOLGATE — In loving memory of my dear husband Walter Aubrey Holgate, who passed away Nov. 6, 1970.

Treasured be thy rest dear Walter,
Peace be with thy memory sweet;
As in life I loved you dearly,
So in death, I do not forget.
—Sadly missed by your loving wife Priscilla J. Holgate.

VASH, — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Joseph Vash who passed away Nov. 6, 1966.
Treasured forever in memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
God took him home, it was His way today,
But left a memory, we have many.
The flowers we lay upon his grave,
Are nothing to what we have.
But the love for him who lies beneath.
Will never fade away.
—Always remembered by wife Priscilla J. Holgate and family.

GREEN — In loving memory of Mrs. Ida Green who passed away today Nov. 6th, 1970.
Sweet heart I not give to sleep her rest,
But take sweet face to see.
Thy labor is over, thy work is done,
Thy heart so much to see.
Sadly missed and mourned by sisters Joan and Phyllis, brothers-in-law, Wilbur and Cheryl and nephew Christine.

GREEN — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Florence Green, who passed away one year ago, November 8, 1970.
Sadly missed on this sad day,
Memories are all we have left to say.
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very few indeed.
If all this world were ours to give,
To you dear Mom we would live.
To see the face of someone dear,
Come smiling through the door.
—Sadly missed and remembered by husband, Daysi, sons Bill and Bob.

PRYS — In memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Eigin Prys, who passed away November 7, 1969.
I wind thought, a secret tear,
Shows his memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memories turn back every leaf.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Myrtle, daughter Shirley Ann Wright and Gerald, Warren and Wilbert grandchildren Derek, Michelle and Scott.

The funeral of Mrs. Agnes Browning was held Friday from the Thompson Funeral Chapel where service was conducted by Rev. A. L. Sutherland. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

Thursday evening members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the A.N.A.F. held a memorial service conducted by president Gladys Fitzgerald and chaplain Eileen Sills.

The bearers were John Craig, Peter Atkin, Lawrence Oliphant, William Spencer, Charles Fair and David Kane.

MRS. CLARENCE SCOTT

A newcomer to Belleville, Mrs. Hazel Scott of 255 George St., died Friday in Belleville Hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Scott, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Richards of Wooler, had lived in Belleville for a year, after coming here from London, Ont.

She was predeceased by both her husbands, Reginald Gray and Clarence Scott.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Leslie (Marjorie) Reid of Belleville, and a stepson, Harold Scott of London.

Three sisters also survive: Mrs. Fred (Gladys) Ball, Baltimore; Mrs. Arthur (Hilda) Smith, and Mrs. Melville (Norma) Lean, both of Cobourg.

Three grandchildren, Robert, Donald and Carol Ann Reid, also survive.

She will rest in Pinkston and Lancaster Funeral Home until the funeral Monday at 1:30 p.m.

Officiating will be Rev. Alfred E. Foulter.

Interment is at Bridge St. United Church. she will be buried in Baltimore United Church Cemetery.

Building Worker Injured

A construction workers' hardhat yesterday saved a young Belleville man from possible serious injury when he was struck by a falling brick at the Sidney Street highrise apartment house project.

Reports were that Robert Kirkwood, 19, was assisting to bore holes in the 13th storey concrete floor when a brick from the floor fell and struck him on the head.

The worker was said to have been knocked unconscious by the falling brick and he was taken to hospital by LaSalle Ambulance.

Garage Robbed

COLBORNE (Staff) — Brighton detachment, Ontario Provincial Police today initiated an investigation of an overnight break-in at Learmonth Motors on the Toronto Road. Thieves smashed a back window to gain entrance to the premises, making off with an estimated $500 in car tires and tools.

Students United in Nationalism's Cause

Thursday, about 200 students at Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc sent a telegram of protest to President Nixon, then staged a peaceful march through the village to emphasize their stand.

Quinte Secondary School in Belleville sent a similar petition - telegram signed by more than 300 students.

A petition began circulating at Moira, Friday morning and was sent off at 4 p.m. with 275 signatures of staff and students. The signatures collected at Moira were augmented by about 125 collected by a BCI student during Friday afternoon's protest march. The night letter cost the students about $40 to send. The money was collected at the rate of a dime from each signer of the petition.

The petitions and demonstrations against Amchitka have united the students of Belleville in the cause of nationalism," said John Vasi, one of the organizers of Moira's petition.

Moira's message to the American president ended with the plea: "Please don't kill us." A notifying telegram to Hastings riding MP Lee Grills in Ottawa ended with the statement: "Belleville students care."

The Belleville protest march began Friday morning shortly after 11 a.m. at Centennial when about half the school's 1,200 students walked out of classes.

Centennial's student parliament prime minister, Dennis Pralick, said he first heard reports of the planned walkout when he arrived at school at 9 a.m. He informed principal W. J. Musgrove that the action was not sanctioned by the student parliament. He and two other officers of the student organization joined the protesters "to keep them controlled".

As the protest gathered momentum, a large number of students began a walk toward BCI to invite that school's students to join in the march on city hall.

"There were a lot of juniors in the crowd and we went about to keep them under control," said Mr. Pralick.

After a rally on BCI's west campus the crowd's ranks swelled to between 200 and 300 students. The combined Centennial and BCI student then went to Nicholson. By this time they had been joined by two city police officers in a cruiser, who gave informal assistance with crowd control and advice on the route of the march.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie tried to get a loud hailer for student leaders, but none could be found on the spur of the moment.

"The police were a real help to us and showed great understanding," said Mr. Pralick.

The protesting students sat quietly on Chebokosh Street steps until classes changed at the college. They set up a chant of "walk out," but staff members and prefects barred the doors of the building and no Nicholson students left.

Following a route suggested by city police to minimize traffic disruption, the crowd left for city hall. There, they were met by Chief Crosbie, Deputy Chief Harold Reid and several constables. The police closed one lane of traffic on Front St. to give the crowd room to assemble in front of city hall.

Meeting with the Acting Mayor Keegan in council chambers were Dennis Pralick, Stephen Gallinger, Dan King and Robert Howe of Centennial and Ann Wilson and Mark Lucas of BCI. Statistics outside to assist police with the crowd were John Kidd of BCI and Vahe Parmakszian of Centennial.

During the marches and campus sit-ins, BCI student Douglas Andrews began gathering marchers' signatures for a protest petition, collecting 10 cents apiece. He collected more than 125 names, and sent the marchers' petition to Washington.

Only about half the 300 Centennial students and 150 BCI students who walked out stuck with the demonstration until its conclusion at city hall.

"The rest were in the pool hall or at the game at Quinte (a COSSA football match)," said Centennial's Dennis Pralick.

"It's too bad we hadn't more support," he said.

One of the factors prompting the Belleville students' demonstration was the report of the march by students at Madoc Thursday, he added.

"You could say the media played a part," he said, "because both CJBQ and The Intelligencer carried reports of the Centre Hastings' demonstration."

But, he added the students were as alarmed about American imperialism as they were about the ecological dangers of the nuclear blast.

"The anti-American sentiment at our school is unreal" said Mr. Pralick.

Young Protesters at City Hall

Demonstrators from Centennial Secondary School listen to youthful protesters appeal for funds for anti-Amchitka bomb blast telegram to President Nixon. About 200 students marched on city hall to seek official support against controversial A-bomb detonation today.

Twin Otter Aircraft Display Limitations

TRENTON — When the Canadian Armed Forces purchase aircraft not properly suited for a job, a challenge is often created, in created, demanding both effort and bulldog spirit.

Eleven years ago a fleet of Yukons moved into Trenton fresh from the factory to face a series of endless technical modifications to make considerable effort, ingenuity and great additional expense, the factory model was made fully suitable to its heavy transport role.

A similar situation has taken place with the purchase from ailing Deffaviland Aircraft of eight Twin Otters. Three of the new planes came to Trenton to fill the search and rescue role and they came with very serious limitations.

Officially purchased in March and delivered through the summer, the Twin Otters coming here were slated to replace the aging 424 Squadron Dakotas. But the replacement has not taken place — it looms in the future because the Twin Otter is not yet ready to fulfill the full search and rescue role.

While crews train daily on the new plane an intense modification program on the plane is being carried out— a determined effort to make the Twin Otter work.

The greatest limitation of the plane now relates to its capacity to operate in a rescue role. The rescue function involves dropping parachutists and relief packages to aid disaster victims.)

The Twin Otter was acquired from De Havilland's Downsview plant without a door which can open in flight, thus ruling out from the air assistance. When the crew of the Otter spot a disaster scene, the most they can do is circle craft and remove the door before returning to the emergency scene to bring assistance.

The possibility of installing a door that can be opened in flight is now being investigated.

Meanwhile plans call for the Twin Otter to carry on operation with the take-the-door-off procedure being followed. The plane did not come equipped with restraining harnesses and another has to permit parachute operations but these are being installed.

Additional projections on the sides of the aircraft are being masked over so parachutes will not foul up on the outcroppings.

Once these revisions are made the plane will be declared operational. They have already been used on two search missions, but not para-rescue assignments.

Visual spotting of crashed planes or any disaster scene was done in the Dak through bubble windows on the sides of the plane but the Twin Otter did not come equipped with these. Their installation is now being considered.

Range of the plane was seen as its most serious drawback when the purchase of the Otters was at the rumor stage.

The standard Twin Otter can stay aloft for four hours against seven for Dak. However, the model coming to Trenton has a supplementary fuel tanks to boost its endurance to five hours.

The policy of accepting equipment that is less than satisfactory from a contractor and then altering it to fill a need is one to be split military. One spokesman said recently it seems the pattern follow the do-it-yourself approach.

Political and economic considerations often outweigh the requirements of the armed forces, he added.

Works with Otter

Capt. James Gray of Trenton's 424 Squadron pilots the recently-acquired Twin Otter on a practice flight in the area. After a detailed modification program, the plane will replace the Dakota as the Canadian Armer Forces' principal search and rescue vehicle.

Family Planning Association Organized for Two Counties

An information and referral service on family planning and birth control is now a reality in Hastings and Prince Edward counties with the formation Thursday night of a branch of the Family Planning Association.

Purpose of the new organization is to promote the provision and use of family planning services as a fundamental right of all people.

Family planning, says the association, is an aid to responsible parenthood and a means of improving the quality of human life.

One if its aims will be to encourage the training of professional and voluntary personnel for the practical implementation of the use of family planning services.

But one of the members of the 16-man board of the association believes the educational aspect of the group is its most important role.

Dr. J. R. Birchard, Belleville obstretician, questioned the association's value as a referral service.

"There must be close co-ordination between family physicians and the association," he said. "There is one real threat — in the case of patients with no family doctor, the association may go over the heads of the general practitioners and refer people wanting birth control advice to specialists. The family doctors would be justified in being unheyed in these cases."

The Family Planning Association grew out of attempts by concerned individuals to have a birth control clinic get up under the jurisdiction of the Hastings-Prince Edward counties health unit.

One of the prime backers of the clinic, Dr. R. E. Bellamy, said the association will provide a service people can't get now — referral to a family doctor willing to give birth control advice.

But Dr. Birchard was unconvinced that people cannot get the service now.

"I'm talking about the girl who can't know what a family doctor is," replied Dr. Bellamy.

Dr. W. W. Weaver of Trenton said it was obvious that the group of people from district helping agencies who are founding members of the association felt that a percentage of people at the "lower end of the socio-economic level" needs such a service.

The contentious issue of availability of family doctors in Quinte communities, aired at hospital board meetings and other public gatherings for the past several months, will be investigated by United Community Services.

Isidore Cooperman, executive director, told the family planning group that UCS will soon make a study of how many people have family doctors.

"Lay people and medical people just haven't been talking to one another and it's time we did," he said.

Mr. Cooperman quoted an October report from the Hastings - Prince Edward health unit that said people on welfare find it difficult to get funds for contraceptives.

"This is a sociological and economic problem," he told the group during discussion of ways of implementing the association's objectives. "The association has an educational function," said Dr. Bellamy. "Now people will know that others in the community are giving family planning their support."

Executive members of the board of directors of the Family Planning Association are: president, Mrs. Linda Seppanen, a psychologist with the Hastings County board of education; vice - president, Rev. Maurice D. McLeod, Redeemerville; treasurer, Mrs. Breg DeGroot, Trenton social worker and secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Payton, a caseworker with the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County.

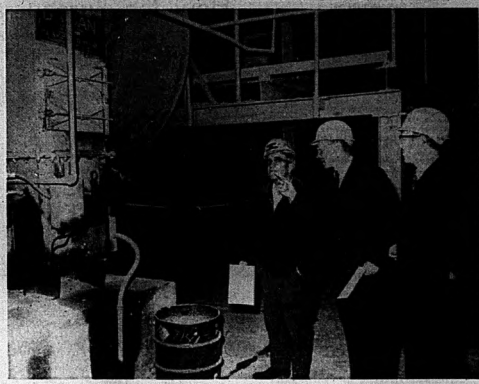
Hospital Parking A Problem



Visitors to Belleville General Hospital, complaining of inadequate parking facilities, will have their lot improved, says Robert Joy, administrative assistant for the hospital. With present construction cutting into parking lots, motorists are packing ambulance and emergency routes at the hospital entrance, and overflowing onto First and Second Streets and Bay Drive, and overcrowding existing space. Mr. Joy says this problem should be alleviated this month, but it will "still be tight." At a recent council meeting, Mayor J. Russell Scott said there are more than 1,000 visitors a day at the Dundas Street East hospital.

Plan Holdup Raises Query

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton and Suburban Planning Board resolved here last night to ask council to seek reasons from the department of municipal affairs why Trenton's new official plan has not been approved.

The department has had the revised master plan for several months but there has been no word on its progress toward approval. Councillor Paul Tripp contended it may have "bogged down in red tape."

Concern has mounted among planning board members over the length of time the approval process is taking. The board is now advanced in the procedure of preparing a new draft zoning bylaw to complement the still-unofficial official plan.

The plant raised $1,552 for the appeal which represented a 120 per cent increase over their contribution the previous year.

More on Amchitka

The protests over the Amchitka bomb test are understandable enough. It was the same during the Khrunichev era in the Soviet Union when the bi-weekly were conducting tests — and in the atmosphere at that — with alarming regularity.

Strontium-90 was the great fear then, and the radiation factor which scientists detected in milk and, we were told, threatened all the food of the earth. Similarly the last U.S. test in the Aleutions reportedly produced higher levels of radiation.

If for no other reason then, this nuclear blast is one we could do without. Moreover, the projected underground test is the most powerful ever undertaken by the United States; hence the fears also that it might trigger earthquakes in a known area of geological weakness, if not immediately then possibly at some later stage.

But the Americans are committed to the test. Prestige, as well as national security, is involved. Washington deems the test necessary for the progress of its missile program. To back down in face of world outcry would be to lose face as well as jeopardize, so the U.S. says, its state of defence and deterrent.

Maybe all our fears will be proved groundless. Perhaps everyone is over-reacting and the effects will be so much damp squib, leaving the professional protesters (who without a shadow of a doubt include Communist front organizations) and the countless others who think it is the thing to do, looking for some other cause to flog.

However, this is not to doubt the sincerity of the thousands, including ourselves, who deplore the need for such fireworks.

Bing Sings

There was the "old groaner" himself and still in excellent voice at 67. We refer to Bing Crosby of course and he was letting some fancy notes on the Carol Burnett show earlier this week.

A legend in his own time (remember the line from These Foolish Things: the song that Crosby sings . . . these foolish things remind me of you), the still youthful looking crooner's crooner once expressed this piece of philosophy for staying young: "I never worry seriously about anything. As long as I have my pipe and my clothes I'm happy." Yet his early days and career were not all smooth sailing. We dare say too that he derives a great deal of satisfaction from his family, his sons by his first marriage, and the youngsters sent to Kathryn Grant whom he married on the death of his first wife.

Watching Crosby playing golf in a British charity match at Maidenhead, Berkshire, some 20 years ago we saw what a relaxed individual he is, his partner none other than Bob Hope, and their opponents British stage personalities Donald Peers and Ted Ray.

The same kind of unruffled front to the world was expressed in an earlier time by a very different sort of personality, who also had his troubles — Oscar Wilde. "With flowers, books and the moon," he said, "who could not be perfectly happy?"

Both attitudes seem to say that no matter how complex life may become each of us can have our little islands of contentment and stability. Increasingly these fears are those who find it in stimulants of one kind or another, but that is another story. The images conjured up by the contemporary man, Crosby, and the Victorian literary genius, Wilde, are all fairs of the spirit rather than the hallucinatory escape achieved by some today.

For Progress

Public Utilities Commission manager E. L. Burnham said recently that unless Belleville followed suit by providing underground wiring in new housing sub-divisions it will be behind the times." The fact is, we have been behind the times long since in this regard. Britain for one has had electrical service installations of its more modern homes underground. The point has been made that local developers have objected to underground wiring on the grounds of cost, but Mr. Burnham says the additional cost is only $200 per house — not much when we are talking about $30,000 homes.

November's Charm!

From mid-summer on, the swallows and other small fry of the winged world gather on the hydro wires in the rural parts, prior to departing for other climes. Today, late travellers are still on the move and they may be seen in their hundreds on the now largely bare trees of this glorious autumn season. For good measure, on the golf course the other day, two or three robins were cavorting on the seventh fairway. Robins in November? Yes, it is that kind of a year.

And Now...the Jungle of Tax Reform

How the Bureaucracy Fleeces 45 Cents of Every Dollar

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Look around the House of Commons and pick out the archetypal Tory.

Not necessarily Progressive Conservative.

But Tory-like all right-thinking Conservatives once were expected to be and a dwindling few remain.

Their first article of political faith is that government has become far too expensive. Always and forever.

So who is the Tory archetype?

William Marvin Howe, for 18 successive years MP for Wellington - Grey - Dufferin - Waterloo, an increasingly isolated but still largely rural and enormously wealthy agricultural constituency in Old Ontario.

A quiet, unassuming maker of few speeches, but undeniably effective worker for his constituents and the Conservative cause.

Marvin Howe was sitting the other day in the Commons following the give-and-take, the push-and-tug of the long, long debates on the budget.

Suddenly he exploded. Not with a loud bang like "Hell". But with a soft sigh like "Gosh".

Then, he wondered, almost wistfully, was the poor taxpayer going to do it for real when the form becomes the tax law.

"It is more than difficult now for him to find his way through his tax forms," he lamented.

"But after this it will be all but impossible. He'll even have to find an accountant or lawyer who can find his way through for him.

"It is going to be one mind-bending mess.

"Brave souls venturing into this tax jungle could blunder around for years in its un-end-ing legal maze."

It is the dreadful dividend of what Marvin Howe sees as a constructive "Big Government" and ever bigger bureaucracy.

Both Liberal. The government Liberal in the capital "I," political cause and the bureaucracy Liberal in the lower case "i" philosophical sense.

As a traditional Conservative, Marvin Howe knows that no government has anything to "give" though that it does not first "take" from somebody else.

All government welfare, subsidy, relief, control and "selective spending" programs are a sleight-of-hand tax shuffle—taxing from one and giving to the other.

And in the process, what is taken and given become of high, but rarely careless and often extravagant administration costs of government, shrinks in value.

The liberal bureaucracy, busy expanding its empire of domination over the economy, persuades the Liberal politicians that if the taxpayers are allowed to spend the money they earn it will be frittered away on "non-essentials" and that by taking it from them, it can be used wisely by the administration for the "things that matter."

The way Marvin Howe sees it "the Liberal consortium" has merely up-dated, refined, and all but automated the political creed of his late, great Trade and Commerce Minister C. D. Howe of "tax and spend and elect."

While the "bigness" of government and its bureaucracy has worked for the Liberals — they have held power for 30 of the last 40 years — the system has one fatal flaw.

Marvin Howe says it is inflation.

Kindled in the first place and continually fanned by government spending.

With unrelenting greed, as he describes it, government has been looting the taxpayer in the name of "public service." To buy successive terms of power.

Thirty years ago, government was picking the taxpayers' pocket to the tune of $2 billion a year. Income, fees, duties, sales taxes, and at least innocuous for VIP's, sets up, says Marvin Howe, a reaction.

It is the reaction, as he calls it, of "the disincentive society".

And it is destroying the work ethic.

"Why sweat for a buck when down the street at the Finance Department they are going to grab 65 cents of it," increasingly characterizes the way it is in the light — fringed bureaucracy working world.

And there is no escaping these when it goes about its pocket-picking.

For wasn't it Finance Minister Benson who, chuckling about a recent Liberal boondoggle observed; you can murder your own mother-in-law for $10,000 with 14 years in jail with time off for good behavior, but if you try to get away by paying your taxes, and all your taxes, we will kill you. Try it and you are dead.

But Marvin Howe, archetypal Tory that he is, is not afraid, after 19 battling years, to stop the process.

Or at least slow it down.

Co-ordinating Ministry One of Davis' Aims

Queen's Park
By DON O'HEARN

One of Premier Davis's early acts in his new term presumably will be to follow through on a commitment made during the election campaign to reorganize the government to bring about better co-ordination.

In his campaign statement he said specifically that either four or five ministries would be established. There would be a form of super-ministry (though the premier carefully, it appeared, refrained from describing them as such) which would be in charge of policy development and co-ordination in broad areas of the sphere of government.

Thus, as he described it, one ministry might be charged with social development and devoted to such matters as health, welfare, social services and education. Another might be concerned with justice, public protection and consumer affairs.

There would still be department ministers but they would be responsible only for the operating responsibilities and would be concerned only with integrating policy and co-ordinating both policy and administration.

The objective is good. There can be no question of this. The lack of co-ordination, and the consequent duplication of effort, overlapping of waste, tensions and resulting inefficiency has been perhaps the most lamentable weakness of government here for many years.

Various attempts to correct it, mainly through assorted forms of internal committees, have failed miserably.

This new approach might work.

The basic problem has been cranium. Each department has been a separate little empire on its own. Prerogatives have been jealously protected. And while some lip service has been time to time been given to the ideal of co-ordination, in actuality each department has continued to go its own way, as it always has. And too often this has been the same way as another department, or another or many departments, but in a slightly different direction.

The fallacy has been in that every minister has a boss, equal to all the other minister bosses. There has been nobody but the premier to boss him. And premiers these days just have too much to do to go around bossing 20 odd ministers.

So there is a chance that this scheme to have four or five super-bosses could succeed.

But to do so it would seem there definitely would have to be some higher authority vested in the new ministries. Otherwise you can see them becoming just further bosses that will already swollen bureaucracy of government service.

Therefore very pertinent is a declaration in the premier's statement that while there would be a new "distinctive cabinet function" the principle of "collective, equal responsibility" would remain.

"Equal?" What does that imply?

When we know we will know better if this scheme has a chance of getting off the ground.

Discovery Could Help Combat Exhaust Fumes

Ulster Commentary

A remarkable discovery by an Ulster scientist could mean the end of the serious worldwide problem of air pollution by car exhaust fumes. The find is a new catalyst which converts the complex substances in the exhaust of petrol engines to harmless water and carbon dioxide.

And the catalyst is so cheap to produce that its incorporation into the exhaust system of a new car would involve only a fraction of the cost of other systems.

Lanzhag Industrial Research Association chemist Dr. Eric Robinson discovered the catalyst after several years research — originally for effluent from linen mills which was polluting rivers.

"Laboratory tests have proved extremely successful," said Dr. Robinson. "We have been delighted to turn about 90 per cent of the pollutant gases in car exhaust fumes into harmless gases. . .

"A catalyst," explained Dr. Robinson, "was a substance which caused chemical reaction. Now," he said, "we have to examine a method of supporting the catalyst in a car exhaust system — perhaps in the form of pellets. Then, we must find out if substances in petrol, such as lead, will build up on the catalyst and reduce its effectiveness. Finally, we will have to find out how long it will last.

"Other companies have been trying to develop effective catalysts to do the same job — but they are platinum - based and very expensive. Ours is manganese-based and much cheaper."

Dr. Robinson's discovery could not have come at a better time. It could be developed to be turned to commercial use by 1972, when Japan is bringing in laws governing car exhaust fumes. America follows suit in 1975 and British cars for export will have to fitted with 'clean car exhaust systems.

Dr. Robinson, (36) was educated at Royal Belfast Academical Institution and took his B.Sc. and Ph.D at Queen's University, Belfast.

Chilean Bard

All Latin America Recognized By Nobel Prize to Pablo Neruda

Christian Science Monitor

Sure enough, there is a geographical and political context in which the Nobel Prize for literature is given. It may have been that last year's award to the Soviet Union's Alexander Solzhenitsyn passed the way for this year's choice of Chile's Pablo Neruda. The Soviet novelist's work is thought by his government to be anti-Communist. There has been an end of trouble for the Swedish Academy and Mr. Solzhenitsyn with Soviet officials over the award. In contrast, Neruda is on the other side of the Communist socialist fence in Chile, where as a loyal member of the Communist Party he bears diplomatic rank in the leftist coalition government.

But in the longer sweep of time, the political and geographical balancing out of the two awards will come as a surprise alongside the justice of both of them. For Communist or anti-Communist, both men are giants of literature whose full relevance to mankind's written galaxies may take generations to unfold.

Pablo Neruda was an important poet long before he was a Communist. Only the Argentine novelist Jorge Luis Borges ranks with him as a literary genius among Spanish and Portuguese writers. This year's prize could have gone to either of the two. Borges, of course, is known more widely in other parts of the world, while Neruda is the more widely read within the Spanish-speaking world. Borges' appeal is more restricted, however, to the intellectual classes. Neruda's poems are known and loved by workers and taxi drivers, and have helped give form to the Spanish world's emotional and artistic consciousness.

The award to Neruda will give an enormous lift to all of South and Central America. A great poet to the Latin peoples is a great leader. Recognition of their bard is recognition of them.

Toronto Board Sidetracks Funds for French Classes

Ottawa Le Droit: The Globe and Mail disclosed recently the whimsical way . . . in which federal money is spent. Fortunately, it is no longer necessary to be French without remuneration. The school board wishes to extend the teaching of French. Thus . . . this year it has opened a completely French nursery school—immersion course—for young Anglophones.

This apparently well - forgetfulness a better comprehension between Francophones and Anglophones in the Queen City.

It is impossible to satisfy everyone. . . . As an example it cites the case of two teachers . . . who undertook to teach French without remuneration every Friday in the dinner hour in reply to the wishes of their students.

If such a phenomenon had been predicted 10 years ago, no one would have believed it. But the Globe says Ottawa knew what was going on and closed its eyes, saying that teaching is a provincial matter and the federal government would not interfere in it. . . .

The Globe also tells us that Toronto Anglophones are so

Catholic Bishops Reject Most Of Social Justice Document

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The world synod of bishops has voted to reject four of five sections of a draft document on social justice.

This was announced Friday, the next-to-last day of the five-week Roman Catholic Church synod and created a confused, last-minute rush for consensus on the two hotly-debated themes of the priesthood and justice.

Bishops Accept Retirement

NEW YORK (AP) — American Roman Catholic bishops are, in most cases, going along with a new church policy of retiring from office at the age of 75. It is intended for the good of the church. It also seems to be good for them.

They're living longer.

"The average length of their lives has been going up recently since the change," said Bishop Francis P. Leipzig, 76, the retired bishop of Baker, Ore., and an expert on episcopal longevity.

"They're freed of the stress and difficulties of their position in their later years."

Since the church's origins in the United States, the average age to which Roman Catholic bishops have lived is 69. But the figure started going up for the first time in 1968, averaging about 74 since then, although many bishops live far beyond that.

It was in 1965 that Pope Paul introduced the new retirement practice into the church, requesting that bishops offer their resignations at 75, except in special circumstances mitigating against it.

Since then, in steady succession 31 American bishops have stepped out of office, turning over their jobs to younger men.

Prior to the new policy, bishops ordinarily kept their posts until the end, often into their 80s, sometimes beyond that, although Bishop Leipzig notes there have been occasional retirements throughout the church's American history.

Although most bishops have conformed to the new practice, a few have stayed on beyond the 75-year level, but in some cases, the Pope may delay accepting resignations because of particular circumstances.

Also, it is not formally required that bishops submit them at 75—the Pope only requested it, leaving room for flexibility in specific situations.

He himself reaches 75 a year hence, with recurring speculation over whether he will take his own advice and quit then.

At present, the Catholic Almanac shows there are 12 bishops still in office in the United States at 75 or beyond. Four are 76, three of whom will be 77 by the year's end, and three are older than that.

The biannual synod had been forced Thursday to put off a formal vote on priesthood because of a row over wording of a part agreed on dealing with priestly celibacy.

The bishops had handed in their ballots Thursday on the social justice document. They were told Friday that only one section—a generally worded conclusion calling on men to imitate Christ—received the necessary majority of 132 votes from the 208-member body.

The rejected sections were:

—A part calling for redistribution of the world's wealth.

—An appeal for the church to restyle its image to identify more with the poor.

—A long section detailing how the church could work with other institutions against social ills.

For all of the four rejected sections synod delegates submitted far more votes "with reservations" than simple "no" votes.

These reservations contained written suggestions for redrafting all or part of the rejected sections.

The synod was not told immediately what the written opinions said, whether they were for a stronger or weaker stand.

Later, a synod source said the bulk of the amendments tended toward more "prudent" wording. He also said many bishops had sought a clearer call for changes inside the church, as the first step toward fostering justice in the world.

Rev. Jim Roach, English language press officer and briefing officer, told reporters that the amendments would not drastically change the text.

Area Couples Exchange Marriage Vows

BELEJ — JIMMO

Queen of Heaven Roman Catholic Chapel, CFB, Trenton was the setting for the October 23 wedding when Donna Lynn Jimmo became bride of Jerry Belej. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jimmo, Middleton Park, Trenton and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Belej, Frankford.

Rev. Kenneth Jimmo, cousin of the bride officiated at the candlelight ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. J. Deveau, organist who accompanied Mrs. F. Clark as soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white crepe over taffeta trimmed with forget-me-nots featuring empire styled waistline, high rounded neckline, puffed sleeves. A chapel length veil trimmed with forget-me-nots fell softly from the waistline.

Her shoulder length veil was held in place with a headpiece of wedding bells and flowers and she carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister Sharon who wore an empire styled A-line gown of blue chiffon over taffeta with puffed sleeves trimmed with daisies. A floral headpiece held in place a shoulder length blue veil. She carried a bouquet of daisies and blue chrysanthemums tinted to match her gown. The bridesmaid Ann Belej, sister of the bridegroom wore a yellow chiffon over taffeta gown with empire waistline, gathered at the back and puffed sleeves trimmed with lace. She carried daisies intermingled with chrysanthemums tinted to match her gown and she wore a floral headpiece with a short veil.

The flower girl, Lori Raymond, wore a soft pink chiffon over taffeta gown to match the other attendants. She wore a headband of flowers and carried a white basket of daisies and pink chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom was attended by Walter Belej, his brother from Toronto while the ushers were David Morrison, Ingleside and Chad Folk, CFB Trenton.

The reception was held at the junior ranks Mess Hall where the guests were received by the mother of the bride. She wore a rose crepe sleeveless dress with gathered waist, black accessories and a corsage of a white orchid. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom who wore a soft pink, lace, crimplene A-line dress with long sleeves, black accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

TOUSAW — DONALDSON

Jane Marguerite Donaldson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Donaldson of RR 4 Stirling, was recently united in marriage to Rodney Charles Tousaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Tousaw of Bengeville. Rev. A. Parsons conducted the ceremony which was held in Emmanuel United Church, Foxboro while Mrs. Fern Spencer, organist and Mrs. Rita Hough, soloist provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a charitilly lace gown featuring a scalloped scoop neckline encircled with seed pearls, a fitted bodice, and long sleeves. The full bouffant skirt was adorned with organdy roses forming a V at the back. Her waist length four tier veil fell from a pearl headdress. She carried a white Bible crested with yellow roses and a drop pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid of honor Sandra Donaldson the bride's sister wore a floor length empire waisted gown of yellow polyester crepe with green and yellow trim. She carried a basket of white and green chrysanthemums and wore matching green flowers in her hair.

Dressed similarly to the maid of honor were the bridesmaids Mrs. Leanne Scott, the bride's sister in green, Mrs. Gloria Tousaw, the bridegroom's sister - in - law in green and Miss Wanda Donaldson, the bride's sister as junior bridesmaid in yellow. These in green carried yellow and white flowers in baskets and were yellow flowers in their hair while those in yellow carried baskets of white and green tipped flowers and were green ones in their hair.

The best man was Wayne Wright, the bridegroom's cousin, while the ushers were Dean Donaldson, brother of the bride, and Gerry Tousaw brother of the bridegroom. bride The junior usher was Gerry Donaldson, brother of the bride. Kirk Donaldson, another brother of the bride was ring bearer.

The reception was held at the United Church hall, Foxboro. The bride's mother chose a coral crimplene lace coat and dress ensemble for the occasion. She wore black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a pale blue polyester lace coat and dress ensemble with navy accessories and a corsage of blue-tipped white carnations.

For a wedding trip to points West, the bride donned a brown and beige double knit coat and dress ensemble with brown accessories and a yellow rose corsage.

Upon return the couple will reside in Bengeville.

COOPER AND REMINGTON

The October meeting of the Cooper and Remington WI was held at the community hall on Wednesday evening, Oct. 20. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Fred Stein presided.

The roll call "what are we as WI's minute members ... leaving for our successors" showed an attendance of 12 adults and two students.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The collection was taken by Miss L. McCoy.

A card of thanks was read from Mr. A. McCoy. Other business re the Trent valley convention was discussed. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. C. Fitzgerald.

Mrs. L. McCoy was in charge of the program. Miss L. McCoy favored the gathering with two solos. Mrs. G. Graham gave a humorous reading. The guest speaker, Mrs. R. Empey, was introduced by Mrs. E. Graham.

Mrs. Empey showed slides which were taken at Centre Hastings High School. These slides dealt with the special education course offered at CHSS. Mrs. Empey discussed the many questions which the women asked.

Everyone was greatly interested in this area of the educational system. Mrs. G. Graham thanked Mrs. Empey and presented her with a small gift.

Lunch was served by the committee and a social time was spent.

VON Visits on Increase Due to More Referrals

At the recent monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses, Quinte Branch, the nurse in charge, Miss Valerie Truax, revealed that there were 560 visits made to patients during September compared to 699 in August. This jump in visits is largely reflective of increased referrals received from the Home Care Program. A new relief nurse in the person of Mrs. Marilyn Young was hired by the branch in September. She will work largely in the Belleville area.

During September, Grant Harrison, VON Board chairman, along with Mr. J. Bristow of Trenton and Miss Truax met with the budget committee of the United Community Services. The representatives of the VON briefly outlined the services.

These are available through the organization and discussed with the committee members future goals — increased involvement with the Hastings and Prince Edward Home Care Program, geographical expansion and the VONs likely role in the convalescent field.

Public awareness of the VON program and the new home care program was supplied by Miss Truax to a group of women at Wellington United Church. The Prince Edward County area only recently began to receive these specific health services.

The BancroftArea will soon benefit from VON services. Office accommodation will be shared with the Public Health Unit on a free basis.

TRINITY ROSLIN UCW

Mrs. Delbert Rowe was hostess for the Trinity United Church Roslin UCW Nov. 2 with a fair attendance.

Mrs. Reider, Mrs. Kerr, opened the meeting in the usual way. Mrs. Delbert Rowe had charge of devotions using "self-seeking" as the theme, after reading some thoughts about it, a dialogue was put on to illustrate the program with Mrs. Hodgen, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Rowe taking part.

After reading of reports, plans were discussed for the Young Ad Bazaar Cash for Nov. 13 with Plainfield providing the lunch. For the anniversary on Nov. 21, plans were made for a potluck dinner at noon. Some students from Queen's will participate in a Young Peoples program for the afternoon.

Mrs. Kerr read the report of the nominating committee.

The hostess served dainty refreshments.

Due to the absence of the president Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Matier opened the October meeting of Tabernacle UCW with a Thanksgiving poem, Business concerning the church bazaar on Dec. 1 was discussed.

Mrs. McWilliams gave a report on her stay at Five Oaks.

Be Interested in Sunday School work she attended meetings pertaining to this work. She also referred to the study packet on Africa, and the use of new hymnal in the Sunday School.

Mrs. Charleton who attended the rally at Westminster Church gave a report on same. She reminded all "we must get right in our Church work lest we fall off." Mrs. Charleton and Mrs. Barlow conducted the worship service along the Stewardship theme.

Mrs. Buck and Mrs. Lockyer were in charge of the worship service for the evening. Several portions from the Bible on giving thanks were read, and also a reading "If we would think more we would thank more".

Mrs. Buck gave a reading on the origin of Thanksgiving day, and the meeting closed.

A social hour followed.

IODE Against Legal Pot

TORONTO (SCP) — The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will urge the federal government not to legalize marijuana.

The national executive committee of the 23,000-member organization passed a resolution to that effect during a semi-annual meeting Wednesday.

The resolution says the IODE objects to legalizing the drug because not enough research has been done on long-term effects, and because legalizing its use could make Canada a haven for drug users from other countries.

Retired Men Should Share Household Chores with Their Wives

By DORIS CLARK

As she serves her husband his late breakfast, Justa around his easy chair (where he watches daytime television) and makes his bed, Mrs. B. inwardly rebels. To her daughter she openly complains: "Your father retired, but I didn't!"

Woman's work goes on forever!

Prompts me to question whether there shouldn't be a new deal on that hateful Retirement Day. A new assignment of tasks. A person - to - person contentment.

Let's suppose Mr. and Mrs. B. arrange things so that the house is no longer a burden and both finish their assignments about the same time. With baking done, kitchen tidy, floors polished, beds made, they can take off, together, for bridge club or volunteer work. Or a trip to "Somewhere."

Many a retired executive has taken to cooking — steaks, piquant sauces, then once he has time and energy to think about it. And the kitchen-allergic ones tackle house - painting or cleaning or carpentry with a will. Mr. B. needs to know he is still needed!

The lucky ones are the ones with something special to do — not the idle seniors whose sole pastime is television.

Dear Doris: A year ago I married a person I considered the kindest, most gentle person in the world. But his bad points began to surface when I became pregnant, since up hadn't planned to have a family right away. Instead of trying to console me, he started calling me terrible names. Several times he used physical force on me, leaving bruises.

I finally faced the reality that he must hate me and no amount of love or sacrifice on my part will turn his heart. I can live with this, but what is the best for my daughter? I don't want her to grow up with parents who aren't even civil to each other.

I've suggested to him that we might benefit from professional guidance. His only answer was a scornful sneer — "Yeah! you could use some fixing." Depressed

Dear Depressed: Well, it is not the kind of situation that can be "fixed" by a single letter from me. Your marriage is headed for the rocks, and I cannot see raising a child in that atmosphere. Some builders could profit from this information. My thanks and best wishes from thousands who are —Rolling Along

Dear Thousands: Here's your letter and my thanks. It's amazing how little thought was given by people in wheelchairs until Franklin D. Roosevelt became president. Many buildings installed ramps and widened doorways for him. I hope your letter will serve as a reminder that the wheelchair population should not be forgotten.

Dear Ann Landers: We have a 16-year-old son who is very nice looking but he seems much more interested in sports than girls.

A few girls have been telephoning Chuck lately and I have overheard some of his conversations. He is courteous but not especially interested in any of them.

Yesterday I was cleaning Chuck's room and ran into a letter from "Mindy." So far as I could tell it must have been a note he received in school because I see all the mail that comes into the house and Chuck has not received any letters I didn't know about. Well, Ann, that letter was so brazen and full of sexy suggestions that I just couldn't believe it. She came right out and offered herself.

I know who the girl is and I also know her parents. Do you feel I should show this letter to them? Should I say something to Chuckie? My husband says nothing. Write to Doris for direction, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Knit or Crochet

Two handsome coats — knit one in rib stitch, crochet other in single crochet. Both have vivid contrast bands, borders. Pattern 7435: directions, sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 included.

Seventy-five cents (coins) for each pattern (no stamps, please)—add 15 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing and special handling — to Alice Brooks, care of The Intelligencer, Needlecraft Dept., 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1, Ontario. Ontario residents add 4 cents sales tax. Print plainly pattern number, name, address.

Dear Folks: No.

Facilities Needed for Wheel Chair Occupants

Dear Ann Landers: Since you often take up the cudgel for so many segments of society who have a hard time getting their story before the public, I wonder if you would consider helping a minority group that has no organized voice. I refer to the folks who must spend the rest of their lives in wheelchairs.

There are so many places we can't go because doorway frames are too narrow to accommodate a wheelchair, especially the size of a modern one. We, who are members of the wheelchair brigade, know the theatres, restaurants, stores, meeting places and yes, even private homes, which must be avoided for this reason. I have a wonderful husband who can lift me from my chair and carry me through a door but he cannot go into a ladies restroom.

Will you print this letter, please? Perhaps some business establishments who are planning on remodeling or rebuilding will see it and take heed. Also, architects and home builders could profit from this information. My thanks and best wishes from thousands who are —Rolling Along

A CUP O' KINDNESS YET

"What wisdom can you find that is greater than kindness." — Rousseau.

* * *

Driving with friends around the Bay of Quinte where "apple trees with fruit are bending down," is to see a beautiful autumn spectacle. Its every stands fringed with red mound of fallen fruit and one of our occupants recalls:

"Whenever I see apples lying on the ground like that, I'm reminded of my grandfather's neighbor, whose whole apple crop, near my grandfather's fence that in the autumn, half the apples fell on his property; a property he'd just acquired.

"My grandfather realized his neighbor deeply resented having the apples of his favorite tree denied him. He was an outspoken man, inclined to be gruff and hold a grudge.

"One evening, after thinking about it, my grandfather went out and picked up all the fallen apples on his side, put them in a basket and the next morning presented them to his neighbor — who never forgot this expression of kindness. They lived from then on, good, amicable neighbors.

The conversation veers toward the subject of kindness.

"There's a sort of blessing about it," reflects another companion, "I had a letter from a friend, recently, who lives in Maine. She and her husband, these last few years often took a lonely lady who lived near them, out on Sunday evening to share a lobster dinner, of which they were all fond.

"Not long ago, the lady died. She left $200 to my friends. In her will she suggested that they use the bequest to buy some lobster dinners".

Said the last occupant in our car, "The poet Gilbran declares that having 'learned kindness from the unkind'; yet strange, I am ungrateful to those teachers', and true though this may be, I'm inclined to feel that unkindness breeds unkindness that kindness reaps kindness, but when unkindness is exchanged for a kindness, it unlocks the prison of bitterness, setting one free of it.

"A case in point — I read the other day of a young boy, born in 1908 in Armenia, who grew up during the Turkish massacres killing more than two million Armenians. He said it was a 'nightmare'. Even on the way to and from school we Armenian children would be stoned by the Moslem children.'

"During his teens, his family found refuge, and he was sent to America, where he arrived (after 28 days in steerage) in Halifax on New Year's Eve.

"He was 16, had 'good manners and nothing else,' he said, and was put in the fourth grade with small children, who not only let him play marbles with them, but let him win.

"'It was the first kindness I had ever known, and it began my love affair with Canada'.

"The boy was none other than Canada's famous 'artist of the portrait photograph, Mr. Yousuf Karsh of Ottawa."

Many London Boutiques Sell Male Styles; Jermyn Street Has Series of Small Shops

LONDON (CP) — Real and sightseeing shopping is part of a London trip. Here the women come off second best as men as far as boutiques are concerned.

Jermyn Street is practically a male preserve with a series of small shops mostly featuring shirts and ties. It's parallel to Piccadilly and runs behind famous Fortnum and Mason where they exported foods and choice fruits are right as you enter the store.

On Jermyn, Harvie and Hudson is showing a few of the more daring shirts to be found on the street. One is a miniature barber pole, red-striped and worn with a black knit vest and black quilted effect tie. Another shirt is green and blue striped, the latter in narrowing rows.

Also on Jermyn Street is one of John Stephen's nine shops. This is for shirts and ties. Actually, they are rather shockers for Jermyn Street where the traditional is classic and usually more restrained look is the rule. Stephen likes them different.

Stephen has another shop on Oxford Street, opposite Selfridges department store. He started almost single-handed on Carnaby Street more than eight years ago.

His shops may be mod and avant-garde but he dresses conservatively himself and expects his executives to look like typical London businessmen. He's even known to suggest haircuts to a few longer-haired executives.

He and Mary Quant were the London mod leaders in fashions that swept over the world. Both survived the rush of imitators. Both are designers and understand basic fashion which is quite apart from the fads that have swept the London scene.

Carnaby Street at first was the shopping centre for the London mods. Then the tourists discovered the street and the new mod look. Stephen says the tourists came to look and buy ties and small items. But the bread-and-butter sales were, and still are, from the Londoners and sales are rising.

New Panty Hose Like Boot

NEW YORK (CP) — Legs are not as much on view this season as formerly. The knee-length daytime skirt and the-ankle- or floor-length dress for evening have lessened the leg impact.

Generally it appears to be for the best. The mini showed too much bulging thigh. Of course there are still hot pants but for winter most are likely to be hidden under a slit skirt. And slits show only a tantalizing bit of feet tie.

So what about hosiery for late fall and winter? It has developed a pew interest that brings back texture, pattern and color. This applies to both nylons and panty hose.

Panty hose were only introduced in 1966 but sales have doubled and quadrupled. Women wonder how they ever managed without panty hose. They are so functional and comfortable.

This season Hanes has a version of panty hose that suggests an over-the-knee boot, especially when worn with suede ankle boots. The leg, to six inches above the knee, is in 70 denier nylon with cuff-bands to suggest the top of a boot. Above the bands to the waist is a sheer nylon. There is also the knee length, to wear with casual clothes. Opaque to the knee and sheer above, they have a fake striped cuff.

Colors in both styles include ebony, navy, loam, garnet, terracotta, brick, jarper green, slate and rice.

CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION COMMISSION

The Canadian Radio-Television Commission announces the following decision effective on October 29, 1971.

Decision: CRTC 71-1208

BELLEVILLE-KINGSTON, ONT. — 1104632
Application by a company to be incorporated represented by James Russell Scott, M.D., for a licence to carry on a television broadcasting undertaking at Belleville, Ontario, on Channel 6- with an effective radiated power of 100,000 watts (video), 10,000 watts (audio), omnidirectional antenna, HAAT 681 feet.

Decision: DENIED.

BELLEVILLE-KINGSTON, ONT. — 1104587
Application by a company to be incorporated represented by L. M. Wickett, for a licence to carry on a television broadcasting undertaking at Belleville Ontario, on Channel 6-, with an effective radiated power of 30 300 watts (Video), 8,600 watts (audio), directional antenna, HAAT 814 feet.

Decision: DENIED

KINGSTON-BELLEVILLE, ONT. — 1104614
Application by Ottawa-Cornwall Broadcasting Limited for a licence to carry on a television broadcasting undertaking at Deseronto (near Kingston) Ontario, to retransmit the programs of CJOH-TV Ottawa Ontario, on Channel 6-, with an effective radiated power of 13,500 watts (video), 2,670 watts (audio), omnidirectional antenna, EHAAT 671 feet.

Decision: DELAYED

The Commission intends to oppose the application by Ottawa-Cornwall Broadcasting Limited for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Television Channel 6 at Toronto.

In denying the other two applications to serve the Belleville-Kingston area, the Commission has considered, on the basis of its past experience, that the establishment of a television station in Belleville, a relatively small market, on the other hand, a retransmitter station would provide a second Canadian television service. In the opinion of the Commission, a retransmitter station associated with the private station at Ottawa rather than at Toronto would best serve the Canadian broadcasting system in the area.

This decision is not intended to set a precedent for the treatment of other applications involving the use of a channel which is mutually exclusive with one or more stations. It has been arrived at on a special basis having regard to circumstances prevailing in accordance with the Commission's announcement of October 5, 1966.

Monique Coupal,
Acting Secretary.

Bishops End Synod, Reject Wedded Priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The world synod of Roman Catholic bishops closed today after rejecting a proposal that married men be ordained as priests. Pope Paul praised the bishops' reaffirmation of priestly celibacy.

The synod, in the climax to five weeks of debate, passed a revised document on social justice calling for support by the Roman Catholic Church of conscientious objection to war duty. It also asked the Pope to set up a high-level Vatican commission to study the rights and roles of women in society and in the church.

Report Incorrect

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Medical Protective Association said Friday a newspaper report that a woman had her womb removed in 1970 because of a mixup in doctors was erroneous.

The story, later distributed by The Canadian Press, incorrectly summarized an incident referred to in the association's annual report.

The report says the gynecologist examined the woman and discovered an ulcer in her womb. He treated her through a D and C procedure, biopsy and cauterization of the cervix.

The woman's womb was not removed.

End Five-Year Drought

Senior Saints Snap COSSA Jinx

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The giant killers ran full tilt into the jinx killers in Friday's senior COSSA football battle which saw the Quinte Saints break a five - year drought by hammering Crestwood's Kawartha champions into 35-6 submission.

The win by Quinte was the first since 1966, during which time the Saints had lost three straight times in the COSSA finals, dropping a 1-0 heartbreaker to Thomas A Stewart last season.

Crestwood's loss was the only black mark on an amazing season that they had eliminated the defending COSSA champions and the equally-powerful Adam Scott entry to reach the finals.

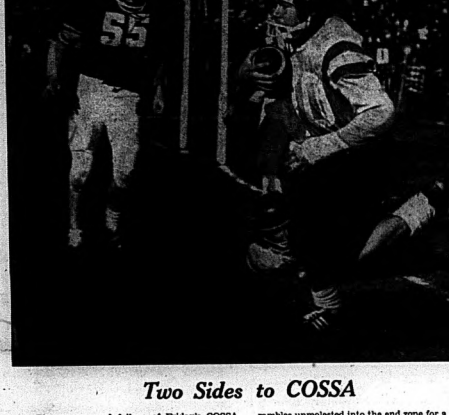
The Saints utilized three key plays to gain control of the game, after a see - saw first half that saw Quinte emerge with a 12-6 lead. The first came when their defensive line held on two tries from the one-yard line by Crestwood after penalties had moved the Peterborough school into scoring position.

The defensive charge, led by middle guard Rod Hinze allowed Quinte to maintain a 6-0 lead. The Bay of Quinte champions had built the slender margin on a five-yard ramble by Bill Kirkham.

Crestwood finally hit the scoreboard late in the second quarter when halfback Bob Hickson ploughed six yards on a counter. They lost another major when scatback Steve Plunkett carried 28 yards on an off-tackle. The Crestwood speed burner was easily the best player for the losers, giving the Saint defence fits in the opening two quarters.

The second decisive break for the winners came late in the second period when their "pocket rocket" quarterback Rick Meagher darted out of a circle of tacklers, reversed fields and lofted 35 yards through a startled Crestwood team to give the Saints a 12-6 half-time lead.

Terry Meagher showed that lightning can strike twice in the same family as he gathered in the second half kickoff and sailed 70 yards down the sidelines to set-up a seven-yard gallop by Paul Hall. The major, coupled with a two-point conversion run by Rick Meagher, changed the entire complexion of the game as Quinte dominted the final 30 minutes.



A fumble recovery by Al Hayman helped set up another touchdown by Rick Meagher on a six-yard keeper play, while Hall added the final six-pointer on a line plunge. The big Quinte fullback came up with another outstanding effort, bulldozing through the Crestwood defence for key yardage.

The other half of the Meagher scoring act counted the final three Quinte points with Terry hauling in a two-point conversion pass and adding a single on a missed field goal attempt.

Defensively, the winners survived penalties and some good early tackling to shut down a potentially potent Crestwood attack. The front line, led by end Mike Wallis and the linebackers, paced by corner Terry Doran played their usual standout game, while the defensive backfield of Jerry Mundee, Steve Smith and Al Hayman came through with one of the finest all-round defensive performances of the season.

Wining coaches Rick Locke and Jack Sisson felt that possibly the main reason for the Saints finally coming up with a COSSA title was that, "right from the start of the year the boys believed they could win it. We (the coaches) think that every year, but this time everyone felt we could do it."

The Saints had finished the season with a 4-1 record, defeating Moira's eastern division champions and the western titlists from Trenton to earn a berth in the COSSA finals.

Air Battle

Quinte Secondary School defensive back Jerry Musclow keeps Crestwood Collegiate receiver Dennis Hurley from doing his job during senior COSSA football action Friday. Quinte trounced the Kawartha champions 35-6 for their first senior COSSA crown in five years.

Two Sides to COSSA

The success and failure of Friday's COSSA senior football championship game are obvious here. Crestwood Collegiate defender Randy Miller watches dejectedly as Quinte Saints' Paul Hall rambles unmolested into the end zone for a touchdown. Hall's major helped Quinte steamroll to a 35-6 win for their first senior COSSA football crown in five years.

Fairways Get First Look at Crushmen Sunday Night

Belleville Fairways will get their first indication of how the Motor City's new Eastern Ontario Junior B entry will fare this season when they take on the Oshawa Crushmen Sunday night.

The perennially - powerful Oshawa entry is currently holding down second place in the league standings behind the yet unbeaten Peterborough Lions.

The Fairways broke the ice against "B" competition Tuesday with a 5-3 victory over the Kingston Frontenacs and will be looking to gain ground on the Limestone crew in Sunday's match.

One possible antidote to the high-scoring Oshawa team could be rookie centre Gord Cousins who has counted five goals in as many games for the Fairways this season. The graduate of midget all-star hockey has added a pair of assists to his markers, ranking him as the leading scorer for the local B's.

Winger Kevin O'Donnell could also provide some extra assists to the Belleville lineup. A graduate of Trenton midget hockey, he saw his first "B" action in Tuesday's win over Kingston.

Game time for the Sunday night bout will be 7.30 p.m. at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Quinte's Can't Hang On To 3-0 Terrier Leash

Orillia Terriers are too good a team to be down by scores among the slo-rans in the eight-team OHA Senior A league.

Unfortunately for Belleville Quintes, the Terriers learned Friday night to prove it.

Faced with a 3-0 deficit midway through the opening period of Friday night's Memorial Arena game, the Terriers looked a cinch to preserve their winless road record.

But seven unanswered goals later the Terriers had not only snapped their streak of bad luck but also a good one the Quintes had going for them.

The 7-3 loss to Orillia was the Quintes' first in five home outings, and they suffered the setback before their home crowd to date, in excess of 1,200 spectators.

"We've lost four games by one goal, you know," Terrier manager Bill McGill explained Orillia's surprisingly dismal 3-5 record going into Friday's visit to Belleville.

After Dave Jones' powerplay point shot, Al Ferguson's ninth goal in eight games, and Wayne McConnell ripped a 30-footer through Gerry McNamara's pads before the game was 11 minutes old, it looked like Orillia would be on the short end of a long score.

"But we were playing well, even then," Orillia coach Tom McCarthy reminded after the game, pointing to a couple of missed scoring chances, including a goalpost, by the Terriers in the opening five minutes.

"We could have just as easily been down 3-0," agreed Belleville coach Gene Poirier. "They missed some great chances early."

Former Barrie winger John Weeks broke the Orillia scoring ice at 16.26 of the opening period. Second period goals by Gary Vaughan and Mike Draper 47 seconds apart pu Terriers on an even 3-3 footing heading into the final period, when Gary Marsh scored twice, and Grant Moore and George Vait once each while Orillia was outshooting the Quintes 17-3.

During the course of the game, the Terriers raised 27 shots at Steve Rexe, whom coach Poirier absolved of any blame, while he Quintes managed 22 s; h y 10 of them after the first period.

One of the few good stops McNamara was forced to make, a point-blank chance by Doug Senior just after Orillia had narrowed the margin to 3-2 in the middle period, may have been the key play of the game.

The lanky goalie dragged his right pad into Senior's shot as it headed for the corner, and the Terriers iced the game on their next rush.

Belleville had two consecutive power - play opportunities in the dying minutes of the second period to get the go-ahead goal, but Orillia threatened.

The Senior - Jones - Wayne McConnell line came out flying in the third period, but Jones deflected a Senior pass out over the Orillia net, and then McConnell shot wide on a good close-in chance.

The Quintes dressed 11 forwards and only four defencemen for the game, and coach Poirier used them in an assortment of combinations to try and dent the high-stepping Terriers.

"They're the best team we have seen so far," he ruefully conceded.

Meet You at the Puck!

Belleville Quintes' Dave Jones gave Orillia Terrier goalkeeper Gerry McNamara an anxious moment here, but after the first period of Friday night's OHA Senior A game at the Memorial Arena, McNamara had little to worry about. His teammates overcame a 3-0 lead to hand the Quintes a 7-3 loss, their first in five home games.

Comets Burn Tigers

By ALAN TESWORTH

COBOURG — The Junior CDVI Comet yesterday captured their first-ever COSSA football championship under the watchful eye of coach Bob Schultz and largely due to the outstanding defensive work of Glen Barr, as they defeated Trenton Tigers 12-5.

Shultz successfully pulled his team together after the Tigers had scored on their first drive of the game, and Barr was seemingly in on every Cobourg tackle.

Neither team was very stable on offence, as a total of only 259 yards was attained by both teams.

The winners racked up 134 to the losers 125 yards. The offense in the game disappointed both coaches. Comets' halfback Gary Lees led Cobourg's rushers with 36 yards gained in 19 carries, while Trenton's best on the ground was Mark Petrie with 39 yards in nine tries.

Trenton started in a roaring fashion, scrimmaging from the Comets' 32-yard line on the opening kick-off.

After two successive first downs, with runs through Cobourg's line, Tigers' quarterback Dave Lewis handed to half Nick Alexander for the game's first score. Rod Walker's point - after attempt was blocked.

Early in the second quarter Trenton fullback Steve Beecroft fumbled a 36-yard punt by Cobourg's John Donaghey, to set up Cobourg's first score.

The Comet's Gord Marsh scooped up the ball and galloped to Trenton's two yard line before being pulled down by Beecroft. Cobourg quarterback Jim Hendry muscled in on succeeding play to knot the score at 6-6. Hendry hit flanker Terry Lewis on a screen pass to put the Comets in an 8-6 lead, from which they never looked back.

Hendry hit Lewis again as the half ended to give the Comets a 14-6 edge.

Persistence finally paid off for Glen Barr, as he picked up a loose ball on the second half kickoff on the Trenton 12-yard line and ran it in for the TD.

The Cobourg defence later came up with another five-point or in the third quarter when safety Dave Cunning picked off a Dave Lewis pass early in third time and ran this one in for a score from 27 yards.

Barr also forced two singles to be given up by the Tigers with his fine work on the punting team.

The Tigers seemed to come alive in the final quarter, however a bit too late, as the stiff defensive play of the Comets held Trenton to only one score, that coming on a fumbled punt. Linebacker Eric Burrell scooped up loose ball and gathered 64 yards before being tripped up. Mark Petrie hammered the ball over from three yards out for the last scoring play of the game. Trenton finished with 14 first than 12 times, and had six passes intercepted by the strong defence of Cobourg stalled the Tigers' attack.

Cobourg also seemed willing to give the ball away, as they turned over 4 times on downs, and had three passes picked off.

As Cobourg coach Bob Schultz put it. "It was the breaks that lost it, and it was the breaks that won it."

Odds Too Low

The Hovlcrs only managed 12 shots against Oshawa goalkeepers Dougherty Swint and Jim Treen in dropping a 3-0 exhibition decision.

Middle Wins

The Esso Car Wash peewee AA all-stars proved they were good middle-men Friday night, potting three goals in the second period for a come-from-behind 4-2 win over Trenton.

Nelson Frederick, Gary McInroy, Danny Jaques and Danny Duffy scored for the Belleville group, who have tied 1-0 and 2-1 at different stages of the game.

Account for Five Goals

Ranger Hot Line Sizzles Against Seals

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York Rangers' Hot Line sizzled in Oakland Friday night as the Rangers crushed California Golden Seals 8-1.

In other National Hockey League action, Buffalo Sabres did some exploding of their own with three goals in a span of about one minute in the third period en route to a 5-2 win over Philadelphia Flyers and Vancouver Canucks turned back Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2.

The Rangers' Hot Line—Jean Ratelle, Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert—singed California's rookie goaltending tandem of Gilles Meloche and Lyle Carter for five goals, two each by Ratelle and Gilbert and one from Hadfield.

Gilbert added two assists to take over the NHL scoring leadership with 72 points, one ahead of Hadfield and two up on defending champion Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins.

The line has been functioning as a unit for a few years now, but this is the fastest start they've had. Oldtimers around New York go so far as to compare them with the great line that featured Frank Boucher and Bill and Bun Cook.

"It just seems like we have the puck tied on our sticks with a string," wisecracked Hadfield recently. "We've played together so long now it all seems to come naturally."

The three complement one another—Ratelle, the smooth playmaker; Hadfield, the tough, physical shooter and Gilbert, the clever scorer.

The Ranger win moved them four points ahead of Montreal Canadiens atop the East Division standings with a 10-game unbeaten streak while the Californians saw their unbeaten string stopped at five games.

The Seals remained in a fourth-place tie with Philadelphia in the West after Buffalo's Gil Perreault showed some of the form that made him last year's outstanding rookie, scoring twice in the Sabres' victory.

ROD GILBERT

The goals were the fourth and fifth of the year for Perreault, who set an NHL record of 38 goals and 72 points for first-year players in 1970-71.

His second of the game, at 5:27 of the third period, snapped a 2-2 tie and by the 6:45 mark veterans Dick Duff and Eddie Shack had completed the rout.

The victory moved Buffalo into a fifth-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs in the East Division, each with 11 points, one back of Vancouver.

Second-period goals by Murray Hall and Wayne Maki settled the game in Vancouver after the Penguins were able to match Vancouver's scoring output in the first and third periods.

Canuck goaltender Dunc Wilson was brilliant in stopping the persistent Penguins, third in the West. Only Rene Robert and Ron Schock were able to get by Wilson despite a 46-shot barrage.

Tonight Chicago Black Hawks will be at Montreal, hoping to put some distance between themselves and Minnesota North Stars in the West Division race. The Stars are at home to St. Louis Blues.

In other games, Boston Bruins are in Detroit against the Red Wings in an afternoon game, New York is at Vancouver and Toronto at Los Angeles against the Kings.

The Bruins entertain Montreal Sunday while Detroit visits Buffalo, Pittsburgh is in Chicago, Minnesota at Philadelphia and Toronto in Oakland for a game with the Seals.

Hornets Hot In Last Period

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

High-flying Galt Hornets, six points ahead of the pack, rapped in three unanswered goals in the third period to score a 4-1 victory over collar-dwelling Owen Sound Crescents Friday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

An oddity occurred at Woodstock, where the Royals scored on their own goal and had to settle for a 4-4 overtime tie with Barrie Flyers. In other games Belleville Quintes blew a 3-0 lead as Orillia Terriers won 7-3, and Oakville Oaks defeated Kingston Aces 5-3.

Belleville and Oakville are tied for second place with 10 points, but the Oaks have a game in hand. Barrie is in third spot with nine points and Woodstock, Kingston and Orillia are in a three-way deadlock for fourth with eight.

At Owen Sound it was Galt's eighth win in 11 games. Hornet scorers were Skeeter Teal, Ron Smith, Pete Brennan and Bruce Reier. Stan Allen scored for Owen Sound.

Barrie's Doug Acomb was credited with the tying third period goal at Woodstock when Royals defenceman Doug McGowan's clearing pass hit goalie Ron Boomer and bounced into the Woodstock net.

Playing coach Darryl Sly, Connie Mandala and Mike Dubeau also scored for the Flyers. Wayne Weller had a pair for the Royals with single goals by Bob Ruthig and Dan Mahoney.

Oakville goalie Ian Young turned away 48 shots at Kingston while Kingston goalie Mike Lovett had to handle 40.

Jurgensen Ready, But Redskins Not Doing Badly Without Him

With Washington Redskins' quarterback Sonny Jurgensen mending from a broken shoulder suffered during an exhibition contest, Bill Kilmer has fired some well-directed passes.

He has done so well, in fact, that the Redskins have enjoyed their best start since 1940 and have ridden a 6-1 record to the top of the National Conferences Eastern Division of the National Football League.

Jurgensen is expected to be ready for action Sunday when Washington battles Philadelphia Eagles—but Kilmer will start as usual.

"Kilmer's our quarterback," said coach George Allen. "He's done a great job.

"I'm not a two-quarterback man. We go with one quarterback, one centre, one linebacker, one right tackle. I don't believe in shoving people around."

Philadelphia has posted two straight triumphs for a 2-5 record after coach Ed Khayat ordered the players to shave their moustaches.

"Good grooming is one of the many facets of discipline," Khayat said. "Our guards had more to do with winning the game than any moustaches.

"They made our sweeps work and this opened up the inside running game."

While the Redskins attempt to lighten their divisional lead, San Francisco 49ers and Minnesota Vikings clash in a game pitting the Western and Central Division leaders.

The 49ers, with the simplest pass defence and second-best total offence in the NFC, are 5-2. The Vikings, bolstered by their vaunted Purple Gang defence, have a 6-1 record.

Gary Cuozzo, who suffered a bruised shoulder and mild concussion in last week's game with New York Giants, will start at quarterback for the Vikings.

Miami Dolphins, the American Football Conference's Eastern Division leaders, at 5-1-1, place their four-game victory streak against winless Buffalo Bills.

Oakland Raiders and Kansas City Chiefs, deadlocked for the AFC Western Division lead with 5-1-1 marks, both are on the road. The Raiders meet New Orleans Saints, 2-4-1, while the Chiefs play injury-riddled New York etc, 2-5.

Cleveland Browns, occupying a precarious No. 1 spot in the AFC Central Division after dropping its last two games, battle Pittsburgh Steelers. The Browns are 4-3 and the Steelers are close behind at 3-4.

Other Sunday games are Dallas Cowboys at St. Louis Cardinals, Green Bay Packers at Chicago Bears, Houston Cowboys at New England Patriots, Atlanta Falcons at Cincinnati Bengals, Detroit Lions at Denver Broncos and Los Angeles Chargers at New York Giants.

Los Angeles Rams will play at Baltimore Colts in Monday night's game.

Regina Playoff Chilly

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were two certainties today as Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders prepared to meet at Regina's Taylor field in the sudden-death semi-final of the Western Football Conference—frigid weather and boisterous fans.

A near-sellout crowd in the 21,700-seat stadium was expected with only a few seats available now in the end zones. About 1,200 of the fans will be from the Manitoba capital.

The weather office predicted strong northwest winds with temperatures in the low 20s and the chance of more snow added to the several inches which fell earlier in the week.

The storm, expected Thursday, arrived hours late and dumped several inches on the tarp-covered turf in Taylor Field.

Saskatchewan finished in second place. The victor in today's game meets first-place Calgary Stampeders in the best-of-three western final.

Temperatures that day dipped to near zero and the wind reached more than 30 miles an hour to produce a wind chill of 45 degrees below zero.

Off with His Head!

Expect Some Horseplay From Hamilton Sunday

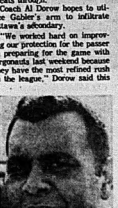
HAMILTON (CP) — Don't be perturbed by the yells for "Hoss" or "Horse" emanating from Sunday's Eastern Football Conference semi-final between Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

It's all part of the sudden-death encounter as Angelo (Horse) Mosca yells to Gary (Hoss) Inskeep to put the stop on Bob (Hoss) Hosmand.

Mosca and Inskeep are expected to play key roles along the Ticats' defensive line in attempting to put the stop on Ottawa's 6-foot-3, 230-pound Hosmard and his running mate, Dennis Duncan, who goes 6-foot-2, 225 pounds.

The winner gets to play Toronto Argonauts in the two-game, total-point EFC final starting next Sunday.

Ticats, who have always mirrored power in their backfield, are countering the Hosmard-Duncan assault with a couple of flyweights by comparison in speedsters Max Anderson (180 pounds) and Dave Buchanan (190).



Missing from the Hamilton lineup will be veteran quarterback Joe Zuger. The Canadian Football League's top punter suffered a shoulder separation on his throwing arm in last Sunday's 23-15 win over Toronto.

His place in the Ticat lineup will be taken by Wally Gabler, dropped by Hamilton earlier in the season.

Gabler won two of Hamilton's first three victories before being waived through the league. In both cases, it was his late-game passing heroics that pulled the Ticats through.

Coach Al Dorow hopes to utilize Gabler's arm to infiltrate Ottawa's secondary.

"We worked hard on improving our protection for the passer in preparing for the game with Argonauts last weekend because they have the most refined rush in the league," Dorow said this week while putting Ticats through a tough scrimmage.

ANGELO MOSCA

"I felt in last game we were successful in picking up their fires and blitzes and we gave our passer his best protection of the year."

With the memory of Ottawa's last visit to Hamilton Oct. 13, which ended with the Riders clobbering Ticats 40-16 while overcoming a 16-5 halftime deficit, Dorow still feels his club can come up with the big game Sunday.

What happened?

"We didn't handle it adequately in our last game here," said Dorow by way of explaining why he showed much more confidence for the Ticats meeting of the year with Ottawa. "We had people in the open, but we didn't give our passer proper protection, or he wasn't throwing it on the button because of their great rush."

"Their great rush" was put on by Ottawa's front four of Wayne Smith, Rudy Sims, Marshall Shirk and Tom Laputka supported by linebackers Jerry Campbell, Wayne Giardino and Benny Dover.

Handed Title

MADRID (AP) — Pedro Carrasco of Spain won the World Boxing Council's version of the lightweight title after Armando Ramos of the United States was disqualified in the 11th round of their 15-round fight Friday.

A crowd of 15,000 at the Sports Palace saw Ramos batter Carrasco almost at will during the last five rounds, but a surprise decision by referee Samuel Odulote suddenly stopped the fight.

Carrasco, 28, weighed 134 pounds and Ramos, 22, weighed 134.

Native Grey Cup Competitors will have Travel Incentive

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian players on the teams of the two teams involved in this year's Grey Cup football game scheduled for Vancouver Nov. 28 will have added incentive.

CP Air announced Friday it will award two tickets to any destination on its 50,000-mile global route to the best Canadian player in the annual football classic.

Only players who have played all their high school, junior or intermediate football in Canada will be eligible for the award.

The award has been endorsed by the Canadian Football League and the winner will be chosen by members of the Football Reporters of Canada

Sport Briefs

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Sad Sam Jones, 45, major league baseball pitcher who won 100 games in the 1920s and '30s, died in hospital Friday of cancer.

Jones won 21 games for San Francisco Giants in 1936, and in 1955 pitched a no-hitter for Chicago Cubs against Pittsburgh Pirates.

He also played for St. Louis Cardinals, Detroit Tigers, Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians.

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, star rider in horse show jumping, was named Sportswoman of the Year Friday by the British Sports Writers' Association.

The 21-year-old princess won the European three-day title against top men and women riders at Burghley two months ago.

It is the first time a member of the Royal Family has been voted a sports award of this kind.

Scotland's Ken Buchanan, holder of the World Boxing Association lightweight title, won the Sportsman of the Year honor.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Bunning, veteran pitcher who only a month ago announced his retirement from major league baseball after a 16-year career, was named manager Friday of Philadelphia Phillies' Eastern League farm team in Reading, Pa. Bunning, 40, retired at the end of the 1971 season, which he spent with the Phillies.

TOKYO (AP) — In a battle of home runs, Baltimore Orioles and Yomiuri Giants of Tokyo fought today to a 9-9 tie in 10 innings on the Orioles' Japan tour. It was the third tie between the teams.

Boog Powell hit two homers and Mark Belanger and Paul Blair hit one each for the Orioles before darkness forced a halt to play.

After six innings, the Giants led 5-0. The Orioles tied the score in the top of the seventh, and then each team scored four more runs.

The Orioles' five-run seventh inning rally saved them from their first defeat in Japan. In addition to the three ties, they have won seven games in Japan —four against the Giants and three against various all-star combinations. They have seven games left to play in Japan.

The Orioles sent five pitchers against the Japanese, who rapped out 16 hits. They picked up 13 hits off four Japanese pitchers.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "I told the gallery I didn't want to get too far out in front or nobody would show up on Saturday and Sunday," Lee Trevino said. "But I was joking.

Trevino, a three-stroke leader at the end of the first round Thursday, slipped to a 71 and second place Friday after two rounds of the Mexican National open golf tournament.

Celtics Win Squeaker

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Havlicek of Boston Celtics waited until the last second to demonstrate his shooting finesse, and it swept a victory out of Detroit Pistons' grasp.

The Celtics' veteran captain poured in 14 points during a National Basketball Association game with Detroit Friday night, but his last basket—a 40-foot bomb that swished through the floor as the final buzzer sounded —lifted Boston to a 103-102 triumph.

Jimmy Walker's free throw edged Detroit ahead with three seconds remaining. The Celtics then called time out, mapped their strategy and set up Havlicek for the stunning finish.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Milwaukee edged Chicago 104-102, Buffalo defeated Atlanta 122-117 in overtime, Phoenix b'ated Cleveland 107-97, Los Angeles topped Baltimore 110-106, and Seattle beat New York, 101-97.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky downed Indiana 115-110, New York dumpee Memphis 129-117 in overtime, Carolina nipped the Floridians 100-106, and Pittsburgh edged Dallas 98-96.

Kareem Jabbar backsted 18 points during a three-minute, fourth-quarter uprising that erased a 74-78 Chicago lead. Bobby Weiss paced the Bulls with 30 points. Jabbar led all scorers with 33 points.

Clem Haskins poured in 24 points as the Suns took advantage of a Cleveland cold spell to take an early lead and widen it en route to victory. Phoenix hooped 48 per cent from the field while the Cavaliers managed only 37 per cent.

It wasn't built in a day.

Somebody didn't just say, "Hey, this is the year for little economy cars—let's build one," and there appeared a 1972 Volkswagen.
Fact is, 24 years of Volkswagens preceded it.
Each one a little better than the year before.
The idea was that we had a good idea.
So we stayed with it. And improved it. Thousands of times.
That old bugaboo of car makers, new model bugs, was eliminated years ago.
If there's one thing we learned about making economy cars, it's this:
There's no such thing as an overnight success.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

FENWOOD GARDENS

The owners must reluctantly offer this executive home for sale because of a transfer to another city. It isn't hard to understand the full meaning of "reluctantly" when you consider all the extra advantages of this lovely home:

1. Large lot 119 x 150
2. 3-car garage
3. Amphitheatre fireplace in living room
4. Fieldstone fireplace in basement
5. 3 large bedrooms on main floor
6. 2 bedrooms in basement
7. 2 bathrooms
8. Separate dining room
9. Wall to wall broadloom
10. Unusual kitchen cupboards

We could go on and on with the features, but better still why not make an appointment to see it all for yourself.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW
One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Peking Delegates at UN Will Be 'Like China in A Bull Shop'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — "China will be like a bull in a China shop; or should we say a China in a bull shop."

The wit was an Indian correspondent who was adding his assessment to the endless speculation, reports and rumors that have been going round and round this organization since it was known that the People's Republic of China is coming here.

Those who are supposed to know about these things are besieged daily with questions about what will happen about this or that situation when the Chinese arrive.

The answers are many and varied but the plain fact is that nobody knows, not even those who fought the hardest to get the People's Republic here and the Nationalists of Taiwan out.

The generally accepted assessment is that the Chinese will play it cool for some time after they arrive next week, content to remain in the background for the remaining month of the current General Assembly.

"Those who expected radical support for their radical ideas likely are to be disappointed," one source said.

Questions about these subjects have been cropping up most in the last two weeks:

Disarmament: What will the Chinese attitude be toward the Soviet-proposed world disarmament conference which the assembly will start discussing next week? And what will be its attitude about disarmament in general?

Middle East: Will the Chinese seek to make the Big Four talks that have been going on for years here into Big Five? It is known that the question is being asked among the four—Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the U.S.—without any answers.

Some Arabs here expect the Chinese to side with such radicals as Iraq and Syria in the Middle East, questions and to continue to reject such things as the idea of a partial settlement which would have Israel partially withdraw from Egyptian territory in return for the opening of the Suez canal.

The Chinese are expected to side in all issues with the Palestine Arab guerrillas. There have been charges that Peking has supplied arms to the Palestinians in the past.

Financing: By all appearances some special arrangement is going to be necessary to deal with the transition of representation from the Nationalists to the Communists.

At present there is a $30 million debt under the name of China in the UN books. Under provisions of the UN Charter the Nationalists should have lost their vote as of Jan. 1 because they then would have been more than two years behind in the payment of assessments.

The People's Republic has made it known that it will come here under the name of China. It has given no indication that it is willing to pick up the debt left by the Nationalists and nobody expects that Peking will be deprived of its vote because of the debt.

Some arrangement must be made at least to get the bad debt under another name.

There are related financial problems. Some UN officials fear that China will demand that Chinese join French, Russian, Spanish and English as working languages of the UN. In that case, it could cost the UN about $5 million a year to have documents translated.

Secretary-General: U Thant retires as secretary-general at the end of the year and no progress has been made in finding a new one. Nothing is anticipated until Peking arrives and is prepared to enter discussions.

The new secretary-general will have 10 undersecretary-general posts to fill in March. At least some of these persons who are closest to the secretary-general will be up for new jobs. The question is what China's attitude will be.

Specialized Agencies: The Nationalists have said they want to continue on some of the UN's specialized agencies, notably the World Bank and the World Health Organization.

Many of these agencies have their own charters and must decide for themselves what to do about the China representation question. If the Nationalists are expelled, as many expect, they will leave more debts behind them.

If the Nationalists leave or are expelled from the World Bank they will leave in question the repayment of what some UN authorities say are loans amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars. These authorities say there is no way the bank could insist on repayment if the Nationalists refuse to.

Security Council: China, the new permanent member of the 15-country council, is expected to find itself forced to use its veto as it fights the "hegemony" of "revisionist" Soviets and "imperialist" Americans. The Soviet Union made liberal use of the veto when the U.S. and its allies had things pretty well their own way in the early days of the UN.

China is expected to contest and perhaps shatter the practice of reaching council decisions by consensus—that is, working things out behind the scenes and sometimes even eliminating the need for a formal vote.

Some observers expect the veto to be used more frequently by the other four permanent members with China in.

To Your Good Health

Lack of Iodine Is Not Only Reason for Goitre Troubles

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss causes of goitre other than lack of iodine? All the women in my family seem to have goitres and precautionary iodine doesn't seem to help us.

I'll read that certain foods contain substances which interfere with the body's acceptance of iodine. Could you list such foods? The book said they were members of the genus Brassica.

The reason I ask is that our family eats more than the usual amounts of green vegetables such as poke salad, green beans, spinach, turnip greens, etc.

I have been eating large amounts of lettuce for about six years, sometimes two heads day, to keep my weight down. Could there be a connection?—Mrs. Q.

Goitre, enlargement of the thyroid gland, develops more frequently in adolescent females and is prominent in inland areas where the soil is low in iodine. But there are other factors.

Foods in the genus Brassica, if eaten in excess, can contribute to simple goitre. Cabbage, turnips, and soybeans (but not soybean oil) are in this category. Cabbage in particular has been indicted.

Others in genus Brassica include broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, collard, kale, kohlrabi, rutabaga. There may be others but those are the ones I know.

All, of course, are good foods but it seems to be a rule of life that almost anything in excess may have some harmful effects or may be harmful because excesses in one direction can mean deficiencies in others.

Treatment of simple goitre sometimes is something more than just giving iodine. Thyroid substance also is helpful, and if a goitre, because of its size, obstructs breathing or is unsightly, surgical, removal is in order.

As to "all the women in the family" having goitre, it may be that dietary habits have an effect but that may not be the whole story. It is not too unusual to find goitre running in families and this may be due to an inherited defect in enzymes related to thyroid metabolism.

About lettuce: As I know, it is not included in genus Brassica and I don't exactly see why you have to eat two heads of it a day to keep your weight down. Variety in foods has merit. Getting in the habit of eating large amounts of any one food may have some complicating aspects. Not that I'm criticizing lettuce or any of the other foods I've mentioned today but variety can be more than the spice of life. It can be helpful to us in large ways and small.

Dr. Thosteson: Your comments on what to do to avoid a hangover (avoiding the cause—excessive drinking) were very good.

A Presbyterian cocktail is made with two mints and less whisky than usual. I love the name, too!

A Horse's Neck looks impressive in a tall glass but it is just ginger ale with a twist of lemon peel.

You have a lot of grateful patients, I am sure. More power to your pen!—D.R.M.

Thank you. Cheers!

Dr. Thosteson: Why do women gain weight so easily after a hysterectomy? I had one a year ago at the age of 30 and have gained nearly 20 pounds. —Mrs. B.F.

The hysterectomy in itself doesn't cause any gain in weight—but it is not unusual for a woman to be considerably less active afterward. If she doesn't modify her eating habits at the same time, the outcome will be added weight. Many women do not gain weight after hysterectomy but let's face it, hysterectomy come usually at a time in life in which people slow down a bit, and that's when the weight begins to go up.

What the Stars Say

Sunday, November 7

General Guide — Now it's Mercury's turn to couple with deceptive Neptune. Things ill-starred meeting is due to produce a falsely optimistic offspring. Judgment, general thinking are building a carefree bubble that's due to burst in a couple of days.

Aries (March 21-April 19). You're putting your faith in human nature to an unfair test by insisting that everyone can be trusted. Often the world's greatest cynics were first-rate idealists.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). You've got to straighten out that costly love budget but your wants and needs to fit back into the limits of your income. Separate luxuries from necessities.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). If partners haven't as yet determined what your demands are, they'll find out soon enough. Be ready to deliver a no-nonsense statement by tomorrow.

Cancer (June 22-July 22), The last diagnosis you'd expect to receive from a medical man is acute hypochondria, but the planets point to just that conclusion.

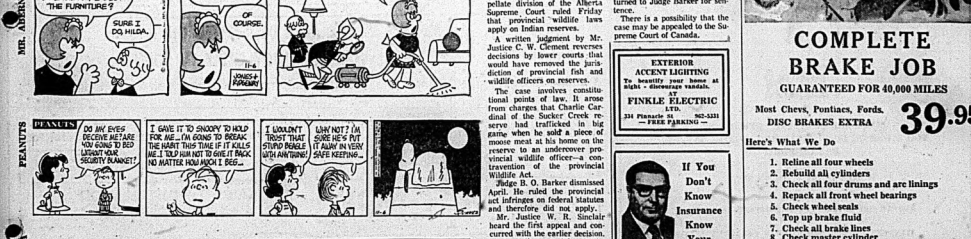
Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Listen to someone who has gotten burned by an earlier alliance with your latest heartthrob. The truth about this dear one's part is beginning to emerge.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your protective domestic cocoon is a lot more vulnerable than you suspect. Tomorrow's developments on the business scene can spotlight family insecurity.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). While your head's in the clouds, worrisome realities are starting to pile up at your feet. News and messages that arrive tomorrow can rudely wake you from your dreams.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). Will power is just a daily series of victories over a vice or habit you're trying to overcome. Because you resisted temptation yesterday, you can't relax your defences today.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You've been turning a deaf ear to complaints from partners for months, especially when a few isolated notes of praise have reached your ears. Better shape up fast.



Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Behind the scenes schemes can end as nothing more than wishful thinking if you're not willing to put in some hard work to get things going. Ambition and accomplishments are worlds apart.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Your winning strategy is based on the false premise that you've got unlimited credit accounts at all family quarters. Beware of over-confidence.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). You can't just sit there and expect the world to beat a path to your door. Don't come up with some positive accomplishments to keep in the limelight.

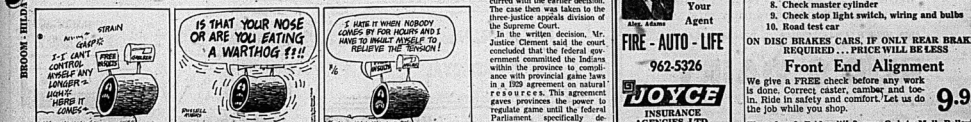
Wildlife Laws Apply To Indians Says Court

EDMONTON (CP) — The appellate division of the Alberta Supreme Court ruled Friday that provincial wildlife laws apply on Indian reserves.

A written judgment by Mr. Justice C. W. Clement reverses decisions by lower courts that would have removed the jurisdiction of provincial fish and wildlife officers on reserves.

The case involves constitutional points of law. It arose from charges that Charlie Cardinal of the Sucker Creek reserve had trafficked in big game when he sold a dressed moose meat at his home on the reserve to an undercover provincial wildlife officer—a contravention of the provincial Wildlife Act.



Judge B. O. Barker dismissed the charges April. He ruled the provincial act infringes on federal statutes and therefore did not apply.

Mr. Justice W. J. Sinclair heard the first appeal and concurred with the earlier decision. The case then was taken to the three-justice appeals division of the Supreme Court.

In the written decision, Mr. Justice Clement said the court concluded that the federal government committed the Indians within the province to compliance with provincial game laws in a 1929 agreement on natural resources. This agreement gaves provinces the power to regulate game until the federal Parliament specifically declared otherwise.

His judgment directed that a conviction be entered against Cardinal and the matter returned to Judge Barker for sentence.

There is a possibility that the case may be appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Canada, Yugoslavia Seen Examples to Each Other

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada and Yugoslavia may learn from each other on the question of federalism, President Josip Broz Tito and Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa indicated Friday night.

Heading for Halifax today near the end of a North American tour, Marshal Tito told a state dinner in his honor he appreciated the interest expressed by Premier Bourassa in Yugoslavia's brand of federalism.

"We follow with interest the development of federalism in your country for it is a question which preoccupies many countries in the world," he added.

He had exchanged views with Prime Minister Trudeau on the "problems and future development of federal states."

"Our meeting with you today and our stay among you has enabled us to complete our knowledge and understand even better your specific problems and the roads you are following."

Marshal Tito said Quebec's culture "represents a contribution to the common treasures of Canada and the world."

Expo 67 and the Olympic Games scheduled to be held in Montreal in 1976 were testimony to the prestige which "Canada and Quebec enjoy in the world."

Bingo Debt Made Man Turn Spy

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuter) — A British naval officer sold state secrets to the Soviet embassy because of his wife's bingo debts, a court was told Friday.

W prosecution lawyer said that Sub-Lt. David Bingham, 31, came home from service in the Far East to find that his wife had pawned most of their furniture and sold other goods she had not fully paid for.

In order to recover his wife's gambling losses, Bingham started on a course of selling secret to the Russians for sums in excess of $5,000, the prosecution alleged.

Canada-U. S. Parley On Economics Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — A one-day Canada-United States inter-parliamentary meeting on economic affairs will be held in Washington Nov. 11, it was announced Friday.

The meeting, to discuss the U.S. trade restriction actions and legislation proposed to expand U.S. exports of U.S.-made commodities, will be attended by 14 members of Parliament and three senators. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux is to lead the Commons group representing all parties.

The regular annual meeting of the Canada-U.S. group was postponed last May due to U.S. congressional voting pressure. That meeting has been rescheduled for February. But the one Nov. 11, it is understood, has been arranged at the request of Canadian members to discuss the economic situation arising from President Richard Nixon's Aug. 15 surcharge of 10 per cent on dutiable U.S. imports.

That hits about $3 billion worth of Canada's $11-billion-a-year exports to the U.S.

Jakob Fugger built a social settlement of 52 houses, 460 years ago, to alleviate the lot of poor citizens of Augsburg, Germany. It still exists and the same rules apply for applicants today as those set down by Jakob.

Husband Who Hires Wife Gets Bad Deal on Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — A government spokesman conceded Friday that the corner storekeeper who employs his wife gets a bad deal from the income-tax department, but he said it can't be avoided.

Conservative speakers in Commons debate applied persistent pressure in an attempt to convince Pat Mahoney, parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister E. J. Benson, that the unincorporated businessman should be able to deduct his wife's salary from his earnings.

The government's new tax bill, being considered section-by-section, leaves the situation as it is under present law.

The earnings of husband and wife working together in an unincorporated business have to be aggregated together for taxation purposes.

Mr. Mahoney responded to the criticism by saying he is afraid that no satisfactory solution to the matter of the mama-and-papa store has been advanced, creating a hardship for husbands and wives involved in a bona fide business relationship.

Mr. Mahoney said the government is trying to prevent abuses of the tax legislation that would occur if a small businessman was able to split his income from his wife's so they each could pay at lower taxation rates.

Conservative finance critic Marcel Lambert said the consequence is that the wife working in her husband's unincorporated business is not eligible for child-care allowances, working allowances, the Canada Pension Plan and unemployment insurance.

And with small business, he said, incorporation is a pure sham that costs $500.

Clifford Downey (PC-Battle River) said the law promotes immorality. A storekeeper could hire his mistress and claim her as a deduction, but couldn't do the same if he married her.

Jack Bigg (PC-Pembina), describing himself as a "left-wing Conservative," said that over the centuries the married woman has been a neglected person, a second-class citizen.

Opening lead—four of hearts.

Dear Mr. Becker: My partner and I recently ran into this hand where our opponents got to four spades and we failed to defeat the contract, which we could easily have done.

My partner led a heart, which I won with the ace. It was obvious that the only chance of stopping the contract was to play my partner for the ace of clubs. Accordingly, at trick two, I returned my singleton club, hoping partner could win and return a club for me to ruff.

But after considerable thought he permitted dummy to win the nine with the jack, and the outcome was that declarer now proceeded to make the contract.

My partner argued he had no way of knowing whether I had a singleton or doubleton club, and that if it had turned out I had a doubleton club, as well as the ace of spades, he would have handed declarer the contract by taking the ace and returning a club at trick three. If I had a doubleton, he contended, the only way for him to beat the contract was to duck the nine of clubs.

I realize now that there is great merit to this contention, but I am wondering whether there was any clue he could have latched on to help him make the right decision. Cordially yours, Constant Reader.

Dear C.R.: Yes, there is. You could have avoided giving West a problem had you led the ace of spades at trick two, followed by a club at trick three. It would then have become clear that you were not angling for a delayed club ruff but an immediate one. Had you done this, West would have had little choice but to win the nine and return a club.

Robber Used Loot For Aged

OTTAWA (CP) — A Montreal bank robber who used some of his loot to cheer up residents of an old-age home has been sent to prison for 18 years.

Ronald Anthony Singer, 34, had pleaded guilty to eight armed bank hold-ups, six in Montreal and two here, that netted him $74,000.

A pre-sentence report included a letter from nuns at Le Pavillon Jean XXII, a Montreal home for the aged where Singer was well regarded.

The nuns said he stopped by often, buying clothing, soft drinks and sandwiches for the aged residents and bringing laughter to them.

Singer, who served seven years of a 10-year sentence for armed robberies in the 1950s, will be eligible for parole in 11 years.

PROCLAMATION

Animal Welfare Week

From Nov. 7th to Nov. 13th

"Whereas, we have been endowed by our Creator not only with the blessings and benefits of our animal friends, who provide us clothing, food and pleasure in life but also with a firm responsibility to protect the dumb creatures given as a sacred trust, and to show kindness and mercy to them in all of our affairs, and

"Whereas, the people in the City of Belleville are deeply indebted to the Ontario Humane Society for the invaluable contributions they make each year in teaching humane principles, and in promoting a true working spirit of kindness and consideration for aniimals in the minds and hearts of all our people, and

"Whereas, we recognize the timeless value of the teaching of kindness to our young people through humane education, and realize that out of kindness to dumb creatures grows kindness and love for both Men and God, and

"Whereas, the week of Nov. 7, 1971 to Nov. 13, 1971 has been set as a week observing the philosophy of kindness to animals,

"Now, therefore, I, Russell D. Scott, by virtue of the power vested in me as Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, do proclaim and pronounce the week of Nov. 7th to Nov. 13th, 1971, as 'Animal Welfare Week' and do heartily command to all our citizens their support."

Chinese Delegates En Route to UN

China Warns India

PEKING (Reuter) — China, saying India has "crudely interfered" in Pakistan's internal affairs, pledged Sunday its resolute support for Pakistan in the event of foreign aggression.

The warning came in a speech by Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei at a state luncheon honoring Pakistani special envoy Ali Bhutto, who arrived on a surprise visit Friday at the head of a civilian and military delegation.

At the same time, Chi appeared to advise Pakistan to set its house in order when he said: "The East Pakistan question is an internal affair of Pakistan of which a reasonable settlement should be sought by the Pakistan people themselves. It is impermissible for any foreign country to carry out interference and subversion under any pretexts."

Chi also made what observers here saw as an oblique reference to the Soviet Union when he said: "We have noted that certain persons are truculently exerting pressure on Pakistan by exploiting tension in the subcontinent in a wild attempt to achieve their ulterior motives.

Death Toll 200 In Filipino Vote

MANILA (AP) — The death toll neared 200 today as Filipinos elected eight senators and 15,093 local officials in the most violent election in their history.

Sixteen election-related deaths were reported by noon, raising some unofficial tabulations to 178 since the campaign started. Officially the death toll was put at 141 through Sunday night, but all news media reported much higher figures. The toll was more than double that in the most violent previous campaign, in 1967, when 75 persons were killed.

More than 50,000 troops and reserves were posted throughout the islands to combat violence and intimidation and guard ballot boxes.

The government took out life insurance policies for volunteer keepers of the polls. Officials estimated that more than 80 per cent of the approximately 11 million registered voters would cast ballots.

Ping-pong Reporter Heads First Group

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A four-man advance party from Peking was flying to New York today to make arrangements for the arrival Wednesday afternoon of China's first representatives in the United Nations.

Six advance men arrived in Paris Sunday after a flight via Karachi, Pakistan, but two remained in the French capital, apparently to wait for the delegation. Air France said it would arrive in Paris Wednesday morning and leave on a flight arriving in New York at 2:55 p.m. EST.

The advance group was led by a secretary named Kao Liang. Chinese Nationalist and Japanese sources said he has been chief correspondent of Peking's New China news agency and covered the international table tennis matches in Japan last April that led to the U.S. and Canadian teams' visit to China. Other sources were not sure it was the same man.

Kao said in Karachi his group would "do the necessary arrangements and administrative work" for the 10-member delegation arriving later.

The delegation to the General Assembly consists of five representatives and five alternates, headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua. The deputy head, Security Council representative and chief of the permanent delegation is Huang Hua, China's ambassador to Canada since July.

Huang has informed Canadian officials that another ambassador is coming to replace him in Ottawa and he is leaving there Tuesday.

The General Assembly has been waiting for the Chinese Communists for two weeks, since it voted on Oct. 25 to expel the Nationalist Chiang regime and seat Peking's representatives instead.

Pakistani Villages Under Fire

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — Indian gunners fired nearly 1,900 shells and heavy mortars into 19 East Pakistani border villages and killed 17 villagers, a Pakistani Army source reported Sunday night.

The shelling occurred in the eastern, southern and northern border areas, the source said.

In Dacca, a member of the government-sponsored peace committee was shot and killed, and police blamed the Bangla Desh movement of Bengali rebels. This brought the weekend death toll in Dacca and its suburbs to 16, including a member of the East Pakistan Assembly elected last week and another member of the peace committee.

Snowstorm Snarls Traffic

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a snowy weekend—a taste of months to come—in parts of Ontario, and winter hasn't even officially arrived.

Highway traffic was disrupted during a storm in parts of Northern Ontario. At Wawa, 163 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, a truck struck a power pole Saturday night and left the town without electricity for 18 hours. By Sunday night, the area had received up to five inches of snow.

Sault Ste. Marie received just under two inches. Visibility on Highway 17 Sunday night was zero.

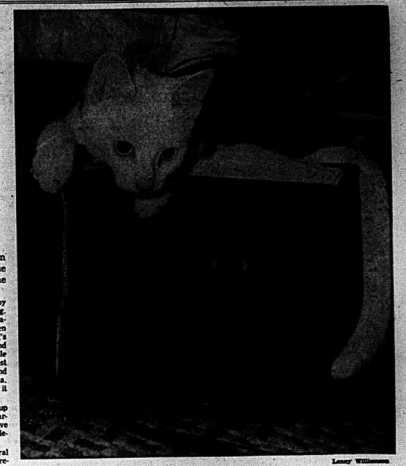
A 14-year-old, Graham Liddane, became lost in the bush north of the Sault Saturday afternoon but was found Sunday, in good condition despite the storm and temperatures near 15 degrees.

Meanwhile the Muskoka area received about four inches of snow and there was two inches in the Barrie-Orillia area.

After a sudden squall near Kitchener and Guelph Sunday night, at least 30 accidents were reported as cars slipped in the snow.

Toronto had a brief mid-afternoon flurry but it melted quickly.

THE WEATHER



Synopsis: Milder air will spread across Ontario with mid-afternoon temperatures today ranging from 25 in the north to 40 in southern Ontario. On Tuesday a range of 25 to 45 is likely. The flow of warm cold air over the relatively warm water of the Great Lakes has given snowflurries, occasionally heavy, near the lee shores. These flurries are expected to end today. However an area of heavy persists moving toward Northern Ontario from the Prairies will spread snow across areas north of the Great Lakes late tonight and Tuesday.

Sharp Expresses Relief Amchitka Test Is Over

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thousands of Canadians protested in the streets Saturday against the explosion of a five-megaton underground nuclear test by the United States on the isolated Alaskan island of Amchitka. Three flareups were reported.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Saturday in Toronto the completion of the test apparently without adverse effects was a relief, although it will be some time before the world can be sure there has been no harm to the environment.

He said the Canadian government opposed the test not only for its ecological danger but because it sustains the nuclear arms race.

"We hope the world community will now address itself urgently to efforts to bring about a nuclear testing of all kinds".

In St. John's, Nfld., several windows in the U.S. consulate were broken as protesters clashed with police. Three persons were arrested in a crowd estimated at about 200.

A police spokesman said two of the arrested persons are charged with assault and the other with creating a disturbance.

In Windsor, Ont., police wearing riot helmets and carrying billy clubs stopped 1,500 demonstrators from marching on to the Ambassador Bridge. Fourteen of the protesters were arrested and later released. Most of the arrests took place when soft drink bottles were thrown from the crowd and when some demonstrators broke through a line set up by student marshals for the protest.

At a demonstration on the Peace Bridge linking Fort Erie, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y., seven persons were charged with obstructing traffic and one person with obstructing police. One of those charged with obstructing traffic was also charged with common assault following a scuffle with a member of the bridge staff, police said.

Elsewhere, demonstrations were mainly peaceful.

Canadian Monitor Plane Turns Back

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian aircraft that was to have monitored Saturday's Amchitka blast for radiation leakage flew to Vancouver from Alaska Sunday, after failing to keep its nuclear date.

"We were within a couple of hours of Amchitka when we had to turn back," the DC-4 pilot, Capt. Joseph Pelletier of Ottawa, said Sunday night. "We had already lost one engine through a technical failure, and then we ran into icing conditions. It would have been just too risky to continue."

The four-engine aircraft, with 15 crew members and scientists aboard, returned to Cold Lake, on the southern tip of the Alaska peninsula, then flew down the coast Sunday to Vancouver.

When the DC-4 was forced to abandon its mission on Saturday, United States forces promised to track any radioactive cloud from the Amchitka test, so the Canadian plane could catch up on it on Sunday, but no such cloud developed.

"We received first-rate co-operation from the Americans all the way," Capt. Pelletier said.

He said the aircraft would return to Ottawa Tuesday.

Pearson Says U.S. and Canada Face Complicated Differences

TORONTO (CP) — Former prime minister Lester Pearson said today that Canada and the United States must solve their "increasingly complicated and serious" differences through goodwill and understanding. If these problems are not solved, he said, "we will be in serious trouble."

Speaking to the annual meeting of the Society of Actuaries, Mr. Pearson said the two countries have a unique relationship —he called it "this bond of basic belief"—which should not be weakened by any action on the other side of the border.

This was especially true since recent U.S. economic moves had created new problems for Canada.

"We can solve the problems arising out of these decisions by goodwill and understanding; by a clear appreciation of where the long-range interests and advantages of our two independent, but inevitably closely associated, countries lie.

"But if we do not show these qualities, we will be in serious trouble for the problems between us are increasingly complicated and serious, as I hope recent developments have made clear."

Mr. Pearson, now chairman of the Rome-based International Broadcast Institute which studies the effects of the mass media on society, said both countries would suffer if good relations are not maintained.

"On the American side this means showing more concern about the problem itself and more understanding of its nature, its significance and its complexity. On the Canadian side, there is naturally no danger of unawareness of inconcern."

Canada would have to adjust to U.S. action.

This required "a cool head; sound rather than emotional judgment, based on a clear understanding of Canadian interests."

"It requires also a determination to defend those interests without whining or provocation, but with steadiness and resolution."

He told his audience—the majority of them American delegates—that Canada is set on maintaining its identity as a separate nation.

"We do so for more than one reason, including the feeling that we can make our best contribution to international peace and security, to better international relations, by developing a strong and united Canadian federation of our own.

"While we rightly worry about a U.S. takeover, we should worry even more about whether there will be a Canadian identity and ability to be defended from that takeover."

A text of his speech was released in advance of delivery.

Judge J. C. Anderson Resigns From Loyalist College Board

Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson has resigned from the Loyalist College Board of governors of which he was the first chairman.

Judge Anderson has been vitally involved with setting up the community college theory a reality in East Central Ontario since it was first accepted by the Ontario government in the latter.

Judge Anderson, today taking a case in Oshawa, said his resignation was prompted by his recent appointment as chairman of the Provincial Arbitration Panel which deals in disputes with the province's civil servants.

These could also include community college staff and both appointments could be conflicting in an arbitration situation, the judge said.

Since bargaining already has started in some cases it could ultimately reach his tribunal.

"So in order to avoid the possibility of any suggestion of conflict of interest, I step before the conflict . . . if there is any — I've felt it a point of wisdom to retire from the (Loyalist) board here," he said.

He was on the founding board set up to get the community college theory into practice in the Peterborough-Belleville region.

The result was a campus in both cities — Loyalist College in Belleville, Sir Sandford Fleming in Peterborough.

Both were operational in 1967 and soon after became separate entities, entailing a division of administration and governors.

In mid-1968 Judge Anderson became the first chairman of the Loyalist board, serving in that capacity until Mr. Rabel replaced him in 1970. The judge was pleased to sit as a board member.

"He was not only a good board member — he was active and instrumental in helping us have a college campus in Belleville," said Mr. Rabel, "I'm sure he's not going to lose that interest."

Judge Anderson preferred to his resignation to the Council of Regents — the supervised group directly responsible to the provincial government for community college operations in the province — effective the end of October.

He was invited by Mr. Rabel to the most recent Loyalist board meeting late last week but board could express its appreciation to Judge Anderson for his work in helping found the community colleges in his region.

As yet, said Mr. Rabel, no appointee has been announced by the Council of Regents to fill the vacancy caused by the judge's resignation.

Judge Anderson said he was "satisfied" Loyalist was now "well-started" and from now on the administration would not experience the problems it had in bringing into being a new college and a new board.

"We've pretty well on our way now. We have a viable institution," he added.

Two brothers, Peter Pochlyko of Belleville and Andrew of the Ukraine, predeceased her.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from the John R. Bush Funeral Home to St. Joseph's Church at 10 a.m. conducted by Msgr. J. A. Carley. Interment, St. James' Cemetery.

Farmers Feeling Shipping Squeeze

The increased rate of conversion to shipping milk by bulk tank is putting the financial squeeze on producers who still rely on can transportation for their produce.

This is stated by Kenneth Wright, as a spokesman for the Prince Edward Milk Committee who spells out five causes in his weekly newspaper column.

The first of these is that as producers convert to bulk, can transportation routes become more costly to operate. Another is that as older farmers leave the industry the number of can shippers continues to decline.

Also subsidies formerly paid by plants as a competitive tool to attract milk supplies have disappeared, while hauliers/operators with routes made up of both bulk and can shippers are no longer willing to take low returns from bulk routes help reduce loss on can routes.

And finally, cost of labor, trucks, and repairs and maintenance of trucks continues to increase, making it a higher costs in a declining sector of the milk business.

Can producer charges were set at 31 cents per cwt. at the beginning of the Group 1 pool in April, 1970.

Styles Catch Up

ST. JOHN'S, NFLD. (CP) — Styles and customs originating in mainland Canada and the United States catch on in Newfoundland a few months and so after becoming popular in other areas.

The fashion trend of long hair for boys and men now is in full swing across the island, and is also fashion for barber business. So much so, that some barbers, especially in St. John's and other larger centres, are going into the specialty business of selling and servicing men's hair pieces and wigs.

Brothers Gerry and Tom Brennan, who have barber shops on Water Street here, says the long-hair style is a fad that will fade oft in time, but at present business in haircuts is down considerably.

Meantime, both have gone into the sale of wigs, hair pieces, hair piece tape, hair spray, cleaning fluid, repairs, styling and coloring. Both are of the younger breed of barber and find that with the drastic change in hair styles the market for barbering at a barber shop has changed, too.

Some barbers say business has fallen 30 per cent since the long-hair style hit the province. Men who dropped in for a trim every month to month now show up every six weeks or so. Some of the younger ones stay away for months, and at least one shop here has reduced the number of barbers employed to six from 11.

Blood Donors Needed

PICTON (Staff) — Conveners for a blood clinic in Picton tomorrow have extended an appeal to the public for a blood donor in keeping their bank in the red.

Target is for November 9 clinic at Picton United Church is 300 pints.

Co-convenor of the clinic, Mrs. Shirley Matthies, observes that a routine emergency call for a special blood type from Prince Edward County Hospital was answered with instant response by 11 donors.

She added that donors stopped in the midst of their week and activities to rush to PECMI, typifying the community spirit needed to make next Tuesday's clinic a success.

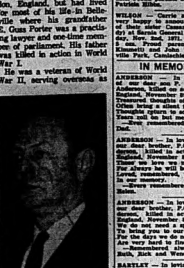
Three open heart surgery operations are scheduled in Toronto next week, with requirements for special blood types.

The operations will require 16 pints of O negative, 17 pints of O positive, and 10 pints of A negative.

Potential donors in the Adolphustown and Napanee areas are being encouraged to drive to Picton next Tuesday to visit the clinic between 2 to 5 p.m. or 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Blood held in a central bank is available to all Ontario residents when needed at no cost to the recipient.

If donors neglect to support the blood bank and Canada is compelled to return to a charge system for blood, recipients would pay more than $50 a pint.



Since Picton has no branch the Red Cross in the three clinics held annually here are Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis branch of the IODF lodge, Picton.

Prominent Lawyer Is Dead at 53

Well known Belleville lawyer and former city solicitor, Edward Cuss Porter, QC, 15 Mt. Pleasant Road, died early today in Belleville General Hospital. He was in his 54th year.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Porter, he was born in London, England but had lived most of his life in Belleville where his grandfather E. Guss Porter was a practising lawyer and one-time member of parliament. His father was killed in action in World War I.

He was a veteran of World War II, serving overseas as

E. GUSS PORTER

Flying Officer with the RCAF in 1940 and 1941, later returning to Canada to serve as Air Navigation Instructor. He retired from the RCAF with the rank of Flight Lieutenant.

Following his war service he attended Toronto University and Osgoode Hall Law, was called to the bar in 1949.

He was associated briefly with the local law firm of Porter, Payne and Arnott and in 1950 opened his own law practice in the city.

He was named Queen's Counsel in 1962.

He was past president of Hastings and Prince Edward Law Association and also was a past president of the Belleville Club.

Mr. Porter served as alderman on city council from 1950 until 1952, and in 1956 was appointed city solicitor, a position which he held for 10 years.

He was a member of St. Thomas' Church.

He is survived by his wife, Ida, formerly Patricia Edmonton, a daughter Mrs. Norman (Toni) Slaiter of Kingston and three sons, Roger, George and John, all of Belleville. There are also six grandchildren, James, Nicole and Jennifer Slater.

The funeral will be held Tuesday from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home to St. Thomas' Church for service at 2 p.m. conducted by Rev. Peter Chen. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

Among those paying tribute to Mr. Porter was Hastings County Court Judge J. C. Anderson.

Judge Anderson, now hearing a case in Oshawa, said he was "distressed" at Mr. Porter's death. "I am sad to when he was just at the height of his career as a barrister and a lawyer. He was recognized among his colleagues as being a very knowledgeable solicitor and one who carried on the best traditions of his profession."

WHY ISN'T THE BOTTLE FULL?

We have heard this question many times when you have given a customer a prescription and the bottle is not filled to the top. There can be many reasons for this happening. In some cases, the drug is stored in a powdered form and a liquid has to be added to release its active ingredients. It is also the case of leaving room for a medicine that needs to be given as extra hard shaking before it is taken.

If there is something unusual about a prescription, your pharmacist will usually mention it to you and in most cases it will be explained on the label.

Consultants To Advise On Seepage
TRENTON (Staff) — Representatives of the firm of consulting engineers, Gore and Storrie, will meet privately with Trenton council to discuss the possibility of eliminating ground water seepage into the town's sanitary sewer system.
Trenton has maintained to the Ontario Water Resources Commission a major factor in the need to build an extension to the town's waste treatment plant is that the sewers are "infiltrated" by water.
Councillors feel if this seepage is eliminated, the town will not have to build so large a plant. Town officials hope tonight's report will tell them where the leaks in the system are concentrated and whether it would be feasible to fix them.

COLLECTION OF LEAVES AND RUBBISH
Leaves and rubbish will be collected from all streets in the City commencing Monday, November 8th. Householders having leaves and rubbish for pick-up are requested to place same in piles at the edge of the travelled portion of the street before 8:00 a.m. of the above noted date.
Works crews will be working on both sides of the River at the same time, commencing at the centre of the City and working outwards.
Enquiries relevant to this program should be directed to Telephone No. 968-6871 - extension 48.
Please do not place leaves and rubbish out after your street has been cleaned.

City Engineer.

Centennial Graduation Student-organized

Centennial Secondary School this year graduated 96 "liicessed problem society" as one of their valedictorians put it Saturday night.

But, Vic Rabel told the recipients of honor graduation diplomas: "rational thinking is just a side attraction in the circus of life".

Sharing the valedictorian honors at the graduation with Mr. Rabel was Miss Gillian Miller, who urged her fellow graduates to "take this system and use it to your advantage".

The class of 1971 at Centennial is unique, Mr. Rabel told the more than 1,000 people present, because the building was still under construction when this year's graduates entered grade 9.

Master of ceremonies' duties were shared by Dennis Frahlick, prime minister of the student parliament, and Jamelli secretary Miss Chris Fulton.

The graduation exercises were student - centred, with Centennial's prize - winning band massed on stage and with students in charge of most of the organization. Following the ceremonies, a dinner, prepared by home economics students was served in the cafeteria.

Centennial principal W. J. Musgrove, in his remarks to the graduates, told them that self-confidence and pride were two necessary attributes for their success in the life ahead.

"Your ancestors survived by doing the impossible and you too have that potential," he said. "Be an individual, unswayed by the emotions of the masses."

Raymond Rowe and chairman Donald Williams represented Hastings County Board of Education. Mr. Williams sounded a cautioning note when he said that mass communication made students aware of the dangers of the modern world.

"I am glad you are interested in the problems of the world," he said. "But I hope your concern is demonstrated by responsible action."

Winner of the Hilda Collier Memorial Bursary was Kathryn Morton and John Lanning won the Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Orr prize.

Mrs. Joanne VanDyk won the Rotary Club Award offered in recognition of academic progress as a mature student.

The Kinsmen Club award went to Katherine Hall and the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 387, Frankford award went to Rosemary Macaulay and Pamela Warr.

The Intelligencer award for achievement in grade 13 English went to Brenda Henderson and Diane Matthews and the award for highest standing in the Senior Mathematics Contest was won by John Phillips.

Jane Bush won the Alpha Mu award for further studies related to the home beautification and Wayne McCurdy was awarded the Hon. J. R. Cooke Scholarship.

Science department awards went to Bruce Hoover, Wayne Striker and John Phillips. Winner of the history department award was Faye Zalesak and of the language department award was Margaret Vanderwater.

The Manly MacDonald Scholarship was won by Jane Bush and the Beverly MacDonald Scholarship went to Lana LaChappelle.

Bill Huffman won the Royal Canadian Legion Zone Command award and Lana LaChappelle won the HODE Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter award.

Winners of the department of university affairs secondary school awards were Wanda Fry, Barbara Barker, John Banner, Beverly Pultz, James Saigle, Bill Smith, Janet Spencer, David Thompson, Ruth Lee and Linda Walker.

The Waterloo Lutheran University Proficiency Scholarship went to Gillian Miller and Queen's University's Lavior Memorial Scholarship went to Richard Camm.

Puppy Love

Happiness is a warm puppy and Mary Wonnacott proved it at the Quinte Humane Society's animal shelter Sunday. She was one of about 3,000 people who toured the building and grounds during the annual open house.

Thousands of Visitors Flock to Animal Shelter

Quinte district's homeless cats got a haven of their own Sunday and Mrs. J. Russell Scott opened it by personally deposiing the first resident.

The occasion was the annual open house of Quinte Humane Society at its animal shelter on the Avonleigh Road.

More than 3,000 people crowded a traffic jam around the shelter as they flocked in to view the facilities and participate in the society's humane education program.

With the opening of the kitty villa for permanent feline residents, a new program of sponsorship was inaugurated.

For $10 a year, a sponsor can pick out one of the cats in the shelter and have it placed in kitty villa. Sponsorship guarantees that the animal will not be destroyed and will live in electrically-heated comfort in outside pens. Although the shelter holds homeless cats indefinitely in the hope that a will be adopted, the pressure of population makes it necessary to destroy the long-term boarders at intervals.

With the sponsorship program, the Humane Society here hopes all strays will be guaranteed a long life.

Six people yesterday undertook sponsorship, including a visitor from Zambia.

As well as operating all Humane Society services, the Quinte Branch under the direction of Superintendent Lorne Brown has ventured deeply into human education.

It invited school children and young people groups to visit the shelter's exhibition of animals and birds and learn about their care and protection. As well as a large variety of exotic fowl, the shelter has squirrel monkeys, a Mexican burro, rabbits, guinea pigs, horses and a flock of goats.

The society also has started a pet cemetery on its property and two animals have already been buried there.

Available for adoption when the open house began yesterday were 56 dogs, 32 cats, 15 rabbits and two guinea pigs.

But the open house opened hearts and by the time the event was over 11 dogs, three cats, a rabbit and a guinea pig had found new homes.

GROW MORE TREES

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Woodlot owners in Prince Edward Island apparently are determined to increase their share of the annual market for Christmas trees, says provincial Agriculture Minister Daniel MacDonald. He says the forest service branch of his department provided 30,000 trees for planting this year, a 10-fold increase from plantings in 1970.

Centennial Valedictorian Vic Rabel

Only Economics Change With Time

Economic conditions have changed considerably during the past half-century but the world picture regarding crime and other problems remains much the same.

Just this is indicated by the headlines in a 1923 Belleville Ontario found by City resident Frank Moon recently when he was rasing an old house on Elvins Gardens.

One of the headlines brought attention to the fact that in 1923 Belleville had the lowest school tax rate in the province — less than half of the rate in several other Ontario centres.

The school tax rate in Belleville that year was $8.35 per thousand assessment.

And back 50 years ago the average house with a $4,000 assessment of $33.00 would have been assessed for possibly one third or less that figure.

The total municipal tax that year, including schools, was but $31.27 per thousand assessment.

This year, the cost of municipal services in Belleville with assessments at three or more times the 1923 rate was $61.90 per thousand.

Other headlines of the 1923 edition of the local paper had more similarity with present day events.

There was a news report of a massive manhunt in the North Bay area for a young desperado accused of slaying two police officers.

And there was a short report from Dublin saying that two more Irish had been executed by Free State authorities.

And a report from Germany said that a strike of more than half a million metal workers in the Ruhr valley had ended suddenly after they were granted the 20 percent increase in wages demanded.

But there were also reports of other events and conditions which are no longer with us.

It was during the days of the Ontario Temperance Act and Methodist clergymen were declaring its benefits to be a great blessing to Ontario.

It was also a year for a provincial election and the long gone UFO party was seeking re-election.

The two local theatres — the Griffin on Bridge Street north of the Arcades lawn and the Regent on Front Street — were advertising their current attractions. The Griffin was plugging an upcoming one night stand by the Dumbells of World War I fame.

Riggs Motor Sales were advertising the latest in Dodge touring cars, while Belleville Motors were singing the praises of their "fully equipped" Ford touring model.

Gurney Oxford gas cooking ranges were selling for as low as $25 and gas water heaters for $18.

But for some reason interest rates were not too different than those paid on some of the present day bond issues.

Western Quebec Paper Mills Ltd. was offering a bond issue at the price of 97 cents on the dollar and yielding an interest rate of 6.75 per cent.

Car Plunges Into River

Police report Jack McFarlane, 242 Rotterin Avenue, apparently fainted at the wheel of his car. The vehicle entered the Moira River at 1 p.m. with only its aerial visible above the waterline.

Mr. McFarlane was able to reach shore safely.

An off-duty Ontario Provincial Police diver from the Madoc detachment fastened wires onto the frame of the car. A construction crane was then used to haul it from the water.

English Unionist On Canada Tour

An interested observer at this weekend's Education Institute sponsored by the Hastings District Labor Council was British union appointee John Hertshorne.

Commissioned by the International Trust Secretary, to facilitate good relations among Commonwealth nations, Mr. Hertshorne is in Canada on a six-month stay meeting various labor officials and becoming acquainted with Canadian union dealings. He will report back to the Trust at the end of March with recommendations based on his surveillance of the Canadian scene.

The Education Institute, held at Centennial Secondary School was primarily concerned with instructing local union members in fundamentals of labor's role in the community. Among the discussion courses were shop steward's training, local union administration and labor law.

Mr. Hertshorne was attending his first educational program and intends to pass the idea along to British union officials.

Since arriving in September, he has also gained considerable insight to Canadian and industrial relations and concludes the major problem here is the lack of unity which previously prevailed in the United Kingdom. "When unions negotiate with management, the pattern is to wait until a decision is imminent before serious negotiations begin." He attributes the stalling to the imposition of federal or provincial legislation, depending on the particular industry involved.

Any trade union official has more knowledge of industrial relations than a politician because he has the information at his fingertips." While mediators are acceptable, he says, both sides must respect them and they must be completely familiar with the issues under discussion.

President of the Bolton district textile workers union in Britain before resigning to take on trade relations post, Mr. Hertshorne said he had never been on strike in his life. "There's a lot of hard work involved (in union negotiations) but you must begin immediately without the bitterness of government interference, Management and labor can work these things out themselves."

He also said he was opposed to government job retraining placement to solve economic problems as he considered was being done in both Canada and the U.K.

Mr. Hertshorne spent most of his time in Montreal and Ottawa before coming to Belleville for the weekend. He spent moves on to Toronto where he will meet with labor officials until January 4, when he begins a westward swing across the rest of Canada. His itinerary has been prepared by the Canadian Labor Congress.

Theft Charged

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Two says men have been arrested and charged in connection with the theft of $4,000 from a Brighton cattle drover in Brighton township Saturday.

Stanley Horsburg reported the loss early in the day and by mid-afternoon both suspects had been apprehended and the money recovered. Mr. Horsburg is hired by farmers to take cattle back and forth to central stockyards in the province and had been in the vicinity on business.

Charged with theft over $50 were William Robinson, 23, of RR4, Cobourg and Roy Chapman, 17, of Colborne. The pair are scheduled to appear in Brighton provincial court Nov. 10.

Brezhnev Speech Hits Washington and Peking

By CT FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Further consequences of the 10 m o n t h s of Soviet-American ally vote for Peking as China's p o l e representative in the United Nations have become evident with the blunt declarations on Vietnam voiced by Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet Union.

Choosing Paris, scene of the chronically fruitless Vietnam peace talks, for his address, Brezhnev accused Mao Tse-tung's China and the United States of trying to settle the Asian war behind the backs of the Vietnamese people.

The mellowing of relations between Washington and Peking has been overshadowed in recent days by the UN vote, with its attendant displays of anti-Americanism by delegates delighted at the spectacular defeat of the U.S. two-China policy.

Currently angry reaction in America to the China vote recalls the hostility to the UN thrown bullet up throughout the U.S. during that feverishly anti-Communist decade, the 1950s.

President Nixon's apparent indignation at the anti-American outbursts of some General Assembly delegates this week recalled reminiscent of his behavior as a vociferous enemy of Communism 20 years ago.

Yet despite the throwback to China's domestic role in the 1950s, preparations for the "new Nixon's visit to Peking have been going steadily forward—and in strict ac contrast to the fuss over the China question at the UN.

Moreover the friction between China and Russia is not continuing on the lines it has been following since the antagonism between the two great rivals for mastery of world Communism initially burst into view 10 years ago.

Brezhnev's Paris statement came during a dinner at the headquarters of the Peking foreign ministry and suggested that Russia and France are in fact the true defenders of Vietnamese interests.

But France was what the Russians would call an "imperialist" power in the Indochina area before the French were expelled from that part of Asia in 1954.

Thus Brezhnev's current criticisms of developments on the Vietnam peninsula seem seen as a manifestation of Moscow's nervousness over the increasingly close Chinese relationship with Washington than a sign of any mounting concern in Moscow for the welfare of the Vietnamese people.

Moscow supported China's admission to the UN and the expulsion of Taiwan from the world organization.

Yet it seems clear that the Peking delegates, once they arrive in New York, will have a field day in their own on world affairs, over and above the designs of the Soviets.

Some of these ideas imply a fundamental reorganization of the UN itself, nominally designed to give greater freedom of expression to the rights of underdeveloped countries—as these are interpreted from Peking.

Other such Chinese concepts are likely to be put forward strongly by Peking to woo the long-frustrated nations of Afro-Asia, a purpose which portends additional conflicts in future between the emissaries of Chairman Mao and those of Moscow.

The Ugly Canadian

The ugly Canadian? Yes, this country has such an individual, just as he is to be found in any country. A letter reprinted from The Globe and Mail today brings home this unhappy fact, and rather destroys all that. Anti-Americanism for its own sake, or anti-anything for its own sake, stemming from rumors ,half-truths and the myths that grow up around any individual, community or country, is something that the mature person avoids — at least until he can arrive at the truth by personal experience.

The Americans, by their very power, by the magnitude of the society that is theirs, by their contribution to world society ,invite feelings of envy, even hostility and hatred from others. That they are not above criticism is merely the cross which all peoples and all countries must bear. But there is that other, mindless, antipathy, reflected by the incidents in this letter, which is altogether unnecessary.

Reading it is to invite the criticism of ourselves that Canadians suffer from an inferiority complex. Certainly the behavior of the Canadian group, as described in this letter, is inexcusable. Unhappily it also betokens our immaturity. But it is not only a Canadian fault; we have heard it in the people of other western nations and it is typified by such references as "Yanks" with which we and others dub Americans at large ,only thinly disguising our ignorance and contempt. It is a measure of that immaturity to which we refer.

Youth Will Benefit

Dr. William Abruzzi, a U.S. psychiatrist closely concerned with youth problems — he is credited with treating more than 900 youth drug cases in one period of three days — was asked on a recent television panel program what should be done with the youth of our day.

His answer was this: "It is time they were brought into our society and given the chance of running it."

Yes, the young people should be fully occupied. They should have our confidence and friendship. They in turn should give of their best; they should dispose of the bored air so many effect in that casual, slouchy, way of theirs, and they should take an interest in the world and people around them. They should knock off the drug habit if they have been so hooked.

In this vein we like the scheme adopted by Moira secondary school whereby top students will spend a period each week teachers with the reading program in their schools. The benefits of such a plan to the young people will be incalculable, affording all, secondary and elementary, a new outlook on the educational process, while bringing new confidence and a sense of responsibility. These must surely rank among the foremost rewards. And all this while fulfilling the main purpose of imparting new reading skill among the younger students. Moreover, this is just one of a number of innovative programs being adopted by Moira.

Emergency Plan

The hospital emergency program being put into effect in Belleville General next May will be watched with interest during the four-month trial period.

The fact that five local doctors will be on 24-hour call, on a rotation basis, means the public can count on experienced medical aid at any time of the day. In big city hospitals this is usually the responsibility of interns, younger men in training.

With the city growing the way it is such a service is all the more necessary. This is implicit in the hospital board's concern with having a medical man in the hospital overnight, in particular, when it is more difficult to call on regular family physicians.

Indoor Tennis

Really, no one need complain that there is nothing to do in Belleville. And with all the new attractions that have been coming to the city, including night programs in the schools, more shopping facilities, and of course entertainment, here yet another has been added to the roster and that is indoor tennis at the Ben Bleecker auditorium. We presume they have fixed up the heating problem in this facility, which kept everyone in their coats a while back. But if not they can always take up tennis!

The Medium Is ...

One of the latest T-shirt spoofs is the following: "Air Cannabis." Worn by a long-haired Belleville youth who looked the part, it may be regarded as a symbol of the escapist folklore of our day. A harmless take-off maybe, but it is also an endorsement of a substance which, depending on the mental stability of the user, or polluted by any other name, can have unpredictable and dangerous effects.

Some Boroughs Halt Construction

U.K. Surveys Find High-Rise Life Can Be 'Dehumanizing'

Letter In The Globe and Mail

I cannot remain silent and hear Peter Mosher's article on the perils of high-rise living (Oct. 15) described as drivel, by the presumably uniformed and prejudiced. I wish it had been!

He appears by intuition and what he modestly describes as his subjective assessment of the situation to have arrived at identical conclusions with several respected, thoroughgoing, and highly sophisticated institutions in Scotland and England.

The Royal Scottish Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children has sponsored a paper on the deleterious effects of high-rise living on children (through its equally unpleasant results on their parents). Such children have been found educationally deprived when they reached school at age five — not to mention their emotional backwardness, inability to m a k e friends with other children, or the odd one who got literally battered stupid.

No less an authority than the Greater London Council (responsible for ordering the lives of roughly 10 million people, about half the population of Canada) has recently decreed that no further "tower blocks" shall be built in London. Their initial enthusiasm waned pretty quickly when the dehumanizing effects of high-rise life became apparent, partly through their thorough and up-to-date network investigation of the "tower hamlets" of London borough, Glasgow Corporation has also ceased, high-rise building.

If facts are required to substantiate Mr. Mosher's article, I submit that the sociology journals in the United Kingdom would furnish a veritable pile there.

Can I add a personal note? I have just arrived here after two years in a 3-room flat overlooking which I acquired two sons. When I saw your streets of beautiful, individual, indepeed ent little houses, surrounded by green fields and trees (well, the lawns looked enormous) I thought it was Eden again. The effect on myself (my husband says I'm getting quite nice to be with) and the children (who have stopped throwing bricks and swearing, and have begun to dig holes and chase squirrels) is unbelievable.

Please tell your planners to build houses for men and women, children, dogs and cats, not endless glass and concrete cages for battery hens. Battery hens, at least, don't have to rear chicks under those conditions.

JANET GILLESPIE.

Bad Manners Abroad

Our Professional Men Roasted by American

From a letter in The Globe and Mail

What is a Canadian? I must confess that this question has never before taken top place on the priority list of concerns. But it has now.

I would like to know what a Canadian is because I have just returned from a month in Germany in the company of a group of Canadians, and I must say, if these men are representative Canadians, I want no part of them. As of this moment at least, I have had it up to the eyeballs with Canadians.

The group I travelled with was made of members of one of the learned professions. The purpose of our month-long tour was to study German institutions. But this purpose proved well-nigh impossible to realize as the Canadians (in my small group, and others) seemed determined to turn every and all occasions into an anti-American diatribe.

A second cube of sugar for a cup of coffee brought forth "You Americans really know how to live it up away from home, don't you?" If we went to the bathroom we were admonished, "Don't use all of it. You've got most of the world's wealth now." If we took pictures, it was "You can always tell an American t o u r i s t." When we offered to buy our hosts it became an example of "vulgar Americans throwing their wealth around".

The timing of the trip was, of course, unfortunate, coming at it did on the heels of President Richard Nixon's Phase One new economic policy. But as we plaintively asked time and again (such treatment got boring after 15, 20, 30 days) "Who blame us personally for Nixon's policy?"

If professionals will indulge in shameful, debasing conduct what can the world expect of the common man? If a group of professionals will reveal in public for all to hear and see that they are without pride and self-esteem, that they do not cherish the good opinion of t h e i r peers, then mankind is indeed in a bad way.

There is not now, nor has there ever been a substitute for common decency and civility in face-to-face relationships. I suspect the lead-mouthed, insulting behavior of the group of Canadian professionals that I had to endure for a full month recently was a harbinger, in the true sense of that archaic term of the way we will treat each other in the future. If so, we are indeed in for a tough time. And besides, you can keep your lousy fish. See what I mean?

Nov. 8, 1971 . . .

Hitler's beer-hall putsch in Munich began 48 years ago today—in 1923—when Hitler gave support to his supporters seized Bavarian government leaders and Munich police officials. The following day, however, police fired on a Nazi procession through the city and the revolt dissipated. Hitler was found guilty of high treason and given five years, the minimum sentence. He served only part of the term, in comparative luxury, in the fortress of Landsberg and spent the time writing Mein Kampf.

1932—Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected to his first term of office as United States president.

1918—Armistice talks to end the First World War began.

1674—The English p o e t John Milton died.

Permits for Hitchhikers?

Montreal Star

In North America we talk a lot about a free society. Politicians work the phrase to death. Self-styled subscriber associate it with the open road. Governments and engineers keep on providing ever more elaborate skeins of concrete highways, mostly toll free and supposedly financed by taxes on gasoline.

But along with more holiday-bound automobiles and more the increasing roads bring a new form of menace. The hitchhiker. A generation has adopted the free ride as something of a prerogative in a mobile society. During the Second World War the free ride for a serviceman became almost a social duty.

Hitchhikers for a time were regarded in commercial terms because they were assumed to be students. The ranks, however, have swollen to include everyone from freaks and dropouts to people unwilling to pay transportation fares.

This all places the middle-aged motorist in a quandary. Will he pick up the long-haired boy or girl in the unisex costume of dungarees and T shirt or drive on, his eyes steadily staring ahead as if looking for something on the horizon? Can he pass the man with the packsack who may be an unemployed individual moving in the remembered Depression plight of looking for a job?

In today's society most problems are solved or compounded by licensing or taxing or a combination of both. Now a form at Harvard Law School graduate proposes national licensing of hitchhikers in America. The licenses would have to be of a minimum age, pass an examination of rules for hitchhikers, and be free of any record of felony or emotional disorder. Of course, there would be a fee. There's no indication of a vehicle licence plate to save the enforcers the trouble of stopping all hitchhikers for a showing of their permits.

New Body Established To Assist Expectant Mothers

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Early in 1972, a Chapter of Birthright will be open in Belleville to serve Kingston and the surrounding area. Birth right with branch, under the direction of Mrs. Louise Summerhill of Toronto, has an international organization is legally chartered and non-sectarian.

This pro - life organization provides, free of charge and in strict confidence, both emotionally and materially that is needed during the pregnancy, single or married, distressed by a crisis unwanted pregnancy. A crisis pregnancy is a well-publicized phone number will be established. When calls are received from distressed women, Birth right can give the help and counselling. L a y e t t e s, maternity clothes, referrals for professional help and any help a girl or woman may require in order to bring her baby to term safely and with dignity. A commitment to serve with love and non-judgmental behind Birthright's credo: "It is the right of every pregnant woman to give birth and the right of every child to be born."

Birthright will need the help of professionals the success of Birthright relies heavily on volunteer workers — women whose main qualification is a sincere desire to preserve human life. Management and with complete secrecy whatever is necessary to help the individual girl or man in question. Ours is a person to person service based on the philosophy that everyone who comes to us is a person of worth and dignity and deserves by more so when bringing new life into the world. Since we understand this with us become counsellors will be the first people contacted if it is necessary that their views be strictly protected. All volunteers must be here to the Charter Document in all of the Chapter's efforts.

We feel the need for many women in the area served by our pregnancy help in the knowledge of trying to improve the quality of life — quality which can be lost sight of in a busy way we treat the unborn who cannot speak for themselves and by the way we treat their mothers who feel distressed, lonely and abandoned against the pressence of life in their wombs.

Mrs. Louise Summerhill, Birthright's founder, will speak at the Bridge and Dinez Auditorium (Johnson St. entrance) on Fri., Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. The public is cordially invited.

For anyone interested in starting a Birthright in Belleville or those who would be interested in becoming volunteers (in the event calls are received from Birthright) please contact Mrs. T. P. Samuels at 354-4217, Box 269, Napanee.

Growth of Awareness... High School Experience

PICTON (Staff) — Graduation exercises at Prince Edward Collegiate Saturday night were highlighted with memories recalled by class valedictorian Robert Smith, 19, an Ontario scholar and winner of the best all - round student award.

Now enrolled in engineering classes at Queen's University, Kingston, Mr. Smith is also the recipient of a cash of the earth award for assuming major responsibilities in extra - curricular activities.

The honor graduate reminded classmates that as grade nine pupils they had accepted most things at face value. Later, the face sometimes was discovered to be a mask.

High school created an awareness among the student, first, in relation to their surroundings and later, in relation to themselves.

"We found that our biggest fight was against ourselves. We had to go through the painful process of disciplining ourselves. We had to justify our life. We started to realize that life was more complex than we had thought," stressed the valedictorian.

He observed that books referred to several basic principles confusing the universe but added that graduates' minds told them there must be only one.

"Intellectuals said that, of course there was no Supreme Being but that there were many forms of supernatural phenomena. We didn't want to be Intellectuals anymore. They tended to deny what was instinctively clear," remarked Mr. Smith.

He recalled that members of the graduating classes had then continued their search and inner conflicts.

"We discussed and learned of many ideologies. We scrutinized them — we claimed to have the right answers, with many seeming humanistic. Soon we discovered that there is only one Supreme Being and that He is knowable and that we could communicate with Him."

He discovered that since He founded the entire universe, we could only be complete by becoming a part of His plan. Otherwise we were directionless," he reflected.

The net artificiality of "social causes" could be rejected by students enjoying life with a definite purpose.

"The entire concept was profoundly invigorating a and unique since, although it is degrading to be in control of human masters, it is the opposite if one is under the control of a Divine Master. Human existence becomes relevant only if one is doing that for which he was originally founded," observed Mr. Smith.

"We then discovered that other matters came into perspective. Contrary to commonly accepted thought, belief in a deity is not superstitious. Conversely, the lack of such belief is indeed so.

"And so we came to high school looking for great knowledge, and believing that when we left PECI we would know almost everything. Now we graduate realizing that this was not the purpose but that we had to search for something of more vital importance," he concluded.

Valedictorian Robert Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Smith; RR2, Bloomfield. Fellow graduates named him class valedictorian in recognition precedent at PECI.

In past years the valedictorian has been chosen by a committee of teachers and students.

One-car Crashes Injure Several

PICTON (Staff) — A Prince Edward County youth treated at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital early Saturday morning following a one - car collision on Black Creek Road.

Oakley Craig, RR3, Picton, sustained a broken nose when his car apparently spun out of control.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $300.

A second motorist received a broken nose when the car she was driving struck a tree Sunday on private property at Northport.

Injured was Mary Hayne, 56, of RR2, Picton.

Three persons were admitted to Trenton hospital Sunday afternoon following a one-car collision on a township road in Ameliasburg.

Driver of the vehicle, 17-year-old Gertrude Bozema 217 McKim Street, Oshawa, and two unidentified passengers were treated for cuts and bruises.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police reported damage to the vehicle was estimated at $750.

17 Ontario Scholars Among PECI Graduates

PICTON (Staff) — Graduation exercises at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute this weekend honored 17 Ontario scholars.

Among these students are James Adams, Diane Alyea; William Barrett, Nancy Cairs, Steven Campbell, Mary Frair, Mary Lou Insley, Alan Kember, Deborah Kettlewell, Mary Kristalyn, Lynda Landry, Rita Lee, Joanne MacKenzie, Eric Pierce, John Samuel, Robert Smith and Catherine Webster.

These students and fellow members of their graduating classes were told by George Flower, chairman of the Prince Edward County board of education, that now the door to opportunity lies open.

Mr. Flower said that only time can reveal what lies behind this door but stressed that the years of learning at PECI will make the unknown challenges easier to meet.

He added that he hopes many of the graduates will be able to remain in Prince Edward although it will be necessary for some to settle in other areas.

Mr. Flower remarked that those who do leave can take "a little of the county" with them in memories.

He noted that graduates will be required to rectify the "mistakes and blunders" of the present generation.

Director of education John McNeil thanked graduates for being "good neighbors in the past five years".

He remarked, however, that the fence between the high school and his home was not entirely without incident and referred to a "theft" of muskmelons.

Mr. McNeil continued in a mere serious vein noting that in youth man struggles to change the world and in his old age he struggles to change youth.

He mentioned the importance of change in keeping pace with the times and observed that ideas are rampant for changes in the three schools.

Mr. McNeil cited these as respect, responsibility and reinforcement. The education director also commented that humility is important, too.

"Take the three R's with you wherever you go," he urged.

"I know you'll represent us well, good luck."

Paul Burd, principal of PECI welcomed graduates returning for their diplomas and said "You have left something of yourselves in this school in the things you've done and in the impressions you've made on your teachers."

Mr. Burd's parting remarks to the graduates were followed by refreshments in the school cafeteria.

Among special guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Hees, James Taylor, MPP - elect, Prince Edward - Lennox, county warden Allan Anderson and Picton mayor Margaret Ackerman.

Toronto Alderman Urges Slowdown

It is time communities slowed down their development to consider the quality of living, according to Toronto alderman Karl Jaffary. And Belleville may turn out to be another overly congested, poorly maintained high -rise society if planning is not done with people in mind.

Mr. Jaffary was speaking to guests at the Belleville Trades Labor Council banquet Saturday evening in Legion Hall. The banquet was the chief highlight of a labor education program the council was sponsoring over the weekend.

Well known in Toronto city council for his campaigns against "just-moving development, Mr. Jaffary warned that "growth for growth's sake is no good." He pointed out how in Toronto and other large centres the building has outstripped resources. As a result taxes have gone up with population but services have declined because of inadequate planning.

He also commented on the role of the politician in municipal affairs. "People should control politicians," he said, invoking voters to elect officials who will speak for them as a whole rather than dealing with individuals' problems. Provincial and federal grants would be better spent upgrading services such as roads and sewerage systems rather than going towards skyscrapers and other impressive but wasteful structures.

Mr. Jaffary urged the assembly of Quinte-area workers to become more active in municipal affairs, possibly by promoting a representative for city council.

Poppy Fund Well Supported

Bellevillians rallied to the weekend Belleville Poppy Fund drive on Friday and Saturday when volunteers manned distribution boxes in shopping areas throughout the city.

The committee reports collection of $1,670, with other funds from schools and industry still to come in.

English Choristers Display Fine Blend

By EUGENE LANG

For the opening of the thirty-eighth Belleville Community Concert series the members of the local association were treated to an unusual musical evening last Friday at BCI auditorium as the famous John Aldis Choir of London, England was present to entertain in a program that was made nearly all "a cappella" (unaccompanied) vocal music. This chamber choir of 16 voices was formed in 1963, taking into its name the cream of London's professional singers. Under the direction of its founder and present conductor, John Aldis, this group of virtuoso singers has made frequent appearances at leading music festivals in England and on the Continent. The choir has also given concerts under some of today's prominent conductors, including Boules, Klemperer, Leinsdorf and Sokowski, besides making inroads into the recording scene recently.

The selections chosen exemplified four centuries of vocal writing from early 17th century English writers to living composers with one 19th century French item tossed in for good measure. Three English Madrigals, two by Michael East and one by John Wilbye demonstrated the choir in its finishing of this now forgotten style of composition, with its weaving counterpoint flowingly spun in a skein of clarity mixed with tonal silhouetting of the Elizabethan age from whence they sprung. Striking temper into musical history, the choir gave a lively revitalization to the joyful Le Chant des Oiseaux of Clement Janequin with quaint vocal noises making their various chirps from the voices onstage.

The Ave Maria of Anton Bruckner brought out the full tonal splendor of the choir as they infused a deeply wrought reverence to its religious sincerity. Closely-knit control was evidenced in every measure.

Benjamin Britten's Hymn to St. Cecilia, an early work that was written in 1942 was sung with stirring conviction from the group with fine addition from the soprano voice of Jean Knibbs. Music of the future (written in the present) by Hungarian Miklos Maros was a vocal description of a crowd in the avant-garde Turba. It provided a vehicle of display from each member of the choir and could send thrills of excitement to some listeners or chills of grotesqueness to others. The printed score of this work resembled an architectural design for a spacecraft or maybe the haphazard spilling of a bottle of ink. It was interesting and different and difficult. Time and time alone will decide its popularity and, above all, its worth. We reserve judgment as doth the wise old owl on this cacophonious carrion from the raucus crow(d).

Two short examples of the music of Henry Purcell brought forth four members of the choir in the roles of duetists. The duet between Corydon and Mopsa from The Fairy Queen featured tenor Paul Taylor and countertenor Geoffrey Mitchell. Here for the first time local listeners were treated to the practically erased art of the countertenor, which could be described as a voice with a developed falsetto. This was very popular in the 18th and 19th centuries, but has now gone into disuse generally — to a tragedy in present day ears. The lyrics of the voice has to be heard to be appreciated — more specifically describe it. Mr. Mitchell was the possessor of a fine countertenor voice, and his interpolations in the comic scene were delightful. He could have had a second number from this singer — one in a more serious and lyrical type. Paul Taylor balanced off the tenor part with great verve. Tenor Ian Byers and Bass John Huw Davies were excellent in their appealing rendition of - the Lost is My Quiet, a lovely number admirably sung.

The French chanson by Lejeune was tossed back and forth from numerous groups of singers and turned out to be a splendid selection for the exhibition of the choir's attributes. The three folk songs at the conclusion of the concert were not sung as scheduled, thus quite a few of the audience were set adrift in trying to follow their programs as just what was what. The soprano solo of Doreen Price in Blanche Comme la Neige was well rounded in its projection.

Following the last two folk songs one encore was given — and this was a real sleeper — the very beautiful Beau Quorum Via of Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, an English composer of he late Victorian era whose music is unjustly neglected today. The entire choir outshone themselves in their superb singing of this lovely motet.

John Alldis as director played on his 16 voices under his command as a single instrument with the resultant effect of one wholesome tone that elicited polish, precision and perfection for the entire presentation. May their other appearances in this, their first Canadian tour be as satisfying as it was to this Quinte area audience.

BARRY TURPIN, 3 Wellington Street, Bloomfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Turpin of Bloomfield graduated on Oct. 29 with a Bachelor of Arts degree (psychology) at the University of Western Ontario. Mr. Turpin who is a graduate of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute is now on the teaching staff of Quinte Secondary School, Belleville.

Cigarettes, Cash Stolen in Break-in TRENTON (Staff) — Police are investigating a break, enter and theft early Sunday at Canadian Flight Equipment at 374 Sidney St. Thieves gained entry to the factory through a back window, broke into a vending machine and made off with $60 in cigarettes and cash.

MOVE UP
IN BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT

Find out about the new management accounting. It's exciting. It's changing more than you know, into a new profession for a new age, at the centre of the management and accounting action. It's the right place to be, for those men and women — the management accountants who get ahead in business, industry and government, as professional members of the management team.

On a long lonely road it's nice to know what's behind you.

We know the thoughts that must be racing through your mind about buying an imported car.

After all, you've probably heard all sorts of truths and half truths.

We'd like to tell you about ourselves first hand. What's really behind you when you buy a Toyota.

First of all, the people at Toyota know and understand what it takes to make a great car. If you've seen any Toyota car, you'd know what we're talking about. The little things mean as much as the big things.

And the same pride we've taken in building Toyotas carries over to our parts and service.

It must be working, because now Toyota dealers stretch across the length and breadth of the land and the list continues growing. Growing because Toyota is now the fourth largest car maker in the world, because of the quality of our cars and because of accessible, dependable service.

So, to sum it all up.

It's nice to know that after you've bought a Toyota, the road ahead is a lot easier to travel because of what's behind you.

Toyota cars are sold and serviced from coast to coast in Canada and throughout the world.

Minister Honored on Departure

FRANKFORD — Rev. John Weese has concluded his ministry of four successful years to the people of Frankford and Batawa United Churches.

He is following a call to greater challenge in Saskatchewan's northland.

Mrs. Weese and the family remain for the present, residents of Frankford.

The appreciation for Rev. Weese was well expressed in a family night on Wednesday Oct. 27 in the Rose Croft Hall.

The church choir, young Ursula Berger, and Janet Bauer, Tommy and Mark Aquino, Wayne Bauer and Mrs. W. Sanderson in an interesting reading on the nature of the generation gap offered good and much enjoyed entertainment.

The evening began with a hymn sing directed by E. Wallace. Mrs. Barbara Scrutton was the accompanist for all musical presentations. Felix Skoutajan and Alfred Storey expressed thanks and good wishes of their churches to the departing pastor while Mrs. E. Windover presented him for both committees of stewards with an appropriate parting gift. Rev. Weese responded fittingly.

Over a cup of tea or coffee, last minute visitations with the minister took place.

Requests for any visitation in homes or hospital and any pastoral assistance should now be directed to Alfred Storey 396-7281, for Frankford and Felix Skoutajan 396-7296 for Batawa.

A pastoral relations committee, consisting of Mrs. Joan Gilmour secretary, and Claude Moore, Alfred Storey and Felix Skoutajan, chairman are working on the securing of a successor to Rev. Weese. Rev. W. McDowell of King Street United Church in Trenton, acts as the presbyterial advisor.

Rev. Oscar Wager, BA, BD, of Belleville was guest speaker on Sunday, November 7 at 9.30 a.m. in Batawa and 10.45 a.m. in Frankford United Church.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

by JOHN CONWELL

Is TV to blame because teenagers have no heroes?

Answer: Television could be part of the reason that so many young people not only have no traditional hero to look up to, but seem to favor anyone who is the direct opposite of a hero. Most of the current teen-agers were brought up in homes in which the "tv" was all but a baby-sitter, as youngsters gazed at it zombie-ly. Much of the stuff they watched had the good guys triumphing in the end, but the bad guys having all the fun.

Can women learn from the 'other woman'?

Answer: If they wanted to, women could learn quite a bit from a brief study of the women who are involved in extramarital affairs. One of the simplest lessons is the fact that most "other women" have one common complaint: the man's wife won't divorce him. Any woman who is not emotionally involved in such a situation knows that the husband is just not anxious to get out of one marriage and into another so quickly.

Should someone avoid criticizing a friend?

Answer: No, not if the criticism is deserved and constructive. Anyone who criticizes just to find fault, however, isn't much of a friend in the first place. Yet if someone is concerned about a quirk of behavior or a habit of his friend that needs correcting, he is proving that he is a sincere friend if he tells his friend about it and suggests a remedy. Such a person believes he would fall as a friend if he did otherwise.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

RYLSTONE WI

Rylstone Women's Institute held their November meeting in the Institute hall, on Wednesday afternoon, November 3 with an attendance of 25 members.

Mrs. Jack Watson, president, was in charge of the opening.

The Christmas meeting on December 1 was discussed, to which ladies from Zion and Stanwood United Churches and the Gospel Chapel at Rylstone, are being invited. Members were requested to bring home made candy, fancy cookies and other items for the bazaar table. There will be an exchange of gifts valued at 75 cents.

Thank you-notes were read from Cub-Sparkbird Hospital auxiliary for a cash donation and others and a letter read from the Quinte Mental Health Association asking for assistance.There was also a thank you note for flowers from a recently bereaved member.

Mrs. Donald Brunton, a recent bride, was presented with a crystal relish dish and tray for which she graciously thanked the women.

There was discussion on holding card parties to raise funds for the Institute rooms in the Institute Hall.

It was decided to try having one party each month, starting Wednesday evening, December 1, and if this proves satisfactory, to continue, on the first Wednesday evening of each month, for the winter months. Mrs. Carl Reid and Mrs. Ellis Jones were chosen as a games committee for the December party.

Mrs. Ernest Irwin, delegate to the Area convention, held recently in Belleville, gave a report, and the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Paul McKeown, who had taken the leaders' course, recently on "the knack of sewing with knits" in Madoc. She distributed booklets with the above title, and described the modern knit materials, which have become so popular; explaining the methods of choosing the proper patterns for the materials and finding the proper size. Mrs. McKeown also gave some practical demonstrations with her sewing machine. There will be three or four meetings for this course, the next one to be held in the WI hall on Monday evening, November 8. The date for the third meeting will be decided then. The other leader, Mrs. Maurice Owens was unable to attend this first day of the course, owing to sickness in her home.

The "pennies for friendship" were gathered.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ernest Irwin and Mrs. Ellis Jones at the close of the meeting.

SPRINGBROOK WI

Mrs. Cyril McKeown, was hostess for the WI Wednesday afternoon. A large number of members and visitors were present.

Mrs. W. J. Barlow gave a report of last meeting and dealt with correspondence. Several donations were made to different organizations. Sick cards were sent to shut-ins and hospital patients.

The WI will hold a card party on Nov. 17th.

Mrs. W. McInroy gave the address on the motto "buried seeds grow but talents don't". Scrap books are needed for their collections for the blind.

Mr. Cadzo gave an interesting talk on case and raising of rabbits. He was presented with a gift. Mrs. Cyril McKeown gave a humorous reading and Mrs. Fred McKeown a contest.

Mrs. McKeown and her assistant hostesses served a dainty lunch.

Social

Prior to her recent marriage Mrs. Kenneth Derbyshire (nee Linda Lane) was honored at a shower held by Mrs. Barbara Lane; by Mrs. Joanie Fox and at a miscellaneous shower held by the bridegroom's family. A rehearsal party was held at the bridegroom's home.

WEDDING

DERBYSHIRE — LANE

Linda Irene Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Lane was united in marriage to Kenneth Earl Derbyshire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Derbyshire on October 29 at the Salvation Army citadel. Captain E. Gurney officiated while Stan Hawthore played organ music and Mrs. Glenys Gurney sang the solos.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of antique satin with an empire waistline, wedding band collar and full length sleeves. The collar and sleeves were trimmed with Alencon lace. A chapel train attached to the waist was trimmed with a border of the same lace. Her four tiered scalloped veil dotted with miniature seed pearls flowed from a cluster of rosebuds on her head, to her shoulders.

The matron of honor was Barbara Lane the bride's sister-in-law. The bridesmaids, Karen and Katy Lane sisters of the bride who were in pink and Sharlene Callery, the bridegroom's sister in green were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

The bridegroom was attended by Dennis Callery, brother-in-law of the bridegroom while guests were ushred by Rick Phillips, Dale Bétanquet and John Lane, the bride's brother.

The reception was held at the Elk's Club. Among the guests was the bride's mother in a rose floor length gown with silver accessories.

The bridegroom's mother was in an aqua floor length gown with silver accessories.

Upon return the couple will reside in Victoria, B.C.

IODE Plans Events

St. Julien Chapter IODE held its regular monthly meeting at the Kiwanis Centre, Regent Mrs. C. Whittemore presided.

A synopsis of discussion periods at the IODE Provincial Area Conference, held at the Shrine Club Oct. 19 was read to the members, which proved interesting and instructive.

Further business was discussed regarding the allocation of funds and donations.

Arrangements regarding the Christmas tree draw were finalized, which will be drawn at the Christmas tea and bake sale on Dec. 11 at the Kiwanis Centre.

A social time was spent following the meeting with Mrs. H. Gorsline and Mrs. S. Kvarda as hostesses.

Couple Wed for 25 Years

The Springbrook Orange hall was beautifully decorated in an autumn theme with colorful balloons and streamers to mark the happy event of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ketchen, RR1, Stirling on Saturday, evening October 23. A three-tier anniversary cake centred the main table with silver candles and bells on either side.

The 125 guests were welcomed by the couples only son Klinton, who is at present attending Waterloo University, while their daughter Kathy played several favorite piano selections. Miss Karen Peters of Havelock was in charge of the guest book.

Married at the Anglican Church in Brighton by the late Rev. R. E. Lemon October 23, 1946, the bride is the former Elsie G. Flemming of Havelock, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. Flemming. The bridegroom is the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Ketchen of Belmont Township.

Both Earl and Elsie saw active service in World War II. Earl with the 48th Highlanders in Italy, France and Holland and Nursing with the Hasty Pees, while Elsie was an MT driver in the CWAC.

Murney Bateman acted as chairman. Both Earl and Elsie expressed thanks for the lovely gifts and asked everyone to attend open house on Sunday at their home.

The evening of dancing concluded with a buffet lunch and social hour.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ketchen welcomed about 20 callers to their home where the gifts were attractively displayed. Kathy Ketchen served the guests while Mrs. Cecil Bura looked after the refreshments.

Couple Bade Farewell at Presentation

FRANKFORD — On Saturday, October 30, a presentation was made to the McGeachy family, prior to their departure from Frankford.

Mrs. McGeachey and Geraldine will be making their home with Ed's son, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice McGeachy in Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sweet (nee Carol McGeachy) are moving to Springbrook.

Geraldine was presented with a silver lead brooch. Carol and Glen, a green pottery ash tray and Mr. E. McGeachy a billfold containing a gift which was very much appreciated.

U.C.W. Meetings

MELROSE UCW

MELROSE — Twenty-two were present for the general meeting of the Melrose UCW held in the church hall.

The highlight of the meeting was the presence of Mrs. Green, a missionary who with her husband and family are on furlough from the African interdenominational mission in Tanzania.

Numerous artifacts were on display and pictures had been sented previous to the meeting hour so that early arrivals were able to leisurely view them. Mrs. Green who had been the guest of Mrs. Roy Badgley for the supper hour handled each article and told of its structure and use. One very attractive piece was the skin of a python from six to eight feet long.

Mrs. Green told of their work among the natives and had slides depicting the customes and dress of the people. The habit of wearing a collar of beads is common; one of these weighed 14 pounds.

Missionary work is training the young and trying to promote a better way of life for all. Many are very, very poor and begging is often a way of keeping alive.

Mr. and Mrs. Green have spent more than ten years in response to "the call" to work among these native people. They spend their furlough with Mrs. Green's mother, Mrs. Perry Badgley in Napanee and make many public appearances while in Canada.

In the business period on behalf the treasurer's report, it was decided to dispense with the practice of having a turkey supper for this one year.

In appreciation for having put on the evening's program, Mrs. Green was presented with an appropriate gift.

A social time was enjoyed while refreshments were served.

Club Activities

FRANKFORD SQUARES

The Frankford Squares got a late start this year, due to the lack of a hall, however the problem was solved, things got well under way.

The class dances on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Stirling Public School and the club at 8 p.m. on Saturday in the Stirling Senior Public School.

The class consists of five squares of eager and already accomplished dancers.

The hallowe'en party was held on class night, Thursday, with aproximately fifty-nine squares in attendance. Color for the evening was L. Jackson of Tweed, who filled in at the last minute for the regular caller, Douglas Waddell.

Les and Johanna Jackson presented a duet which created much fun and laughter for all and Les commented on the many and varied costumes displayed.

A sumptuous lunch of sandwiches, cakes and deserts was enjoyed after the dance by all.

SENIOR CITIZENS

FRANKFORD — On Wednesday, November 3 the Frankford Senior Citizens Club met at the Lions Hall to elect officers for the coming year. These are as follows: president, Carman Ketchen; vice president Mrs. Jack Finnegan; secretary, Mrs. Cecil Carter; treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Faulkner; flower convener, Mrs. Grace Howard; reporter Mrs. Ella Chard. A number of committee members also selected.

It was announced that this coming Saturday the Senior Citizen's Club will take a bus trip to Ice Capades in Toronto and will leave Frankford at 10 a.m.

After the close of the election of officers, the afternoon was spent playing cards after which lunch was served.

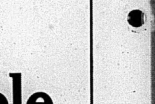
MADOC SENIOR CITIZENS

The regular meeting of the Madoc and district senior citizens club was held in the United church basement at Madoc on Wednesday, October 27. The members were pleased to welcome back their president, Mrs. Broadworth, after her holiday. She opened the meeting with a suitable poem. Roll call was "shake hands with your right hand neighbor and say something nice about him" and was answered by 43 members. Two visitors were present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by secretary, Grace Raney.



Business and correspondence were dealt with. Miss Raney read a nice letter from Dr. C. Derry, secretary of the United Church Social board, thanking the senior citizens for the blinds they had recently installed in the basement.

It was decided to hold an election of officers at the first meeting in January. It was also decided to hold the next meeting on Thursday, November 11, instead of the regular Wednesday meeting. Mrs. Moorcroft, program convener, is arranging an Armistice Day program, with a guest speaker, Capt. Thompson. The lunch committee for this meeting will be Roland Williams, Mrs. Roland Williams, Mrs. Vera Holmes, Mrs. Grace Gordon and Mrs. Lily Casselman.

Happy birthday was sung for Mr. Williams, Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Warren, who were all celebrating birthdays in October.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in playing various games. Later in the day, a generous lunch was served by the lunch committee and a social half hour brought another pleasant meeting to a close.

Basic Instructions Could Avert Panic

By DORIS CLARK

Confronted with an emergency, a baby-sitter should know exactly what to do. With basic instructions, she could panic and, in her frustration, neglect simple actions that could mean the difference between life and death.

The Council on Family Health in Canada urges working mothers and all others who engage sitters for their children to leave names, addresses and phone numbers of doctor, police, fire department, closest relative, friend or neighbor, for the sitter.

Also, on a pad left near the telephone, leave the phone number where you can be reached in an emergency. Be certain the sitter knows location of phone, all exits and the important controls such as the off-on switch for the heating unit. — Canada's Health and Welfare.

* * *

Dear Doris: My brother and his wife have had their trailer in the back yard of our farm with the idea that they would move as soon as they got a place of their own, but now it looks as if they will never move.

It seems as if our privacy has been invaded. They share our mailbox, our television, our bathtub, our vacations; and when we have company they stick their noses in.

My father wants them to stay. I believe my sister-in-law would like to go but my brother is stubborn and refuses to budge.

My mother is getting very worked up about this. She already has high blood pressure. Don't you think it is time my brother, who is 25, got off his daddy's farm and tried to work out life on his own? — Bystander

Dear Bystander — The situation can only continue downhill, along with your mother's blood pressure. Tell your brother his boy grow up by encouraging him to camp on the old homestead.

Besides, you are two family units; after the new couple should be building their own life and friendships. If children come, the whole thing could blow up, with hurt feelings and ire tempers on both sides.

And all because of too much togetherness! Since all three of you womenfolk want the move, including the sister-in-law, how about getting heads together and taking a stand?

Dear Doris: About the best man and our two ushers. Would it be proper for them to wear suits in the modern colors or should they be dark?

We did consider hiring formal rig but don't like to ask the men to put out the money.

I would also like to know if it would be proper for the men to wear colored shirts. I was at a wedding lately where the men all wore stodgy pink shirts. I was thinking of asking the best man to wear a pastel pink shirt, as the first bridesmaid is to be in pink floral print; and the second usher then might wear pastel blue with the second bridesmaid in a long floral blue dress, and the third pair in pastel yellow.— Your Opinion, Pleas

Dear Opinion: I'm afraid shocking pink is just too shocking for a wedding. So is satin in modern colors. Tuxedos are the thing, or if they don't wish to rent them let's have plain dark suits, they would be o.k.

As for matching up pastel shirts with pastel gowns, I saw one light blue match-up which I liked. But you don't have to avoid getting an effect like that of a costume-party! Weddings are still conservative, highly proper affairs.

There are now attractive white shirts with frills, which suit the mood of the occasion.

Try turning your trouble into triumph by getting help from a trained social worker. Doris can put you on the right track.

Ann Landers

300-Pound Friend Is Wrecking the Furniture

Dear Ann Landers: How does one tell a 300-pound friend that he is wrecking your furniture? When he comes to our home he heads straight for one of two easy chairs and, needless to say, he is bad news for anything that is put together with springs. We have tried, tactfully of course, to offer other chairs, but he declines.

Both easy chairs were repaired recently and the upholstery man said he reinforced them so solidly that an elephant could sit on them and they would not break down. Last night our guest was here and this morning the springs are sagging again. What can we do? Remember, this is a dear person and we DO NOT want to offend him. Thanks a lot.—Too Much Friend

Dear Too Much: Buy a special chair for the fellow and have a little plaque made with his name on it. When he comes to visit escort him to HIS chair, purchased especially for him, and he could not possibly refuse to sit in it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married less than eight years and have been beaten up at least ten times by my husband. Here are some of the reasons: The car wouldn't start (I used it last, so it must be my fault); The TV broke down (I sit around all day with the set on and weaken the tubes); The supper is lousy—can't I fix something tasty for a change? (Of course I could if he'd give me enough money to buy a half-way decent piece of meat.)

Don't tell me to leave him. My pastor and the lady at Family Service suggested it but they don't understand that the man has some good sides to him. He loves his kids very much—but when it comes to me, forget it. I don't know what I'm doing wrong—he is a wonderful person except for his temper. Can you help me?—Battered Feelings

Dear H.F.: I can't do a thing for a woman who has been beaten up ten times and thinks her husband is a "wonderful person." You don't want advice, you just want someone who will listen to your complaints. I'm glad you wrote. Do so again any time—and keep a crash helmet handy for future "emergencies."

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me if a guest who has been invited to dinner (in a restaurant) is expected to leave the tip? I am frank to admit I do not know the answer.

Dear Mrs. Soo, Lea, was invited by another couple to join them for dinner. He said when the dinner was over the waiter brought the check and the host took it. When they got up to leave the host looked at Lou and said something like, "Well —," Lou didn't understand what he meant. The host then fished around in his pocket for some change and left it under his plate.

A few moments later it dawned on Lou that perhaps he was expected to leave the tip. Is this considered proper etiquette? Thanks for your advice.—Marked Twice, Ark.

Dear Ark.: The tip is considered part of the cost of the meal. A guest is not expected to pay it. When Lou treats the host couple he will, of course, pay for everything—as a gracious host should.

Dear Ann Landers: Your definition for the difference between a wife and mistress was pretty cute. It would have been better, however, had you used words which were more descriptive. For example: passive acquiescence versus enthusiastic co-operation. In fact, when there is enthusiastic co-operation a mistress is unnecessary.—Susie Fr

Dear Fr: Thanks for improving my language. From now on I'll use yours.

Youngsters Need Good Breakfast

By ALICE DENHOFF

No matter how the kids squeal and squirm, they've got to down a good breakfast. Mothers know this. In many a household, it's a daily battle and the best way to effect a truce if not a complete ceasefire is to give them good nutritious food, smartly disguised.

If there's one thing most youngsters like better than peanut butter on bread, it just might be peanut butter in bread. It's easy to prepare and it is good.

For an extra treat, spread slices of this bread with softened cream cheese and jelly; top with pear slices. Ah

QUICK PEANUT BUTTER BREAD

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup peanut butter
1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
Red currant jelly
4 pears, cut in thin slices

Sift first four ingredients together in a bowl. Stir in brown sugar. Cut in peanut butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add oats, egg and milk, stirring until just blended. Pour batter into greased 9½x5½x2½-inch loaf pan.

Bake at 350 degrees F. about one hour. Cool thoroughly. Wrap in aluminum foil and store at room temperature overnight.

To serve six portions, cut bread into twelve slices. Spread each with cream cheese and red currant jelly. Top each with pear slices. Terrific On really cool mornings, nothing beats hot oatmeal for breakfast. Here again, there's usually conflict. But mom can win the battle if she prepares:

APRICOT OATMEAL

4 cups water
12 dried apricot halves, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1 large cooking apple, cut into ¼-inch-thick slices
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Brown sugar
Milk or cream

Combine water, apricots and salt in a large saucepan; bring to a quick boil. Stir in oats. Cook one minute for quick oats, stirring occasionally. Cook five minutes or longer for old-fashioned oats. Cover pan, remove from heat and let stand a few minutes. Saute apple slices in butter until lightly browned and tender, about three minutes. Arrange apple slices in swirls on bowls of hot apricot oatmeal. Sprinkle with brown sugar and serve with milk or cream. Serves six.

Another winner in the good breakfast battle is:

HOMEMADE CINNAMON-SUGAR CEREAL

2½ cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1-3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup melted butter or margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla
Milk or cream

Combine oats, brown sugar, cinnamon and salt in large bowl. Stir in melted butter and vanilla, combining throughly. Bake in 15x10-inch jelly roll pan at 350 degrees F. 20 minutes. Cool thoroughly, stirring occasionally during first five minutes of cooling. Store overnight in tightly covered container in refrigerator. Serve cold with milk or cream. Recipe yields about three cups of tasty cereal.

Catholic Synod of Bishops--Did It Accomplish Anything?

AP News Analysis
By PATRICK O'KEEFE

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic synod of bishops produced two lengthy documents, on priesthood and social justice, but did it accomplish anything of substance?

Or was it a flop, as some of the bishops suggested in a flurry of self-criticism at the closing of the five-week session Saturday.

"The Synod cannot be a little Vatican council," said Leon-Etienne Cardinal Duval, archbishop of Algiers and one of three presidents of the meeting. "In the future we shouldn't take on so much heavy material. It should proceed in a simpler way."

Bishop John Gran of Oslo asserted that the bishops were going home "with empty hands."

Many of the 209 delegates questioned the rush to produce full-blown documents instead of a series of resolutions or suggestions for Pope Paul. Others said there should have been a minority as well as a majority report.

What did the synod do in the way of giving advice to the Pope, its prime purpose?

The document on the priesthood upheld the status quo except for a strong minority vote of 47, in favor of ordination of married men. However, the document did not come to grips with the wave of priestly defections in the West nor with the so-called identity crises expressed by many priests.

The document on social justice counselled almost nothing that the Pope himself had not already urged for his church. In fact, some observers thought it much more timid than Pope Paul's encyclical Popolorum Progressio issued four years ago.

The only major point that did not duplicate Pope Paul's speeches and writings was a call for church backing of conscientious objection to war.

The document made no mention of such controversial and amassing goods that make it appear to be "an island of wealth in the middle of a sea of poverty."

—Secular authorities should be encouraged to take steps to limit the population explosion, respecting "the moral law and in any case the just freedom of spouses."

Recommendations of Roman Catholic Bishops

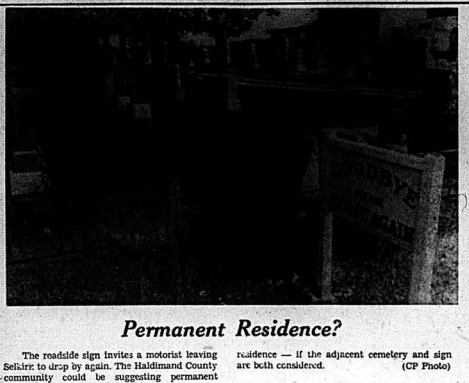
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Here, in brief, are the principal recommendations of the world synod of Roman Catholic bishops:

Priesthood

—The rule of priestly celibacy should be maintained "in its entirety" for the predominant Latin or Western Rite.

—One hundred and seven delegates voted to bar the priesthood to married men in the Latin Rite and 87 urged the Pope to permit ordination of married men.

—Priests should stay out of partisan political activities and may never hold political office unless in rare circumstances and then only with their bishop's permission.



Social Justice

—The Roman Catholic Church should urge individual countries to recognize conscientious objection to service in war.

—A high-level Vatican committee should be established to study the rights and roles of women in society and in the Church.

—Well-off countries, groups, individuals, have an obligation to brake their drive for greater wealth and cater to development of the poor.

—The Church must avoid

Memorial Service Planned for Airmen

WINNIPEG (CP) — A memorial service was to be held today for the eight servicemen who died in the crash of an armed forces Dakota plane in the Northwest Territories.

Evacuation of the remains to Cape Parry, N.W.T., began Friday, hampered by restricted daylight and poor weather. The crash occurred Tuesday on a search for a bush pilot.

Search Capt. C. A. Healey is to be buried in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; Capt. S. R. Gitzel in Edmonton; Lieut. D. W. Smart in Brandon, Man.; and Capt. P. C. Hodges and Cpl. W. E. Platt in Winnipeg.

A mass was held Saturday in Edmonton for Sgt. J. R. Lemieux. Arrangements had not been completed for Capt. L. A. Cooper or Cpl. R. N. Volden.

The aircraft crashed while circling an area where bush pilot Stanley Showalter had gone down in his plane. He watched helplessly as the rescue plane stalled and dived.

CAPE PARRY, N.W.T. (CP) — A memorial service was held at the DEW line site Sunday for the eight servicemen who died in the crash of their Dakota 70 miles south of here.

The service, conducted by a chaplain at the DEW line station, was attended by three Eskimo families, United States personnel at Cape Parry, and members of the Canadian Forces who are there to investigate the crash.

Reward Offered

TORONTO (CP) — A $3,000 reward has been offered for information leading to the arrest of the man who shot and killed a milk store operator here Thursday night during a holdup.

Insp. Jack Webster of the Toronto police homicide squad said Sunday the man is considered dangerous and as a result police are concealing the identity of a woman who witnessed the shooting death of William Andrianakos.

The man is described as being about five-foot-eight, weighing 145 pounds, of slim build, a thin face, dark brown curly or fuzzy hair, sideburns to the earlobes and 25 to 30 years old.

Insp. Webster said about 30 detectives are "working round the clock to find this cold-blooded killer."

Seventy UN Envoys Flown to Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 70 ambassadors to the United Nations were flown here from New York Saturday to dramatize the need for international legislation against aircraft hijacking.

The special Boeing 747 jumbo jet, chartered by the American Airline Pilots' Association, also carried 35 pilots and stewardesses who have been victims of hijackings.

The flight was kept secret until after it returned to New York later Saturday.

Captain Charles Simpson, president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots' Association, welcomed the group and said Montreal was selected as the flight's destination because the International Civil Aviation Organization, a UN body, has its headquarters here.

The flight would serve to illustrate how important anti-hijacking laws are, Captain Simpson said.

Leonid Kutakov of the U.S.S.R., who represented U Thant, UN secretary-general, gave a strong appeal for hijack legislation.

"I should like to reassure you on behalf of the secretary-general of the interest and concern of the United Nations in this problem," Mr. Kutakov said. "As an institution, we have and will put all our weight behind stopping all hijacking practices."

Captain Cal Greenwood of Wichita Falls, Tex., described the three time he was forced by hijackers to fly to Havana within 19 months.

CBC Said Neglecting Blacks

MONTREAL (CP) — The head of the National Black Coalition sharply criticized CBC television Friday for having "ignored the needs of black taxpayers of Canada."

At a news conference, Clarence Bayne, a professor at Sir George Williams University, said the CBC has repeatedly rejected suggestions for black programming as "not socially significant."

He said the national television network has shown a "disregard and a racial exclusiveness amounting to contempt."

"Why does the CBC reflect a completely white cultural image of Canada when the tax-paying population is not completely white?" he asked.

"There is a continuous suggestion that the only people who have made a contribution to Canadian society are white."

Prof. Bayne said his remarks are contained in a brief drawn up by the Black Arts of Canada Committee that has been sent to State Secretary Gerard Pelletier and CBC President George Davidson.

Students Claim They Set Blast

QUEBEC (CP) — A group of local students has claimed responsibility for a bomb blast Friday night that caused damage estimated at $10,000 to Sainte Foy junior college.

After two local newspapers received anonymous telephone calls, reporters found two copies of a communique from the student group—one in a lower-town telephone booth and another in suburban Vanier.

The communique said the group which planted the bomb had no ties with any Communist organization, the Front de Liberation du Quebec.

Moscow March Marks Bolshevik Anniversary

MOSCOW (AP) — Troops, tanks, red-tipped missiles and thousands of Soviet citizens paraded through swirling snow in Red Square Sunday to celebrate the country's biggest holiday, the anniversary of the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

In a speech stressing the Soviet Union's military capability, Defence Minister Andrei A. Grechko did not mention the United States by name, but referred to "imperialist expansionist plans" in Vietnam and the Middle East.

With him on the reviewing stand atop Lenin's red-granite tomb were the Communist party general secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev; Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and other government, party and military leaders.

Among the weapons were the 25-megaton SS-9 intercontinental ballistic missile and the SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles as well as rockets for submarines and anti-ballistic missiles. Western military attaches who reviewed the parade spotted no new weapons.

Jet Stream Blows Kansas City Right Out of Division Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City Chiefs were gone with the wind and Ed Hargett's storm buffeted Oakland Raiders.

Those elements combined Sunday to keep the American Football Conference's Western Division race in an extremely fidgety state.

Capricious winds, howling up to 35 miles an hour at New York's Shea Stadium, were a deciding factor as the Jets blew out the favored Chiefs 13-10 in the National Football League.

Hargett, meanwhile, was another natural phenomenon, directing three last-half touchdown drives to help New Orleans Saints salvage a 21-21 tie with the powerful Raiders.

The day's results moved Oakland into sole possession of first place in the bitter West race, only a half-game ahead of arrival Kansas City.

"It was a tough day to work," said Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson after getting caught up in a Jet stream. "Fighting that wind makes it tough. You couldn't lob the ball because the wind got hold of it and you never knew what it would do to the ball."

Hargett, on the other hand, knew where the ball was going every minute as he came off the bench to work his late magic.

Other surprises faced the NFL Sunday as last-place Philadelphia Eagles soared to a 7-7 tie with Washington Redskins, leaders of the National Conference's Eastern Division, and Green Bay Packers upended Chicago Bears, who are fighting for the lead in the National Conference's Central Division.

Dallas Cowboys had no battle to pull out a 16-13 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals; San Francisco 49ers won a 13-9 fight over Minnesota Vikings in a meeting between division leaders and Miami Dolphins rode a rugged running attack to a 34-0 victory over Buffalo Bills to keep their lead in the American Conference East.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh Steelers dominated Cleveland Browns 26-9 and tied them for first place in the AFC Central race; New York Giants turned on the high-scoring San Diego Chargers 35-17; Atlanta Falcons disposed of Cincinnati Bengals 9-6; New England Patriots pasted Houston Oilers 28-20 and Detroit Lions slugged Denver Broncos 24-20.

Long before Bobby Howfield gunned through a 29-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for the Jets' winning points, they had plenty of help from the tricky wind currents at Shea.

Dawson was able to connect with Otis Taylor only twice during the game and threw for a sub-par total of 111 yards overall with 13 completions.

Washington had a fancy 6-1 record before having to pull out a tie with the Eagles. The Redskins stayed off defeat when Billy Kilmer threw a TD pass to Clifton McNeil with four minutes left.

Tony Fritsch kicked a 22-yard field goal with less than two minutes remaining for the Dallas victory that kept the Cowboys within shooting range of Washington, 1½ games behind.

John Brodie and Gene Washington teamed on a six-yard TD pass to lead the National Conference's Western Division-leading 49ers over Minnesota; Mercury Morris churned out 116 yards and Larry Csonka 88, to help Miami win; Roy Gerela kicked four field goals for Pittsburgh; Charlie Evans scored three TDs in the New York Giant victory; Dick Shiner's 46-yard TD pass with a minute left paced Atlanta; New England used a blitz to sack Houston and Detroit came up with 17 points in the third quarter and a fourth-quarter TD to stop Denver.

Cats Crush Riders

Dorow Enjoys Injury Topic

HAMILTON (CP) — Injuries aren't a pleasant topic for football coaches, but Al Dorow coaches about it with a smile Sunday. His Hamilton Tiger-Cats had just crushed Ottawa Rough Riders 23-4 to win the Eastern Football Conference semi-final in sudden-death play.

A pulled hamstring suffered by flanker Levio Porter in a workout Friday forced Dorow to convert running back Dave Buchanan to Porter's spot. Result: Buchanan scored twice on passes from reluctant quarterback Wally Gabler.

And Gabler were a Ticat uniform only because Hamilton's No. 1 signal caller, Joe Zuger, had been sidelined five days by soon the previous Sunday in Toronto with a shoulder separation on his throwing arm.

The former University of Michigan star, who had been in the Hamilton camp only since last Monday, exploited the Ottawa secondary just as his coach had predicted.

It was the finest offensive performance of a dismal season for the Ticats. Gabler's job was made easier by the crisp blocking of their much-ridiculed front five—centre Doug Mitchell, guards Bill Danychuk and John Hohman and tackles Max Huber and Bob Hudspeth.

He'll get another chance to justify his return to pro football next Sunday when the Ticats open the two-game total point EFC final here against Montreal Argonauts.

Dorow said that with the change of flankers, the offence wasn't fully prepared for the game and the plays used most effectively were into Ottawa's strong side.

"We had to do away with two or three sets because we never had time to practice them. We were going to Ottawa's strong side on a lot of that stuff and never did get to exploit their weak side."

Another injury Dorow didn't publicize prior to the game was to cornerback Phil McKay, back-up punter to Zuger.

He was replaced in the defensive backfield by Dave Fleming. But whenever Ottawa quarterback Rick Cassata deployed his troops to Fetching's area, veteran Garney Henley or Al Brenner were usually there to give support to the defensive newspicie.

McKay had sprained his ankle Friday. Used Sunday only as a punter, he booted two punts for one 40 yards into the wind and the other a wind-assisted 60-yarder.

Marcel Deleeuw's punt single and an 11-yard field goal by Gerry Organ accounted for the Ottawa scoring, all in the first half, as the Ticats broke away from a 1-1 first-quarter deadlock to take an 8-4 lead at the half. They increased the score to 20-4 going into the final 15 minutes.

Gabler came into the game from a long layoff. He was dropped by Hamilton in mid-September in favor of Zuger and hadn't played since.

"The last game he played for us was in Toronto," Dorow recalled, "that was the game in which Gabler threw interceptions on two of his first three passes then sat on the bench for three games before being waived through the league.

For the first time in several games, Hamilton's defence didn't directly account for any scoring points. But the front four—Larry Krueger, Angelo Mosca, Bob Steiner and John Baker—supported by linebackers Emory Hicks, Bob Krouse and Mike Blum, was much in evidence.

As a result, Cassata found himself scrambling for yardage and wound up the game's leading rusher with 75 yards off 10 carries. Wes Lyshak and Anderson for Hamilton had 63 and 61.

"That defence could beat Toronto next week," observed Ottawa general manager Frank Clair in the press box.

Ottawa coach Jack Gotta was equally impressed by the defence, but the game's honors in his estimation went to Gabler.

"He called a real good game. He mixed his plays well. . . . Their offensive line got off the ball fast."

Gotta, who had quarterback-ing problems this season before settling on Cassata, could have had Gabler who became a free agent after being waived out of the league.

"I've always had a lot of respect for Gabler—it's just, you know, how many games can he put together like this," Gabler, prior to joining Ticats under the same conditions a year ago, had earlier been found expendable by Toronto and Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Conference.

Bombers Take Beating

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders "beat the pants off" Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday to grab a berth in the Western Football Conference final with a 34-23 victory.

"We have a good ball team and everyone played well but the Riders just physically beat the pants off us," said Winnipeg coach Jim Spavital in a subdued dressing room.

"They hit harder and ran over us."

Saskatchewan now prepares for the best-of-three final against Calgary Stampeders which opens Saturday in Calgary.

Spavital wasn't depressed after the loss and he shouldn't have been. The Bombers played good football and but for a deflected punt in the fourth quarter the outcome could have been different.

Trailing 27-23, quarterback Don Jonas had moved his charges to the Saskatchewan 15-yard line. On third down with about six yards to go Bomber fans decided to gamble. Jonas fired a pass in the direction of his favorite receiver, native Jim Thorpe, but Rider linebacker Wally Dempsey reached out and got enough of the ball to knock it off course.

The Riders took charge from there and added another touchdown to clinch the sudden-death encounter.

Saskatchewan performed almost flawlessly before a crowd of 14,488, controlling the game with the power running of full-back George Reed who carried 31 times for 124 yards. Complementing his effort were passing plays by Allan Ford, Ronnie Bailey, Silas McKinnie, Bobby Thompson and Gord Barwell.

RON LANCASTER

Reed, behind excellent blocking, got two touchdowns and was instrumental in th, others as the Riders moved almost at will along the ground.

Quarterback Ron Lancaster, another standout, threw touchdown passes to Bailey, Ford and McKinnie. His passing record was 13 of 19 in rolling up 208 yards through the air, and he propelled his team to another 208 yards along the ground.

Jonas completed 15 of 30 pass attempts, including two touchdown strikes to Bob Larose and a third to Pete Ribbins. Jim Hopkins got two singles on long kickoffs added by a 20-mile an hour wind and Jonas added three converts.

Riders held period leads of 14-0, 21-15 and 27-23.

"I was confident after our first touchdown that we would win," said Rider coach Dave Skrien.

"We controlled the ball pretty well all the way and we were just playing well to lose."

Saskatchewan dominated the play statistically, rolling up 27 first downs to Bombers' 17 and collecting 416 yards net offence to Winnipeg's 313. The Bombers had little luck running against Saskatchewan, managing just 76 yards, but they chalked up 336 yards through the air.

A temperature of five didn't bother the Riders.

"The only thing that bothered us a little was the wind and then that didn't turn out to be as bad as we thought it would be," Skrien said.

Mustangs Could Stand Cold

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Western Ontario Mustangs defeated Ottawa Gee Gees 13-0 Saturday to win the Ontario Universities Athletic Association title, and Western coach Frank Cosentino says the weather may have been a factor.

The Mustangs used a strong running attack and tight defence in the game which saw rain in the first two quarters turn to snow throughout the second half.

Bishop's University Gaiters won the first-ever Quebec University Athletic Association football championship Saturday by defeating University of Sherbrooke Vert et Or 49-2.

Bishop's now will meet University of Alberta Golden Bears in the Prairie Bowl next month in Edmonton.

Two games were played during the weekend to end the Western Canada intercollegiate football season but the results did not change the standings as Calgary downed British Columbia 17-14 and Manitoba trounced Saskatchewan 15-1 at Winnipeg.

The University of Alberta Golden Bears, who ended their season last weekend, took the Western championship with a 6-2 record and 12 points and now meet Bishop's University Gaiters.

In Sackville, N.B., Saturday, Saint Mary's University Huskies warmed up for next game against University of Western Ontario Mustangs, with a 35-7 triumph over Mount Allison Mounties to finish the season undefeated in six Bluenose Football Conference games

Blazers Better Sunday

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Cavaliers came back from the worst home game of their brief history to stun Portland Trail Blazers 107-99 in the National Basketball Association Sunday night.

The "worst game" tag was applied by coach Bill Fitch after the Cavaliers lost 107-87 to Phoenix Suns Friday, but he said: "Don't bury us. We'll come back."

They did Bobby Smith scored 26 points, Rick Roberson and Bobby Washington set team records, Roberson with 23 rebounds and Washington with 20 assists. And Roberson added 19 points and Charlie Davis had 18 as the Cavaliers posted their first home victory of the season.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Baltimore Bullets edged Houston Rockets 109-106, Golden State Warriors downed Seattle Supersonics 109-102, and Los Angeles Lakers topped New York Knicks 103-96.

Baltimore's Jack Marin pumped in a career high 42 points in the Bullets' victory over troubled Houston. The Rockets played without forward Don Adams, who did not dress for the game after getting into a verbal disagreement with coach Tex Winter.

Centre Elvin Hayes, who had a recent dispute with Winter, led the Rockets in scoring with 28 points, his season high.

Nate Thurmond paced Golden State with 28 points and 21 points. Seattle's Spencer Haywood led all scorers with 32 points.

Los Angeles' victory over New York put the Lakers into undisputed possession of first place in the Pacific Division. Jerry West topped the Lakers with 29 points, Jerry Lucas was high for New York with 20 points.

In the ABA Saturday night, the results were: Kentucky 102, New York 97; Dallas 97 Carolina St; Utah 108, Indiana 107 overtime; Memphis 122, Virginia 121 in overtime, and Floridians 134 Pittsburgh 121.

Nevin Copes with New Critics

By IAN MacLAIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bob Nevin played too long in New York to worry about the taunts of Minnesota's restless fans.

The rabid North Stars gallerites have been chiding Nevin for several weeks because of his parent lack of hustle by the yeoman of 11 National Hockey League seasons.

Nevin answered his critics Saturday night, scoring three times to lead the North Stars to a 5-1 win over St. Louis Blues.

Another Minnesota veteran, goaltender Lorne (Gump) Worsley who also learned to ignore New York's Madison Square Garden critics, held the spotlight Sunday.

The 42-year-old Montreal native shut out Philadelphia Flyers 3-0 and engineered the surprising North Stars climb into a first-place tie in the West Division with Chicago Black Hawks.

The Hawks throttled Pittsburgh Penguins 4-1 Sunday on the strength of a three-goal outburst in the second period by Denny O'Shea, Jim Pappin and Bobby Hull.

In other Sunday games, defenceman Doug Barrie came off the bench late in the game to score the tying Buffalo Sabres goal in a 3-3 stalemate with Detroit Red Wings. Frank Mahovlich's 16th goal of the season gave Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 win over Boston Bruins and California Golden Seals throttled Toronto Maple Leafs 8-1.

Boston edged Detroit 2-1, New York dumped Vancouver Canucks 3-1, Montreal edged Chicago 3-2 and Toronto nipped Los Angeles Kings 3-2 in the other Saturday games.

New York fans are known for their constant badgering of honest-to-goodness who they feel aren't playing to their potential. Rangers either learn to live with this fickle reminder or go through the motions until they are traded.

Nevin rarely balked the fans with his play in New York. He's known as a honest, hockey player and usually gives more than he has on every shift.

He moved to Minnesota in an off-season trade that sent Andre Boussedu, a four-goal scorer last year with the North Stars, to New York.

In acquiring Nevin from the Rangers, Minnesota coach Jack Gordon refused to bite as "a fine two-way player, who is just as conscious of defence as he is of offence."

BOB NEVIN

The 33-year-old native of South Porcupine, Ont., scored 21 goals and assisted on 26 others during 1970-71 and in the Stanley Cup playoff was assigned to shadow Chicago's Bobby Hull.

His three goals Saturday gave him five this season.

Worsley, who said before the season started this was definitely his last, turned in his first shutout of the season while lowering his goals-against average to a stingy 1.00. He has yet to lose in seven starts.

The Black Hawks kept pace with their win at Philadelphia. The Flyers appeared to run out of steam in the second period when, with the score 1-0, referee Art Skov disallowed a Philadelphia goal. He ruled winger Rene Robert had kicked the puck behind Chicago goaltender Gary Smith.

Barrie, relegated to the bench early in the game at Buffalo, admitted: "I was playing kind of bad early in the game. I was glad to get back in. The puck just came out to me at the point on a pass from Steve Atkinson and I let it go through a maze of players."

Detroit coach Johnny Wilson was disappointed his players didn't get a bigger lead going into the third period.

"We should have won the game in the second period," said the former NHL player. "We certainly had enough chances."

The Red Wings had a 20-5 edge in shots during the second.

Marc Tardif scored twice in the opening period at Boston but Montreal had to hold off a third-period Boston barrage to stay close to New York in the East Division race.

Tempers flared on several occasions and Canadiens' Terry Harper and Wayne Cashman of Boston carried on a running feud after they clashed in a first-period fight.

Two other combatants were Phil Roberto of Montreal and Boston defenceman Don Awrey. Awrey appeared to suffer a sprained ankle in their second-period fight and was taken to hospital for x-rays.

For the second time in as many nights, Toronto showed no offence while the defence played listlessly in front of aging goaltender Jacques Plante.

The Seals opened a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Stan Gilbertson, Bobby Seehan and Don O'Donoghue and the Leafs never were threats after that.

Dave Dunn counted the fourth California goal during a second period in which the Seals held a commanding 34-2 edge in shots. Dave Keon's goal with four minutes remaining in the game spoiled Gilles Meloche's shutout.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Lee Trevino had a warning for Spain's Angel Gallardo who won the Mexican Open Sunday and destroyed Trevino's dream of a fourth national gold championship:

"We'll see it up again on Thursday and see what happens then."

Trevino, who never was really a factor in the final round, was referring to this week's World Cup championship in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., where Trevino and Lee Nicklaus will represent the United States in the 46-nation competition and Gallardo and Ramon Sota will represent Spain.

The slim, dark Gallardo, who does not compete on the American tour and is little known outside of Europe, pulled off a major upset when he sank a 22-foot birdie putt on the final hole for a one-stroke victory.

Trevino, already the holder of the American, British and Canadian open championships, was a heavy favorite to win this one, but could do no better than tie for third with a 69 for 280.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Arthur Ashe of the United States won the $10,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament Sunday, defeating Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia in a 150-minute match.

Ashe was extended in winning and was trailing 1-4 in the fifth and final set but came back strongly and broke the 25-year-old Czechoslovak's service twice.

Ashe won 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, 1-6, 6-4.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, battling heavy winds most of the way, fired a two-under-par 70 Sunday to win the $28,000 Dunlop International golf tournament with a four-round total of 274, 14 under par.

Nicklaus finished seven strokes ahead of Britain's Peter Oosterhuis and Australian Bruce Crampton, who tied for second place.

That's what a Lawn-Boy dual stage snowblower promises. And that's what you get. It's got the power to do the job right. The big 26" cut auger and high capacity 15" impeller cant into drifts and just clears them away. With no huffing or puffing from you.

Like the famous Lawn-Boy mower, the snowblower is built to last for years. And it's almost as easy to operate. You get one convenient control to go forward in a choice of speeds; neutral, or safety reverse. These are important Lawn-Boy features. A friction drive that eliminates belts and chains, and shear pins that protect the gear box. Visit your Lawn-Boy dealer. Look at our three self-propelled models—4 hp, 18", 5 hp, and 6 hp, 26" heavy-duty models. They're all reasonably priced. Whichever one you buy—years from now you'll know it was worth it.

Quinte Runners Third

WOODBRIDGE (Special) — The loneliness of the long distance runner wasn't really in evidence at the all - Ontario cross country championships held in Woodbridge Saturday. After all, it's pretty tough to be lonely when you have 600 fellow competitors struggling over the rugged hills of the Boyd Conservation area, northwest of Toronto.

In addition, Quinte Secondary School was able to give ample proof that cross country running is a team, rather than individual sport. Despite failing to place a single runner in the top 40, the Quinte Juniors used their collective strength to manage a third place finish in their age division, equalling the best placing ever by a Bay of Quinte OSSAA team.

Roger Ray turned in the best individual effort for the Saints with a 44th place finish. Other members of the bronze medal winning squad included John Sheppard (68th), Ian Hayman (65th), Joe Carroll (76th) and Clair Kennedy (205th). Trenton's David Thompson gave the best individual performance of the local athletes with a placing of 41st.

In the senior race, Quinte came through with another outstanding effort to garner a fifth-place finish, while Centennial runner John Thompson acquitted himself well in the individual standings. Thompson wound up with a 38th-place finish, one ahead of Quinte's Gerard Farrell.

Dan Means of Centennial was the top midget Bay of Quinte athlete with a placing of 194th in his age group.

A total of 700 runners representing 60 secondary schools from across the province competed in the event.

"I thought maybe I could be a playmaker or floor general or something like that!"

Man of the Hour

Oshawa goalkeeper Mark Logan was a genuine stumbling block for Belleville Fairways in Sunday's 7-5 loss to the visiting Crushmen. Logan, seen here getting help from Chuck Luksa (2) in stopping Cliff Janitsch's scoring thrust, was on the receiving end of 48 shots.

Quintes Slip to Lower Rung

Belleville Quintes were overtaken by a lot of Ontario Hockey Association Senior A traffic over the weekend, but it could have been a lot worse.

A pair of weekend loses to Orillia Terriers, 7-3 at home Friday and 4-0 in Orillia Saturday, left the Quintes deadlocked in fourth place in the eight - team standings.

The Quintes went into the home-and-home series in second place with a 5-3 record but coach Gene Poirier blamed poor forechecking at the blueline when his club blew a 3-0 Friday lead, and were blanked in Orillia Saturday.

"They didn't score on us until late in the first period (16.21), but they did it shorthanded," said Poirier, referring to Jim Zorec's goal with teammate Al Osborne a penalty box spectator.

The Terriers added second - period goals by Mike Draper and Grant Moore, while Draper's third - period power - play marker rounded off the scoring.

On the positive side, defenceman Mike Rexe made his first appearance Saturday since injuring a knee in the season's opener. But the Quintes did not dress captain Ralph Plane, on doctor's order to rest a sore ankle ten days.

The Belleville seniors hope to end their three - game losing slide Friday when league-leading Galt Hornets visit them.

Pickering Performs Volleyball Encore

MADOC (Special) — Pickering Secondary School gave an encore performance at the COSSA volleyball championships held in Centre Hastings Secondary School Saturday defending both the senior and junior titles which they won last year.

In the senior section, Cobourg and Quinte earned the right to a play-off berth in one section, while Lindsay and Pickering topped the other division. Pickering disposed of Cobourg 15-12, 15-12 in one semi-final series, while Lindsay was knocking off Quinte 15-10, 15-13 in the other.

The finals proved to be all Pickering as they recorded 15-7 victories over Lindsay.

In the junior category, the defending Pickering champions easily repeated as winners with a 5-1 record, while Quinte Secondary placed second with a 4-4 mark. Crestwood High School from Peterborough was awarded third place, despite holding the same 5-5 record as Centre Hastings.

The Pickering champions now advance to the OFSAA championships to be held at OSD this Saturday.

Rollins Share Scoring Wealth

The Rollins Construction peewees believed in spreading the scoring wealth around as they opened their regular Ontario Minor Hockey Association schedule with a 7-2 win over Kingston.

The Belleville all-stars received scoring support from Mike Bennett, Dave McBride, Ricky Sprague, Gary Fredlendy Hutchison and Peter Hall.

The Exso Car Wash peewee minors didn't fare quite as well, coming out on the short end of a 3-2 count in Saturday's bout with Napanee. Randy Cox and Dieter Duffy were the Belleville marksmen.

In bantam play Sunday, the Belleville Kinsmen got a pair of third period goals from Rick Barbeau to give them a 3-1 win over Napanee. Gary Thompson netted the other marker for the winners.

The Blake Kerr Imperial midgets put off their wrong foot Saturday taking a 5-4 setback to Napanee in their first regular league game of the season. John Masterson, Steve Kirby, Mark Coates and Paul Ackerman counted in a losing cause.

The Imperials bounced back Sunday with a 13-0 exhibition win over the Kingston Huskies. Masterson and Kirby paced the scorers with a hat trick each, while Coates, Peter Smrke and Mike Watt counted twice apiece and Ackerman the other. Defensive standout Wally Dalzard added three assists.

A trio of goals in the first period was enough to carry Kingston to a 3-2 decision over the Western Tye Juveniles in a Sunday contest. Bob Foster and Ross Herrington notched the Belleville goals.

Towers Food City trounced Kingston 7-2 in a Sunday Quinte - St. Lawrence league encounter. The Belleville novices benefitted from a hat trick scoring performance by Tim Soule with the other goals going to Glen McQuaid, Mark Crawford, Bob Hodge and Darrell Colman.

Oshawa Goalie Everywhere But Right Place for Fairways

Belleville Fairways' coach Murray Hunter was glad to see Oshawa Crushmen come and go Sunday night.

"We've played all the B teams in the league now," Hunter noted after the powerful Crushmen handed the Belleville Eastern Ontario League entry a 7-5 setback Sunday. "And I don't like to beat any of them."

"We played as well as we ever will — in their end of the rink," Hunter enthused, adding what was obvious to everyone in the Memorial Arena: "But that goalie — he was the story of the game."

"That goalie", Oshawa's Mark Logan, was on the receiving end of 48 Belleville shots, while the Crushmen mustered 25 at the Fairway's Bill Cormier. Some of Logan's stops, particularly during numerous occasions when the Crushmen played shorthanded, were well above Junior B calibre.

The Crushmen got their two - goal spread in the first seven minutes of the game, the first by Tom Newton after Belleville's Tim Yohn and Brian Cousins drew foolish penalties.

"We let up in our end early," Hunter said, and that pretty well summed up the cause of the other two Oshawa goals that staked the Crushmen to a 3-2 lead after the first 20 minutes. Larry Hopkins got the first of three by batting in a rebound unassisted when the Fairways failed to clear.

John Mulvihill's power-play point shot made it 3-1 but the Fairway defence left Oshawa's Luc Charbonneau all alone at the side of their net to up the count to 3-1.

The hometowners narrowed the margin to one goal again when Mark Woodward finished off a two-man advantage Belleville power - play at 16.30, but then Oshawa goalie Logan gave the Fairways an indication of what they could or rather COULDN'T expect.

The Crushmen played shorthanded the remainder of the period, but Logan and Jim Cain and John Mulvihill on successive screened point shots that the shooters probably had trouble seeing, let loose the ubiquitous Oshawa goalkeeper.

When the dust had cleared, Oshawa had been outshot 19-4 but skated to the dressing room with their 3-2 lead intact.

Les McAvoy, Hopkins, and Tom Newton scored in the second period to offset another Belleville power - play goal, this one by Cliff Janitsch, and a beautifully-executed goal by Brian Cousins after being sent in the clear by linemate Dave Smith's perfect flip pass.

Logan got back in the line-light in the third period, holding the fort until the last 26 seconds of a six-minute Fairway powerplay when Jim Cain finally found a niche in his armor to narrow Oshawa's lead to 6-5.

But the Crushmen got their two-goal margin back for good when Hopkins completed his hat trick only 20 seconds after the Fairways' Janitsch was fingered for holding.

The game threatened to get out of hand in the final period twice, first when burly Oshawa defenceman Gary Armstrong drew a major penalty for pummeling Brian Cousins, then at the 17.31 mark when Belleville's Barry O'Coin and Oshawa's Wally Hogg each drew roughing minors, with O'Coin drawing a major misconduct penalty for swearing.

It was the last the Fairways' record at 2-4, with their next game Sunday at home to Gananoque's new club.

Apollo Little Man Wins Ontario Crown

Ron Hayes snatched a Canadian teenage record 170 pounds en route to winning the Ontario bantamweight (123-pound) title with a three-lift total of 545 pounds.

The Apollo Club's Dean Fitzgerald totalled 265 pounds for a third - place finish in the 98-pound paperweight class, despite establishing Ontario teenage snatch and clean and jerk records.

Maurice Pelletier's 620 - pound total was good enough to put the Belleville contestant in second place among lightheavyweight (181-pound) entrants.

India's Heartbreak State of Orissa Faces New Threat, Cholera

BHUBANESWAR (Reuter) — India's heartbreak state of Orissa faced a further threat of cholera today as the government and relief organizations still struggled to bring aid to an estimated five million people hit by a cyclone and tidal wave 19 days ago.

State Health Minister R. K. Patnaik issued a new warning of a possible cholera epidemic in the disaster area.

All the water supplies have become polluted by sea water or by putrefying bodies and carcasses.

Preliminary official estimates said the 16-foot tidal wave and cyclone destroyed crops valued at more than $130 million. The death toll ranged from an official estimate of 10,000 to an unofficial one of 25,000.

The East Pakistan government reported that another cyclone which, hit the southeast part of East Pakistan Saturday night did "considerable damage to crops and dwellings," but no loss of life had been reported.

Several hundred thousand persons were killed by a cyclone which hit the area last November.

In Orisso state the sea water is beginning to drain away from the land, but the view from a plane dropping relief supplies showed that vast tracts of land are still under water and the rest are either waterlogged or sand covered.

An army team moved into the area today with a grim task—to bury the thousands of rotting bodies and gastle carcasses still littering the coastal area which bore the brunt of the tidal wave.

A spokesman for CARE, one of the big foreign aid organizations operating here, said food aid would have to be given to some victims of the disaster for more than 14 months. He said that at least 700,000 acres of rice crop—due for harvesting next month—had been destroyed.

He said that many parts of Cuttack and Balasore—two of the worst-affected areas—would not be able to harvest another rice crop until December, 1972.

Bag of Oil, Please

What you see is what you get — a quart of oil in an experimental pouch made of "Tuftane" polyurethane film. B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company in Cleveland, which produces the film, predicts the oil industry will market motor oil in such a plastic pouch within the next decade. Nixon Expands Air War in Indochina

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The Nixon administration is expanding the "kin war" in Indochina even as American ground combat involvement in the Vietnam war declines, says a study group associated with Cornell University's Centre for International Studies.

The 26-member group released a preliminary report today.

Citing defence department statistics, the report says that by the end of 1971 the Nixon administration will have used 2,916,000 tons of bombs in Indochina—more tonnage in three years than the 2,865,000 tons dropped in the previous five years under the Johnson administration.

Prof. Raphael Littauer, a Cornell nuclear physicist who co-ordinated the study, said the research team evaluated the bombing only from the standpoint of military effectiveness.

The study says that military and Central Intelligence Agency studies have shown that the use of air power in Indochina has had only "mini-successes" at best. The basic military objective of interdiction of Communist supply routes was not achieved and probably was unachievable, the report contends.

Defence Department statistics cited in the report make clear that the U.S. has used bomb tonnage in Indochina for exceeding the totals used in all theatres of the Second World War and the Korean War. The war has cost about $111 billion, of about one-fourth the total cost of the Vietnam war, the research team says.

In addition to the lack of military achievements, the air war has resulted in heavy civilian casualties, the report says. The study group cites testimony at Congressional hearings indicating that there have been at least one million civilian casualties in South Vietnam alone, including 325,000 deaths. The bombing has created six million refugees—one-third of South Vietnam's population.

The bombing has also done "inestimable" damage to the ecology of Indochina, with the destruction of millions of acres of forest and farm land, the study group says.

Littauer told The Associated Press the group undertook its study to "deal with wide-spread impression that the war is winding down."

"Our firm conclusion," he added; "is that it is not—that the bombing is escalating, and that it is unlikely to be any more successful now than in the past."

The group's most important finding, Littauer added, is that the U.S. is "apparently committed to the continuous use of air power to maintain the particular balance of forces in Indochina that we feel is essential to our policy."

The 1968 bombing halt over North Vietnam, the study contends, did not reduce air activity, but merely changed its focus—from North Vietnam to Laos, Cambodia and the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Hate U.S. Campaign Denounced

VANCOUVER (CP) — A denunciation of a "Hate America" campaign being whipped up in Canada by "leftists," a stout plea for free trade with the United States, and a warning to be prepared for an election marked the 19th annual provincial Social Credit convention during the weekend.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett made the statements in two speeches to the 500 delegates. He told them Friday that "if the right issue comes along, there'll be an election tomorrow."

His words were on anti-Americanism and free trade came at a banquet Saturday night after the convention ended.

"These leftists in this country from coast to coast, many unknowingly, building up this campaign of 'Hate America'—they're the real enemies in this country," he said.

He attacked "our political leaders going behind the Iron Curtain."

Free trade with the United States introduced over a decade with a 10-per-cent reduction of tariffs each year, would solve the problem of unemployment, he said. It was also the only way secondary industry and manufacturing would survive in B.C.

Close U.S. Relations Make Sense to Sharp

TORONTO (CP) — It makes sense to exploit close relations with the rich United States, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Saturday.

But "in our economic policies we should strive to avoid unnecessary dependence upon the United States, by promoting trade and financial links with the rest of the world."

Speaking at the Columbus Day dinner of the Order of the Sons of Italy, Mr. Sharp said "we are not going to strengthen our economy by anti-American policies.

"It is our destiny and good fortune to share the North American continent . . . the richest nation on the earth's surface.

"It makes good sense to exploit that advantage for all it is worth. It makes good sense to work with the United States for our mutual benefit."

The text of the speech was released prior to delivery.

Mr. Sharp told the audience that pursuing relations with other countries—avoiding over-dependence on the United States—is "not anti-American in any sense.

"It is traditional Canadian policy, which is becoming more and more relevant as Europe and Japan, for example, challenge the predominant position of the United States as an economic power, and the Soviet Union looks outward for trade with the non-Communist world."

Only Admirers Survive de Gaulle

PARIS (AP) — He had critics during his lifetime, but only admirers seem to have survived Charles de Gaulle.

A year after his death, the man who attained fame through controversy has ceased being a well of contention.

For almost 20 years he struggled to rally all Frenchmen around him; he attracted a big hard core of fervent supporters but fell far short of unanimity. Now, hardly a month goes by without publication of several books full of adulation.

A new official album of photos will go on sale Tuesday, the first anniversary of his death, and new postage stamps with de Gaulle's image will be issued. Thousands of pilgrims are expected to trek to his grave near his country home at Colombey-les-deux-Eglises.

A memorial is to be built at Colombey in the form of a huge Cross of Lorraine, de Gaulle's wartime symbol, dominating the village and placid surrounding countryside.

Sponsors of a fund drive want $900,000 to complete the memorial by June 18, 1972. That is the anniversary of de Gaulle's wartime appeal from London urging the French to fight on under his leadership.

On the political front, the post-de Gaulle era is a disappointment to those who foresaw disintegration of the Gaullist movement.

President Georges Pompidou and Premier Jacques Chaban Delmas have taken the Gaullist troops in hand and have been following the broad lines of the general's policies. The independence of France, French-German friendship, closer ties with Eastern Europe, and continuation in the Western alliance remain the touchstones of foreign policy.

Canada Prepared to Spend $250 Million on Pollution

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — William Stoegles, supervisor of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, said Saturday Canada is prepared to spent $250 million on pollution control if the United States also accepts its environmental responsibilities.

Stoegles told a Great Lakes regional meeting of the National Wildlife Federation that Canada would spend the money during a four-year period but, he added:

"Our plans are conditional upon the success of agreements between the United States and Canada."

Oshawa Man Slays Four

OSHAWA (CP) — A 33-year-old man strangled his wife and fatally shot his three sons at home shortly before noon Monday and then shot himself to death.

Police identified the man as John Allan Sanders, and the victims as his wife Maisie, 33, and sons Jack, 13, Allan, 7, and Brian, 4.

His 14-year-old daughter Connie, the only survivor, fled across the quiet residential street to telephone relatives.

"We really don't know how she got away," said Det. James Powell of Oshawa city police. "Whether he intended to shoot her and she got out or what, I don't know.

"She said he came after her with a gun. It is just lucky she got out of there."

The girl summoned two aunts, who found the bodies.

Mr. Sanders left a suicide note claiming responsibility for the deaths.

Det. Powell said "something happened" between the man and his wife "and it looks like he might have come to and found her dead and that set him off."

Police said it is believed the wife was killed a few hours before the shootings. The sons were shot with a .22 automatic repeating rifle and the suicide gun was a .22-250 high-powered rifle.

Four of the victims were dead when police arrived and one boy died on the way to hospital, police said.

Mr. Sanders had been employed at the General Motors of Canada Ltd. plant for 10 years and his wife was also a GM employee.

The daughter was taken to Oshawa General Hospital by police and released after being treated for shock. She was staying with relatives Sunday night.

Neighbors said the family moved to the house about two years ago.

Two Men Die In Shooting

THAMESVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Two men are dead and a woman was reported in critical condition in hospital, following a shooting incident Saturday at a house here, 15 miles east of Chatham.

Provincial police at Chatham gave the names of the dead men as Carlyle Lougheed, 32, formerly of Bothwell, Ont., and David Wright, 25, of Thamesville.

The woman, Kathleen Wright, 24, also of Thamesville, was reported in critical condition suffering from gunshot wounds.

Police are investigating.

Bell Canada

BELL CANADA has filed with the Canadian Transport Commission at Ottawa an application for approval of revisions to its tariffs of Rates for Exchange and Long Distance Services and Equipment, to be effective at the earliest possible date; and for an Order approving, to be effective January 1, 1972, interim revisions to said tariffs. The application contains the following endorsement.

"The within Application is made on behalf of Bell Canada by Guy Houle, its General Counsel, of 1050 Beaver Hall Hill, Montreal 128, P.Q.

"TAKE NOTICE that if you intend to intervene to oppose, support, or modify in whole or in part the within Application, you are required to mail or deliver your Intervention in writing to the Secretary of the Canadian Transport Commission and a copy thereof to the Applicant's aforesaid General Counsel not later than the 10th day of December, 1971."

A summary of the proposed tariff revisions contained in the Principal Application and the Application for Interim Revisions follows:

Israel Blames U.S. For Suez Deadlock

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — Israel now feels that the United States shares equal responsibility with Egypt for the current deadlock in attempts to reach an interim agreement on the opening of the Suez canal.

Israeli leaders have made it clear in speeches that Washington's action in withholding Phantom planes from Israel, in an apparent effort to please Egypt, can only result in scuttling the U.S. initiative for a canal agreement.

They have also stressed that they will not accept Washington's change in stance—from a go-between offering only its good offices to a mediator making its own suggestions.

But it is the problem of the Phantom jet bombers, which Israel has been unsuccessfully trying to acquire for several months, that is regarded in Jerusalem as the major stumbling block to the revival of the Suez talks in New York under the auspices of Assistant State Secretary Joseph Sisco.

At a meeting Nov. 1 between Premier Golda Meir and U.S. Ambassador Walworth Barbour, Israel asked that the supply of Phantoms be resumed prior to the start of any negotiations.

In the most outspoken statement to date, Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon bluntly warned Washington that his nation could not participate in any negotiations while it is being deprived of Phantoms.

In a radio interview, Allon said: "The U.S. should make no mistake. Under an embargo we shall not agree to negotiate."

It is impossible to overestimate the emotional side of the Phantoms issue in Israel, apart from the military and political significance.

THE SAME HIWAY-BYWAY DESIGN AS ABOVE . . . in GIANT 4-Ply Nylon

The same gripping tread, the same wide contours as the Polyester Glass Belt above—this Giant Wide-Track tire is built of new stronger-than-steel Du Pont 66 Nylon with less flat-spotting, more cushioned riding. Rides high over not through, the drifts.

Or, if you prefer, you may choose our regular 4-ply Nylon, or the double-ply with the 4-ply rating. See price-chart at right for your size and low price—even lower with the 5% discount for cash instead of cash-bonus coupons.

Tree Planting Encouraged By Authority

TRENTON (Staff) — The Lower Trent Conservation Authority announced today an assistance program to encourage private landowners in the region to plant trees on marginal land not suited for agricultural use.

By the program to go into effect for the 1972 planting season, an $8 subsidy will be provided toward the purchase of 1,000 trees up to a maximum of 5,000 trees per land owner. Approximate cost of trees through the authority has been $18 per 1,000.

Details may be had from the authority at P.O. Box 402, Trenton or telephone 392-4527.

DDT Said Essential To Hungry

ROME (AP) — Nobel Prize-winner Norman E. Borlaug assailed environmentalists today for trying to block the use of such chemicals as DDT which he said were vital to adequate food production.

"If agriculture is denied their use because of unwise legislation that is now being promoted by a powerful group of hysterical lobbyists," Borlaug said, "then the world will be doomed not by chemical poisoning but from starvation."

In an 18,000-word paper to the governing conference of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization, the American scientist warned:

"Recalling that 50 per cent of the present world population is undernourished and that an even larger percentage, perhaps 65 per cent, is malnourished, no room if left for complacency."

Borlaug won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1970 for his part in the development of high-yielding varieties of wheat, a key factor in the so-called Green Revolution.

Sea Pollution Requires Aggressive Action

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada, and other coastal states, must act aggressively to counter maritime pollution, even outside territorial limits, until some international agreement is reached, Environment Minister Jack Davis said today.

"I know that this is an aggressive stance to take, but Mr. Davis told an international working group on maritime pollution.

"However, we don't have any alternative as long as there is a vacuum at the international level. . . . In the meantime, coastal states will have to fend for themselves."

Coastal states have a duty not only to their own citizens but "to the rest of mankind," Mr. Davis said.

Shallows along the world's coasts are where all major fisheries are found and where most flora and fauna flourish. But pollution also tended to hover near shores, poisoning continental shelves, affecting life and doing its heaviest damage where we can least afford to suffer any damage at all."

The coastal state had to act as custodian of this "undersea garden."

"The far out does this duty extend? I am one of those who believe that it extends at least to the limits of the Continental Shelf."

A text of the speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Shopping Centre in Belfast Is Torn Apart by Explosion

BELFAST (AP) — A heavy explosion tore apart a Belfast suburban shopping centre today, climaxing a night of terror bombings.

More than 20 explosions rocked city streets, with property and British soldiers the targets. There were no casualties.

In London, Scotland Yard detectives made a series of raids searching for explosives. They found nothing.

In Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second biggest city, more than 1,000 persons followed an oak coffin in freezing rain for the burial of a 47-year-old mother of six who was gunned down in a crossfire between troops and guerrillas Saturday.

Belfast police said up to 30 gasoline bombs were planted in a grocery store at Carrydhill on the southern outskirts of Belfast early today.

The blast wrecked three stores and badly damaged another six.

During the night several army patrols came under attack from nail bombs. In 30 minutes, eight were hurled at two patrols in the Roman Catholic Ballymurphy district. No one was wounded.

Other bombs damaged a hosiery factory, a restaurant, a hairdressing salon, a cafe and a bus.

Police in the Netherlands today investigated an explosion at an Amsterdam branch of Britain's Lloyd's Bank. Radio reports said it was the work of the Irish Republican army fighting to reunite mainly Protestant Northern Ireland with the largely Roman Catholic Irish Republic.

Pte. Paul Genge was shot dead Sunday in Lurgan, southeast of Belfast. IRA gunmen were blamed for his killing, which brought Ulster's weekend death toll to 154. Thirty-five soldiers are among the dead.

The soldier who will be killed was 18 and had been in Northern Ireland only two weeks.

Troops in Londonderry said they might have killed a gunman who fired on them during a riot Sunday, but they said the body was dragged away before they could retrieve it.

In the West London section of the British capital, a "home-type device" was set off early today inside the British European Airways terminal, a Scotland Yard spokesman reported. He said there was no damage and there was nothing to link it to the troubles in Ireland.

Amnesty International, an organization concerned with political prisoners around the world, reported it had received personal statements and affidavits accusing British troops in Northern Ireland of torture and beatings. It called for an international inquiry into the allegations and said the British government had rejected its re-quest for a British commission to investigate the charges.

On the political front, Premier Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland came under right-wing pressure to resist any moves by the British government to trim the Ulster government's authority.

Former home minister William Craig said he had created a group called Ulsterdom. Vanguard in the Ulster Parliament is to press Faulkner before going on to Dublin for talks with Prime Minister Jack Lynch.

In the Irish Republic, Lynch faces a vote of confidence Wednesday. His government's survival depends on the votes of two former cabinet ministers he ousted and at least one independent.

Lynch's Fianna Fail party has half of the 144 seats in the Dail, the Irish Parliament. He passed the word that either the former ministers—Charles Haughey and Neil Blaney—go along with dropped, the government or risk expulsion from the party.

Haughey and Blaney had been accused of plotting to smuggle arms into Northern Ireland, but Haughey was acquitted and the charges against Blaney were

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices drifted fractionally lower in slow mid-morning trading on the Toronto stock market today.

The industrial index was off 13 to 162.58 and western oils 16 to 199.30. Golds were up 3.97 to 139.61 and base metals 39 to 70.18.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 225,000 shares, down from 482,000 at the same time Friday.

Trading was halted in the shares of Security Capital Corp., Seaway Multi Corp and Levy Industries at the request of the companies, pending release of information.

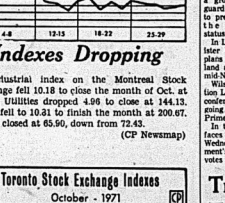
Weakest of the industrial index's 17 sub-groups was oil refining. Other declining sectors were general manufacturing, merchandising and real estate. Nine of the industrial index's 17 sub-groups moved lower.

Woodward "A dropped ¼ to $22. Imperial Oil ¼ to $28¾. Rank ¼ to $17¾, CP Ltd. ¼ to $11¾, Numac ¼ to $11 and Matagami ¼ to $23¾.



Bell was up ¼ to $44¾, Canadian Utilities ¾ to $34, Pine Point ¼ to $20¼, Dome Mines ¼ to $53½, Canada Southern Pete 10 cents to $5.50 and Electrohome ¼ to $3¾.
